Juniors Strike Early to Lead Series

John Campbell's first-inning triple and superb pitching by Scott Reid was the big factor in Ella Juniors 7-3 win over Rollins Construction last night. The win gave them a 2-2 edge in the series.

The bunches of the first inning proved disastrous for the builders after they had taken a 2-0 lead. Steve Ling started things rolling for the Juniors slamming Wayne McConnell's first pitch in the ball game for a home run. McConnell, not showing the good pitching form of his previous wins, allowed a double by Wayne McTaggart and loaded the bases by walking the next two batters.

Before McConnell knew it, the bases congestion was relieved by Campbell's three bagger.

Campbell also scored on another wild pitch. The winners scored their final two runs in the fourth inning and the losers accounted for their only other tally when Carl Boonhower blasted a homer in the seventh.

Steve Ling and Dale Duvall led the winners getting two hits each followed by John Campbell, Wayne McTaggart and Cliff Scott with losers Carl Boonhower, Jerry Hill and Ralph Plane hitting twice each and Wayne McConnell, Skip Belch and Terry Hiddleston with singles for Rollins.

Reid went all the way on the mound for the win striking out 10 and walking none.

Wayne McConnell who was relieved in the sixth inning by Carl Boonhower, took the loss and between them they downed 11 on strikes and gave up four free passes.

Winning pitcher Scott Reid said, "It took a few innings before I could get the stuff to work for me." When asked about the outcome of series he replied, "We should be able to wrap it up Friday with Ted Waite on the pitching mound."

Next game in the series is Friday at 8 p.m.

Parsons' Bill Letford battles with a Trenton Traveller attacker for possession of the ball in a Quinte Soccer Association match last night. Trenton scored twice in the first half to come up with a 2-1 win over the Belleville team.

Travellers Edge Parsons In Belleville Cup Play

Trenton Travellers used some good passing and strong defensive play to take a 2-1 decision from Belleville Parsons in the second round of play for the Belleville Charity Cup.

The Travellers one - played a short - staffed Parsons team for much of the contest, particularly in the first half when they counted both their goals. Missed opportunities also hurt the losers as their forwards blew a number of good scoring chances.

Trenton opened the scoring early in the first half on a break through the middle by forward Ron Cannons. Their second goal came ten minutes later when Jim Jeffreys booted a penalty kick into the lower left - hand corner of the net.

Down by two goals, Parsons fought back to narrow the margin as centre forward Peter Clinkard broke through the middle and flashed a low shot into the net.

The second half was scoreless as both teams showed definite signs of fatigue and an inability to control the ball. Parsons had the best opportunity when the ball bounced over the Trenton goaltenders head, but was cleared away by an alert defender.

Don Fletcher was the only Parson player able to control the ball consistently. He was aided by some strong play by Ken Marshall and Trevor Kirby.

Grid Guessers Have 'O'Differences'

By GEORGE H. CARVER

Dear ex-Boss:— Unk McBard (he's the poetical unk) attended the regular bull session. The subject was football and after probing the town reported the following:—

Two western guys the other day invaded Benny's Hideaway,
And listened to the eastern gab anent the cup called Grey
They heard extolled the virtues of the Cats and Alouettes
Of Ottawa's Rough Riders and Toronto's "Argopets."

They shifted their sixshooters, chuckled softly in their beers,
Said one, "These eastern tenderfeet are wet behind the ears.
Then shouted loud —"Oh all that's here, and that goes for the rest,
That hunk of football silverware is goin' to the West.

But O'Peever wasn't daunted, didn't yell or grunt or whoop,
Merely dunked a dainty fingie in a beaver of pea soup,
"Youse guys had better watch your step — and better still your bets
The Grey Cup bubbly will be quaffed by mes amis Alouettes.

"Like 'ell it will," snapped England's George from the shadow of Bow Bells,
"Swelp me, mates, I'm bloody sick of your "oops and 'owls and yells,
I'm real fed up with your blasted brags, your ifs and ohs and aughts,
Y'oughta know the mug will go to Hogtown's Argonauts."

O'Meara's mien was solemn, like the rear end of a bus,
He sighed and whispered to himself, "If we only had big Russ,
But Belleville's Wellesley and the kids will give us needed power,
And bring the Grey Cup back again to the shadow of the Tower.

Then Unk McMatt from Hamilton bared teeth and verbal claws,
"You're all forgettin' Jungletown and the Oaky-Wa-Wa-Wa's,
The way you're shootin' off your mouths, there's nothin' neath your hats
For they that sup from the ancient Cup will be the Tiger Cats.

"How, How" quoth Pocahontas Hill "pipe down the palaface yaps, Regina's Riders, Stamps and Esks, are walkin' in a trap,
The Lions and the Bombers are now penned in a corral,
And they'll guzzle Cup firewater down in merry Mercy-al."

Spake Steve, the dour-faced lapman, in his best Ed Sullivan way,
"A real good show is promised for that late November day,
And when the shootin's over and the East is wet with tears,
The Riders from Regina will be chucklin' o'er their beers."

Turkey Shoot

The Belleville and District Fish and Game Club directors last night finalized plans for two special turkey shoots.

The shoots will be held on the Tom Hoskins property on the 3rd Concession of Sidney on September 20 and Oct. 4.

Members of ten district fish and game clubs as well as city and district municipal dignitaries are expected to be present.

Fish and Game president Tom Hahn announced he has made an appointment to inspect a 100 - acre property near Ivanhoe with a view to club purchase.

The property, if purchased would house a new clubhouse and be the site of various club activities.

It was also announced the club has secured use of the Legion auditorium for monthly meetings for 1970 and 1971.

Stanfield 'Perfectly Happy' with Support He Got in Caucus

OTTAWA (CP) — Reported dissension within the Progressive Conservative party appeared to dissipate Wednesday as some 60 MPs heard leader Robert Stanfield take a tough, no-nonsense stand on party unity at a private caucus. Later he publicly declared himself "perfectly happy" with MP support.

The caucus met in an excited atmosphere Wednesday, on the heels of a Saskatoon meeting of western MPs which gave birth to reports of widespread dissatisfaction and rumors of a minor rebellion against Mr. Stanfield.

But there was no uprising at Wednesday's meetings, and Mr. Stanfield emerged from the caucus room to thunderous applause from his followers.

"I am quite confident . . . I have the full confidence of caucus," he told reporters.

There was no formal vote on the question of confidence in the party leader, but sources said members stood one after another to defend the leader.

The sources said that any criticism of Mr. Stanfield was couched in more general criticism of the party organization. There were several suggestions for a more aggressive stance by the party—and presumably Mr. Stanfield—and some outspoken viewpoints that the Liberal government was being allowed to govern unmolested.

Mr. Stanfield told reporters that "we intend to be more aggressive."

"I think the public would expect us to be."

The Conservative leader also laid down ground rules for future regional conferences and he said that never again should a meeting, such as the Saskatoon gathering, appear to be a secret session. He said it is imperative that "party headquarters and the leadership be in the picture" for such meetings.

He told reporters he would encourage regional meetings of MPs, providing the ground rules were followed, and he would expect the question of leadership to arise. He said he would expect any Conservative meeting "to discuss the problems of the party and even problems of myself."

Sources said that few punches were pulled as MPs discussed the state of the party and offered their advice for improvements. And, in turn, Mr. Stanfield gave pointed advice about "secret" meetings and public rumblings about internal differences.

"You couldn't expect me to sit there all day and not give a little advice," he said later.

Asked whether he received advice about improving his image, he replied: "I couldn't imagine my image being improved."

After the Saskatoon meeting and the subsequent reports of discontent, there was a huge gathering of reporters waiting for the caucus to begin Wednesday.

"Who, me?" asked Jack Horner (PC—Crowfoot) when asked whether he is involved in any rebellion against Mr. Stanfield's leadership.

He said the party could win the next election under Mr. Stanfield and "I know of no rebellion in the party."

Other MPs who attended the Saskatoon meeting made similar comments.

George Hees (PC—Prince Edward - Hastings), the caucus chairman, reported at the luncheon break that he believed Mr. Stanfield's leadership had been "100 per cent reinforced." He said later that it had been "a most productive conference."

When Mr. Stanfield emerged, someone said he expected the party leader to be wearing a 16-gallon hat.

"I am not even armed," said Mr. Stanfield.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

Eskimos, Indians Must Play Big Arctic Role

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (CP) — Eskimos and Indians must play a major role in development of communications in the Arctic, Jean Chretien, minister of Indian affairs and northern development, said Wednesday night.

Addressing delegates to the northern communications conference at a banquet, Mr. Chretien said:

"In the north, where unique barriers must be overcome, the means of communications, the direction in which it flows, the comprehension of the message take on a special importance."

By communications, he meant not only in the technological sense but also in its broadest interpretation—as an exchange of facts and ideas between two or more persons.

"Major developments, especially in the petroleum industry and supporting services, are about to get under way in the territories. The requirements for improved and expanded communication, both in the technological and the sociological sense, becomes more apparent every day.

"Northern communication is notoriously difficult and technological obstacles are not the only ones. Cultural barriers also create grave problems which are difficult to overcome.

"It is a paradox that the early traders and trappers seemed to have had less difficulty with inter-cultural communication than have their successors.

"Through his mastery of technology, the newcomer to the North is less dependent on the natives for assistance. Thus are some gaps widened while distance is being diminished."

Northerners, especially the natives, wanted a voice in how their region was shaped. They wanted to become active in local government.

"We may have to evolve quite new and different forms of government, quite new and different forms of participation which views can be advanced," he said.

Much of past northern development had been oriented to southern needs.

"In the future, we must ensure northern needs are met fully and properly considered. The employment of northern residents is a case in point.

"All to often the economic activity of the past has left out the indigenous people of the north: they have benefited little if at all. . . .

"The success of our employment efforts in the territories rests largely on our ability to build better communication networks between developers, educators and northern residents.

$300 Million for Bilingualism

OTTAWA (CP) — Secretary of State Gerard Pelletier forecast Wednesday a rapid development of bilingual educational opportunities by all provinces under the incentive of federal grants totalling as much as $300 million over four years.

Outlining details of the long-awaited formula at a news conference, the minister made clear that how the money is spent will be strictly up to the provinces. How much each gets, however, will be tied precisely to the amount of minority language education and second-language training it provides.

Under the scheme, Quebec gets money for provision of schools in the language of its English-speaking minority and the other provinces are rewarded for schools in the language of their French-speaking minorities. All provinces will also get money for teaching of either French or English as a second language.

Bell Rate Boost Request Opposed

OTTAWA (CP) — Bell Canada is "developing a habit" of appearing before the Canadian transport commission to ask for rate increase Carlyle Gilmour, self-appointed watchdog over the telephone company's operations, said Wednesday.

The stocky, big-voiced critic, in his words a "Quebec farmer", said the company comes before the board with "tear-stained eyes" asking for more money while it invests large sums in other enterprises.

Mr. Gilmour questioned W. Allan Beckett, an economist appearing as Bell's first witness, at a transport commission hearing.

Sydney J. Harris Says

Things to Know When Eighteen

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

(During his vacation, we are reprinting selections from Mr. Harris' latest collection of columns in book form, Leaving the Surface.)

What I Wish I Had Known at Eighteen:

That a free offer is usually the most expensive kind.

That a man isn't judged by what he knows, but by how he wears it.

That it's useless to get into a swearing contest with a skunk.

That when a man's position in life depends upon his having a certain opinion, that's the opinion he will have.

That friends who break fast at the wire often fade in the stretch.

That the best person to borrow from is one who doesn't have much.

That women who seem the most feminine turn into the most feline and most feral.

That the cynic is good-hearted beneath his facade, whereas the sentimentalist is flint-hearted beneath his.

That the worst sins are committed by indifference, not by vice.

That the people who are suspicious of certain things are the very ones who are the most capable of doing that of which they are suspicious.

That nobody can misunderstand a child as much as his own parents.

That the more neurotic partner in a marriage is the one who is not seeing a psychiatrist.

That ends never justify means, but, quite the contrary, means tend to corrupt ends.

That being able to do exactly as one pleases is the surest way to remain perpetually unpleased.

That human nature doesn't need to change: it just needs to ask itself continually what is meant by human, and to give itself an honest answer.

That the way in which we say something is often more important than what we say.

That the "liberal" who gets power can be violently illiberal, just as the "conservative" who gets power can be greedily unconserving.

That it can take less courage to face death than to face life.

That the atheist who believes in man and scorns God can be closer to holiness than the religionist who believes in God and scorns man.

That nobody has the power to hurt us or help us as much as we fancy; and mortal hurts are almost always self-inflicted.

That it is impossible to have a good opinion of one's self and a low opinion of others; the down-grader is projecting his self-contempt.

That pleasure and joy are not synonyms, but may be as profoundly different as Heaven and Hell.

Ford Pinto Is Priced At $1,984

OAKVILLE (CP) — Ford of Canada Ltd Wednesday officially unveiled its 1971 Pinto, the Ford entry in the small-car competition.

With a list price of $1,984, the "sub-compact" model is the first Canadian-built Ford since 1958 to list at less than $2,000, the company said in a news release.

The addition of Canadian sales tax brings the price to $2,130—exclusive of destination charges, dealer delivery and handling charges, and local sales tax.

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. announced Wednesday its sub-compact car, Pinto, will sell for $1,919, in U.S. funds, $172 less than the price announced for the Chevrolet Vega Tuesday and only $30 more than the price of the basic 1970 Volkswagen beetle.

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Often a concerned wife will say, "I can't understand why my husband keeps putting off an examination." Or, a husband will say, "I know she's worried about herself. Why doesn't she go to her doctor to find out the trouble?"

I tell them that if I had only the guts I would say it was because they are afraid to face up to the truth.

It is natural for any human being to be concerned about the prospect of possibly being told he has serious heart disease, cancer, emphysema or one of scores of other threats to his health.

It is for this reason so many sit in discomfort on a "picket fence" of indecision and procrastination. They prefer not to know. So instead of jumping off, they sit there hounded by daily fears, thinking they have something serious the matter, but not really knowing.

I am not trying to be Pollyannish when I say that quite often their fears are unwarranted. For example, here is a man with pain in his left shoulder, extending down to his chest.

He's too worried to go to the doctor. He thinks he has coronary heart trouble. It turns out to be bursitis. "If you only knew how much I worried for weeks before coming here," he says.

A young woman with a harmless lump in her breast is sure she is dying of cancer but later admits she "didn't have the nerve" to find out.

Such are only two of hundreds of examples, in which the doctor's verdict is good rather than bad. If there is any moral it is this: If in doubt, see your doctor early. The sooner he discovers serious illness, the better your chances for recovery.

And what relief if he tells you, "I can't find a thing wrong that a few pills won't help." It makes sense to jump off the fence early.

I hope what I've said influences the following anxious woman to face up to an examination.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I'm working up my nerve to go to the doctor. I'm afraid of his diagnosis. For the past two to three years I've had immediate urgency to move my bowels after eating. It is like a diarrhea coupled with a feeling of constipation. I've been telling myself it's nerves. There's a history of cancer in my family, and naturally I'm afraid that I may have it. — Mrs. B.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: One of our babies was born ahead of time and the next one came later than expected. How does this affect their health, etc.? Especially since the one that should have been a Libra is a Scorpio, and the other one is not a Cancer but a Gemini. I just missed being a Sagittarian instead of a Capricorn. —Mrs. M.

COMMENT: Being a Sagittarian myself, I can't really say you've missed anything by being a Capricorn. But that's beside the point.

Don't you think the present state of "star fixation" is going too far when we begin to worry about the health of our babies because they were born too early or too late to be under the influence of this star or that?

I hope astrologers won't be after me when I say I know of no scientific reason why our "star" should affect our state of well-being. (Dr., Mrs., M., are you being less serious than I think you are.)

Jean Dixon's Horoscope

For September 11

Your birthday today: A year of optimistic expansion begins, in which you can take advantage of changing conditions What some see as loss seems to you liberation. Your career efforts progress. As this is a year for becoming a whole human being, emotional and intuitive growth is expected. Today's natives are imaginative and enjoy telling long complicated stories.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): This is a career-building day. Estimates by other people are favorable. The temptation is to promise and to spend too much. Romance can be poignantly happy.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Seek advice from technical experts. Partnership ventures are much easier now. Meet with distant contacts or their local representatives.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): This is a very interesting day, according to how much you strive to grow. Knowledge is always applicable. The evening brings a brief, important opportunity.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Pursue both financial and emotional satisfaction today. Your expansive mood inspires co-operation. You attract new contacts and strengthen old ties.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Get busy and follow the plans you set. Some bit of luck is at work now, particularly if you do not let last-minute opinions of associates disarrange your choices.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Now is the time to break out of your accustomed habits. Try something new. Definite progress in building for future happiness is indicated.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): General good fortune is in the atmosphere, provided you are up and doing and willing to receive it. You must make actual use of the advantageous circumstances.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): You seldom waste time or let pleasure-seeking urges take you off course, but now you just might do both. Romantic interests hold quiet optimism.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Today brings you a personal satisfaction, vindication you cannot quite share. Check on matters you do not fully understand. Your money is all too readily spent now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Your friends bring you luck, opportunity. Caution with money is indicated, but also unexpected progress. There seems no great need for changes of plans.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Now your affairs turn a corner, take a different direction with promising prospects. Much can be done with discretion, or by others working for you quietly.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Make your bid for recognition in any publishing or legal matters, any issue on which you want to be on record. It's an excellent day for optimistic effort.

For Mrs. T.: Bran is tolerated by most people. But it is true that some patients with diverticulitis find it is irritating to the lower bowel.

Grain Sale Outlook Improved

EDMONTON (CP) — Prospects for sales of this year's grains crop still are uncertain but there may be improved prospects for increased barley and wheat sales, the Alberta agriculture department says.

E. D. Walker, a department marketing economist, says there are early indications wheat exports should be greater in 1970-71 than in the last three years.

"In an eight-page market analysis issued this week, Mr. Walker says while harvest time is not the most useful time for a grains outlook, prospects for the January-December wheat harvests in both Australia and Argentina are poor.

He said Australia has imposed quota restrictions to reduce wheat acreage and Argentina's wheat acreage this year is expected to be 13 per cent less.

"Exceptionally dry seeding conditions are reported from both countries and this may result in reduced supply pressures on the market later in the crop year."

In brief, Mr. Walker sees the wheat outlook improving, not much change in the oats market, better prospects for barley, an eroding of prospects for flaxseed and an outlook not as good as last year for rapeseed.

He credits prospects for increased wheat sales to the federal government which "seems intent on moving grain as actively as its commitments to the international grains agreement permit."

In addition to outstanding contracts with Russia and China, wheat sales with subsidized credit had been made to Syria, the United Arab Republic, Peru and Brazil for shipments over a three-year period.

Forward sales to Europe also are reported to be larger than usual."

Constitution Group To Tour Manitoba

OTTAWA (CP) — The joint parliamentary committee on the constitution sets out today on an eight-day tour of Manitoba, now celebrating its centenary, and the Yukon.

The committee, at public meetings in seven centres, will hear prepared briefs and other views on the Canadian constitution.

The hearings, the first outside Ottawa, begin tonight in Winnipeg. Stops are planned also at Brandon, St. Boniface, Churchill and Thompson, all in Manitoba, and the Yukon centres of Whitehorse, Dawson and Watson Lake.

The joint committee was set up in January by the Senate and the Commons to examine government proposals on the constitution during the current constitutional review and outside opinions.

Meetings here in June heard evidence from government constitutional experts. The committee is slated to complete its work by November, 1971.

The public meetings across the country are designed to stimulate interest in the constitutional discussions. Trips to other parts of the country are planned later.

Mayor Stephen Juba of Winnipeg and Jack Willis, chairman of Metropolitan Winnipeg council, will present briefs tonight.

Other groups expected to appear in Winnipeg tonight and Friday are the Ukrainian Canadian Committee, the Canadian ethnic press, the Canadian League of Rights, the Institute of urban studies of the University of Winnipeg, the Manitoba Metis Federation and the Manitoba Indian Federation and the Jaycee units of Metropolitan Winnipeg.

Guerrilla Command Eases Release Terms

Jordan Capital Peaceful Again

AMMAN (CP) — Arab guerrillas announced a new peace agreement with the Jordanian government Thursday and the fighting in Amman subsided.

The guerrillas said both sides had agreed "to remove the causes" of clashes that had been going on in Amman for three days. This seemed to indicate a government capitulation to the guerrillas, since it is the guerrillas who have been setting conditions under which the fighting might end.

A similar pact was announced Tuesday, but it broke down and the fighting resumed before the day was over.

At least 20 civilians were killed in the fighting Wednesday, unofficial sources in Amman said. The guerrillas say 40 commandos were killed the previous day.

Earlier Thursday the Arab Palestinians demanded that King Hussein "purge the royal palace, the army and the government" of enemies of the commandos. Guerrilla broadcasts declared that such a purge was a prerequisite for a "genuine and durable" peace between the Jordanian army and the Palestinian fighters. They also called for dissolution of a "reactionary clique of CIA (U.S. Central Intelligence Agency) agents around the king which acts as a government within a government."

Oil Barge Damage Is Light

SUMMERSIDE, P.E.I. (CP) — The oil barge Irving Whale is lying upright on the level sea bed of the Gulf of St. Lawrence with little apparent damage to it, Captain Sven Madson of Standard Oil, New York, said Thursday night.

In an interview here following his return from an undersea examination of the barge, Captain Madson said oil leakage has been through three vents on the craft, which lies in about 250 feet of water.

Captain Madson made his observations earlier in the day from his position in the two-man submarine Pisces I, brought to the area from the fisheries research station at St. Andrews, N.B.

The coast guard ship Tupper lies in the area of the sinking spreading peat moss on the edges of an oil slick, which at widest spread was about 12 miles across.

Captors Won't Move Hostages

AMMAN (CP) — The central committee of the Palestine Liberation Organization announced today that it had decided to release all the hostages held in the Jordanian desert except for "Israelis with a military capacity," in exchange for seven Arab guerrillas held captive in Europe.

There was no indication that the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine had agreed to the central committee decision. The Popular Front guerrillas hold about 280 hostages aboard three hijacked Western airliners at a Jordanian desert airstrip. The central committee also offered to release the three planes and their crews in the proposed swap.

The announcement came as news reached Amman of the arrival at a Turkish air base 300 miles away of 25 American Phantom fighters and more transport planes, and was coupled with a warning against "imperialist" military intervention in Jordan.

The Middle East was alive today with rumors discounted by the United States embassy in Beirut that the U.S. 6th Fleet was steaming eastward through the Mediterranean to open up an operation to snatch the hostages out of the guerrillas' hands.

The committee statement charged that the Western powers were planning military intervention in Jordan "in order to impose a peaceful solution (of the Palestine problem) in the interests of the Zionist enemy and imperialism."

The committee said the passengers would be released as soon as a declaration was made by the governments concerned undertaking to release Arab commandos held in Switzerland, West Germany and Britain.

The planes and their crews would be freed as soon as the released commandos arrive in Jordan or any other Arab country, the committee added. It said the arrangement should also include the return of the body of a commando killed aboard an El Al Israeli airliner which he and a female accomplice failed to hijack over British Sunday.

West Germany and Switzerland, which hold three commandos each, have already expressed readiness in principle for a trade, but Britain has not made any statement of its intention with regard to girl guerrilla Leila Khaled, who is held in London.

The central committee offer falls short of what the five powers with hostages in Jordan have demanded—the release of all passengers and crew without exception.

Although the committee announcement did not define what it meant, observers believed that since both women and men serve in the Israeli army, "Israelis with military capacity" were likely to be Israelis of either sex between around 15 and 50.

The Associated Press said moderate Arab leaders and the Jordanian government tried today to move more than 280 hostages from hijacked planes in the Jordanian desert where a dust storm blew up.

But hijackers holding the passengers, crew and three airliners balked.

One guerrilla said: "I tell you nobody is going to move from here until our demands are met."

Suit Filed On War's Legality

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal judge says he has decided to rule on the constitutionality of the Vietnam war because he believes it is time the courts stopped avoiding the issue.

Judge William Sweigert made the statement in U.S. district court Thursday in refusing to dismiss a lawsuit filed by four University of California students seeking to have the war declared illegal and unconstitutional.

Sweigert said the U.S. Supreme Court has been "scrupulously ducking" the issue on the grounds it is "political" and a question of "sovereign immunity."

U.S. Agents Will Guard Airliners

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon moved today to place armed guards aboard international and some domestic flights of United States airlines, starting Saturday, to counter aerial piracy.

Nixon's decision was announced to reporters at the White House by congressional leaders who had conferred with him.

A presidential statement on the subject, spelling out details of the anti-hijack plan, was promised later in the day.

John McCormack (Dem., Mass.) Speaker of the House of Representatives, said that in addition to the posting of guards, there would be greatly increased surveillance of passengers and their baggage at air terminals.

Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania added that some domestic as well as overseas routes would be covered.

Responding to a question, Mansfield said the meeting of congressional leaders with Nixon, who was flanked by key cabinet officers, went into the entire Mideast hijacking situation as well as the plan to post aerial guards.

Camp Asked to Stop His Criticism of Dief

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative party headquarters has asked Dalton Camp to stop his public criticism of former prime minister John Diefenbaker, informants said Thursday.

Mr. Camp, a Toronto public relations consultant, engineered Mr. Diefenbaker's fall from the Conservative leadership in 1967 while national president of the Progressive Conservative Association.

Mr. Camp twice sounded out Conservative MPs in 1967 on whether he should run for the leadership himself. He finally decided to back Robert Stanfield, who became the winner.

Mr. Stanfield has had a delicate task trying to placate MPs, mostly from the prairies, who are still fiercely loyal to Mr. Diefenbaker.

Mr. Stanfield is reported fed up with the public feud partly on the grounds that it is damaging the party, Mr. Camp has thus been asked to end his criticism of Mr. Diefenbaker.

The assumption is that if Mr. Camp does so Mr. Diefenbaker will not have a field for rejoinders and that the feud will revert to private status.

Perry Ryan Joins PCs

OTTAWA (CP) — Perry Ryan, MP for the riding of Toronto Spadina, announced today he has joined the Conservative party. He was a Liberal who quit that party to sit as an independent.

Mr. Ryan appeared at a news conference with Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield to make the announcement.

Mr. Stanfield welcomed the former Liberal as an important addition to the Conservative caucus. Mr. Ryan becomes the only Toronto Conservative MP.

Mr. Ryan, 51, quit the Liberals Dec. 1 after serving the party as an MP for seven years.

Trudeau Wants Speed-up In Constitution Talks

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal and provincial first ministers meet here Monday for a review of their dragging constitutional review.

Prime Minister Trudeau will propose a speed-up in the attempt, now nearly three years old, to draft a new constitution for Canada. The original, the British North America Act, dates from 1867.

The closed conference will examine the procedure of constitutional review, federal thoughts on clarification of constitutional powers relating to banking, security markets and pollution control and any constitutional subjects the provinces want to introduce.

On the third and final day, Wednesday, the conference will deal with non-constitutional matters such as the federal proposals for tax changes, Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa's suggestion for a federally-financed stabilization fund for the economically weaker provinces and current restrictions by some provinces on accepting for sale many farm products, from other provinces.

On the last subject, federal officials said Thursday, there is expected to be discussion of a possible federal reference to the Supreme Court of Canada to test the validity of provincial marketing restrictions.

No final conclusions are expected from the conference, officials said.

OTTAWA (CP) — The provinces will be asked next week to discuss a new, still-secret federal plan for redistributing the constitutional powers of the two levels of government in the field of finance.

Federal officials said Thursday the government will discuss proposals with the provincial premiers when they meet here Monday and Tuesday.

After the provinces have given their views and the federal government has considered them—and possibly revised its proposals in the light of provincial views—the federal plan will be made public. This may take several weeks or months.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Skies cleared over much of Ontario during the night and winds diminished. Early this morning the temperature at many communities was in the 40s. Cloud and showers are expected to develop over Northern Ontario today while the Lower Lakes area will be mostly sunny. Temperatures will be unseasonably cool today and tonight with some improvement Saturday. The weather will continue to be unsettled through the weekend with cloud and some rain spreading across the province Saturday.

McKeough Listens to Wrong Men

Clarke Rollins Backs County Council System

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

In the opinion of Clarke Rollins, Hon. Darcy McKeough is listening to the wrong men.

Mr. Rollins, Progressive Conservative MPP for Hastings, told Hastings county council members last night that Ontario's minister of Municipal Affairs would do better to take advice from county councils than from men in Toronto.

Mr. Rollins, a former county warden with long experience in municipal affairs, is a strong advocate of the county council form of government.

And he says that he will make every effort to have Hastings county council continue as a governing body as long as possible.

The hard-working Hastings MPP made this pledge to county council members last night as they, along with county and area provincial government officials, were guests of him and Mrs. Rollins at a barbequed steak dinner at the Eastern Star hall in Bancroft.

The Bancroft dinner, with approximately 75 persons in attendance, was the finale for the annual bus trip by Hastings county councillors.

The bus trip started out with a tour of the Black Diamond cheese plant just north of Belleville, followed later in the morning by a trip through the Marmoraton Mines open pit iron ore mining operation at Marmora.

The councillors then visited the site of the former smelting operation at Deloro to see what owners of the property are doing to control the seepage of residue arsenic into the nearby Moira River.

Kraft Controversy

PU Member Is Not Convinced By Company Presentation

The people most directly affected by the proposed kraft paper mill on Hayek's land in Prince Edward county are being kept uninformed.

The charge was made today by Mrs. Richard Lunn, an active member of Pollution Unwanted, the organization formed to investigate the hazards of the Canadian International Paper company's mill.

"I'm more uneasy than ever," said Mrs. Lunn, speaking personally about the meeting Wednesday in Belleville between local officials, provincial government representatives and company executives.

"Their words were used to cover instead of to inform," Mrs. Lunn declared. If the company has said nothing that would change my mind; it has given no direct information. If it has positive and acceptable information to give it would have done so."

Mrs. Lunn questioned the motives of organizing the meeting the meeting closed, and refusing admittance to members of PU, although part of a $6.7 million project for senior-citizen and family housing in five Ontario communities.

Ontario Housing Corp. announced yesterday that it will receive the $6.7 million to build the housing units in Huntsville, Central Mortgage and Housing Corp.

OHC said in a statement the loans, for which approval was announced at Ottawa Thursday, are for 406 family dwellings in Toronto, Huntsville and Kincardine, and for 85 senior - citizen units in Huntsville, Kincardine, Listowel and Stirling.

Larger development is a 264 - unit project in west Toronto. The federal loan for this development is $5.6 million.

Other projects are six family and 10 senior - citizen units in Huntsville, 28 senior-citizen and 16 family apartments in Kincardine, 24 senior - citizen units in Kitchener and the 12 senior - citizen units in Stirling.

centage of contaminants are reputed to remain in the effluent discharged into Lake Ontario, it amounts to a considerable volume when considered in the light of the millions of gallons of liquid discharged daily, she said.

Putting off the decision on location of the plant until 1971, "doesn't mean anything" Mrs. Lunn suggested.

"Options have been renewed, surveys made."

Mrs. Lunn said she considered it an insult to the people of the county that government and company officials did not attend the general meeting called by PU in Wellington before the Belleville gathering.

"In my opinion, the fight is more with the Ontario government," she said. "Does the government's idea that CIP also remarked, "That's Ontario government has been working hard for a matter of years to put this industry in our county, — it would be a fraction in Stanley Randall's cap to bring a big industry to this so - called depressed area."

Mrs. Lunn said she had no objection to light industry, a definite need in the county.

"But people have no idea what a borrow this mill will be in 10 years' time."

Prince Edward should be designated a recreational area, she indicated.

"The government might bet, ter give aid to some of our existing industries now being forced to close down, instead of granting large forgivable loans to what is essentially an American industry," Mrs. Lunn said.

The mill will kill the tourist industry in the county, she thinks.

"Who would go for a holiday next to a pulp mill?" she asked.

Mrs. Lunn questioned the need for any more paper mills anywhere in this country.

"People will have to learn to do without that many paper products," she said. "They are not essential, when they are brought at the cost of destroying the total environment. People are living too high off the hog at the risk of destruction of life."

Stirling to Get Housing Units

Stirling will be the recipient of 12 senior - citizen housing units, part of a $6.7 million project for senior-citizen and family housing in five Ontario communities.

Ontario Housing Corp. announced yesterday that it will receive the $6.7 million to build the housing units in Huntsville, Central Mortgage and Housing Corp.

OHC said in a statement the loans, for which approval was announced at Ottawa Thursday, are for 406 family dwellings in Toronto, Huntsville and Kincardine, and for 85 senior - citizen units in Huntsville, Kincardine, Listowel and Stirling.

Larger development is a 264 - unit project in west Toronto. The federal loan for this development is $5.6 million.

Other projects are six family and 10 senior - citizen units in Huntsville, 28 senior-citizen and 16 family apartments in Kincardine, 24 senior - citizen units in Kitchener and the 12 senior - citizen units in Stirling.

Trenton Traffic Better

TRENTON (Staff) — Action was taken yesterday to cope with massive traffic problems caused by the closure of the Dundas St. bridge here.

Traffic lanes in the Trenton core area Wednesday were some of the greatest in the town's history.

Coping with the situation, police kept a close control of traffic yesterday at both ends of the easily bottlenecked MacDonald bridge, across which all east-west traffic must move.

The speed of traffic light changes was altered at the intersection of Marmora St. and Dunn Dr.

Traffic control facilities were also changed Thursday on Dundas St. West. The stop light at Dundas West and Front St. has been changed over temporarily to flashing amber and a flagman is at the intersection through the day.

Inquest Postponed

TRENTON (Staff) — Decision was made yesterday by Crown Attorney John Pringle and coroner Dr. David Linton to postpone the date of the inquest into the death of Trenton police constable Mark Houlden.

The inquest was scheduled to open on Sept. 22 in the court room above the Trenton police station.

Now it will take place on Oct. 1 in the same location, a Trenton police spokesman said yesterday.

Dr. Linton of Brighton, who performed the autopsy on Houlden, judged that the cause of Houlden's death was natural.

Facing charges arising out of the Houlden complaint preceding Houlden's death are Gordon Walsh, 19, Helen Kerr, 20, and Carl Anderson, 29.

They will appear in Trenton provincial court on Sept. 16, two weeks before the inquest.

Roslin Men Injured

Two Roslin men are in fair condition in Belleville General Hospital today following an accident at 8:15 p.m. Thursday near the radio tower in Hungerford township, eight miles south of Tweed.

Suffering from chest injuries sustained in the two - car collision is James William Johnston, 57, of Roslin, who is admitted to the intensive care unit.

Ron John Buring, 23, also of Roslin, suffered back injuries.

Driver of the other car, Lloyd Meeks, 62, of Plainfield, was treated and released.

Police estimate damage to the two cars at $2,000.

Citizen-Soldier Units Get New Commander

The Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, one of the most historic of militia regiments in the province, will join other militia units in Eastern Ontario under a new command.

The militia in Canada continued its re-organization yesterday as Brig.-Gen. Bruce Legge took placed in command of all militia in Ontario.

Ontario has 8,000 militia, including 2,500 in the Toronto garrison.

Gen. Legge will be in command of the units in Ontario of which the Hasty Pees is one. He has been allotted a budget of $3,000,000 for training, and has also been assigned the services of a 131 - man permanent force group to assist in training.

Gen. Legge said he did not anticipate immediate cuts in the militia strength, though that was a decision that be reached in the future. He said he did he forsee that armories in Ontario would become hippy hostels, as in other parts of Canada, "because so many men have been actively training in them."

He said he felt the budget would be sufficient to provide pay for 25 days of training per man per year. A militia private gets $5.35 a day.

Gen. Legge said he strongly advocated larger militia forces. Though present forces were smaller than those in the past, all deadwood had been cut from them.

The Hasty Pees' strength was cut last December but its territory was extended.

The Quinte area's famous regiment absorbed personnel from two Peterborough units which disappeared as the result of announced reductions Dec. 19.

The regiment now consists of two companies — one attached to headquarters at Belleville, the second in Peterborough. The Belleville unit was reduced in Dec. from 215 members to 89.

Twenty-three of Ontario's units are infantry regiments involving 90 per cent of the personnel. Artillery training was also being given members of five armored regiments.

UCS Prepares For Big Blitz

Belleville's United Community Services will begin a blitz campaign of city residential districts beginning Sept. 28 with the help of between 500 and 600 high school and college students.

This announcement, made some time ago, was reconfirmed at Wednesday night's UCS campaign cabinet meeting. Mrs. Ruth Bateman also announced that contact with local high schools has brought the assurance that there would be sufficient canvassers for the campaign.

Mrs. Bateman contacted through their student councils which approached the local high school assemblies.

The major theme of this year's campaign is "Give at least 10 per cent more" with a goal of $38,000. This is an increase of more than $12,000 over last year's fund receipts.

Each year, the United Appeal campaign strives for an increase in donations to provide funds for the 13 agencies it serves.

Travelogues Announced

The Belleville Kiwanis Club is once again presenting a series of travel and adventure films for city audiences, it was announced this morning.

This series, the 18th by the Belleville Kiwanis Club, will take audiences to India, Canada, Romania, Wales, Japan and the United States.

The program kicks off Oct. 22 when Phil Walker takes a tour through a Japanese Summer. Also on tap for the series is Hidden Jewels — An American Journey Nov. 5; Repeat of India Jan. 21; Across Canada by Rail Feb. 18; Romance of Romania Mar. 25; and Welsh Wonderland Apr. 22.

Season tickets are now being sold at $6 for the entire six films. All profits will go to the work of the Belleville Kiwanis Club.

These agencies are:

—Red Cross: Homemakers, blood banks and a loan cupboard are provided.

—Victorian Order of Nurses provides home nursing care.

—Boy Scouts of Canada, providing leader training.

—Institute for the Blind, providing eye banks, eye disease diagnosis, a loan cupboard and "talking books".

—Belleville Family YMCA: funds for free learn-to-swim lessons for Grades four and five in city schools and special programs.

United Community Services: supporting volunteer programs with pre - school and handicapped children; immigrant families program; clothing depot; furniture exchange; Christmas Bureau; programs for the elderly.

—Sea Cadets: permits boys through disciplined program to continue training and education through military programs.

—Civic Action Committee which provides special materials and services to needy families.

—St. John's Ambulance trains and provides first aid volunteers.

—Central Volunteer Bureau, a separate volunteer agency.

As agencies are increased in these agencies, increased funds are required to operate. Campaign officials pointed out before the regular campaign and washable stickers would be placed on this year's theme are being distributed.

Heavy newspaper and radio advertising will advise residents of the appeal campaign, which concludes on Oct. 18. Campaigners contributing 10 per cent more and at least $25, will have their names published. A dinner will be held an Oct. edition of The Intelligencer as a "thank you" from the UCS.

Township Reeves Are Unhappy About Revised Assessment

Hastings county councillors are unhappy with new provincial legislation which, under Bill 143, calls for apportionment of county rate taxes to be based on a combination of municipal and the provincial equalized assessments.

The legislation provides the apportionment of taxes paid for county purposes to be based with 70 per cent of the rate in the same proportion as the last apportionment and 30 per cent on the provincial equalized assessment plus grant-in-lieu valuations and mining revenue payments.

The result is that in 1971, some townships in the county will have their county taxes sharply increased while others will see a reduction.

The new percentages as they affect county municipalities have been worked out by the county clerk's treasurer's office and were presented to the council body yesterday by Clerk-Treasurer and Administrator Carl E. Bateman.

Municipalities are given until Oct. 31 to appeal the apportionment to the Ontario Municipal Board.

Most severely affected under the new legislation are areas of the northern townships which will see their county rates jump by at least 25 per cent.

Herschel's county rate will jump from $9,046 last year to $12,653 next year. Carlow Mayo's county rate will be increased from $12,109 to $14,577 and Monteagle from $7,083 to $9,305.

Hungerford township will see its county rate jump by more than $4,500 and Marmora and Lake by over $3,340.

On the other hand, most of the southern municipalities will see their county rate percentages drop but will still record monetary reductions to be enjoyed by Tyendinaga and Rawdon, the town of Deseronto and the village of Tweed.

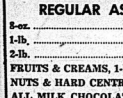
A similar formula for the assessment of school taxes will also be worked out for next year.

Council passed the report submitted by Mr. Bateman but many of the councillors indicated their municipalities would consider appeals.

The provincial equalized assessment figures for the various county municipalities were also presented to the council body yesterday by Mr. Bateman.

They (the assessment factors set by the province) are not realistic, they are preposterous and not true," said Warden John Wilkes.

He said all county municipalities should appeal.



Reeve Ivan Rowe of Rawdon said, "We want this thing to be right, and it is not right," he said.

Stirling Reeve Donald Rodgers said more information was needed from the assessment department in Toronto. "As it is we don't know what we would be appealing."

Clerk Bateman, however, said county assessors as a whole could not appeal. This, he said was up to the individual municipalities.

School Headquarters Grant Unlikely

No change in the educational grant structure is contemplated by Ontario's governing Conservative party in the immediate future.

Brief's requesting grant consideration for construction of administration buildings are "under consideration," said education minister William Davis Wednesday, but the minister "doesn't anticipate a change".

With the formation of county boards of education and resulting government - dictated revisions of financial administration, personnel employed by boards has increased and accommodation in existing administrative buildings has become inadequate.

Hastings county is one board that has requested a brief to the minister, calling for grants for headquarter's construction.

No grants for the purpose have ever been considered in the past.

And "the public wouldn't stand for" grants for construction of boards, Mr. Davis said.

The Conservative government is dead on grants for private schools remains unchanged.

At present, schools operated by religious bodies, including grades 11 and 13 in the Roman Catholic system, and Christian Reform schools, are classed as private institutions.

The government continues to maintain, the minister said, that parents who chose other than public school education for their children must pay for it themselves.

Mr. Davis said he could "add nothing to the dialogue" concerning a secondary school at Keele in Ancaster-burg township.

The Prince Edward county board of education is planning to expand the elementary school there and build a secondary school for students now attending Belleville high schools.

"It is being considered, but we have reached no determination about getting there the money," said the minister in response to queries from Prince Edward county residents. "Do you think we should give it to them?"

Mr. Davis was less than enthusiastic about operating schools 12 months of the year.

"If you did, you would have to hire 30 per cent more staff, and would negate any savings," he said.

"Should students go to school 46 or 50 weeks of the year? It would disrupt the tourist industry, a not insignificant factor in this province. It would upset the established social patterns of the province. Many schools would require air-conditioning — a major investment."

He added that secondary schools would be used more in the summer for upgrading courses for both teachers and students.

"Use in this way makes educational and economic sense," he commented.

Liberals to Organize Nomination Convention

Hastings Liberal Association will be asked next week to begin organizing a federal nomination convention, possibly for Oct. 27.

The recommendation will be placed before the association's annual meeting in Belleville Tuesday.

The move is being unanimously proposed by the Liberal riding executive, said association president Zdenek Kvarda.

It is not linked to any intimation of an early election but rather is influenced by the size of the Hastings constituency, he said.

The riding includes the city of Belleville and all Hastings County, excluding Trenton and Sidney and Rawdon townships — a territory roughly 100 miles long.

Early selection of a Liberal contestant will give the candidate time to circulate through the riding and firm up pre-election contact with the electorate, said Mr. Kvarda.

"For the past six months we have been discussing this and we felt a candidate needs as much time as possible," he said. "It's a big riding and we just feel with a year or a year and a half (preparation) we can really give a good campaign.

Mr. Kvarda said there already were indications that several nominees will seek the party's endorsement.

The proposed convention date is subject to change, however, due to the complexities of organizing such an event.

Next Tuesday's association meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. at the Kiwanis Centre.

Also on the agenda is an election of officers and selection of delegates for the Liberal provincial policy rally in London, Ont., Oct. 2-4, and the national policy convention in Ottawa, Nov. 20-22.

The London sessions will discuss policy outlined at the party's 1969 Harrison Hot Springs conference and prepare Ontario delegates for the subsequent national convention.

Also introduced were Leighton Thompson, regional assessment commissioner, chief fire ranger Orville Goodman of Bancroft, and the district municipal engineer.

Belleville Man Named Professor

A former Belleville resident has accepted the position of assistant professor at the University of Missouri, it was announced this morning.

Dr. C. E. Box, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Box of Belleville, has taken up residence in Columbia, Missouri, to begin his new appointment.

Dr. Box earned his bachelor of science and his masters degree in science at Indiana University in Bloomington, Indiana. He then served two years in the Royal Canadian Air Force as a flying officer. He returned to Indiana University where he received his Ph.D. in education.

He will be lecturing in critical and social issues while continuing his research in the field of drug addiction.

Men! A Wig May Be the Answer!

By IAN ROBERTSON

Women have had the hair styling market cornered for years.

It has been almost the accepted thing for the gentler sex to cover their locks with human or synthetic wigs and very rare is the woman or girl who doesn't own a "fall."

There is nothing written down that forbids a man from openly sporting a toupee, but a certain stigma has prevailed.

Not so in recent years.

Today men are more than ever proudly sporting hair pieces which either completely alter their appearances or add an extra thickness to thinning hair.

The second and hindering motive for not donning extra hair is the cost factor. Until recently hair pieces have been too expensive for the average man to afford.

Walkers Department Store on downtown Front Street has the problem virtually solved. A foremost North American wig designer, Jerome Alexander, has developed a series of wigs in a large variety of colors at a moderate cost.

These wigs, available in two styles, the "Challenger", a longer - hair style headpiece and the "Executive", the shorter style.

The latter wig, available in Belleville for under $60, is the style designed for the business executive. The longer hairpiece has been made with the advertising and communications executive in mind.

However, there are no limits on whom these wigs can be used. Besides the traditional thin hair coverup-motive, men change the color or style of their own locks.

In recent years, wigs as well as false moustaches, beards and sideburns have been sported by members of the armed forces who wish to mingle with the younger set while being restricted by that breed of men famous for their hair styling, the forces barber.

The "skinhead" look can easily be hidden under these natural - like wigs which are complete with sideburns.

Many firms, like the armed forces, prefer shorter barbering of their male employees are wearing extra hair to and toupees have proved an easy and quick answer to the young swinger.

A good wig, properly matching a man's features, will add extra dignity and take years off his appearance.

The Walker's wigs arrived on the weekend of Aug. 30 and can make quite a change, evidence of which is shown by these models.

Modelling are Bill Venbala, Walkers; Janice Langley, Walkers; Alderman Ben Corke; Cash Mahaffy, Intelligencer City Editor; Mrs. Doris Lee, Walkers; and Mrs. Mary Halsey, Walkers.

Schools Evolve

Options must be found for students who do not want to remain in school, according to NDP provincial leadership candidate Walter Pitman. "Only those students who want to remain in school should be encouraged to stay and other options must be provided for young people in the working society and in the public service," he told campaign workers in Toronto recently.

Mr. Pitman's challenging words were quoted in a report on the contemporary educational scene by this newspaper the other day. It touched on the problems of a school-school population pursuing elusive goals, seeking to graduate in a society which has an increasing number of young people but too few jobs for them.

"We are trying to teach humanistic values in the midst of a materialistic society," according to Hastings education director Eric Runacres. We hope the schools will continue to do so, with attention to poetry, the great literature of the past, the history of civilization and so on. For if as Mr. Runacres believes, the young people themselves will soon force society into creating meaningful choices outside the strictly school-or work routine, they will not be truly educated without a knowledge and appreciation of classical and humanistic trends, of art, literature and so on.

For many the business college advertisements we quoted recently may well be true: "Young people on the go have'not the time for superfluous frills. They need to acquire the knowledge and skills that will permit them to step into paying positions in the business world right now." But there is a wealth of other disciplines which do require a familiarity with the "frills," and which young people should not be conned into believing are unnecessary.

In any event, the traditional subjects of school are still necessary for development of knowledge and of mental powers. It is necessary to know as much of the background of this world as possible, of what is happening in the universe and what went before.

Amid all our growing restlessness and pseudo-sophistication it is worth reflecting on the fact that in the United States mid-west the one-room schoolhouse survives. The New York Times quotes Vernon Jirik, 38, a part-time mechanic, campground operator, insurance salesman and teacher of 15 children from kindergarten to Grade 8 at Sparks, Nebraska. He has the kids through their arithmetic, spelling, English, science and social studies and observes: "I probably don't explain as much to the whole class as in other schools, but I more than make up for it in individual instruction."

A mother of three boys at the school says she likes having the children close to home, the degree of local control over their education and the individual labor and love that, she knows, these are factors largely missing from the educational system at large today.

Vancouver Experiment

Here is an interesting item on education from Vancouver. A private high school organized in the city will use three rooms in a downtown school as a home base but will encourage and also be taken of City Hall, the public library and recreational areas to promote learning and physical fitness.

Robert Sarginson, one of five teachers planning the school, is quoted as saying that instruction methods will be aimed at making courses "relevant to the lives of students." The name of the school is in kind — Relevant High School.

The school will follow provincial curriculum guidelines but will broaden and embellish courses by bringing in people from outside, the principal says, and also by taking students to resources outside the school. For the first term, about 60 students in Grades 7 to 11 will be enrolled.

This is a promising concept and will be watched with interest. Maybe the state school system in which the majority of young Canadians receive their education could benefit from the experiment tried out in this Vancouver experiment. The student fee, incidentally, has been set at $400; this sounds like a reasonable sum.

Meter Maid

Cornwall merchants believe business is returning to downtown areas — thanks in some measure to Margaret Beattie, a Grade 13 student at Char-Lan high school whom they employed during July and August as a meter maid. The project was started on a temporary basis but may be continued regularly once merchants have had an opportunity of assessing its impact. Miss Beattie's task — to keep those one-armed bandits full of nickels — both scared and pleased the public as they saw the tall shapely young woman going about her business. Maybe Belleville merchants should try out the idea next year.

'Prodigy' Cult Discouraged

Russians Develop Child's Natural Gift for Music

For generations of Russians the name of Arkadi Ostrovsky is synonymous with music. A former worker in a Leningrad electrical plant, he wrote more than 200 popular songs, many of which are known throughout the Soviet Union. Ostrovsky, who studied piano at the Leningrad Conservatory, took great interest in the musical training of youth. The article below is a condensed version of a text he wrote shortly before his death in 1967.

By ARKADY OSTROVSKY
In UNESCO FEATURES

Every child has some feeling for music. In infancy, when instinct is stronger than reason, sounds intrigue and please him on all sides, even though he is unable as yet to reproduce them.

To cater for and develop the child's natural musical instinct, music is taught in the Soviet Union even in the nursery schools. In primary and secondary schools it is a compulsory subject. This general musical education does not aim at bringing out exceptional talents: the Russians are a musical people, and consider an acquaintance with music an essential part of a complete education.

But some children possess an ear and a musical memory which are extremely complex, sensitive and subtle. In short, they are exceptionally gifted, and so present a special problem.

Of course, there have always been children whose potentialities revealed themselves at a very early age. The list includes Mozart, Liszt, Yehudi Menuhin, Roberto Benzi, Robertino Loretti and the Russian Alexei Nasedkine, who was already performing at concerts when his feet could barely reach the pedals of the piano.

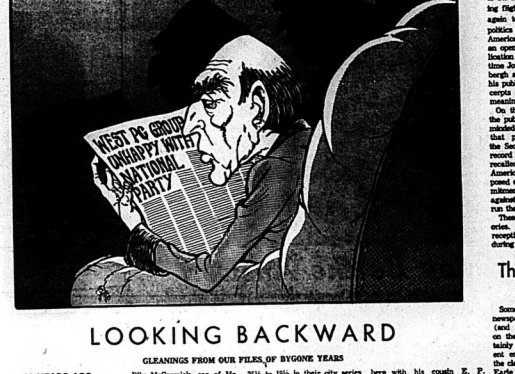
But the word "prodigy" (or "phenomenon", as we say in Russia) has come to have a satirical or even hostile connotation. I think this has arisen because of the strange and false attitude many people adopt towards children who are otherwise completely normal, but are specially gifted in music, painting or mathematics. By instilling in them the idea that they are different from and superior to other children, and depriving them of the company of boys and girls of their own age, those responsible for them have tended to turn them into little monstrosities.

To protect them from exaggerated admiration on the part of adults and prevent them from becoming isolated, exceptionally gifted children should, according to Soviet theories of teaching, be educated in a community. For this reason all the conservatoires of music in the USSR have special schools attached to them.

The most famous of these establishments, and the model for all the rest, is the Central School of Music founded in Moscow, in 1935. Gifted children are admitted from the age of seven (the age of compulsory school attendance in the USSR), and they receive a general education alongside their musical studies. Only those who have completed their secondary education are admitted to the Conservatoire itself.

The question of when to begin teaching children music is a difficult one. Talent does not always reveal itself early. Arnen Khachaturian did not start studying composition until he was 19; Svetoslav Richter was the same age when he began to train as a soloist. But Soviet educationalists believe that however talented or eager a child may be, he should not begin to play an instrument until he is six or seven.

The Central School in Moscow selects its pupils from among all the most gifted children in the Soviet Union. Like the Conservatoire itself it is multi-national. Admission requirements are comparable to those of the conservatoires in the USSR, and sometimes committees of teachers go a recruiting mission as far afield as Uzbekistan, Byelorussia, Tartary and Azerbaijan.



Entrance examinations are held in May for candidates from the Moscow area, and in June for candidates from other regions. They are in three stages: of tests. First comes a general examination in rhythm, memory and ear: he is asked, in order to sing a well - known song, then one he has just heard for the first time, reproduced the rhythm and indicating the correct key on the piano. The second test is theoretical. And lastly the child has to perform a piece. Successful candidates are allocated to classes according to their age and degree of advancement in their studies.

Every teacher has his own ideas on teaching methods, but every pupil is always treated as a special case. Arnold Sobeiston, who in 40 years' teaching has produced a remarkable team of international standing, tries to keep his pupils in touch with the real world. "I take them to concerts as soon as possible, and all the more striking. Anna Artobolievaya takes the opposite view, and prefers to protect her pupils as early as possible from the excitement of public performances. "I try", she says, "to help them feel at one with the public".

In order to ease the children's work load without encroaching on their general studies, the classes are kept as light as possible. In the lower forms, for instance, teachers try to avoid giving more than two hours' home work. Pupils are allowed to miss lessons in order to prepare for concerts, or competitions for the big concerts which the school regularly puts on. Even so, the pupils still at the School, have played with the most important Soviet and foreign conductors such as Nikolai Rachlin.

The pupils are screened at various points in their studies. Not all of them can become famous soloists, conductors or composers. Those who do not go on to the Conservatoire, continue in special institutes for training music teachers.

The Soviet Conservatoires of music, especially the Moscow Conservatoire, produce composers and performers as well as instrumentalists. For the latter, the great object is to be considered as a candidate for some big international competition: the preliminary tests for these competitions are spread over many months, and are followed with passionate interest by the general public as well as by musicians themselves.

Young People Cleaned Up City's Yacht Basin

Brockville Recorder and times

The Brockville Jaycees and their teenage helpers made a good case recently for the youth of Brockville.

Unlike so many young people (and old) in other parts of the continent, the local group found a more rewarding method of fighting a wrong than the now popular practice of demonstrating.

Our reference is of course to the successful clean-up operations at Tunnell Bay that the Jaycees initiated and the teenagers supported. The effort of their afternoon of work are clearly evident to anyone who cares to walk down to the bay.

When a polargrapher visited Tunnel Bay a massive coat of algae covered the surface of the water, along with an assortment of bottles, cans and other debris to complete the scene.

Just 24 hours later the bay was clear again and the ducks returned.

The energetic drive of the Jaycees, the teenagers, and all others who helped in the clean-up, can only be lauded. This group was concerned about the threat of pollution and it found a fast and effective means of doing something about it.

While a casual observer might be tempted to believe that cleaning up Tunnel Bay is not such a tough job for a healthy group of young people, there still is that a definite problem exists and that human work and co-operation helped to overcome it.

The work of this small but dedicated group should serve as an example to dissidents who feel they have to march or demonstrate against all the ills of society.

Protesters are so common today that they seldom accomplish anything except arousing the antagonism of the public — both for themselves and for their causes. There are more acceptable and more efficient ways of skinning a cat — as that handful of Brielle people proved. Pity though that more boat owners and adults didn't lend a hand.

Charles Lindberg's Politics

Montreal Gazette

Whether Charles A. Lindbergh — the intrepid pilot of the Spirit of St. Louis on its history-making flight of 1927 — is trying to speak in keeping his views of politics and world affairs on the American people is once more an open question in the Watergate hinterlands of his book, The Wartime Journal of Charles A. Lindbergh at the end of this month, his publishers have released excerpts that revive old, now meaningless controversy.

On the basis of this preview the public can expect to be reminded of the confused days that preceded U.S. entry into the Second World War. On the record Mr. Lindbergh must be recalled as a strong and vocal America Firster, grossly opposed even in 1941 to U.S. commitment to support the Allies against the Axis threat to overrun the free world.

These are disturbing memories. Mr. Lindbergh's Lindbergh's reception by Marshal Goering during his visits to Nazi Germany in 1936 and 1938. They recal his decoration by the Nazi government — and Lindbergh's repeated efforts to dissuade the United States from taking up the cudgels against it. It is true that in the later war years, Lindbergh devoted himself to aiding the country's development of military aircraft. As a civilian observer, he flew 50 fighter and bomber missions in the Pacific area to study aircraft performance from combat viewpoint.

Publication of his journals at this time serves only to raise up bitter memories that should have been allowed to die. Lindbergh's reluctance in his new book of his conviction that warmongers — like President Roosevelt, the British and U.S. Jewish communities — were responsible for the U.S. entry into the war, only underscores his inability to interpret events realistically or objectively in the light of history. It is a pathetic reminder that some men's moments of greatness are fleeting.

Those Newspaper Gremlins

Ottawa Journal

Some of the best fun in a newspaper, aside the comics (and sometimes unintentionally, on the editorial page!) is certainly to be found by those patient enough to pore through the classified ads. U.S. humorist Earle Tempel has published a book about the gremlins which afflict all these years of technical "advance" still inhabit newspaper buildings. Most of the examples are from American papers, from the New York Times down to the smallest weekly. But Canada's papers have contributed their share in the book and though we're not included we could have matched some of his best.

Expos 'Tax Deal' Even the Sports Writer Was Muddled!

Montreal Gazette

What is fast becoming known as "the Expos' tax deal" is also fast becoming one of the most muddled and misunderstood rulings by the federal revenue department on a issue that should be crystal clear.

Even Dick Gazette's own sports correspondent managed to becloud the issue when he wrote about the federal department's design to help Charles Bronfman and friends pay for the Expos." The implication that the ruling represents some kind of special consideration for the Expos is wrong. The Expos are not being helped in the sense of being provided a service exclusive to them at the expense of other taxpayers.

The revenue department has simply ruled that a Canadian expansion team in the major leagues should be allowed the same tax interpretation on its initial capital investment (namely the purchase of player contracts to stock the team) as is allowed to U.S. expansion teams by their government.

The interpretation remains mostly by unthinking Toronto politicians, has only added to the confusion. Does anyone really seriously consider that the revenue department is going to give the Expos some kind of a tax concession they don't have coming to them under law?

It is a reasonable assumption. already stated here earlier, that the Vancouver Canucks, an expansion team in the National Hockey League, could expect a similar tax ruling if it applies in the case of the Expos. This fact alone should remove any question of favoritism towards the Montreal baseball team.

Now everyone should relax, and watch the Expos. There is still the chance that they can overtake the Cubs for the fifth place and the exciting atmosphere of mediocrity. That would not be a bad showing for their second year in the major leagues.

Ho Chi Minh Picture, Radical Flags Adorn Vancouver Armory

VANCOUVER (CP) — In the translated-occupied Beatty Street armory Thursday, a red flag was draped from a white cross dedicated to the 7th Canadian infantry battalion's dead and wounded in the battle at Vimy Ridge in the First World War.

Above the cross stretched a long banner with clenched fists at both ends. On another wall, a poster of Ho Chi Minh, the dead North Vietnamese revolutionary, rose side by side with the Canadian armored regiment's Second World War memorial plaque.

And above this administration desk was a Canadian flag with a black clenched fist superimposed on the red maple leaf. All of these symbolized an occupation of the armory which began Tuesday.

It was on Tuesday that the armory was supposed to convert to the Canadian Armed Forces following two months of service as a federally-operated hostel for young male transients.

But the young people took it over. They kept the army out, themselves in, and Ottawa agreed to let them keep it until some kind of a permanent hostel can be set up elsewhere.

Now, city authorities say the impetus of the occupation has passed from reformers and radicals. They point to the flag, the Ho Chi Minh poster and what several of them have described as desecration of the war memorials in the old mess building.

Liberal MP Ray Perrault of Burnaby-Seymour summed up the official reaction to the events in the armory in an angry telegram to State Secretary Gerard Pelletier, whose department operates hostels across the country:

"Suggest that if hostel to continue it should only proceed under firm and responsible auspices and in other locale with auxiliary counselling available to assist genuine transient young people to find a meaningful role in society.

"Deeply regret that a hostel concept which has been successful in so many other centres appears now to have become here a loosely administered haven for a minority group of self-styled activists.

"Urge you what it up nonsense and consider alternative solutions."

Mr. Perrault, who visited the armory Wednesday, said he was appalled to find 45 of the 150 beds still occupied many by boys and girls together—all 11.30 a.m.

Canada Pension Plan

Benefits, Contributions to be Increased in '71

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government Thursday announced that benefits and contributions under the Canada Pension Plan will be increased in 1971 by approximately two per cent in line with cost-of-living increases.

Under the new schedule, the 300,000 persons receiving retirement pensions in December this year will receive a two-per-cent increase in 1971. The maximum monthly pension, first payable at full rate in 1978, will be $122.50, up from $118.40 in that year. No maximum figure is available for 1971.

The maximum income from which pension plan contributions payments can be paid will be $5,400 in 1971, up $100 from this year. The first $600 a person earns each year is not subject to Canada Pension Plan deductions.

Maximum annual contributions by employers and employees in 1971 will be $96.48 each, increased from $94.68. Self-employed persons will contribute a maximum of $192.96, up from $189.30 in 1970.

Survivors' benefits and disability benefits being paid in December, 1970, will increase two per cent in January, 1971. Orphans' benefits, benefits for children of disabled contributors, and the flat rate payable to widows, disabled widowers and disabled contributors will increase to $27.06 monthly from $26.53.

The maximum death benefit under the new schedule will be $540 for deaths occurring in 1971, up $10 from 1970.

The two-per-cent increase in pension payments and contributions is the maximum allowed by law each year, and each year since 1966, when the national contributory plan went into effect, similar increases have been announced.

Information regarding benefits and contributions in the forthcoming Quebec plan will be announced today by the Quebec Pension Board and the provincial revenue department.

Abbie Hoffman Claims He Was Mistreated

TORONTO (CP) — Abbie Hoffman, one of the Chicago Seven, said he was insulted, stripped and "dragged" Thursday by Canadian customs officials while being detained for two hours at Toronto International Airport.

He said in an interview that a film about the Chicago trial and posters for his Youth International Party in the United States had been confiscated.

"I don't mind being stripped, roughed-up and called 'scum' but I resent being deprived of the right to call my lawyer. I resent having personal possessions confiscated."

G. E. Watts, a Canadian customs official at the airport, said Mr. Hoffman was "detained through reasons of his own making." Mr. Watts said some of Hoffman's possessions were confiscated because they were not declared.

He said Mr. Hoffman underwent normal customs procedures and denied officials had manhandled him.

RCMP were called in to settle a dispute between Mr. Hoffman and customs officials, a police spokesman said. Later police from Mississauga, where the airport is situated, arrived to settle what they described as "an altercation."

Mr. Hoffman, who entered the country on a special permit allowing him to remain four days, was allowed to wait for a later flight to Edmonton.

Canadian Content Law For Books Called For

TORONTO (CP) — Tim Reid, Liberal party education critic in the Ontario legislature, called today for legislation to require Canadian content of at least 25 per cent in bookstores and book clubs within two years.

Canada's culture and its book-publishing industry are both facing a crisis because "the Canadian public does not know there is a Canadian body of literature," the member for Scarborough East told a meeting of the Canadian Association of Publishers' Educational representatives.

Mr. Reid said a national policy of putting Canadian books in libraries, schools and universities is a necessity.

Mr. Reid said less than seven per cent of the books on sale in Canadian retail outlets are Canadian and, although $20 million is spent by public, school and college libraries annually, less than five per cent of it stays in Canada.

Mr. Reid said much of the crisis in the publishing industry can be attributed to American domination of distribution systems.

He recommended that a public inquiry be ordered by the government to establish who controls distribution systems.

He added that legislation should be enacted to require the Canadian content of bookstores to be 25 per cent within two years and 50 per cent in five years. Any Canadian book clubs should have a strict 25-per-cent Canadian content.

He said non-Canadian university teachers prescribe books with which they are familiar. One solution in this area is to go along with proposals for increasing the number of Canadians on university teaching staffs, Mr. Reid suggested.

But publishers should also be guaranteed by provincial and federal governments against excess on scholarly works by Canadian authors.

Mr. Reid also called for a $20 million government subsidy to advertise books compiled and written by Canadians because news media do not devote enough space to reviews of Canadian books.

"All of Canada's 10 provinces must pass legislation requiring schools to use textbooks . . . authorized by each province's department of education.

Text of Mr. Reid's speech was released to the press before delivery.

Diplomatic Ties to Be Cut

LUSAKA, Zambia (Reuters) — The Third World non-aligned countries received Thursday night to cut diplomatic relations with South Africa and Portugal, sources close to their summit conference here said.

It also urged creation of a special aid fund for freedom fighters in southern Africa, to which all the countries of the world could contribute. The Organization of African Unity would administer the fund, the sources said.

They said a resolution on decolonization by the summit—meeting ended Thursday night—would also have the non-aligned bloc embargo trade with the two countries and Rhodesia.

It went on to urge Western countries to end their help to "regimes of colonial and racial oppression."

It also said planes and ships heading to or from Portugal, South Africa or Rhodesia should be denied landing rights and port facilities.

The resolution was one of several adopted by leaders of more than 60 countries at this third summit meeting.

Another resolution deplored what it termed Israel's obstruction of Middle East peace efforts and called for full restoration of the rights of the Arab people of Palestine.

Search Continues

TRENTON, Ont. (CP) — An air search of southwestern Ontario for an airplane missing since Tuesday was to continue today.

Capt. Steve Breitner of the Canadian Forces Air Search and Rescue base here said Thursday night six planes will continue combing a line from Port Huron, Mich., to Buffalo.

The plane, piloted by Kyle Malleck and carrying a passenger identified as Harold Martin, both of Point Claire, Mich., left Port Huron bound for Wilkesbarre, Pa.

Capt. Breitner said coast guard vessels were searching the coastline of Lake Erie.

The search for planes over London, Ont., and near Brantford and Welland.

Hastings, England Wants Our Tree

A clump birch or other trees native to Hastings county may soon be planted in a new park to be developed at Hastings, England.

The invitation for Hastings county to provide a tree for planting in its new park, has been forwarded by the English city and was read at Wednesday's council session.

The letter was referred to the county tourist department, but Madoc Reeve Tom Burnside suggested the tree be forwarded.

"I would be happy to deliver the tree," offered Marmora Reeve Willaim Shannon.

But council didn't take up the suggestion.

"Reeve Jack Brown of Bancroft has already made the offer," laughingly commented one member as the council moved on to other business.

Family Reunions

JOHNSTON CLAN

Perfect is the only way to describe the weather when some 70 members of the Johnston clan met for their reunion recently at Glenn Allen Park on Crowe Lake.

After a sumptuous noon meal the president Frank McEvoy of Campbellford called the gathering together.

Mrs. Walter L. Johnston resigned as recording secretary, due to transportation difficulties. It was decided that recording secretary and treasurer could be the same person so Mrs. John Carlisle being the new treasurer consented to be recording secretary also.

T. R. Loveless and Earle Johnston took charge of the races for the children in the absence of the games committee. It was decided to choose someone at the reunion next year to act as sports committee instead of appointing one this year.

Prizes were awarded as follows: eldest lady, Mrs. F. S. Johnston, Marmora; longest married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cassidy, Campbellford; most newly married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Tripp, the largest family present, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Hutchinson.

David Johnston of Guelph had the birthday nearest the reunion date; Mr. and Mrs. Fran McEvoy's anniversary date was the nearest the reunion; the boy with the longest hair was Danny Farrell of Carrollton with Lloyd Johnston of Brampton a close second. Mary June Loveless was the youngest girl present while the youngest boy was Pat McEvoy. Russell Johnston guessed the number nearest to the number present.

All present agreed it had been a most enjoyable day. Arrangements were made to hold the reunion in the same place in 1971 the last Sunday in July.

Congregation Honors Pastor On Departure

MARMORA — Presentations were made to Rev. Douglas Miller after a recent Sunday service in St. Andrew's United Church by the following: Mrs. George Fox on behalf of Zion United Church. Mr. Ken Gillies, chairman of the official board of St. Andrew's on behalf of the congregation. Mrs. Doug Vilneff for the UCW, and Patsy Vilneff for the Junior Choir.

Lunch was served in the Christian Education Building after the presentations and sentiments of appreciation by Rev. Miller. Leaving last week to assume duties in Wooler, Rev. and Mrs. Miller have been in Marmora since September, 1966.

Succeeding him at St. Andrew's is Rev. John Peters, who arrived last Friday with his wife and young son and daughter. Rev. Peters came from Newfoundland where he served for two years on a mission charge.

MR. AND MRS. LAWRENCE JAMES LIGHTFOOT

Lightfoot – Kellar

St. Thomas Anglican Church Belleville was the setting for the September 5 wedding of Clara Lynn Kellar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold B. Kellar of Belleville and Lawrence James Lightfoot, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Lightfoot of RR1, Carrying Place. Rev. Peter Tett officiated at the ceremony. Traditional wedding music was rendered by Mr. Donald Davenport, organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of crystal crepe scattered with Chantilly lace appliques outlined with seed pear embroidery. The same appliques adorned the Victorian neckline and leg-o-mutton sleeves. A chapel train fastened at the shoulders with fancy rosettes completed the gown. Her floor-length veil of silk illusion fell from a tiara of seed pearls and crystal tear drops and featured the same appliques. She carried a bouquet of white glamelias and trailing ivy.

Mrs. William Evoy, sister of the bride was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Stuart Muirhead, Miss Heather Ketcheson, and Mrs. Robert Ladouceur and Mrs. Ross Huntley, sisters of the bride. All were dressed identically in Victorian style floor length dresses; the blouse effect bodices of royal blue were finished with full sleeves, long tight cuffs fastened by tiny red buttons and high ruffled necklines. The bouffand red, white and blue floral skirts were accented by red sashes at the waist. All carried arm bouquets of red gladioli.

Best man was Mr. Norman Lightfoot Jr., of Toronto, cousin of the bridegroom and ushers were Stuart Muirhead of Montreal, Howard Russell of Belleville, Robert Ladouceur and Kirk Lightfoot of Belleville.

For the reception held at the Sun Valley Motel, the bride's mother received, wearing a violet shade ensemble with matching accessories and an orchid corsage. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother who wore a lemon yellow ensemble with brown accessories and a corsage of orange delight roses.

For travelling the bride chose a grey wool Italian knit suit with pink and white polka dots and grey accessories and a corsage of pale pink tea roses.

On their return from Europe Mr. and Mrs. Lightfoot will reside at RR1, Belleville.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

AT HOME

Mr. and Mrs. James Groves of Elgin Street, Madoc will be "At Home" to their friends and relatives on Sunday, September 20, 1970 from 1 to 5 on the occasion of their 45th wedding anniversary. No gifts please.

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew, RR 8 Belleville, announce the engagement of their daughter Ellen Elizabeth to Robert Donald Sleed, son of Mrs. L. Gryce and the late Mr. Arthur William Sleed. The wedding will take place on Saturday, Oct. 3 at 2 p.m. in College Hill United Church.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT J. GLEESON

Gleeson – Weese

Rev. John Grainger performed the wedding ceremony in St. Anne's Church, Point Anne on Saturday, September 5, at 3 p.m., when Mary Jane Weese, daughter of Mr. Ross Weese, Point Anne and the late Mrs. R. Weese, became the bride of Robert James Gleeson, son of Mrs. Michael J. P. Gleeson, Belleville and the late Mr. Michael J. P. Gleeson. Traditional wedding music was provided by Miss Gertrude Simmons at the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white peau de broche in empire style featuring bell sleeves of silk with matching detachable train. Her elbow length veil of tulle illusion flowed from a crown of seed pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of glamelias mingled with feather fern.

Miss Judy Hull of Point Anne as bridesmaid wore an emerald dress of peau de soie with matching petal headdress. She carried a basket of bronze 'mums. Miss Margaret Gleeson, sister of the bridegroom and Miss Marcia Weese, sister of the bride were identically attired to the maid of honor, but in gold peau de soie. Both carried baskets of bronze 'mums.

Tom Gleeson attended his brother as best man, while another brother, Peter Gleeson, and Frank Farrell were the ushers.

A reception was held at the Belleville Shrine Club, where the bridegroom's mother greeted the guests wearing a two-piece mint green silk shantung ensemble with matching accessories, yellow tulle hat and a corsage of yellow roses.

Leaving on the wedding trip to points north, the bride donned a pink coat and dress ensemble with a corsage of white roses.

On return the couple will reside at Bridgenorth (near Peterborough).

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES NICHOLLS

Nicholls – McFaul

Rev. Father Robert Latour officiated at the wedding ceremony in St. Maurice Roman Catholic Church, Ottawa on Aug. 29 when Judith Ellen McFaul, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton McFaul of Ottawa was united in marriage to Charles-Larry Nicholls, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nicholls of Belleville. Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by Miss Judith Shellard as maid of honor. John Banys of Ottawa was the best man.

A reception at the 'Town and Country' followed the ceremony, after which the newlyweds left on their wedding trip to Quebec and Vermont. On return Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nicholls will reside at 175 Woodroffe Ave., Apt. 3, Ottawa.

In Preparation for the Opening

Before the doors of the "Opportunity Shop" opened to the public at 2 p.m. on Thursday Mrs. F. H. Bowler, convener, sorts out infants' clothes, always in great demand. As shown in the background the shop, run by the Women's Hospital Auxiliary, features adults' clothes too, as well as books and household articles donated by the public.

Opportunity Shop Opens for New Season

The Opportunity Shop, run by the Women's Hospital Auxiliary, Belleville General Hospital re-opened yesterday after the summer vacation with a new look given by the freshly painted shelves and the new display counter. The facelifting was done during the holidays and the exterior is in the process of being painted.

Located on the market square, the shop features a large variety of inexpensive articles ranging from books and dishes to clothes for men, women and children. Most of the items are donated by the public. It is patronized by a good cross - section of the public from antique collectors to teenagers looking for something different to wear.

According to the volunteers who work in the opportunity shop, dishes, pots, pans and other household items sell fast, as do children's clothes. A number of hats are on display with volunteers expect them to be popular this year as hats are 'in' along with the midi.

The shop is operated by four conveners Mrs. F. A. Beeby, Mrs. F. H. Bowler, Mrs. C. A. Campbell and Mrs. Joseph Gallagher, in addition to a committee and a number of other volunteers. A regular staff rotates on a two - week basis. As donations come in, the four priicers are kept busy pricing the articles.

"The Opportunity Shop is the major financial project of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary," said Mrs. B. E. Burley, president of the auxiliary. "We are proud of our contributors and very loyal workers and especially of our administrative staff who have done a magnificent job over the past two years."

All proceeds go to the hospital, thus serving the dual purpose of helping the hospital and the general public.

REFUSE COLLECTION

The placing of refuse on the streets in the City is prohibited by By-Law, except for the proper collection of same.

To assist Householders with refuse, City Council has ordered special collections to be made. Such collection will be carried out during the week of September 14th, by City Forces. The next refuse collection will take place during the Fall collection of leaves.

Householders wishing to have refuse collected that is not accepted by the City's garbage contractor, are requested to place same in containers, if possible, at the edge of the street prior to September 14th.

Your cooperation is respectfully requested in order that as complete a job as possible can be accomplished and so that piles of refuse will not appear on your streets between collections. Please do not place debris on the street after the City Forces have cleaned same.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

A Popular Recipe For Sweet Pickles

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: I would like a recipe for sweet mixed pickles. I have tried several recipes to get them to turn out sweet enough. — Ida E.

ANSWER: Ida, I do not know what "sweet enough" may be for you but what follows is a recipe that is popular for our readers.

SWEET MIXED PICKLES

Two medium heads cauliflower, 25 three-inch or 18 four-inch cucumbers (if 4" cut each into two pieces crosswise), 1 pt. small pickling onions, 3 sweet red peppers, 1 small bunch celery (is optional), 1 oz. whole mixed spices, Cut vegetables into desired shapes, leaving cucumbers whole if small, and peel onions. Wash all in them well. Soak overnight in brine of 1/2 cup salt to each qt. of water to cover. Drain well in morning and rinse with cold water. Boil together 2 cups vinegar, 2 cups sugar and 1 cup water for 10 min., then add vegetables and boil until cucumbers just change color. At once pack into jars, add 1 tsp. mixed pickling spices to each qt. Fill jars to overflowing with boiling vinegar-syrup and seal. This may be stored in a clean crock in a cool place. If so tie spices in bag and leave in crock.

QUESTION: I would like to know a fairly easy way to cook a fresh pumpkin. I would rather have fresh than canned. Is there a way I can do it in the oven? — M. L.

ANSWER: Yes, Bake washed pumpkin whole on foil-lined pan at 375 deg. F.for. 2-3½ hrs. until pumpkin begins to droop and you can pierce with fork. As soon as cool enough to handle cut into quarters and remove skin and seed portion, and mash edible portion for whatever purpose you have in mind.

Ann Landers

Arrangement May Cause Troubles

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In your column recently there appeared a letter from a woman who wanted to bear-a child through artificial insemination since her husband's tests proved him incapable of fathering a child.

ANN LANDERS

I was especially interested in her letter because I am facing a serious crisis as a result of the same problem. My husband has agreed to artificial insemination but only if I use his father's sperm. I would rather not first, but his father insists on it and says unless we agree, he will not consider our child his legitimate heir.

I have no real objection since I admire my father-in-law very much and the insemination would be artificial. But I do have some strange feelings. Will you ease my conscience and give me your blessings? — LUANA.

DEAR LU: Since you have no "real objections," go ahead, but you do so without my blessings. Such an arrangement has endless possibilities for a lifetime of trouble. A father-in-law who makes such demands must be wildly egocentric, if not crazy. A husband who would agree needs to examine his relationship with his father. My guess is that he feels vastly inferior to Pa. The ultimate act of self-emasculation would be to allow his father to impregnate his wife. As for you, my dear, have you considered what it would be like to give birth to your own brother-in-law? I won't know how much money is involved here, but in my opinion there isn't enough money in the world to make this deal acceptable.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I need an answer now. I tried to call a suicide centre a few minutes ago and discovered Cincinnati doesn't have one. I was horribly depressed and felt the need to talk to somebody.

I think I need psychiatric help but I can't let my family down. They would feel like failures if they knew how disturbed and unstable I am. Why do parents blame themselves when their children go haywire. I know I'm a slob and it is my own fault, not their. I've had every opportunity to make something of myself but I can't seem to concentrate long enough to accomplish anything.

Right now my stomach is tied up in knots and my head is throbbing so hard I'm afraid it will burst. If you can't help me, Ann, I want to say thanks for listening. — O.P.S.B.W.

DEAR FRIEND: Cincinnati has no Suicide Prevention Centre as yet, but there is a chapter of Recovery, Incorporated five miles away in Fort Thomas, Kentucky. The telephone number is 606-441-2614. I urge you to give them a call. Perhaps all you need is a helping hand to get you through this temporary crisis. And please stop worrying about "disgracing" your family. If you broke a leg you wouldn't be ashamed to get it set, would you? Get going and good luck. God helps those who help themselves.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In June I was invited to a graduation ceremony, in July to a bridal shower, in August to a wedding and in May I received a baby announcement. Same girl — four gifts within 11½ months. My pocketbook is aching. What can a person say? — RED INK.

DEAR RED: Say ouch and buy gifts in keeping with what you can afford.

U.C.W. Meeting

ROSLIN UCW

PLAINFIELD — Mrs. Albert Wright gave a talk on Christian education using as her theme "the Christian family" at the September meeting of the Plainfield unit of Roslin UCW held at the home of Mrs. D. Rowe.

Mrs. Grant Kerr, the leader opened the meeting with a poem "Count Your Blessings." Mrs. Clayton Hall, who was in charge of devotions used as her theme "Harvesting". She was assisted by Mrs. Kerr.

Members were reminded of the General UCW meeting to be held on Sept. 15 in Roslin church hall and of the bee to be held on Sept. 1 morning to make preparations for a coming wedding. The report of catering at the Belleville Fair was given and Mrs. Marshall reported on the visiting of the sick during the past month.

Mrs. H. Harrison who was in charge of the Bible study dealt with the chapter "Experiment in a City" by John Calvin showing a change of organization in Geneva. She took part in the discussion that followed. Refreshments were served by Mrs. D. Rowe.

Successful Living

Reader Pleased with Public Response

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: I received the poem, "Answer to Rock Me To Sleep", and was real pleased. I have the two poems now in my collection of favorites.

I read your column first of all when I pick up the paper and think you must have a marvelous talent and patience to carry on as you do. I would like to thank the lady who supplied the poem through you.

I have quilt and crochet patterns and a few knitting ones if anyone requests them. — Poem Seeker.

Dear Poem Seeker: We've got quite a thing going when it comes to unearthing poetry; hardly ever do we ask in vain.

Dear Doris: I would be so glad if you could tell me how to rid our corner store of the pornographic literature. I don't say that this is the only place that young boys go wrong but it sure doesn't help much.

After some experiences of last summer, which I just found out about, I would like to do everything possible to rid our community of sex perverts. — Mother of Two Boys.

Dear mother: When we look at some of the trash which seems to be on our retail bookshelves, we hate to think of our young people reading it. And yet, censorship is one of the most difficult things in the world. For one thing, who is going to judge what is pornographic and what isn't? This is what stymies the various commissions on censorship which have been set up from time to time.

Perhaps more effective would be your own campaign to boycott the book store. The pressure put on retail outlets to include such purchases with orders may be great, and the pressure of customers in the opposite direction might be effective.

The real antidote is, of course, plenty of good literature. We go through stages as we grow up, but when we find and read the writings of the great classical authors, it opens up a whole new world for us.

Dear Doris: My parents will be celebrating their 40th wedding anniversary soon and I would like to have an open house for them.

I would appreciate any advice you could give me regarding food and decorations. — Fortieth.

I'm sending my leaflet on Fiftieth Wedding Anniversaries which has some ideas you could use.

The traditional symbol of the fortieth is the ruby. This dictates your choice of colors, which ought to be white and red — a lovely combination in roses or carnations or any garden flowers. If you could come up with ruby glassware for the beverages, so much the better.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "I was ashamed of the way you acted when Aunt Nellie was here. You rushed to the table and forgot to hold her chair. How many times must I tell you before you remember?"

Son: "Why do we have to have her visit us?"

Teen-agers may be instructed in gracious manners, but only constant practice will make the manners automatic.

Father: "Let's take turns seating Mother at dinner time. Men always stand up until the ladies are seated, you know. When we have guests, you boys should pull out the chairs and hold them like this for the girls and women."

Councillor Blasts Mayor's Action

PICTON (Staff) — Councillor Marion Ackerman has criticized Mayor H. J. McFarland in his appointment of a special committee to negotiate with the Oakridge Public Works Dept. for fire protection for Picton Heights.

In a letter to council Mrs. Ackerman stated, "By your action of ignoring the fire committee appointed by you at the beginning of this term of office and by appointing a special committee to deal with the Oakridge Public Works Dept. in relation to fire coverage by the town of Picton for the property known as the "hill", located in Hallowell, I feel it is a discriminatory act and a vote of non-confidence by you in this committee's work and efforts to this date."

If experience and knowledge gained in working on a committee over the past 3 years is of no avail in helping to make decisions of this importance, it is my opinion that appointed persons inexperienced with the committee's work to this date would not be in the best interests of the ratepayers of this town."

A member of the special committee, deputy reeve Donald Thompson, quickly pointed out that the meeting with the department of public works representatives was "purely exploratory." "We had to talk with them diplomatically and feel them out. This has to be turned over to the fire committee before any action is taken," he stressed. Mr. Thompson added that he felt the meeting had been well handled by the chosen committee and a great deal had been accomplished.

Mayor McFarland expressed surprise that Mrs. Ackerman had written the letter since she was chairman of the town council meeting approving the special committee. "You were chairman and you had an opportunity to discuss this when I hurriedly picked this committee. I picked the chairman of the finance committee, Mr. Thompson, chairman of the fire committee James Bird, fire chief Leonard Tripp and myself. It was more a "get together" than a meeting. It was shadow boxing and there was nothing to criticize. When I had the chairman of the finance and fire committees I felt I was looking after the interests of the town. You could have taken my place and welcome, said the mayor.

Deloro's 'Poison Pool' Lagoon

Drainage from old slag dump at the former Deloro Smelting and Refining Company property at Deloro is filtered through two lagoons before going nto Moira River. Small treatment plant in foreground further neutralizes arsenic content.

Company Pursues Fight Against Seeping Arsenic

Deloro Stellite Ltd., has spent more than $75,000 in measures to control arsenic seepage from its former plant property in the village of Deloro.

This figure was stated by former plant Manager J. C. "Pat" Houston to Hastings county councillors yesterday as he explained measures taken by the company to control seepage from slag deposits since the Deloro operation was closed down in 1962.

Arsenic seepage, claimed to be entering the Moira River from the Deloro property, during the past few months has been the subject of concern by residents and government officials.

Mr. Houston said Deloro Stellite was working in close co-operation with the Ontario Water Resources Commission in efforts to control the arsenic seepage problem.

But the former manager of Deloro Stellite at Belleville emphasized that the arsenic problem in the Deloro area was not solely the result of smelting operations.

He said there was residual arsenic in the rocks around Deloro which would be present even if the company had not existed.

"It (arsenic) is all over the country," he said. "Curing the situation here would not entirely solve the problem."

Formerly known as the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company, the Deloro operation grew out of the gold rush days at Eldorado in 1866 and numerous shafts were sunk in the area. The district came to be called Deloro, meaning "Valley of Gold."

From 1896 until about 1903 an English company mined over $300,000 worth of gold and arsenic.

Following the discovery of silver at Cobalt, the Deloro Mining and Reduction Company purchased some of the Deloro properties and set up a silver refinery with arsenic as an important by-product.

Full time operations producing silver and arsenic were begun in 1907 and about 1914 the first cobalt produced commercially in the world was manufactured at the Deloro plant. This led to the production of stellite, a much sought after war material.

During the plant's heyday nearly 800 men found employment at the Deloro plant.

At one time, commercial use of the arsenic by-product was paris green used to control potato bugs.

But the market for arsenic fell off and the residue was discarded on company property.

It is leaking from these old slag piles that is causing the complaints of arsenic in the Moira.

But Mr. Houston told councillors that the amount is infinitesimal and is far less than it was a few years ago.

"We are talking of only from .2 to .5 parts per million," he said.

First control measures to reduce leaching of arsenic from the old refuse dump was to ditch around the area.

Four years ago a small water treatment plant was constructed to treat drainage from the slag pile, the effluent being discharged through two lagoon ponds into the nearby Moira. The common local name for the two lagoons is "poison ponds."

Still further control measures planned include additional ditching around the old slag dump and covering with clay or other material to reduce leaching.

One man who doesn't feel that arsenic leaching at Deloro poses much threat is village Reeve Charles Gordanier.

He says children play around the river immediately below where the lagoon ponds empty, apparently without ill effects.

Also frogs hop in and out of the lagoon ponds at will.

"If the water (in the lagoons) was poisonous the frogs wouldn't be there," he said.

County Welfare Costs Ahead of Budget

County welfare costs so far this year have exceeded the budget and if the trend for the first six months continues, there will be an over - expenditure of approximately $100,000.

This was learned Wednesday by Hastings county council members from county administrator Carl Bateman and also from the social services committee report given by Tweed Reeve Barbara Allen.

At the end of June the county welfare costs totalled 52 per cent of the year's budget.

"It is almost without question that the county will have a deficit in this area (welfare) and the only question that remains to be answered is how much," Mr. Bateman said.

Belleville and Trenton, however; were said to be within their welfare budgets.

Welfare costs are subsidized 80 per cent by the government.

The social services report given by Mrs. Allen prompted questions from council members as to how easy or difficult it was to secure welfare.

Monteagle Reeve S. J. Carr, with tongue in cheek, said he was in need of new glasses and dentures and couldn't see why he should pay if they were obtainable through welfare.

But welfare administrator Reginald Tucker said it wasn't quite that easy and assured that welfare was given only where needed.

Wollaston Reeve Albert Vader said he didn't hear much about welfare but about once a month heard some welfare recipient brag that he received more money from relief than he could by working.

"How much can a man get on welfare?" the reeve asked. Mr. Tucker said there were many variables and the answer depended on such questions as how large the family was, the cost of housing, and other matters.

He admitted that the maximum allowable for a family was more than $400 per month.

To this Mr. Vader said such a man would in many cases be better off on welfare.

"A working man earning $400 a month would have to pay his own expenses and pay income tax as well," he said.

"I would have to agree," returned the welfare administrator.

Flying Club Plans Weekend of Fun

The Belleville Flying Club is completing arrangements for its annual weekend of flying fun to be held Saturday and Sunday Sept. 12 and 13.

The festivities begin Saturday night with a pilots' ball at the Sun Valley Motor Hotel where accommodation has been arranged.

Sunday will see a steak fly-in — breakfast or lunch on sale at the Belleville Flying Club — and a treasure hunt which begins at 10 a.m.

Treasure hunters in three categories — single engine planes, home built aircraft and twin engine planes—will have an opportunity to compete for $1,500 in prizes.

Prizes will include air fare for two to Bermuda and return and articles such as a pool table and power tools and special trophies.

The event is sponsored by the Belleville Flying Club in co-operation with the Belleville Industrial Commission and the Belleville Chamber of Commerce.

Glen Miller Bridge To Get $250,000 Grant

The federal government will make a grant of $250,000 toward the cost of a new bridge over the Trent River at Glen Miller.

But construction of the planned new bridge is not expected to commence until next spring, despite the fact that the prestressed concrete girders have already been fabricated by Wilson Concrete.

Calling of tenders for the new structure has been held up pending written confirmation of the amount of the federal grant, roads committee chairman Ken Smith said.

However, it is expected that placement of the east approach fill can be proceeded with this year, thus allowing the fill to settle over winter.

The Ontario Department of Highways has limited its subsidy payments for county roads this year to $323,000 or $86,000 less than the amount anticipated.

The amount of subsidy approved by the department for 1970 is equal to the amount approved for 1969.

Work has commenced on the reconstruction of county road No. 3 which is to be rebuilt as a development road project from Foxboro to Highway 37. The contract was earlier awarded to Cruickshank Construction for $450,789.

The contractor is concentrating on the widening of the road through the long swamp at the east end of the project in order that maximum time will be allowed for settlement.

And council learned that updating some roads sometimes causes deterioration of others.

During the summer, McFarland Construction is repairing 401 and No. 2 highways, hauled more than 100,000 tons of asphalt and gravel over county road 7 for a distance of about two miles with the result that this section of county road in the Shannonville area was badly distorted and broken up.

The county is now negotiating with the Department of Highways for assistance in the cost of restoring the roadway.

Awesome Ore-Carrier

Three county councillors are dwarfed by the size of this quarter million dollar ore truck in use at Marmoraton Mines. The truck, one of six such vehicles recently purchased by the mining company, has a capacity of 105 tons of ore or rock. Fitted with diesel engine, truck is driven by electric motors at each wheel.

Kraft Mill Discussion

Bancroft Area Benefits Emphasized by Rollins

Clarke Rollins, MPP Hastings, said Wednesday night it would be disastrous if the Canadian International Paper Company and local political and community representatives that discussed the scheme.

Publicity on the CIP study has mainly centred on the possibility of a kraft mill on Lake Ontario. This has tended to obscure the fact the mill is only one phase of a project, also rich with economic promise for the north end of the Quinte district.

Statistics given at last night's meeting recalled the significance of the project for the Bancroft area.

Woodcutting operations would employ 700 people in the timberlands with another 75 jobs in a chipping mill at Bird's Creek, north of Bancroft. This would mean a pay out of about $7 million a year. By comparison, the projected kraft mill would employ 275 with an annual payroll of $3 million.

For the Quinte north this would be "the biggest economic boost — and has been recognized by the federal and provincial governments as such," said Mr. Rollins.

"It would be a disaster if it doesn't go (ahead)," he said.

Local labor would be given preference if the project becomes a reality, the MPP added.

The lands and forests department has been studying such a project in the Bancroft area since 1966, the MPP said.

"It would be utilizing timber that has never been suitable for other purposes."

Belleville Minister To Direct Crusade

Rev. James M. MacKnight has resigned as pastor of Calvary Temple in Belleville to accept the position of director of the Canada for Christ Crusade, the evangelistic arm of the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada.

A powerful fundamentalist preacher and eminent bible teacher, Mr. MacKnight is at present presbyter of the Quinte District and is member of the board of directors of the Eastern Pentecostal Bible College in Peterborough.

Hailing seven years ago from Oshawa, he was responsible for the construction of a church there and one in Verona. Calvary Temple has operated successfully since Mr. MacKnight's inception.

His successor has not yet been announced. Mr. MacKnight and his family will continue to reside in Belleville.

Marmora Iron Mine Highlight of Tour

Mammoth diesel - electric trucks costing a quarter of a million dollars each and capable of hauling 105 tons of ore!

That was the type of heavy equipment seen in operation yesterday by members of Hastings County council as they visited the open pit mining operation of Marmoraton Mines at Marmora.

Six of the mammoth trucks, with tires nearly nine feet in height and costing up to $5,000 each, have been purchased for use at the Marmora Mines with several of the vehicles already in use. The remainder of the fleet is being assembled for use.

The six big trucks will be used to haul ore and rock out of the 500 foot deep open pit. When all are in use the present 55 - ton capacity ore trucks owned by the company will be phased out of operation.

"It's a straight matter of economics," commented the Marmoraton Mines engineer who acted as tour guide for the county councillors' visit.

The engineer said purchase of the $250,000 trucks was a move by the company to get ore and rock out of the mines as economically as possible.

In operation for the past 18 years, the iron ore mine with its more than 300 employees has been an economic shot in the arm for the Marmora area.

The mine operation sees 1.4 million tons of ore taken out annually. But to get at the ore, 3.8 tons of rock overburden has to be moved — and for a greater distance. The ore goes to the mine crusher and is processed through rod and ball mills before going into the pellet-izer furnaces.

A trainload of pelletized ore with cars holding up to 65 tons each leaves the mines each morning for Picton where it is loaded into lake freighters for shipment to Lackawanna near Buffalo.

The company estimates there is ore for from eight to 10 years operation left at the mine.

The Marmoraton Mines open pit iron ore mine is the only one of its kind in this part of Ontario.

"Comparatively, it is a small operation," noted the tour guide. "Some mines in Quebec take out 18 or more million tons of ore per year."

Harrington Suspension Raises Furor in Front Offices

TORONTO (CP) — Football Commissioner Jake Gaudaur, finding defensive end Ed Harrington of Toronto Argonauts guilty of unnecessary roughness, Thursday suspended and fined him—and touched off a greater furore than was engendered by the original incident.

Harrington was suspended for one game and fined $200 for knocking Ottawa Rough Riders quarterback Gary Wood uncon-scious with a forearm smash to the back of the head during Monday's Toronto-Ottawa Eastern Conference game in Ottawa, won 37-21 by the Argos.

The incident occurred on the first play of the game and Harrington was thrown out of the contest by referee Harry Ross who penalized his team 15 yards.

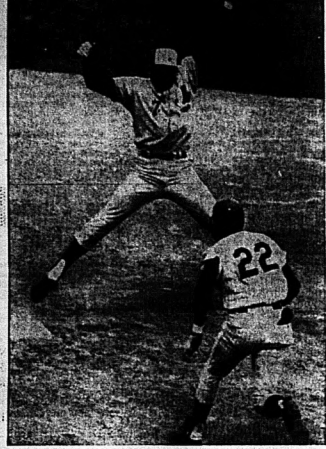
John Bassett, chairman of the board of the Argos, said Thursday he felt the penalties against Harrington were unjustified and severe and said he had lodged a formal complaint with the commissioner concerning what he termed "an inflamatory comment" by Ottawa owner David Loeb.

"The commissioner seems to have overlooked the fact that when Harrington hit Wood, the quarterback was standing and in a position to move up the field," Bassett said.

"For all Harrington knew, Wood could have taken off as a potential pass receiver.

Switching his attack to Loeb, Bassett said:

"I have made a formal com-plaint to the commissioner about an inflamatory comment by Ottawa owner David Loeb which he made at the Brit-ish dinner Tuesday in Ot-tawa. These comments were made while the Harrington mat-ter was still under consideration by the commissioner."



Gaudaur replied that even if Wood was standing and availa-ble for further action "it would not justify the type of action taken by Harrington."

The commissioner said tapes of Loeb's speech were en route to his office.

"If the tapes reveal remarks that could be construed as pre-judging the case, I'll have to take action. If the tapes don't reveal any of this, I will still seek other ways of getting the facts."

Harrington will miss Sunday's rematch between Toronto and Ottawa, in Toronto.

Twins, Orioles Ready for Series

Baltimore Orioles and Minne-sota Twins were given go-a-heads by baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn Thursday to begin taking orders for World Series tickets as they continued their countdown to American League division titles.

Meanwhile, Cleveland Indians and Washington Senators went at it again in a struggle strictly to stay out of last place in the East.

A spartan turnout of 2,746 in Cleveland's 76,997-seat-Munici-pal Stadium saw the Indians o u t s l u g Washington's Frank Howard, four home runs to two, on the way to a 13-4 victory that sent them one game up on the Senators, Washington had won 5-4 Wednesday night to create a virtual fifth-place deadlock.

The Orioles nicked the New York Yankees 2-1 behind Dave McNally, reducing their magic number to nine for clinching a second successive East Division crown, and the Twins swept a doubleheader from O a k l a n d Athletics 6-1 and 7-2 for a magic number of 12 to repeat as West Division champs.

Boston Red Sox trounced De-troit Tigers 14-0 and Kansas City swept a twin bill from Mil-waukee Brewers 2-0 and 10-2 in other AL action. The Chicago White Sox and California Angels were idle.

Howard slammed his 41st and 42nd homers for the Senators, but Ted Uhlaender, Roy Foster, Vada Pinson and John Lowen-stein all reached the seats for the homer-happy Indians, ena-bling rookie Steve Dunning to gain his fourth pitching victory in 13 decisions.

Uhlaender drove in four runs with his 10th homer and a bunt single; Duke Sims drilled a three-run double and Foster, Pinson and newcomer Lowen-stein hit homers No. 21, 20 and 1 respectively.

McNally flipped a six-hitter for his 22nd victory and Andy Etchebarren homered as the Orioles soared 11 games ahead of the second place Yanks in the East.

The Twins virtually buried Oakland's hopes by completing a three-game blitz of the sec-ond-place A's to move 8½ lengths ahead in the West.

Banks Leads Cubs To Win Over Expos

Ernie Banks, thwarted twice attempting to sacrifice bunt, swung away and crashed a three-run homer that snapped a 3-2 tie and sent the Chicago Cubs flying to a 9-3 triumph over Montreal Expos Wednes-day in National League baseball action.

Milt Pappas, acquired late in June from Atlanta Braves after failing to win consistently with them or the Cincinnati Reds be-fore that, hurled six innings as he won his 10th game as a Cub.

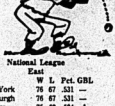
The victory kept Chicago just one game off the pace of the Pittsburgh Pirates and New York Mets, co-leaders in the torrid National League East battle.

The Pirates blanked St. Louis Cardinals 2-0 on Luke Walker's two-hitter while the Mets had to go 11 innings before subduing the stubborn Philadelphia Phil-lies 3-2 on Cleon Jones' run-scoring triple.

In other games, San Fran-cisco Giants trounced Houston Astros 11-3, Cincinnati batiered Los Angeles Dodgers 13-4 and San Diego Padres edged Atlanta 3-2.

The 39-year-old Banks also de-livered a run-scoring single in the seventh inning and received a standing ovation when he left for a pinch hitter.

It was Banks' 12th homer this season and No. 509 lifetime, placing the Chicago first base-man only two homers behind Mel Ott's 511 and the eighth spot on the all-time list.



Pappas yielded four hits and left for a pinch hitter with a 7-3 lead.

Walker, 12-6, struck out nine and only walked one as the left-hander helped stop the Pirates losing streak at three games. The only hit Walker gave up were singles by Dal Maxvill in the third inning and Jim Beau-champ in the fifth.

Willie Stargell supported the southpaw with a solo homer, his 28th, in the second off loser Nel-son Briles, 5-6. The Pirates added a run in the fourth on Bob Robertson's sacrifice fly.

Jones' one-out shot off the right-hander field wall, scored Tommie Agee who had walked, sending the sizzling Mets to their sixth triumph in seven games.

'Silver Tops' Take Tee For Trophy Battle

Belleville's greyheard golfers get a chance to strut their stuff this weekend in the fourth annual Silver Top Tournament at the Bay of Quinte Country Club.

The tournament, which gets under way Saturday, is open to golfers 50 years of age and over.

Ernie Sutton will be back to defend the Tube Trophy that he won in last year's event. Other previous winners were Steve Bowerman and Dewson Boyd.

Safety First

Wayne "Weiner" Brown prepares to beat out a bunt in Union Carbide's 5-1 win over the CN Turbos last night. The victory gave Carbide the Industrial League championship as they took the final round in five games.

Union Carbide Takes Title

Union Carbide left little doubt to their right to the Industrial League championship as they took a 9-1 decision from the CN Turbos last night to win the final series four games to one.

Carbide's one - man pitching staff, Ken Osborne came up with his fourth victory of the series, firing a five - hitter at the trainmen.

Osborne's teammates backed him with errorless ball in the field, in addition to mustering an eight - hit attack against loser Ron Conlon.

Les Smith collected the key hit of the ball game, chasing two runners home with a double to build a 4-1 lead and give Osborne a comfortable cushion. Sharp bunting and baserunning were also major factors in the Carbide win.

Garnet Bird and Jack Lucas led the batters with a pair of singles apiece, while Smirke and Bill Barberstock collected doubles. Wayne Brown and Ken Osborne accounted for the other safeties.

Gary Williams singled twice in a losing effort with the other hits going to Zane Hamilton, Bob McGregor and Brian Plumbe.

The new Industrial League champions disposed of the Firemen, Mead Johnson and the Turbos en route to the title.

Washington In Lions Lineup

VANCOUVER (CP) — Former Washington, the Canadian who says he does want to play in Canada's more, has been put into Br Columbia Lions' for Western Football Conferen game here Sunday.

Washington, twice all-Canadian with Ottawa Rough Riders before he left to try his luck in the United States, was suspended this season and was suspended by Lions took him from Ottawa and he is to see action against Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Washington told Lions coach Jackie Parker he didn't want to play in Canada. He wants to play with San Francisco 49ers of the National Football League, who own his U.S. playing rights.

Field Day Fun Family Feature

A full day of family entertainment can be enjoyed at this years Sportsmen's annual field day being held Sunday, Sept. 12 at the lower Trent Valley Fish and Game Farm in Frankford.

The all day event will begin at 9 a.m. with the program presenting a variety of competitive activities for all ages such as light and heavy rifle shooting, horseshoe pitching and games and races for the children to mention a few.

A display of Indian handicraft sports equipment will be on hand with the big attraction being the $75,000 assortment of hand carved ducks; all pond and river species true to size and color.

Beginning at 7:30 p.m a two hour Cross Country Jamboree will cap the day of and will include such well known recording stars as the Singing Post Family and Gord Grills and the Road Rangers.

For the complete day's entertainment a small adult fee of $1.25 will be charged and 50 cents for children between the ages of 14 and 18 not accompanied by an adult.

Rainy weather would make it nearly impossible for the program to commence, therefore the date would be set forward to Sunday, Sept. 20.

The Original Knight SOLUNAR TABLES When To Fish Or Hunt

The schedule of Solunar Periods, as printed below, has been taken from Mrs. Richard Alden Knight's Solunar Tables. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting in good cover during these times, if you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.

The Major Periods are shown in boldface type. These begin at the times shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours thereafter. The Minor Periods, shown in regular type, are of somewhat shorter duration.

Use Eastern Daylight Saving Time.

Ruel Will Run His Own Show

MONTREAL (CP) — Coach Claude Ruel has made it clear that the 1970 edition of Montreal Canadiens will be a product of his own.

The National Hockey League club opened its pre-season training camp Thursday and Ruel warned he won't sit still for another fifth-place finish by the Canadiens in the East Division for the next year.

"Now the time has come for me to pick my men," the stocky coach told reporters. He is covering his third season at the helm of the Montreal club.

"The first year I am with the team, I take over the championship—no change."

"We win, no changes . . . now this is different. We finish 4th, 5 and I pick my own men."

Ruel said he wants a first-place finish from his club. Second place would be acceptable only if the team is beaten out by the Stanley Cup champion Boston Bruins.

"A playoff position is not good enough with the players we have," he said. "But Boston is very good, very strong. That is the team we must beat."

Ruel said he was pleased with the condition of most of the 70 players who reported for medicals and equipment Thursday.

He promised "an interesting training camp."

Notably absent was 12-year veteran centre Ralph Backstrom, one of only two 1969 regulars not yet signed to a 1970 contract.

Hoewver, 33-year-old Backstrom met with general manager Sam Pollock later in the day and explained that he had been undecided about his career but after "talking with some of the guys," was ready to begin workouts.

Mickey Redmond, 22-year-old right winger who chalked up 27 goals and 27 assists last year, was rumored to be negotiating for an increase in salary.

Sport Briefs

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Left winger Johnny Bucyk is expected to be the only absentee when Boston Bruins report for their training camp medicals at 8 a.m. today. The Stanley Cup champions will hold a light skating drill at the Gardens starting at 1 p.m. under their new coach Tom Johnston. Workouts will continue on a twice-daily basis. Bucyk suffered a leg injury while boating on a lake near Creston, B.C., in mid August. Several stitches were required to close a severe cut to his knee. He is expected to join the Bruins next week. Centre Derek Sanderson was granted permission by general manager Milt Schmidt to miss Thursday's team meeting and report today as the result of a television commitment at Toronto. Thirty players including 18 holdovers from last year, have been assigned to the Bruin camp. Twenty-four others will work out with Oklahoma City Blazers, Boston's Central Hockey League affiliate.

SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — Sports car racing's championship series will end Oct. 25 with the L and M Grand Prix at the 2.3-mile Sebring course, officials of the Sports Car Club of America announced Thursday. A $25,000 purse has been posted for the final race in the continental championship series of the SCCA. Practice runs begin Oct. 24. The tobacco firm sponsoring the entire series will present $60,000 in awards for the 10 top drivers. Top stars include the current point leader, John Cannon of Montreal, in a McLaren Special.

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Rugby Football Union executive ruled Thursday that Ernie Turek will remain the property of St. Catharines Rams of the Senior ORFU for the 1970 season. In a statement released by Bill Thurgarian, league president, the executive based its decision on two ORFU bylaws: —A registered player may not transfer to another member club unless released by the previous club; —A member club shall not tamper with players registered by another member club. The league executive ruled that London Lords had negotiated for Turek's transfer with the player rather than through the St. Catharines football club. Turek, who starred with the Rams last year, has been working out with the Lords. He is expected to remain with London as a coach.

Canadians Prepares for Meet With Scandanavian Tracksters

WINNIPEG (CP) — More than 150 of the finest track and field athletes in Norway and Sweden will compete against Canadians in three meets during the next nine days.

This weekend in Winnipeg the Norwegians meet Canada's best, with a few Swedes participating in the pentathlon. Next week in Edmonton the Swedes have their turn and all three countries will compete in a wind-up meet in Victoria Aug. 29-30.

Alf Bjerke, Norwegian team manager, says the Canadians are much tougher than they were two years ago when they visited the Scandinavian countries for a series of meets.

The Norwegians narrowly beat the Canadian representatives two years ago, while the Swedes had less trouble with them.

The Norwegian men are given a slight edge over Canada on the strength of competitors such as Arne Kvalheim, Sig Engen and Harold Lorentzen.

But they'll have to beat the likes of Jerome Drayton and Dave Steen of Toronto, pole vaulter Bruce Simpson and sprinter Charles Frances, both of Scarborough, Ont.

The powerful women's team, led by high-jumper Debbie Brill of Hanwy, B.C., could upset the Norwegian girls by enough points to provide an over-all Canadian victory.

Miss Brill will get plenty of help from runners Yvonne Saunders of St. Lambert, Que., and Patti Loverock and Thelma Fynn, both of Vancouver.

The Norwegians have placed their major female hopes on world-class runner Grete Andersen and high-jumper Kari Karlsen.

With fractions of inches and seconds expected to be the difference between victory and defeat in the majority of events, the 5,000 metres and the shot put are shaping up as perhaps the best of the competition.

Drayton, who broke the world 10-mile record last weekend in Toronto, will meet his toughest competition in some time when he runs against Kvalheim in the 5,000 metres. The Norwegian ace has run the distance in 13:42.0, equal to Bob Finlay's Canadian mark.

That's over $8,000, said Thomson. "They tried to get us to pay half the court costs, but we wouldn't do it."

Thomson said the five were well treated in jail "but the food was terrible."

No Official Aid Given To 'Hockey Convicts'

TORONTO (CP) — Two of five Canadian hockey players jailed in Johannesburg recently for breaking their players' contracts said Thursday their plight was ignored by Canadian officials in South Africa.

Floyd Thomson of Capreol, Ont., near Sudbury, said the one thing that "disappointed me when we were in jail was that we got no help from any Canadian officials."

The five—Thomson, Jim Whitaker of Nobel, Ont., Doug Scott of Midland, Ont., Rene Labonte of Quebec City and Bill MacLeod of Leduc, Alta.—were arrested on a Friday night for breaking their contract with a Johannesburg team to play in Durban.

They were not released until the following Monday.

"It was only because our sponsor in Durban hired a lawyer for us that we were able to get out and eventually win the case," said Thomson who arrived back in Canada with Whitaker. MacLeod returned to his home via New York.

Both Scott and Labonte will leave South Africa Oct.8 to play in The Netherlands.

Thomson, 21, will be attending St. Louis Blues' National Hockey League camp in Ottawa next week while Whitaker will be taking in Baltimore Clippers' American League camp.

Thomson said the argument with the Johannesburg team stemmed "from team" officials not making good on promises given the players.

"They promised to pay our hotel rooms for a month and then find us jobs," said Thomson. "But they couldn't find us any decent jobs.

"When the hotel told us the bills weren't being paid and we had two days to get out, we decided to leave."

He said that the five had joined a Durban team and played only one game before their arrest.

The aftermath of their five-minute court appearance was that the complainant was billed R6,000 for their court appearance.

Walton Signs

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto centre Mike Walton, who earlier issued a play and pay or trade ultimatum to Toronto Maple Leafs, signed a contract Thursday with the National Hockey League club that could be worth $40,000.

Jim Gregory Leafs' general manager, refused to disclose any figures but said "Mike and I are both very happy."

The contract is believed to call for bonuses if Walton scores 20, 30 or 40 goals.

The young veteran had said publicly he was seeking a $50,000 contract. Leafs initial offer was $29,000, the same as Walton received last year.

Tennis Federation Declares War

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — The International Lawn Tennis Federation, with apparent declaration of war on promoter Jack Kramer, announced Thursday for a $1.5-million tennis circuit next year involving at least 30 tournaments in the United States and Europe.

Hunt, the Texas millionaire who backwards world champion-ship tennis, announced last week a program of 20 tournaments with $1 million in money. He controls most of the game's leading professionals, including Rod Laver, John Newcombe, Tony Roche, Pancho Gonzales, and Dennis Ralston.

Other players will fall into a registered player category and under the contract pros, are eligible for Davis Cup competition.

Derek Hardwicke of England and Robert Abdessolam of France called a news conference here to announce the program of big-money tournaments.

Hardwicke said in addition to the $1.5 million in tournament prizes there will be $200,000 to $300,000 in prize money for players based on their over-all performance in the circuit of tournaments to be called the Pepsi-ATP Grand Prix.

He added that the Grand Prix would include for the first time a series of women's tournaments with a bonus pool of $50,000 to $75,000. Women players have been objecting to the disparity of men's and women's purses.

The ILTF circuit will include both established fixtures as the Italian championships at Rome, with $40,000 in prize money; the $100,000 French championships; famed Wimbledon, with a prize list of $110,000, and the U.S. Open here with $100,000 in prize money.

More than a score of other tournaments were listed running from Feb. 28-Nov. 28, bringing certain conflict with the 20-tournament program previously announced by Hunt.

The action apparently is designed to polarize the two groups—the contract pros, owned by Hunt, and the so-called players, themselves professionals, whose allegiance is given to the various national associations.

Brother Act

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — When Gaylord and Jim Perry were starring on the same high school and semi-pro baseball teams in Wilmington, N.C., it mattered on them they would some day make baseball history.

But they did Thursday when Gaylord blanked Houston Astros on four hits in an 11-0 San Francisco Giants' National League romp.

The victory boosted Gaylord's record to 20-11 and, coupled with Jim's 23-11 mark with Minnesota Twins of the American League, gave them the distinction of being the only brother team in major league history to win 20 games the same season.

Reverse snobbery

In the past Brights fine Canadian wines had no snob appeal. The self-styled neighbourhood "wine expert" would gush over a wine with an imported label, automatically sneer at any wine with a Canadian label.
Lately an interesting new phenomenon has arisen: reverse snobbery. The same "wine expert" has suddenly discovered Brights fine Canadian wines! He will tell you now, readily, that "there is something to be said for them".
They may be "pretentious" but they're "very palatable".

Welcome to the Club!

A "cellar" with a newly-developed snob appeal:
President Champagne - Canada's prize Champagne
President Burgundy • A great dry red table wine
President Sauterne • A delicate light white wine
President Sherry • Ideal before lunch or dinner
President Extra Dry • A dry white wine of quality
President Port • A distinguished dessert wine.

For "people who have everything"? A gift of a President wine "cellar" will open their eyes to what they may have been missing.

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Bursitis Requires Prompt Treatment

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: For several months now my husband has been having trouble with his left shoulder and arm. His shoulder aches and he has limited use of it.

He cannot raise his arm to the side of his head or over it. He has difficulty also getting his billfold from his left hip pocket.

When he squeezes the sudden "jar" makes him wince with pain. If he suddenly forgets and moves his arm too far it almost makes him sick to the point of faintness.

He has had X-rays, but our doctor says they don't show anything wrong. He doesn't know what it is, and prescribes only aspirin. I am wondering if we shouldn't get another opinion, as my husband is getting worse day by day. — Mrs. ...

COMMENT: In these days, when so much has been written about bursitis, one hesitates to keep writing about it. Yet, as Mrs. W's letter indicates, there are still many people uninformed about its basic management.

First, in reply to your direct query, Mrs. W., I agree that a consultation is in order. I'm sure your doctor will be glad to get the opinion of an orthopedist.

The trick in treating bursitis (if that be the diagnosis) is to try heat and aspirin for no longer than a week or so. If there is no distinct improvement, then it is time to call the doctor for help.

Early management with cortisone, exercise (to prevent a frozen joint, such as your husband probably has, Mrs. W.), or any other methods of therapy which are indicated. In most patients, such early care prevents suffering and discomfort brought on by an "old" stubborn bursitis.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I am 37 and for over 13 years now my uterus has been enlarged by a fibroid growth. My doctor examines me twice a year but advises against having my uterus removed because the fibroid tumor hasn't been growing. What do you think? — Mrs. M., Los Angeles

COMMENT: Most conservative gynecologists believe in your doctor's method of management. They do not rush into surgery just because they find a fibroid tumor. As long as you have no symptoms and are being observed by your doctor, why not be thankful you do not have to undergo surgery?

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Is Parkinson's disease really a palsy? — Mrs. H.

COMMENT: If by palsy you mean a paralysis, the answer is no. Such symptoms as stiffness of the muscles, tremor, difficulty in walking, etc. are due to some involvement and degeneration in one of the large nuclei of the brain.

Parkinson's is a slow process, sometimes lasting for many years. There is no specific cure or prevention. A few years ago high hopes were held for a surgical procedure. It has not been universally successful.

A recent drug called L-Dopa is now being used experimentally. It has helped some patients. Investigators are still hard at work trying to discover something which will improve these unfortunate people.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I have a 35-year-old brother who finds it difficult to breathe because his nose gets stuffed, the more he sprays his nose the more nose drops he uses he gets. He will not see a doctor. — Mrs. R.

COMMENT: Probably he is getting what we call a "rebound reaction." Overtreated nasal membranes get more swollen. If he hopes to improve, he'd better see a nose specialist and an allergist.

Canada's Pavilion Is Tops at Expo

OSAKA (CP) — Canada has achieved its prime objective at Expo '70 by "distilling in the next generation of Japanese a regard and appreciation for Canada, its people and their Canadian," says Paddy Reid, commissioner-general of Canada's popular, prize-winning pavilion, in an assessment of Canada's role at the Orient's first world's fair.

Expo '70 closes Sunday with an assured record attendance of more than 63 million compared with 50.3 million at Montreal's Expo 67.

Canada will have topped all pavilions with more than 25 million visitors—well over Canada's entire population of 21.2 million by the latest Dominion Bureau of Statistics estimates.

"Japan really discovered Canada at our pavilion," said Reid.

"It was a great step forward, firm contact with the Japan of the future, a very valid part of their whole growth."

He said in an interview Canada's presence "confirmed internationally the sophisticated techniques of our economy, and that Expo 67 was no flash in the pan but a fair which established firm foundations for us to work on."

Reid said that "in terms of outlay and techniques it is fair to say we have had a successful presentation."

"Financially so, too—since we saved $750,000 on our $11.2 million budget."

All public opinion polls of Japanese and foreign visitors consistently named Canada, Russia and the United States as Expo's three most popular foreign pavilions.

Canada's pavilion captured the audience for which it was youth.

Magazine surveys confirmed that Japan's young people overwhelmingly chose Canada's pavilion as their favorite.

Nothing at Expo '70 was photographed more often as the Canadian pavilion of mirrors and its RCMP guards.

Sydney J. Harris Says

Law Enforcers Feared

(During his vacation, we reprinting selections from Mr. Harris' latest collection of columns in book form, Leaving the Surface.)

It is a historical fact that, throughout the history of the world, the liberties of people have much more often been threatened by the forces of "law and order" than by criminals. We easily forget this fact when we worry and complain about crime running rampant, and demand that more power be put into the hands of the various law enforcement agencies.

And it is richly ironic that the very same people who are concerned about the growing influence of government over individual lives are the ones who are clamoring most loudly for increased police powers against lawbreakers. Yet the quickest way to get a police state is to give the police all the power they ask for: it would be much more worried about a police force that had too much power than about a criminal element that was perhaps treated too gently by the courts.

Individual criminals can always be kept in relative control by a police force that is professionally trained, well paid, and free from corrupt political alliances. But a police force cannot be kept in control one its authority has been broadened to a dangerous degree.

And society has much less to fear from crime — organized or unorganized — than from a usurpation of power by its own law enforcement agencies. Protecting even the worst criminals from unfair treatment is a small price to pay for avoiding the greater danger of police transgressions against the civil liberties of all.

This whole question of "handcuffing" the police by high court rulings is a smoke-screen to hide the obvious fact that the police would much prefer to have no restraints on their power to badger, to harass, to intimidate, to wiretap, to wring confessions out of suspects without doing the hard work that good police investigation calls for.

The way to reduce crime substantially is not by giving the police more license, but by giving them more of everything else: more pay, more professional pride, more independence from political pressures, more status, and more serious technical training.

We cannot make criminals any better, if they want to be criminals. But we can make policemen much better, as they do in England and a few other sensible countries. Law enforcement on the U.S. urban level, is mostly a cheap racket today. When we are willing to pay enough to turn it into a respected occupation, then crime will no longer be so rampant — among the criminals, or among the police.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For September 12

Your birthday today: You are going to really stretch yourself to cope with the complex situations of the year ahead. There are so many things to attend to, so many adjustments, the year will be past before you realize it. Take on a self-improvement program that will have immediate application in your regular work, or add a profitable sideline. There will be deepening ties of affection. Today's natives are hard workers who use their talents well if there is anything to gain.

ARIES (March 21 — Apr. 19): Keep your close associates in mind as you pursue new opportunities. New people are generally helpful. Keep track of details, as there are no short cuts today.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Major changes are not indicated now. Fill in finer details, small improvements. It's a happy day of adjustment and cooperation of good fellowship.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Your curiosity should get an awake in the dawn — get busy and find out the answers you need. Creative enterprises thrive; serious study brips you personal gain.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Everything gets off to a good start and keeps going well. Attend the many little chores you have put off for the weekend, so you're free to enjoy the evening.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Make it a day of gentle experience. Find the subtle nuances of communication with people you care about. Take pleasure in doing neglected routines.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Your early feeling is that this is an unsettling day; but if you busy yourself with what has to be done, it all works out very nicely. Then you can make optimistic plans.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Attend your weekend chores, activities on behalf of children and family. Much is to be gained later by completing everything you can now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Put your original ideas into operation, making the changes, improve your property, get rid of useless possessions, so you can enjoy what you do want to keep.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Expand your horizons, seek new friends, new people. Using your mind turns out to be profitable. With your friends, be enthusiastic, excitement this evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Stay busy today with an overhaul campaign. Get all your projects settled so you are free for bigger schemes this coming week. Plan to improve your resources.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Everybody wants to be helpful and noticed. Be sociable as you clear away chores. New ideas in the midst of your efforts bring inspiration to get finished.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Begin early with a list of what is to be done, starting with the most important. Be selective, as this opportunity is not likely to return.

You're going to be a hairdresser...

Be a good one.

Great Lakes States and Provinces Ask International Action

TORONTO (CP) — Representatives of eight states and three provinces agreed Thursday to seek a stronger role for the International Joint Commission in attempts to solve the pollution crisis on the Great Lakes.

At the end of a two-day Great Lakes Environmental Conference they issued a statement recommending that the federal governments of Canada and the United States strengthen the commission with the participation of the provinces and states.

Until the commission assumes the role, an ad hoc committee will exchange information on environmental programs. It also will act as a forum to review and achieve uniformity of standards; promote uniform enforcement of standards; carry out surveillance and report on the effectiveness programs.

George Kerr, Ontario's minister of energy and resources management, had hoped to get agreement to set up a new agency power to enforce pollution standards.

After the conference he said: "I think I was a little constitutionally naive in that any government would agree to commit constitutional power to such an agency."

Michigan Governor William Milliken urged an immediate meeting between Prime Minister Trudeau and President Nixon.

He said the heads of state should provide more money for the completion and commit their governments to the immediate cleanup of lakes and rivers in the basin.

Ontario Premier John Robarts said he had business in Ottawa Monday and would meet with Mr. Trudeau to discuss the conference. He said he did not think it necessary to set up a treaty between the federal governments, states and provinces.

The delegates accepted an invitation from Governor Milliken to meet again six months from now to review progress. They will invite both Mr. Trudeau and Mr. Nixon.

The governors of New York, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin and Minnesota also attended the conference but were represented by senior civil servants. Governor Richard Ogilvie of Illinois and Governor James Rhodes of Ohio attended the Wednesday night dinner and Thursday morning breakfast but left afterward. They were also represented by civil servants.

Mr. Milliken left at noon Thursday and only the governor of Indiana remained to the end.

Also at the conference were observers from Manitoba and Quebec and from the Canadian and U.S. governments.

A. T. Davidson, assistant deputy minister of the federal department of energy, mines and resources, said the Canadian government has made its commitment to end transboundary pollution but the conference did not commit the U.S. to actions to end their pollution.

"It is not enough to say that we are one happy family and that we will start co-operating . . . the way to stop it is not platitudinous phrases but an agreement on water quality standards and surveillance," he said.

"It's time we did our part to clean up the environment. You can start with the garage."

Bourassa and Quebec Specialists in Medicare Deadlock

MONTREAL (CP) — Lines of battle hardened Thursday as the Quebec Federation of Medical Specialists said it will never sign the province's medical care insurance plan in its present form and Premier Robert Bourassa said he will not let his government be pushed around.

And while the deadlock continued, some specialists were reported leaving the province or planning to do so.

Dr. Raymond Robillard, president of the 4,600-member specialists' federation, told a service club that he will "never sign the agreement if certain conditions in it are not changed."

"It remains to be seen what the government will do," he said. "If it adopts a special law to force us to adhere to the program, we will be forced to resort to contestation which could take several forms and which could extend to closing offices of specialists for all but emergency services."

The federation is asking that the plan include an opting-out clause which would permit patients of specialists not included in the plan to be reimbursed by the government.

They are also opposed to any authority other than the Quebec College of Physicians and Surgeons having the last word on medical matters.

Premier Bourassa told a news conference in Quebec City that the Liberal government "cannot tolerate that the population be exposed to danger from certain forms of opposition to the plan."

He said the government will continue to negotiate with the specialists "within the context of the law," adding that clauses opposed by the specialists will not be changed.

He said he has a deadline for the implementation of the medical care insurance plan but refused to reveal the deadline because "it would not be in the interest of the negotiations."

Municipal 'Bill of Rights' Is Urged

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg presented its many faces to the joint parliamentary committee on the constitution Thursday night after committee chairman Mark MacGuigan dubbed the city the "microcosm of Canada."

Committee members heard local government representatives ask for a "bill of rights for municipalities" to be included in a new constitution.

They saw another image as ethnic groups called for greater recognition of minorities other than English and French in Canada.

The meeting attended by 60 people, launched an eight-day tour of Manitoba and the Yukon by the committee.

The parliamentary group is examining federal proposals on the constitution during the current constitutional review and is gathering opinions across Canada before reporting to parliament, probably by November, 1971.

The City of Winnipeg said in a brief that the new constitution should "reflect the importance of the role and function of the municipalities."

"This constitution should contain a bill of rights for municipalities. The constitution should spell out the jurisdictional responsibilities and financial resources available to the cities of Canada."

Language Rights Urged

WINNIPEG (CP) — Parliament should have the right to interfere directly in any province to implement French and English language rights, say the Junior Chamber of Commerce units in Metropolitan Winnipeg.

The Jaycees said Thursday parliament should have sole jurisdiction over language rights and this should be stated in the constitution.

No Pledge Is Made For Beach Appeal

TORONTO (CP) — A Niagara Peninsula delegation seeking an appeal against an Ontario Supreme Court decision affecting beach property on Lake Erie was "generally disappointed" at the reception it received from provincial cabinet ministers, a spokesman said Thursday.

Robert Wright, chairman of the group called Association for Preservation of the Erie Eastern Lakeshore—APEEL—said its members had failed to get the government's commitment to an appeal.

"I am not a lawyer," said the Welland United Church minister, "but it seems evident to me there are good grounds for an appeal. And if there isn't an appeal, we had hoped for a commitment to legislation to get the Erie beaches open to the public."

Pitman Asks Legislation

TORONTO (CP) — Walter Pitman, a candidate for leadership of the Ontario New Democratic party, advocated Thursday legislation to open large areas of private beaches to the public, and a provincial program of subsidized transportation to recreation areas for persons who cannot afford cars.

The Peterborough member of the legislature said recreation is "a system of social injustice" because its advantages are readily available only to the middle and upper income groups.

Planes Blown Up, Passengers Safe

All Captives Leave Airport

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A pall of smoke rose over the Jordan desert today and Arab guerrillas said they had blown up three hijacked planes after removing the passengers. They claimed this was only the first step of their warnings to Western governments to meet their demands.

They had said previously the planes would be destroyed with the passengers aboard unless Britain, Switzerland and West Germany released seven Arab commandos in their custody.

The three jetliners—A Trans World Airlines Boeing 707, a Swissair DC-8 and a British Overseas Airways Corp., VC-10 —were blown up at 3:15 p.m. Jordan time, a spokesman for the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine said. This was 9:15 a.m. EDT.

He added that it was "the first step of our warning following the delay of the three Western governments to concede to our terms."

The planes were worth a total of $25 million. Their destruction would raise to close to $50 million the aircraft losses since the Front began its air piracy activities last Sunday.

At that time, a Pan American World Airways 747, a jumbo jet worth $24 million, was blown up in Cairo after being hijacked there and its passengers released.

Witnesses reporting on the blast in Jordan said it was greeted by shouting and shots fired in the air by the guerrillas.

Smoke from the airstrip, heavy and black in the clear blue sky, was visible 20 miles away.

Jordanian troops had pulled back 15 miles from the airstrip, which was sealed off after removal of the last passengers.

Guerrilla sources stated categorically that there was no loss of life in the explosion. They said all Israeli men among the passengers had been removed to a "special hotel" outside Amman.

About 240 passengers were believed to have been aboard the three planes Friday night. Originally there had been 400 persons—passengers and crew. From time to time various parties were removed.

Since their arrival on the desert strip, the planes had been guarded constantly by heavily-armed Popular Front guerrillas, who dug an arc of foxholes around them.

Heavy machine-guns and bazookas were pointed at an outer

Six Airlines Stop Flights Into Beirut

BEIRUT (AP) — Six international airlines have suspended flights to and from Beirut because of the five hijackings this week, airport officials said today.

The six are Pan American World Airways, British Overseas Airways Corp., West Germany's Lufthansa, Swissair, British European Airways and Olympic Airways of Greece.

Two of the hijacked airliners, the Pan Am 747 jumbo jet and the BOAC VC-10 landed at Beirut, where Palestinian guerrillas demanded and received fuel to continue their flights.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Temperatures fell into the 40s at many locations last night and some low fog area may have had readings in the high 30s. In the south it will be mostly sunny today but a band of showers and thundershowers will cross the lower Lakes this afternoon and tonight. Cloudy and much cooler weather is expected throughout Ontario Sunday as winds become northwesterly.

Sixty Six Passengers Are Flown to Nicosia

NICOSIA, Cyprus (CP) — A Swissair Coronado jet left Nicosia for Zurich today with 66 passengers freed from two hijacked airliners in Jordan aboard, Swissair reported.

A total of 66 passengers from the Swissair DC—8 and the Trans World Airlines Boeing 707, mostly American women and children, were flown here Friday from Amman.

The passengers, 44 from the Swissair plane and 22 from the TWA plane, had been in an Amman hotel since Monday after being transferred from the aircraft which Palestinian guerrillas hijacked to a desert airstrip in Jordan last Sunday.

Two of those who arrived Friday did not take the Coronado flight to Zurich, apparently because they preferred to wait either for a flight to another destination, or for more passengers to be flown out from Amman, a Swissair spokesman said.

Hurricane Batters Mexico

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Winds mounted to more than 125 miles an hour as Hurricane Ella powered almost to the east coast of Mexico today.

Although the weather bureau said earlier that the storm's westward movement at less than 10 miles an hour made its course "very erratic," it reported early today that Ella still was pointed toward San Marina, Mexico, and continued to gain strength.

Tides up to eight feet and rains of 10 inches were expected as the hurricane battered across the Gulf of Mexico coastline about 135 miles south of Brownsville.

Rain already was falling in torrents and spreading inland over southern Texas and northeastern Mexico.

Sustained winds near the centre increased to 125 miles an hour with stronger gusts, the weather bureau said.

Quake Hits California

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A strong rolling earthquake lasting about 15 seconds shook Southern California at 7.31 a.m. today. The quake was felt from as far east Los Angeles to San Diego. It was not immediately known if there was any major damage.

Thirty Die in Whirlwind

VENICE (AP) — A short-lived whirlwind wrought destruction and death in the suburbs and on the lagoon of this historic Italian port city Friday night. It picked up a crowded passenger boat "like a toothpick," spun it in the air and plunged it back into the water, where it sank in 30 seconds.

Frogmen recovered 18 bodies, and 30 other persons were rescued. The remaining toll on land was 12 killed and about 200 injured, police said.

"I saw the whirlwind whisk by," a gondolier said. "It picked up the motorboat like a toothpick, held it in the air and then threw it back into the water like a cannonball.

"There wasn't a shout. Nobody had time to realize what was going on. I only heard the bang of the metal being twisted as if it were a feather."

The survivors, including Enzo Bullo, the pilot, fell from the craft while it was in the air, police said.

Guerrillas Demand New Jordan Deal

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Palestinian guerrillas warring on the one hand with Jordan and on the other with Israel say King Hussein of Jordan must yield his power to a "national authority" if a new ceasefire is to continue between the commandos and the Amman government.

The central committee of the Palestine Liberation Organization, which generally speaks for all 11 commando groups, said in a broadcast Friday the authority would "run the country and purge anti-guerrilla elements from the army, the state and police." It would represent "the forces of the people," said the broadcast from Baghdad, Iraq.

When it takes over, the broadcast continued, the ruling authority should pull Jordan's armed forces from Jordan's cities and redeploy them along the ceasefire line with Israel.

Jordan, Egypt and Israel agreed to a ceasefire Aug. 7, and the guerrillas charge that Hussein had brought most of the army from the front into Amman and other towns to defend against the guerrillas.

Hussein and the Palestinians agreed to their third truce in a week Thursday. But the Baghdad broadcast hinged continuation of the pact on Hussein's acceptance of the new ruling setup. However, the central committee stopped short of making an outright demand for a new government.

Guards Being Trained

Hundred U.S. Agents Take Cram Course at Kennedy Airport

NEW YORK (AP) — Two hours before President Nixon announced that anti-hijack guards would begin policing flights of United States commercial airlines today, more than 100 federal agents arrived at Kennedy International Airport to take a cram course on the subject.

Toting footlockers, suitcases and other gear, the first of the new guards arrived Friday at two crew-training centres run by Trans World Airlines and Pan American World Airways.

Most of them were in their 30s and 30s, hulky members of the Secret Service or other branches of the federal treasury department.

They formed lines outside medical offices, stripped to the waist, and went through immunization, passport processing and picture taking.

Next, the agents—who will wear civilian clothes and conceal pistols under their suit jackets—toured a Boeing 707 and Jumbo 747 and learned about daily airline routines, emergency evacuation procedures and the design of the two jet planes.

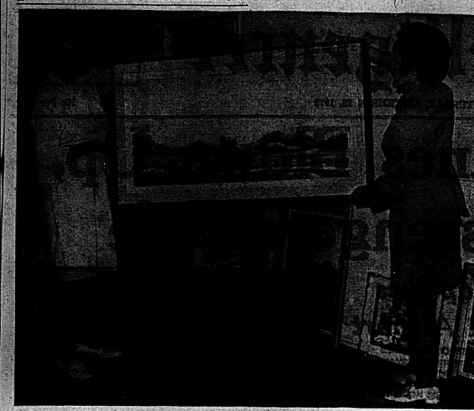
Later, "skymarshals" of the Federal Aviation Administration, who have been specially trained since 1961 in the use of firearms and judo, lectured them on hand-to-hand combat techniques in mockups of an airline cabin.

The White House said that for security reasons it would not divulge which flights would carry guards. None of those involved would talk about the training.

Nixon urged the world community to accept a treaty providing for punishment or extradition of hijackers, and "to take joint action to suspend airline services with those countries which refuse to punish or extradite hijackers involved in International blackmail."

He said: "Piracy is not a new challenge for the community of nations. Most countries, including the United States, found effective means of dealing with piracy on the high seas a century and a half ago. We can, and we will, deal effectively with piracy in the skies today."

The White House said the cost of the force of about 4,000 air guards would be met by small increases in the $3 head tax on passengers leaving the country and the eight-per-cent tax on domestic fares, and that it would request increases from Congress.



Canada Plans No Guards on Planes

OTTAWA (CP) — Transport Minister Don Jamieson Friday told a news conference that despite a recent wave of airplane hijackings Canada has no plans to place armed guards on Canadian aircraft, a system being followed in the U.S.

This would be a last resort. The government is considering the possibility of installing detection devices in airports to catch anyone carrying weapons or explosives.

But these devices can only be expected to detect dangerous materials about half the time.

"There must be a better way," Mr. Jamieson said.

'This Golden Land'

This original oil by Belleville artist Mrs. Edna Henderson is being mounted by Mrs. Henderson and Mrs. Evelyn Luttrell on the wall of the Belleville Public Library and Art Gallery. Mounting of the paintings is in preparation for the opening of the 1970-71 season for the picture rental service, holding its first showing between 1 and 8 p.m., Sept. 18. Original oils can be rented for fees ranging from $2 per month and up for up to three months.

Car Rolls, Driver Killed

A 53-year-old Belleville area father of two children died last night when his car rolled on Highway 2, one mile west of Shannonville.

George Arthur Easton, RR5 Belleville was found fatally injured near his overturned vehicle almost immediately after the mishap, by provincial police.

OPP Constables Rene Brownlee and William Ross were on highway patrol in the area when they spotted the damaged vehicle in the ditch about 11:15 p.m.

They found the vehicle empty then spotted Mr. Easton in the ditch about 16 feet from the car, and radioed for an ambulance from Belleville.

The mishap occurred on a slight curve, say police.

They said Mr. Easton is survived by his wife, Gayle, a son Timothy, 5, and daughter Sandra, 2.

Guild Production A Family Affair

The Belleville Theatre Guild's first production of its 1970-71 season, Thousand Clowns, is quickly becoming a family affair, as far as Mike Barrett and his children are concerned.

Rehearsals for the play, which opens at the end of the month are well-staffed by the Barrett family.

Mr. Barrett and his son, Nick, portray television writer Murray Burns and neighbor Nick.

Mike Jr. is also involved in Thousand Clowns, doing the sound for the production, and a daughter, Caroline is working on some tapes needed for the show.

The comedy, written by Herb Gardiner, is the story of a sometimes television writer named Murray Burns who has rejected the glamor world of television and lives a life as he accepted his rejected nephew, Nick.

Murray discovers he can create a happy life for himself, living on unemployment insurance, visiting the Statue of Liberty, and delving into the make-believe world of afternoon movies.

This idyllic existence is shattered however when the New York social work department which moves in to save the nephew from such an unorthodox upbringing.

Murray finds temporary respite in the charms of the social worker, Sandra, but too late discovers that she too becomes part of the plot to put a forces uncomfortable reality into his make-believe world.

Nick, 12, has acted only once before and that was in school. For his father, Mike, this is the first time he has acted in Canada, having experience in the Education Department's drama department in the Royal Navy in Britain where he directed, produced and acted.

Mr. Barrett became involved in this play through his son. He brought the boy down for an audition and ended up reading himself and getting a part.

"I offered my services as a gesture," he told The Intelligencer.

Mr. Barrett is working in the true spirit of community theatre based on the family unit, according to Lawrence A. Ewashen, the guild's new resident artistic director who is directing Thousand Clowns.

The play opens at the Pinnacle Playhouse Sept. 30, beginning a two - week run. Anton Lassin, now holding an exhibition of art and sculpture in Stratford, has designed the set for the Belleville production.

Search Suspended

TRENTON (Staff) — Search for a missing aircraft was suspended last night by the Air Search and Rescue base here.

Capt. Terry Small, a Search and Rescue spokesman, said that the Canadian part of probe had covered a broad swath of southwestern Ontario.

Six planes, four Otters from CFB Downsview and a Dakota and Cessna from CFB Trenton, were involved.

Aboard the missing Piper Commanchee are Kyle Mallleck and Harold Martin both of Point Claire, Mich.

The pair left Port Huron, Mich. for Wilkes - Barre, Pa. on Tuesday but have not been heard from since.

12 Countries Represented At Albert

Twelve countries are represented in the 135-student enrolment at Albert College this year.

Registration at the school was completed Wednesday and classes began Thursday.

The island of Bermuda has the largest representation among non-Canadian students with 14.

Six students come from Hong Kong and two from Malaysia. Other countries represented are Cameroon, Costa Rica, Mexico, Trinidad, Bahamas, England, Barbados and the United States.

Day students from Belleville and Trenton number 22. The majority of residential students are from Ontario and Quebec.

Sign Hung Before OK

PICTON (Staff) — A realtor's request to erect an illuminated sign above his office prompted discussion among town councillors this week when it was discovered the sign already had been hung.

Councillor James Bird led the attack on what he observed "seemed like a deliberate flouting of routine." He felt it would be "a travesty" to ask the realtor to remove the sign until he obtained permission to replace it. Bird insisted that he could not vote in favor of erecting the sign. "I'll have to vote against this motion, it just isn't right."

Mr. Bird added that he objected to citizens who take matters into their own hands, act without council and then "get away with it." "Why do the taxpayers do this? Do they want council to look after things for them or not?" he asked.

Fellow councillors generally agreed with Mr. Bird that signs too often are erected before formal consent is given by council. To avoid the establishment of a new council passed a motion requiring the chief of police to stop installation of signs not yet approved by town council.

It was decided that the offending sign would be approved and allowed to hang on Main Street.

Theatre Guild Has Open House

Belleville's citizenry had an opportunity to see the inner workings of theatre last night as the Belleville Theatre Guild opened its doors to visitors during an open house.

A decorated and newly-renovated Pinnacle Playhouse greeted the visitors as they learned some of the intricacies of theatre and were exposed to the tradition and the accomplishments of the Belleville Theatre Guild.

On hand to meet the public were Lawrence A. Ewashen, new resident artistic director for the guild, and members of the Theatre Guild executive.

Last night's open house was the first of two planned this month. The guild will also open its doors Friday, Sept. 18 for the second time.

circle of Jordanian army tanks and armored vehicles, about two miles away.

Evidently the guerrillas loaded the planes with boxes of explosives while the passengers still were aboard.

There was apprehension in Amman over the fate of the men hostages still in the hands of the guerrillas.

A short time before the Front announcement more than 100 women and children arrived in Amman from the desert airstrip 45 miles to the north. There was no indication where the men were taken.

The 100 women and children were still not free to leave since the guerrillas held their passports. Some commandos said the passports would be returned, but there was no official assurance.

Some women, including American Jews and Israelis, said they were "desperately worried and concerned" for their husbands, who they said had been taken to an undisclosed place Friday.

Guerrilla sources had said earlier that all American Jewish men would be brought to the capital with the women and children, but leaders of military age would be kept in a separate "special hotel."

In Nicosia, Cyprus, the first group of 66 hostages freed by the guerrillas left aboard a chartered Swissair jet for Zurich after spending their first night of freedom in Nicosia hotels.

In Rome, the Vatican announced that Pope Paul had taken a personal hand in negotiations for the release of the hostages and had dispatched personal emissary, Msgr. Jean Rhodain, to Amman.

The central committee of the Palestinian Liberation Organization—nominally in control of all guerrilla groups—announced Friday that all the hijack victims still aboard the planes would be brought immediately to Amman. But the splinter Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, which hijacked the planes, did not go along with the decision and the hostages spent the night cooped up in their aircraft.

Two of the planes, a Swissair DC-8 and a Trans World Airlines Boeing 707, were hijacked to the airstrip Sunday as they were leaving from European points for New York. A British Overseas Airways Corp. VC-10 was hijacked over the Persian Gulf Wednesday on a flight to London from Bombay.

Who Will Pay? Fishermen Ask

Announcement of government loans to commercial fishermen whose operations are affected by mercury pollution bans, today was viewed with initial reservation by a Quinte - area spokesman for the industry.

W. S. Rankin, Prince Edward County fisherman and president of the Eastern Lake Ontario Fishermen's Association, queried the repayment process tied to the scheme.

Cost of the loans program, announced yesterday by the lands and forests department is shared by provincial and federal governments. The loans are to be repaid when the fishermen obtain compensation from companies responsible for the mercury pollution.

(A mercury pollution ban now is in force in Lake Ontario east from Amherst Island — a zone whose commercial fishermen are represented by the ELOFA)

But the source of pollution would have to be proved before fishermen could claim compensation, Mr. Rankin pointed out, and more information was needed on this point.

"How are you supposed to get it (compensation) back, if you don't know where it (mercury) is coming from?"

An industry on the U.S. side of the lake was first linked to reports of mercury contamination at the eastern tip of Lake Ontario.

"We'd have a free chance of getting money from them," said Mr. Rankin.

He said much more information was needed from government before the overall problem could be defined.

"The reports on mercury are so conflicting I don't think they really know what they're doing." Mr. Rankin said.

The loan program, providing fishermen with loans equal to about 70 per cent of the worth of their 1969 catch, was established last spring for about 40 commercial fishermen in the Lake St. Claire - Detroit River area.

More than 200 additional commercial fishermen now are to be involved — including those on the English and Winnipeg River systems in northwestern Ontario; on parts of lakes Huron, Erie, Ontario and the St. Lawrence and Ottawa rivers.

Lands and forests spokesman in Toronto said yesterday federal and provincial governments have loaned $300,000 so far. There was no estimate of the cost of possible loans to fishermen in the newly-included areas.

The spokesman said application forms for loans are being mailed to the fishermen who could begin receiving money within two weeks.

Tourist Visits Set A Record

The Tweed Tourist Information Booth, in North America's Smallest Jailhouse ended its most successful season on Saturday, September 4 with the registers containing 88 pages of visitor names as compared with 84 page in last year's register, and 78 pages in 1967.

The information booth is operated by the Tweed Chamber of Commerce, with assistance from the Lake of the Lakes and Highlands of Hastings Tourist organizations. The register indicates that about 75 per cent of the visitors at the information booth were from the province of Ontario, Ohio and New York states led in the number of visitors from the U.S.A. followed by Pennsylvania and Michigan. A limited number of persons registered from England, Holland, Scotland, Burma, Northern Ireland and Greece.

Hostesses were Dianne Gunning, Brenda Jones and Sheeran Rush. Miss Gunningham worked for three seasons at the booth. Miss Jones for two seasons, and Miss Rush for one season. Reports to the Chamber of Commerce indicate that visitors were pleased with the help and directions they received at the booth.

It has been a busy season for Tweed, with the majority of the merchants reporting business to be as good as in 1970, while some district merchants say they have had a considerable increase during July and August over the same months a year ago.

The closing of the tourist information booth does not mean that the tourist season has ended. Several area tourist lodge operators report better than average booking continuing on past the deer hunting season.

The advent of the snowmobile has changed the tourist industry, making it possible for cottage owners to use their property for the entire season, while lodge owners are able to extend the season by offering ice fishing, and the use of snowmobile tails.

Already, inquiries are being received by the Tweed Chamber - of Commerce regarding information concerning snowmobile trails and accommodations available in this area. The dates for this area's Winter Carnival have been set for February 13th, and 14th, 1971.

Homing Car Returns

TRENTON (Staff) — Brighton OPP have one man in custody this morning and are searching for another today following a car theft at RR3, Trenton last night.

The car, owned by John Armstrong, Colborne, was stolen from the parking lot of the Cave Lounge and Steak House at about 1 a.m.

Recovery of the late-model automobile was made later in the morning at the Hilltop, Motel just west of here on Highway 2.

Mr. Armstrong, who was at the Hilltop at that time, spotted his car being driven onto the parking lot by the culprits.

Name of the man being held and the individual being sought are not available.

Children's Art Stamp Feature

Canadian children from every province have designed Canada's Christmas 1970 postage stamps to be issued Oct. 7.

In 1966 Canada released a 2 - cent Christmas world map commemorative. It was not until 1964 that special stamps were issued to fulfill the needs of the heavy yuletide mail.

Two-Car Crash Injures Two

Two Carrying Place girls were admitted to Belleville following a two-car accident on the Redcreville Road west of Redcreville.

In hospital is Marilyn Campey, 17, who is reported in serious condition suffering from multiple fractures of both feet and a fractured pelvis.

Also in hospital is Judith Manes, 18, who was described in hospital officials as in fair condition suffering from head injuries.

According to Picton OPP, the accident occurred at 18 p.m. when a car driven by Miss Campey went into collision with a car driven by Lee Douglas Beckstead, 21, of 15 Earl Street, Belleville, who was not injured.

Firemen were called in by OPP to assist in freeing the Campey girl from the car in which she was trapped for more than an hour and a half.

Damage to the two cars was extensive.

Since then, it has been the practice to release two stamps, for unsealed and sealed envelopes. However, this precedent has been broken by the post office's release of a total of 12 special stamps.

Printed by the Canadian Bank Note Company Ltd. in four - color lithography in red, blue, yellow and black, five designs will be alternated over each sheet of stamps on both the 5-cent and 8-cent values.

For the first time, two stamps intended for Christmas parcels will be released. Reproduced here is the 12 - cent stamp featuring a snowmobile scene by 10-year-old Trish Hughes of Flin Flon, Man. Also, there is a 10 - cent value reproducing a drawing of a mariger nativity by studded sky by 10-year old Corinne Fortier of St. Leo, Man. Printed on a larger, 40 by 24 mm. horizontal format, 27 million of the 10 - cent and 22 million of the 15 - cent will be released.

Philatelists have been viewing the past events and management of using children's designs with some apprehension for the poor response the the 1966 British issues received. Since 1966, the post office has released a variety of Christmas issues including some full - color reproductions of renaissance artists' native paintings.

Where these stamps were considered the finest and since then has been pleased with the world over by releasing special commemoratives featuring full color pix.

In case collectors didn't receive their 1964 3-cent and 5-cent Christmas stamps you're traying a family before a sunset, the post office still has 2 million in stock.

Postmaster General Eric Kierans recently announced post office plans for 1971 commemorative releases. These include the 50th anniversary of the discovery of insulin; the centennial of British Columbia's entry into confederation 200th anniversary of one of Samuel Hearne's overland journey; Emily Carr, painter and writer; Paul Kane, painter; Louis Joseph Papineau, supporter of reform; Sir Ernest Rtherford, 100th anniversary of his birth; Centennial of judicial census taking; opening of new transmitter facilities by the International service of the CBC; special set of, stamps entitled "Maple in Four Seasons"; and the special Christmas issue.

On the coin scene: the Royal Canadian Mint recently released figures for total mintage up to July 31. While 1970 coinage is not unplentiful in large urban centers, the 25 - cent, 10 - cent, and 5 - cent coins have rarely appeared in change in the Belleville area.

An explanation for this can be seen from the released figures. By July of 1969 a total almost 16 million coins had been minted while less than 193 million have been struck in the same period, 1970.

Notably down in production are 5, 10 and 25-cent denominations. Speculators have been hoarding these coins in quantity with the trends indicating scarcity.

Potter Pleased

Employment Scheme Devised

Quinte riding MPP Richard T. Potter today expressed enthusiasm over the announcement this week that a federal - provincial agreement was to be signed which could greatly benefit unemployed young people who may never have held a paying job.

Under terms of the agreement, the federal and provincial governments will work with municipalities on a three-way cost sharing basis with municipalities and industries being encouraged to set up work projects.

Unemployed men would work in the projects and at the same time attend classes to learn work disciplines.

The scheme would allow men to remain on welfare and would also provide "incentive" payments as they learn and work.

Dr. Potter's interest in the scheme is that for the past 18 months he has been urging the Ontario government to set up such a program.

"It would help people who have never held a job and have little chance of getting a job obtaining," said Mr. Potter. "It would provide guidance and counselling."

The Quinte riding member's proposal also suggested that such men be provided with apprenticeship type jobs with industry. While they were learning they would receive wages paid by the government.

In this week's announcement Ontario Social Services Minister John Yaremko said the agreement to be signed could encourage the hard core unemployed back to work, could help unemployed workers who are not being retrained in existing industry and people who either won't or can't work.

The plan is also aimed at unemployed workers who have lost their jobs through deflationary measures and plant shutdowns.

Dr. Potter said that now the scheme was being adopted by the senior governments he was interested in getting the program started in the Quinte area.

However, local manpower officials Friday had still not been notified that the agreement would be signed.

Manpower office manager H. B. Karn said that normally there would be no notification to his office until the agreement was actually signed.

But he said he was going to Toronto and would inquire about the program while speaking with department officials.

Manager Moves

CAMPBELLFORD (Special) —Arnold Dresman, manager of Odessa's only bank for four years, has been promoted to manager of the Campbellford branch of the Bank.

A civic minded worker, Mr. Dresman and his wife Jane will be replaced in Odessa later this month.

Conservation Body To Monitor Water

Commencing this month the Mississippi Valley Conservation Authority will establish a water quality monitoring program in an effort to crack down on pollution sources in the Mississippi region, it was announced at the authority meeting in late August.

Water samples will be taken at 14 different locations throughout the watershed. These locations include, Carp, Almonte, Carleton Place, Lanark, Fitzroy Harbor and Galetta.

Regular water sampling at these points will aid in determining if the municipalities named in the conservation report by the Ontario Department of Energy and Resources Management are improving their water quality.

Individual pollution sources were also cited. Authority were told by George Findlay, authority chairman, that suspected pollution sources should be reported to the authority for action. "We hope," said Mr. Findlay, "the authority will become the central agency to notify either the local health units or the Ontario Water Resources Commission of these pollution sources.

"If we are to succeed, we must know about pollution sources so appropriate action can be taken."

Approval was given to go ahead with flood plain mapping of the Carp River above Carp and at Almonte and Carleton Place on the Mississippi River. This mapping will provide municipalities with the teeth to prevent construction on land that naturally belongs in the river and is a start to mapping the shorelands of the 1,718 square mile watershed.

Also approved was the establishment of two special advisory boards.

The Environmental Management Advisory Board will be made up of top provincial and district planning and resources personnel whose function will be to co - ordinate resource activities in the Mississippi area. The Water Management Co - ordinating Committee is made of personnel from the lands and forests department, Ontario Hydro and the authority, and will function to co-ordinate water management in the Authority area.

Pollution Problems Not New

Finally they are getting around to doing something about it, but people were talking of air pollution as much as 50 years ago.

Roy Stollker, who recently purchased a home in West Belleville, reports that a pile of old newspapers were found in the house, some of them dating back to 1920.

Appearing in one of the early editions of The Intelligencer was a story on air pollution.

An Open Letter to Belleville and District Families from Mr. David B. Thompson – The Thompson Chapel

In recent months there have been rumours to the effect that the Thompson Funeral Chapel was soon to be taken over by American interest. This is not so.

The Thompson family have served the people of Belleville and district for three generations. (87 years). We intend to continue that service as Canadians as long as we are privileged to enjoy the confidence of so many people in this community.

We believe the needs of the families of Belleville and district can be best served by those whose interests lie in the future of this country and this fine city.

To that we have dedicated ourselves.

Stranger Than Fiction

Any minority group is grist for Communist exploitation. This we may conclude from a stranger-than-fiction story from Australia. Barry McKenzie, an eight-year-old part-aborigine passed through Melbourne recently en route home to Perth.

Six years ago the youngster was at a pre-school centre in Perth. The woman who managed the centre, Rene Heisler, decided the boy would make the perfect revolutionary leader for Australia's aborigine minority and took him first to Genoa, Italy, then to Karl Marx Stadt, East Germany, near the Czechoslovak border.

Recently undercover agents in West Berlin indicated Mrs. Heisler would cross into the West from East Germany with Barry on August 28, to make arrangements for another member of her family to fly to Australia.

Details of what happened then have not been disclosed but evidently the youngster was taken from the woman's custody and told he would be reunited with his mother, Kathy Trimmer in Perth. Mrs. Trimmer, who is estranged from her husband, has two other sons, but only one Ivan, 6, lives with her. At Melbourne Barry had had more than 30 hours flying time; however, when taking the plane for Perth he said: "I was too excited (to sleep). I want to meet my two little brothers."

And that is how a part-aborigine, chosen to be future leader of the Australian native minority in a future revolution, was restored to his native heath. Some questions remain unanswered: How for example after six years did he even remember his origins, or know the place of his birth? And the fact his mother lived in a faraway continent and that he had two brothers? Perhaps Mrs. Heisler had kept in touch; maybe the child had been even taken away with his mother's approval. And what happened to Mrs. Heisler? The report did not say.

It is all a reminder that Australia, like Canada has its share of Communist intrigue. There was the Petrov affair some years ago when a Soviet diplomat of that name defected. As we recall, his wife was being flown home when Australian police boarded the plane at Darwin, enabling her to obtain asylum also.

Fall Session Will Be Crucial

Should Robert Stanfield Change His Advisers?

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — There is simply no point in the so-called "Official" Conservative party circles decrying dissatisfaction with Robert Stanfield's leadership.

The record of the last two painful party years has been all too easy to read from trouble-some week to difficult month.

Too many of the Conservative Members of Parliament — the party's front-line troops — have been openly questioning if not critical of Mr. Stanfield's "reasonable" approach to the role of the Opposition.

He has demonstrated beyond any reasonable doubt in his conviction that in scrutinizing, doubt-second-guessing the Government, any "responsible" Opposition must be "constructive."

The majority of the 69 Conservative Members of the Commons beside and behind him in House lamented privately when the going first began, but more and more publicly as time wore that, in his' dedication to the "constructive," Robert Stanfield forgot — or worse, perhaps never knew — that an Opposition to be effective and credible must have a potential for destruction.

For if an Opposition is not capable at a critical point of political time of activating its instant destruct mechanism under the Government, it is not going to blow it up and out of office.

And its supporters in Parliament can die of old age waiting for Opposition to get lucky once every four or five years at re-ularly scheduled elections.

There was such a point in time two and a half years ago, the night the Liberal Government of former Prime Minister Pearson was beaten on a budget vote and Mr. Stanfield granted the administration a reprieve.

He did it, he has explained, because under the circumstances in the pinch of a speculative raid on the then dicey Canadian dollar — it was the only "responsible" thing he could do.

But "reasonable" or not, a majority of his followers in the Commons are going to be a long time forgiving him.

It is not to much Robert Stanfield himself — a lean, honorable, likeable and diligent man — when the rub of Conservative parliamentary cast comes.

It is his advisers.

They are mostly, if not all of them, academics.

They are not - politicans. And if they ever were, or even c re tested, an election, it must have been as campus class president in their student years.

A few of them, in fact, are students. Of "political science."

But this is not the kind of politics out of which winning election campaigns are made and governments built.

Worse than Robert Stanfield's "-driver" is the fact that he listens to them.

And to watch the way things have been going for the Conservatives — lower and lower in the opinion polls — they have a ring dishing out disastrous advice.

There was the way Biafra monopolized his interest and attention — and who, now, worries about it?

There is Biafra!" asked Prime Minister Trudeau when Robert Stanfield was heading for the Biafrans. It turns out that Trudeau's was a good question.

There was the "constitutional action." There was support for the Liberal Government's proposed Constitutional Act. There were any number of such ordinarily un-Conservative concerns.

More recently there was the ludicrous caper at Toronto when Robert Stanfield frolicked on stage with the cast of "Hair," and presented his bald spot for a kiss.

How many small 'c' Conservatives this might have offended, Robert Stanfield's kooky advisers will never know. Even non-doctrinaire Conservatives must have wondered at the wisdom of their kind of man competing so uncomfortably with Trudeau in the high-flying league of the Beautiful People.

And then just the other day, "Quiet" Robert Stanfield, sounding like American rabble-rousing lawyer William Kunstler, defender of the Chicago Seven, inflammatory Jerry Rubin, or just about any campus radical, solemnly warned of peril of rioting in the streets unless there is a large-scale program undertaken of middle-income and low-cost housing.

The sane and sober Robert Stanfield making an electioneering activist as he does a sowing.

"What does he think Canadians are," groaned a Stanfield stalwart, a Conservative MP, at a matter of fact, one of his most devoted loyalists, "American Maoists?"

This new fall session will make or break Robert Stanfield in Parliament, and inevitably in the Conservative party.

There is nothing wrong with Robert Stanfield as a national political leader that a change of advisers could not quickly cure.

Doing His Thing

"Lawman," a seven-year-old horse, is helping the blood transfusion service of Auckland public hospital in the development of an antilymphocytic serum to fight transplant rejection. Specially processed human spleen is injected into the horse and later blood is taken from him and used to produce the serum. Careful watch is kept over Lawman's health. The serum has been administered to kidney transplant patients, but the results will not be known for some time. It was also used in Australia's first but unsuccessful heart transplant. Here Lawman is given sugar cubes while his blood flow is checked.

Convent Girls from India

Montreal Gazette

The tragedy of the run-run-ning scandal in Europe is that there is no adequate method of getting at the truth through a completely disinterested public inquiry. It will be a source of mischievous and malicious talk for a long time to come.

The Vatican has not helped matters by its refusal to submit to public criticism of the system of bringing Roman Catholic girls from India to European convents. Through the Vatican Radio and the unofficial newspaper Osservatore Romano, critics have been discredited and their criticisms have been given a blanket denial.

This is certainly no way to protect the reputation of the church administration or the dignity of religious vocations. Nor will it help when a cloud of suspicion that hover over blameless people connected with the system.

After all, there is nothing wrong with the basic idea of bringing devout girls from an impoverished Indian state to understanding European convents as long as they want to be nuns and are willing to go to Europe and as long as nobody turns it into a business. It is a fact, however, that church officials themselves came to suspect exploitation and began investigating the whole system some years ago.

It has been disclosed that the West German hierarchy grew suspicious of profit - taking and sent a confidential warning to Rome in 1966 under the signature of Julius Cardinal Doepfner of Munich. Apparently the German bishops did not have full facts but they had "grave doubts."

There the accusations of exploitation finally got into the secular press last year, with interviews, from a number of Indian girls who had been moved by Catholic missionaries, the Vatica press office replied with a campaign of denial. Now still it appears that there has been trouble in some cases, the whole matter is largely dismissed as exaggeration.

Surely it would be wiser to make a clean breast of the situation and to publicize the efforts of church authorities to tighten recruiting practices and eliminate the possibility of material gain from the system.

Act of Insanity

The hideous killings out in British Columbia are a reminder of a similar act of terror which claimed the lives of all but one member of a Saskatchewan farm family a few years ago.

A young neighbor of the family was arrested in the Saskatchewan affair and subsequently found guilty but insane. There have been similar incidents in the United States in recent years and they are symptomatic of what can happen when an individual loses control of the dark spectres that lurk in the subconscious mind. It is the mind, not evil syndromes of the heaven and hell of the soul in Omar Khayyam. A man of 31 has been arrested in the B.C. affair.

In a contemporary song British pop singer Cliff Richard puts it in lay terms; the lyrics tell of the quiet man who suddenly takes to beating his wife, and there is the big strong man who breaks down when his puppy dog dies.

Columnist Sydney Harris has looked at the problem and observed: "Acts of what we call "senseless violence" are increasing enormously in our day. But though such acts may seem senseless to us, they make a kind of insane sense to the persons who perpetrate them; and if we obtained a better grasp of their convoluted mental processes, it might help us prevent incidents of this tragic kind — just as improved knowledge of symptoms enables us to prevent physical illness from worsening to the incurable stage."

Harris goes on to deplore the fact that so little is done after a court trial to "probe the psychic cancers of such men."

Many factors are involved: environment, upbringing and social conditions as well as the dark recesses of the subconscious. The problem is, how to detect psychopathic tendencies before they emerge in a tragedy of such proportions.

Quebec Scene

Montreal Le Devoir suggests editorially that the investment situation in Quebec "remains alarming." On the other hand a Montreal businessman to whom we talked recently said business was picking up, that a recent slump had ended as of about two months ago and that new industries were coming in at the rate of about two a week. This was the picture in Montreal at least, and in the Pointe Claire area especially. Certainly, the new plants flanking the main auto routes into the city are evidence of a basically healthy economy.

Women's Lib Movement Lacks Unanimity

Quebec Le Soleil: The women's "liberation" movement which arose in the United States some time ago has not had the impact its guiding light (author Betty Friedan) would have wished, it seems. The affair seems to have been met with more smiles than understanding.

So there was no women's general strike in the United States, there were no giant demonstrations, no really significant protests on the 50th anniversary of the suffragettes being celebrated produced less precise proposals than that of women's suffrage, which will eventually be achieved in many countries, gradually and seriously, but which certain countries still refuse to grant to those who have the right to it.

Moreover, this movement has not lacked ambiguity. Many women interviewed on Canadian streets showed that they are in agreement with the American movement, but many others said they felt as free in the job they had equality wherever they wanted it, and they did not see the need to stir things up to "liberate" women. In addition, it seems that the liberation defined by the feminist movement is restricted to a certain discrimination in the choice of jobs. This movement does not speak of manual labor, and does not bring up the work of women in the U.S.S.R. or in Communist China, for in those countries, it can be asked whether equality has not subjected women to a new form of slavery. . . .

The cowl does not make the monk The length of a person's hair does not change his nature. Equality is surely a goal to aim for, but there are risks that there might be some who would be more equal than others. It is not that clear-cut a matter, either in politics, economics or social affairs. . . .

Who knows but that Balzac will have the last word on all these demonstrations: "When women live us, they forgive us everything, even our crimes. When they do not love us, they forgive us nothing, not even our virtues. A man, no matter how malicious he may be, will never speak as well or as badly of women as they will think themselves."

PM's Vacations Combine Work

Trois-Rivieres Le Nouvelliste: The repeated vacations of Prime Minister Trudeau seem to aggravate to the utmost certain influential members of the opposition parties. . . .

It is true that Mr. Trudeau travels and enjoys himself a lot. Nevertheless, his critics should recognize that the present prime minister combines relaxation with continued work. Accordingly, he is accompanied by aides during his travels and continues to work. . . .

History has made us used to practically disembodied prime ministers. Pierre Elliott Trudeau remains a man in the real sense of the word, which obviously pleases Canadians enormously. This explains the fascinations which he continues to exert. Troublemakers is more alive than ever.

It is curious to note that, halfway to the next federal election, the Opposition is still waging its major struggle in the single area of Mr. Trudeau's personality. They are not being very serious.

Cruel Death for Animals

Leg Hold Traps Under Fire

Editor,

Every day many animals in Canada are caught in leg hold traps. They may die of starvation, exhaustion, cold or attacks by predators. Some of the animals escape by ripping or chewing off their paw or paws. That is they escape to a probable death from infection. But until death comes, the animals caught in leg hold traps are in indescribable and unnecessary pain.

The Canadian Association for Humane Trapping, Box 834, Station F., Toronto 5, Ontario, advocates the use of instant killing traps. They are also financing research at McMaster University to find other alternatives to the leg hold trap.

I would urge all concerned readers to write to CAHT and find out more about this association and how it can be remedied. Only an aroused, informed public can motivate the needed government legislative action of outlawing the use of the leg hold trap.

Changes Lie Ahead of Church Say Four Protestant Leaders

OTTAWA (CP) — There are 16 persons in the living room, talking about Christ.

The minister is absent. He is a medical doctor and has been called to the hospital.

It is the Christian church in the year 2000.

Small groups no longer meeting in large church buildings and depending on a weekly participation may well be the church of the future.

This is largely the vision shared by four Protestant evangelical leaders from different walks of life who attended the recent Canadian Congress on Evangelism here.

They are Robert Thompson, 58 Conservative MP for Red Deer and one-time missionary; Rev. Robert Rumburgh, 32, a Calgary Baptist minister; Dr. Frank Peters, 53, president of Waterloo Lutheran University and a Mennonite minister; and Rev. Leslie Dart, a professor at Central Baptist Seminary in Toronto.

The four men share the belief that the church will lose its remaining nominal support and that members will be more committed.

"In recent times the world has found it popular to lend passing support to Christianity, and every politician had to invoke God's name," said Mr. Tarr. "In an emerging time of more honesty they won't feel obligated to do that."

Christians will have power beyond their numbers as they will be more outward-looking than they are today, said Dr. Peters.

They will be concerned about the suffering and pain that they see around them They will offer help and a healing faith to those that are beaten down by "depersonalizing forces."

Mr. Rumburgh said Christians will be more involved in the community, prompting people to ask what makes them whole in a "broken world."

This will be partly because they are no longer bound to church buildings and organizations.

Dr. Peters said property will come to mean less in the future.

Some groups will not worship in regular church buildings at all.

And many clergymen will be unsalaried, as they will have other jobs.

This is true already of Dr. Peters, who shares with three other clergymen the ministry of a Mennonite church in Peterborough, Ont. All four have other jobs and are not paid for their work in the church.

But Dr. Peters said his congregation still has a church building.

Ministers themselves are not likely to have the same role as today.

Mr. Rumburgh sees the clergyman becoming a "minister-coach" — someone who trains other Christians to do many of the things done now by ministers.

Churches will no longer be run by one man, but people with different abilities will do different church tasks.

Mr. Thompson, who served as a teacher-missionary after years as deputy minister of education in Ethiopia, said the old concept of the missionary is rapidly disappearing.

The new missionary will have an ordinary job. He will spread his faith as he works to help people in emerging nations.

Speaking of the established church as it is today, Mr. Thompson said:

"I have no thought of speaking against it. Let it die by itself."

Maltese Catholics Mellow in Decade

VALLETTA, Malta (AP) — Old men in crumpled white suits sit in the sun at the entrance of the Cafe Premier, spilling their bitter coffee with a fruit paste called pastizzi. They talk sometimes about the Roman Catholic Church and its influence in Malta.

They will tell you about the time a village priest was persistently voted for the Labor party. He put a big crucifix across the path to the polling place for the 1921 election.

"If you want to vote," he told each newcomer, "you'll have to step across the body of Christ." Some did; most more didn't. Archbishop Michael Gonzi had declared it a mortal sin to vote Labor.

Since then the archbishop has mellowed. Now 85 years old, he has made his peace with the Malta Labor party, in a treaty signed last year with Vatican for the yen equivalent of $3.7B. encouragement.

The party has been let out of the political ghetto. The fact that it took the church to do it says something about it as the single most important influence on the islands, much as the Knights of St. John were when they settled here 440 years ago to defend Christianity against the infidel.

On the outer walls of the houses are icons, on street corners statues of the Virgin. Almost every bus driver has at least one mass card posted.

The largest building in most towns is the church, big, sturdy and baroque. One town has one cathedral and two other churches for the 985 souls who live there

As the island's official church, the Roman Catholic Church acts as Malta's moral guide, mixing stern puritanical standards with allowances for human failing.

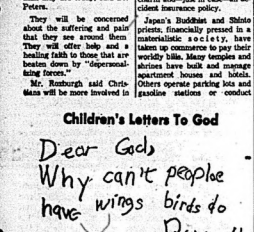
The clergy recently pushed through a bill against indecency — women cannot enter churches in short-sleeved dresses.

Divorce is forbidden, yet a man can get a legal separation and take up residence with another woman. Sale of pills for contraception is unlawful, but a woman can get a prescription if she says she needs the pill to regulate periods of fertility.

Like the transutane, the wind that blows out of the north, change is coming from Europe. Rev. Gordon Hyslop, canon of St. Paul's Anglican Cathedral, says:

"For years we were never accepted as Christian ministers by the priests here. Only 20 years ago my predecessor was lured across the street in a cassock. Within hours Archbishop Gonzi was on the governor-general's doorstep to complain. We were not allowed to wear clerical dress outside the cathedral.

"All this has been completely changed. We're on the friendliest terms with the priests and the archbishop. Gonzi has even attended worship services in St. Paul's.



"By the way, the old boy's not as bad as he's made out to be."

Japanese Sell Prayers

TOKYO (AP) — For $2.78, a Japanese motorist visiting a temple can buy a prayer against the road's perils, a charm and—just in case—an accident insurance policy.

Japan's Buddhist and Shinto priests, financially pressed in a materialistic society, have taken up commerce to pay their worldly bills. Many temples and shrines have bulk and manage apartment houses and hotels. Others operate parking lots and gasoline stations or conduct

MR. AND MRS. PATRICK WHEELER

Wheeler – Storms

Christine Mary Storms, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Storms of Belleville was married to Patrick Raymond Wheeler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Wheeler at a double ring ceremony held on Aug. 29 at St. Michael's Church, Belleville. Rev. Father James McGillivray officiated and Dorothy Grant at the organ and Bob Burke, soloist, provided music for the occasion.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a full length gown of silk peau de soie trimmed at the neckline, cuffs and empire waistline with satin and motherof pearl trim. Her detachable chapel train fell from the waist while her elbow length two-tiered veil was trimmed with chantilly lace. The headpiece of three large roses was encrusted with seed pearls. Her bouquet consisted of yellow sweetheart roses.

Miss Lynne Anne Muldoon who was the maid of honor wore a mini green floor length dress of polyester chiffon with a venise lace bodice and long full sleeves with tight cuffs. It had cotton trim-down the front, and the bodice and waistline were accented with scallops. She wore a self-bow headdress with matching silk illusion veiling, and carried a bouquet of green - tinted mums.

Bridesmaid Faith Wheeler, the bridegroom's sister, wore a buttercup gown identical to that of the maid of honor. She carried a bouquet of yellow tinted mums. Junior bridesmaid Sandra Storms, sister of the bride, was also dressed identically to maid of honor but in lilac. Her bouquet was composed of white mums with a yellow rose in the centre.

The best man was Wayne Storms, brother of the bride, while Lawrence Deruiha, an uncle of the bride and Gary McGhee, a cousin of the bridegroom were the ushers.

For the reception held at the Royal Canadian Legion the bride's mother wore a candy pink brocade sheath dress with a jewelled collar and front trim. A matching coat, while accessories and a corsage of white carnations with silver ribbon completed her ensemble.

The bridegroom's mother chose a long-sleeved turquoise dress of rayon knit with a lace overlay and tight cuffs. She wore a matching turquoise jacket, while accessories and a corsage of white carnations with gold ribbon.

The newlyweds left for their wedding trip to the U.S., the bride in a dress and coat of yellow brocade with white accessories and a corsage of white and lilac carnations. Upon their return they will reside at 295 William St., Belleville.

Roslin Couple Wed 40 Years

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bates of Roslin was the scene of a happy and memorable event recently when over 200 friends and relatives visited them to extend congratulations on the occasion of their 40th wedding anniversary.

The honored guests were married on Aug. 27, 1930, in St. John's Anglican Church, Monsymore, Ont., by Rev. F. A. Smith and were attended by Mrs. Harry Mcouk of Peterboro, and William Bates of Roslin both of whom were present for the celebration. The couple have four children: Mrs. Douglas Harris (Isabelle) of Vancouver, BC. Donald of Burlington, Mrs. John Mowat (Mary) of Ottawa and Mrs. Douglas Reid (Norma) of Belleville. There are 11 grandchildren.

The house was attractively decorated with red roses and other floral arrangements, the gifts of relatives and friends. The tea table was centred with an attractive blue and white chrysanthemums arrangement, flanked by blue and white tapers. Presiding over the tea table during the afternoon and evening were Mrs. B. Seale, Mrs. M. Farger Mrs. H. Chisholm, Mrs. H. Sills, Mrs. W. Gillespie, Mrs. V. Earle, Mrs. F. Gray, Mrs. W. Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. Bates were the recipients of an attractive French Provincial chair and crystal from the community, and numerous other gifts from their relatives and family.

On the evening prior to the 'Open House,' the family entertained their parents and attendants at a dinner at Maple Inn in Bloomfield.

Out-of-town guests attending were from Toronto, Calgary, Kingston and Detroit.

Bride Honored Before Marriage

Before her wedding Mrs. Mrs. Patrick Wheeler nee Christine Storms) was honored at a miscellaneous shower held at Tops Motor Hotel by Mrs. Carl Marsh, Mrs. Bernard Doran and Lynne Anne Muldoon. A delightful shower was given by the girls of the sewing department of Bell Shirt Co. The bride-to-be was presented with an electric percolator by the guild of the Bell Shirt Co.

MR. AND MRS. ARTHUR PORT

Fort – Parsonson

Susan Helen Parsonson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Parsonson was united in marriage to Arthur Charles Port, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Fort of Belleville at a double ring ceremony held on Aug. 29 at St. John's Anglican Church.

Against a background of white gladioli Rev. Michael Caswell conducted the ceremony. Timothy Ford, brother of Fort bridegroom was the soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length empire style dress of peau de soie. Swirled guipure lace set off the bodice and trimmed the U neckline and stylette sleeves. The crescent style skirt with a cutaway over-skirt fell at the back in a train. The edging of lace down the front of the cutaway skirt and around the bottom of the train matched that of the bodice. The three-tiered nylon veil had a cluster of hand-made taffeta flower flowers and simulated seed pearls. She carried a cascade of yellow roses.

Mrs. Edward Bedore of Sudbury sister of the bride was the matron of honor. Linda Strumpf of Kitchener was the bridesmaid and Kimberly Parsonson, the bride's sister was the flower girl. Their dresses of yellow bonded crepe featured high round necklines and gathered skirts falling from waistlines accented with white lace. Yellow roses in their hair completed their costumes.

John Fort of Oshawa and Richard Fort of Belleville, brothers of the bridegroom were best man and usher respectively.

For the party held after the ceremony at Legion Hall, the bride's mother appeared in a blue crepe dress and coat ensemble with a black and white feathered pill box hat and a corsage of white 'mums.

The bridegroom's mother had on a beige crepe dress, bone colored accessories, a lemon and yellow feathered pill box hat and a corsage of orchids.

For the wedding trip to New York State, the bride left in a grey skirt and vest outfit with a pink blouse, black accessories and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses. Upon return they will reside at 22 Nelson St., Apt. 5, Kingston.

A MATTER OF DESIGN AND COLOR

". . . an outcropping from a gathering of Toronto artists . . ." — David Lidman.

We are discussing with some friends places each has known and lived in.

One visitor, speaking of Montreal, is saying:

"One of my chief delights, while we lived there, was attending the "august and venerable" Montreal Museum of Fine Arts, (which incidentally, is 110 years old this year.)

"Anyhow, I became a member of its association, enabling me to attend lectures, exhibition openings and so on. I often slipped into the excellent library, noted for its rare volumes, unobtainable elsewhere, to read for an hour or so, in deep comfortable armchairs.

"The Art Director was a white-haired, Englishman. He was born in Sheffield, England. Upon coming to Toronto in 1911 he opened a studio, and it is reported French Impressionists influenced his early work. Later, however, his northern Lake Superior country paintings reveal an emphasis on design.

"I remember once attending a lecture of his, on art criticism. He deplored, 'set positions' he said. 'Take a bowl of flowers, don't paint it as though placed on a grave. Rather draw it from all kinds of unusual angles: from above, from below — but not just at eye-level. Vary this!'

"As you will have guessed, his name was Arthur Lismer; a most unassuming gentleman, who, even then, was something of a celebrity, as a member of The Group of Seven."

Another member of our party interrupted, saying, "The 50th anniversary of which, I hear, is this year. It is being honored, by Canada with a six - cent stamp issue, this coming week, on September 18, if I'm not mistaken. But who comprised the group and why?"

"Oh, well, others were Lawren Harris, Alexander Young Jackson, F. H. Varley, Franklin Carmichael, Franz Johnson and J. E. H. MacDonald. It seems they were (as I've read), an outcropping from a gathering of Toronto artists, known as the Algonquin School.' This is because much of their work was painted in a wooded tract in Ontario, here, known as Algonquin Park."

"The commemoration stamp, I understand," continued the second visitor, "will be about an inch and a quarter by one inch and a half. By five-color lithography, reproducing in miniature, Arthur Lismer's 'Isles of Spruce' will come from a new printer, Ashton-Potter Ltd., Toronto. This is a departure, I'm told, since most Canadian stamps are reproduced by the British American Bank Note Company or the Canadian Bank Note Company, both of Ottawa."

When asked one time what was the "shared characteristics" of the Group of Seven, Mr. Lismer is reported as saying, "It has to do with design. We bring out everything in the landscape as a matter of design and also, of course, of color. We have got away from French impressionism."

North American Porcelain First Produced in 1826

The manufacture of porcelain was raised to an art in Europe in the early 18th century and developed a style completely apart from that in Chinese ware it set out to imitate.

In North America porcelain was not produced until more than a century after its European discovery. In 1826, William Ellis Tucker began manufacturing porcelain in Philadelphia. If not the first porcelain manufacturer on this side of the Atlantic, he is certainly the best known and earliest major one.

Porcelain was not manufactured in Canada until many years later, although pieces sold and advertised here through the 19th century, no one attempted to manufacture it in the same way that earthenware and stoneware was made in this country.

Porcelain was and is expensive, Tucker pieces are spectacularly so. Tucker won a prize for his porcelain in 1827. In 1828 he took a partner, Thomas Hulme and some of these pieces are marked Tucker and Hulme. Another partner, Alexander Hemphill, joined the firm in 1831.

Tucker ware is handsome, mainly a simple classical design, beautifully hand decorated. Tucker produced dinnerware, tea sets, pitchers, vases and elegant night light and teapot combinations.

Single cups and saucers were bringing $35 apiece 10 years ago in the United States and are now worth $50. An early pitcher, marked Tucker and Hulme was listed as $1,-400 in 1960 and would be a good investment at any price today. The cheapest pieces 10 years ago were plates decorated in blue at $22.50. They are now offered at $35.

Tucker ware looks like Sevres and much of it is in imitation of the French. The vases illustrated have ormolu mounts, as have many Sevres pieces. The mounts are American cast in Philadelphia by Cornelius and Sons, famous for their chandeliers.

These particular vases are 22" high and are representative of a whole series of vases and urns, some decorated in scenes, some in flowers and birds. These last recorded price for smaller urns less than half this size and without ormolu was $45.

Tucker ware is much more sought after in the United States than in Canada and Europe and consequently turns up occasionally by collectors and dealers on the lookout for Sevres or English porcelain.

The only other factory that originated in Philadelphia and Baltimore in the 1830's may still be found in Canada. It is somewhat unable to assume that much Tucker china found its way to Canada presently owners of a tidy windfall when the piece is recognized by an American dealer.

Church Groups

ST. ANDREW'S WMS

The first meeting of the fall and winter season of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Women's Missionary Society was held in Sunday school auditorium. The president, Miss L. Burnside welcomed the members and conducted business period when annual reports were presented. In the absence of the treasurer, Mrs. R. White, the treasurer's report was read by Mrs. M. Barlow. Several items of business were discussed and future activities planned.

The devotional period was led by Mrs. Barlow assisted by Mrs. N. McConnell, Mrs. E. Pigden and Miss Freda Mathews who was the speaker for the afternoon.

Miss Mathews who has recently returned from Oberammagau spoke on the Passion Play. In her opening remarks she explained the origin of the play and gave some facts pertaining to the present day performance. Miss Matthews also gave a detailed description of the play which she illustrated with slides.

On behalf of all present Miss Burnside expressed appreciation to the speaker for her interesting talk.

Ann Landers

Mother Expects Special Treatment

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read with much interest the letter from the mother who sat by the phone wondering why her son didn't call. Her self-pitying tone, "After all the sacrifices I made for him . . ." was the tipoff.

That sounds like my mother-in-law and I have an answer for your reader.

Dear Ma: Your son might call you more often if you didn't start every conversation with, "Well, it's about time you picked up the phone. I was beginning to think maybe you moved out of the country. But, of course, I am only your mother. Who am I to expect special treatment from you?"

Next is a load of cumulants: "I haven't slept for two weeks. My rheumatism is killing me. My feet hurt something terrible. The doctor said maybe I should take the bunions off. The neighbors' kids make so much noise I've had a headache for three days. My grocery bill was $31 last week and I didn't buy anything."

Then there are the "small requests": Could you drop by the drugstore and bring me a bottle of rubbing alcohol, some Geritol and a tube of zinc ointment? And stop by the shoemaker and pick up my shoes. Call the newspaper and tell them the paper boy throws the paper under the porch at least three times a week. And can you go by Aunt Lena's and get my noodle ring pan. She's had it for two months."

On and on it goes. He never gets off the phone in less than 20 minutes and all she has done is coddle him, complain and ask for things.

I'll bet if you print this at least 5 million women will say — "I hope my mother-in-law reads Ann Landers' column today. Maybe she'll learn something." — ONE OF THE FIVE MILLION."

DEAR ONE: Here it is . . . and I hope your mother-in-law reads it. Mine doesn't need to.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I want to marry a man who has been twice divorced. His daughter is 18. Betty is from his first marriage. (He was custody.) She succeeded in breaking up his second.

I am very fond of Betty and the feeling is mutual. She has been rejected by two women and I want to give her a happy home. Here's the trouble. In a moment of closeness Betty confessed she is on special. Also, she had a second key made to her father's car and while he is the office she rides around town. He, of course, doesn't know about this.

I have three teen-agers who have always been truthful and well behaved. They are leaders in school and do not smoke or drink. I was horrified when Betty told me what she was up to. She asked me not to tell her father, so of course I won't.

Am I being foolish to believe that when Betty moves in with us she will be a loving daughter? Is there a chance that she will be a bad influence on my children? Should I postpone marriage until the children are older? Please advise. — NEXT TIME FOR KEEPS.

DEAR KEEPS: If you love the man, marry him. If your children have had solid upbringing (and it sounds as if they have), Betty will not lead them astray.

The manner in which you glossed over the girl's confession was a shocker. The kid is on speed and driving her father's car behind his back and you mention it casually and go on to another subject! Wake up, friend! This girl needs counseling, and you must see that she gets it at once.

Used Stamps Do Fine Job of Missionary Work

By DORIS CLARK

Pounds — yes, even tons, of stamps — used stamps — are doing a tremendous job of missionary work. In the years 1967, the Canadian Missionary Mission reported:

One of the most exciting projects has been the saving of used stamps from friends of the Mission from coast to coast. Boxes, small boxes, big boxes, cartons and plastic bags have literally flowed into the office — all 7,134 pounds of them (over 3½ tons). Thousands of stamps were sold to our buyer for $4,160.20. Keep up the good work. Help us stamp out leprosy with stamps!"

Eight years ago the Canadian Council of the Blind suggested that member clubs collect used postage stamps for the Leprosy Mission. The response was gratifying. The CCB London Club, alone, reported collection and processing of 161 pounds of stamps over one 12 - month period. And added:

"The CCB London Club is happy to number among its stamp savers, to mention a few only, The Canada Trust, Parkwood Hospital (where a collection box is located on every floor and the project is considered to be good therapy), General Motors, Maclean - Hunter TV Cable, Van Rosalie of Canada, hospitals and individuals.

CCB Outlook

Operation Used Stamps can be very rewarding. Write me for details.

Dear Doris: I am a woman of 57, and now separated from my second husband. I was a widow before. Sad to say we were totally unhappy, and to add to my difficulties I am asthmatic, about which my husband did not have too much understanding.

Meanwhile I have met a man of 58 who is also asthmatic; we seem to be blessed with another. He wishes to marry me and I am quite willing, but husband will consent to a divorce.

I feel rather embarrassed over a third marriage, but I do feel in my present predicament, without any future or very little income, that I have nothing to lose. Would you venture to advise me what might be best? — Still Hoping.

Forget the embarrassment and try once again. It does happen that a widow or widower whose first marriage was perfect tends to trust the second one to turn out well without enough care in choosing a mate.

Asthma needs understanding, and you do seem to have found that — maybe the hard way! If you find your friend congenial in other ways, go ahead, you can help each other.

Man was not meant to live alone; it's more natural. Let your husband's position in the community, divorced seeking respect, confidence and never discuss the affairs of clients outside the agency.

Lunchbox Sandwich Ideas

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: Some time ago — maybe two or three years — at the beginning of the school year you gave us a column on how to pack lunchbox sandwiches that would freshen and that would supply lunches for the people for about five days. I'm ashamed to admit I have lost that clipping. — Kathryn Y.

Kathryn. Plenty of our lunch-Kathryn. Plenty of our lunch-packing readers will appreciate this repeat.

LUNCHBOX SANDWICH IDEAS — Make enough for five days. (Nearly enough for 1 week)

HARD-COOKED EGG SANDWICHES

Cover 4 eggs with cold water, cover and bring to boil and turn off heat. Let stand for 20 min. to hard-cook. Chill in cold water. Peel off shells and chop or grind hard-cooked eggs. Add ½ cup genuine mayonnaise, ½ tsp. salt, 2 tbsps. mustard relish or green hot dog relish, 1 tsp. chopped green onion. NOTES: If you do not have the relish on hand use 1 tbsp. French mustard instead. 2) Chopped salad olives are a good addition too. Mix all of whatever you choose well. This amount will fill six 2-slice sandwiches. Spread 6 slices of bread with butter. Spread remaining six slices with egg filling. Put pairs together. Cut each in half for quarters) and wrap each in wax paper or Saran. Using two plastic bags of same size, slip one inside the other to make a double - strength bag. Slip wrapped sandwiches inside. Add a note telling what the bag contains. Label top of bag with four times, clip the fold together and freeze. The mayonnaise in these sandwiches freezes satisfactorily.

VARIATIONS:

HAM: you can use the same proportions of additions for ground ham sandwiches. If you have a ham for Sunday dinner cut off enough from the shank end to make 2 cups, lightly packed, when ground. Use it instead of the four hard-cooked eggs in above recipe. Make up in white, rye or whole wheat bread, slice and wrap and label and freeze as above. BEEF: Substitute 2 cups lightly packed ground roast beef from Sunday dinner for the eggs in above recipe but add 1 tsp. horseradish. Make up, wrap and label as above. Substitute 2 cups lightly packed ground boiled or roast chicken for the eggs in above recipe but omit mustard pickle or mustard and add finely chopped celery instead. Make up, wrap, label and freeze as above.

MARYSVILLE CWL

The September meeting of the Marysville CWL was held in the Holy Name of Mary School on September 8 with a good attendance.

The president, Mrs. Don McLaren announced the plans for the coming season.

The next meeting will be held on October 13, the speaker for this meeting will be announced later. The members were asked to bring their donations toward "Peace and Development" of underprivileged countries to Mrs. Gerald Fortestell at this time.

The dates for dances during the fall and winter h v been decided on. The first of these is to be held Sept. 26 with the music provided by the Land o' Lakes Cruisers.

The quilt ticket stubs are to be handed in to Mrs. Jack Murphy and pay as you quilt to the women who will be at the back of the church before and after Masses September 19.

Plans for the bazaar which will be held from 2-5 p.m. on September 19 were discussed and every member encouraged to take part and make it the most successful.

Points for Parents

Mother: "It's terrible we had to move in the middle of the school term. Timmy will be so lonely starting to a new school."

Father: "I wish there was some way to help him get acquainted with other children."

A child will feel at home in a new school if he has one friend there. An outgoing parent often can help a child find that friend in a strange neighborhood.

Mother: "I'm your new neighbor. We just moved into the house across the street. Won't you and your little boy come over for lunch tomorrow? I think Timmy will be starting to the same school as your child next week."

Auto Workers Union President Rejects New Proposal by GM

DETROIT (AP) — Vowing to get a better offer, President Leonard Woodcock of the United Auto Workers returns to the bargaining table today after rejecting a new contract proposal from General Motors Corp.

The company said its offer would raise the annual wage of its average factory worker to more than $12,000 within three years.

Woodcock said it did not contain enough either in wages or fringe benefits.

The UAW chief said he viewed the chances of avoiding a strike at General Motors or Chrysler, or both, at midnight Monday night as very, very dim at the moment."

Apparently in anticipation of a possible strike at GM next week, about 600 workers at GM's truck plant in Oshawa, Ont., walked off their jobs Friday night to protest lack of progress in the negotiations.

They were joined by some workers at an adjoining stamping plant and GM officials closed both plants.

Earl R. Bramblett, GM personnel vice-president and the firm's chief negotiator, said: "In the face of this proposal, the calling of a crippling strike by the union at this time would be a tragedy of our times."

Woodcock planned to go first to Chrysler today, then to General Motors.

Ford Motor Co., affected by a strike for seven weeks in 1967, has been given strike immunity this year.

Woodcock said he anticipated a decision would be made late Monday on whether either or both GM and Chrysler will be affected by a strike. The union's 25-member international executive board has been called to meet here Sunday, and Woodcock said it would remain until the strike deadline.

GM said its new position gave a first-year wage increase averaging 5.8 per cent, compared with its original offer of 7.5 per cent. The average hourly wage in the auto industry currently is $4.62, and the companies estimate fringe benefits cost them another $1.75 hourly.

The automaker offered wage increases of three per cent a year for the second and third years, in addition to cost-of-living allowances.

Ky to Go to Paris

SAIGON (AP) — Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky of South Vietnam said today he plans to return to the Paris peace talks after an absence of nearly 1½ years. Ky offered no reason for his return or a departure date in a brief exchange with a reporter.

A spokesman for President Nguyen Van Thieu indicated Ky would carry no new proposals to the talks.

Ky is supervisor and co-ordinator of the South Vietnamese delegation in Paris, but he has not attended the talks since April, 1969. He will join United States Ambassador David K. E. Bruce; Ambassador Pham Dang Lam, permanent head of the Saigon delegation, and Xuan Thuy, the leader of the North Vietnamese delegation.

Bruce took over the American delegation last month.

Xuan Thuy returned to the peace talks last month, ending a boycott of 36 weekly meetings.

CLOSURE OF QUINTE MILK PRODUCTS LIMITED

The Plant Supply Quota Policy of The Ontario Milk Marketing Board has been blamed as a reason for the closure of the Quinte Milk Products Limited plant, The Board's policy with respect to supplying milk to Quinte Milk Products Limited has been exactly the same for any other similar milk processor since the plant supply quota came into effect 5 months ago.

The prices paid by the company for raw milk supplies are exactly the same as those paid by any other similar processor, and represent those prices agreed to by processor representatives acting on behalf of the industry.

The plant has informed the Board that it wishes a temporary transfer of it's plant supply quota to Pet Milk Company (Canada) Limited, effective October 1st, 1970. This request to transfer the quota will be presented to the Board for approval prior to that date.

The Milk Producers who are supplying the Quinte Milk Products Limited plant will continue to have their milk marketed by the Board on the same milk transports. The transporters concerned will deliver the milk to Pet Milk (Canada) Limited when the Quinte Plant closes. This change will have no effect on the returns to the Milk Producers concerned.

Lakeshore Leaf's Disappointed by Weak Minto Cup Opposition

PORT CREDIT, Ont. (CP) — Lakeshore Maple Leafs won the national Junior A lacrosse championship Friday night but the club's general manager said he is a bit disappointed.

"Taking the championship and the Minto Cup was top priority," Boyd Darragar said, because the rival Burnaby, B.C., club was no match for his playmates.

"Victory means more to you after a tough series," he said following Lakeshore's four-games sweep of a best-of-seven series. "We would rather play seven games against a tougher team."

The Leafs took title to the coveted silver cup with a 17-8 victory over their younger western rivals Friday. They won the Sunday opener 22-6 and followed with 25-13 and 14-8 wins Monday and Wednesday.

"The B.C. team was too slow," Darragar said, "and you can't bet up with a slow team."

Joe Thompson was high scorer of the Leafs' Friday with four goals.

Brian McCutcheon, Charlie Henderson and Paul Scggala tallied two each and Gary Mober, Bill Coghill, Wayne Grainger, Eric McNeigation, Bill Fosia, Bobbie Pallen and Milton MacNeil shared the others.

Thompson, who scored 12 goals and 13 assists in the four games, was named most valuable player of the series.

With fast breaks and passes, the Leafs charged into an 8-1 lead in the first period Friday, increasing their margin to 15-4 in the second. But they had trouble holding their own in the final 20 minutes.

Ted Atchison scored three times for the western team and Dick Ormsby, Ron Palmer also went to Dave Dearin, Steve Mathieson, Bill Cosgrove, Brian Bergum and Doug Hayes.

Clark Pulford, Leaf coach, said:

"The B.C. team would never have finished in the top five of our league. We have much stiffer competition."

Pulford said he will lose half of his players next year, among them McCutcheon, Thmpson and Coghill.

Burnaby coach Ron Delmonico said he doesn't feel disappointed about the loss.

"We would have liked to take the cup with us because the teams have had it only seven times since 1937 and Ontario teams 28 times.

"Lakeshore is the finest team I have seen. They don't even need a good goalie. When they are not running or passing they give him all the protection he needs.

"This team (Lakeshore) could probably provide very good competition for our senior league."

Delmonico said he feels the score in the last game would have been closer had his goaltender, Dave Evans, played the entire game.

Evans was struck on the chest by the ball early in the first period and was taken to hospital for examination. Ted Bermay, backup goalie, filled in until Evans returned in the third period.

Delmonico will lose only two of his players and "with the others, I will be back again next year and you bet we take the Minto then."

Oshawa Dist., Green Gaels held the cup continuously for seven years before losing in Ontario playoffs this year.

'Cy Young' Duel to Gibson After 5-2 Win Over Seaver

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Bob Gibson-Tom Seaver duel was billed as a matchup between Cy Young Award winners but St. Louis Cardinals ace Gibson wasn't interested. His only concern was beating the New York Mets and he did so convincingly.

The hard-throwing right-hander stifled the Mets on five hits as the Cardinals whipped Seaver and his mates 5-2 Friday night, dropping the New Yorker's one-half game behind the East Division leading Pittsburgh Pirates, who were idle.

The Chicago Cubs, another half-length back, also did not play.

Gibson rolled to his 21st victory of the season, striking out seven Mets. He has lost 11. His lifetime mark over New York now stands at 24-7.

Seaver, 18-11, struc tout 18 in six innings, increasing his season's total to 274, a National League record for right-handed pitchers. The righty however ran into trouble in one inning—the fourth—when the Cards scored four times. Jose Cardenal triggered the rally with a two-run double.

Glenn Jones had three of the hits off Gibson, running his hitting streak to 18 games.

BOB GIBSON

With the East battle figuring to go right down the wire, Gibson was asked his opinion but wouldn't predict a winner.

"Pittsburgh has the edge in hitting and the Mets have the pitching while the Cubs have balance," he said. "And I suppose we have a chance, remote, but possible." The Cards are right games back with 17 games to play.

San Diego Padres edged Cincinnati Reds 3-2 Friday, while Houston Astros nipped Atlanta Braves 3-2. Montreal Expos blanked Philadelphia Phillies 1-0 and San Francisco Giants downed Los Angeles Dodgers 4-3.

Nate Colbert snapped a 2-2 tie with his 31st homer in the seventh inning, backing the two-hit pitching of Fred Dobson in the Padres' triumph.

Dennis Menker rapped a two-out, run-scoring single in the eighth inning, cracking a tie and giving the Astros their victory.

Carl Morton tossed a two-hitter and Gary Sutherland came through with an RBI eighth inning single, giving the Expos right-hander his 16th victory. He has lost 10.

Tight relief pitching by Mike Davison and Don McMahon helped Juan Marichal, forced out of the game with stomach cramps in the seventh, gain his 11th victory as the Giants held off the skidding Dodgers.

Green Skates Again

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Defenceman Ted Green of the Boston Bruins was released last season in the National Hockey League because of a head injury skated briefly Friday as Boston opened its training camp at the London Gardens.

Green took the ice at noon and skated leisurely for about 10 minutes. It was the first time he had skated since his stick episode with Wayne Maki of the St. Louis Blues in an exhibition game at Ottawa Sept. 21, 1969.

He left with "great" after his skate but preferred to make further judgement only after he takes part in today's full-scale workout.

Bruins camp opened with 28 players undergoing medical checks in the morning. Most of them used the balance of the day to play some golf.

General Manager Milt Schmidt cancelled an afternoon workout on the ice. Players will work on today for photographers before getting down to fullscale practices.

Left-winger Johnny Bucyk and rightwinger Ed Westfall were the only players who didn't report Friday. Bucyk, recovering from an knee injury, suffered during a boating accident in August, was given permission to report late. Schmidt said he had no idea why Westfall didn't arrive.

Rookie Tosses One-Hitter

Royals Feeling 'Blue'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vida Blue, a 21-year-old south-paw just recruited from the Kansas City 7 A's hideout Monday night and finished, for the first time in his American League career, with a one-hitter as the Oakland Athletics whitewashed Kansas City Royals 3-0.

Blue, a 6-foot fireballer who pitched for Texas in the Texas league innings, without marked success, stymied the Royals until Paul Schaal singled to right out in the eighth while hurling Oakland out of a three-game skidpan.

Despite the victory, the A's remained 8½ games behind the Minnesota Twins, who blasted the Chicago White Sox 6-0 behind rookie Bill Zepp to move another step in the A.L. West Division title.

Baltimore's Orioles reduced their magic number to seven on the way to the East Division crown with a 3-2, 13-inning victory over Boston Red Sox. Cleveland Indians nipped the New York Yankees 3-2; Washington Senators topped Detroit Tigers 4-2 and Milwaukee Brewers blanked California Angels 2-0.

Blue, a minor league strikeout artist who had a brief fling with the A's last season, was recruited from Iowa of the American Association eight days ago. He hit a three-run homer in his first start Monday night, but was keyed in the fifth inning.

He confined his batting contributions to a double and single in four trips to the plate against the Royals, but was overpowering on the mound despite four walks and a hit batsman.

Kelly bounced a 2-2 pitch into right field for the spoiler.

Zepp tossed a five-hitter for the Twins, whose magic number in the West dipped to 11, while Harmon Killebrew slammed his 32nd home run of the season and Frank Quilici hit a three-run homer—his fifth in five years.

JOHN "Boog" POWELL

Don Buford's leadoff double in the 13th and Mark Belanger's run-scoring single gave the Orioles their fourth straight victory. Boog Powell poled his 32nd homer and Dave McNally belted his seventh for Baltimore.

Chuck Hinton drilled a tie-breaking homer in the sixth off his 1,000th major league hit, carrying the Indians past the Yankees. Alex Johnson had three in a row. Ron Woods homered for New York.

First-time starter Bill Gogolewski picked up his initial major league victory with relief help from Darold Knowles and Horacio Pina as the Senators extended Detroit's losing string to four games. Mike Epstein's 18th homer keyed the winners' attack.

Jenkins Aims At 20 Wins

CHICAGO (AP) — Pitcher Ferguson Jenkins of Chicago Cubs takes a 19-14 mark against Pittsburgh Pirates today in the opener of a two-game set in the National League's sizzling Eastern-Division pennant chase.

The Chatham native will try to beat Pittsburgh's Bob Moose (9-9) for a victory which would deadlock Chicago and the Pirates at 76-68.

Jenkins, who earlier had a frustrating 2-8 record, attributes his resurgence to the fact he is feeling good "and I'm not overthinking."

The right-hander said his slow start worried him and had him studying films of the previous three seasons when he posted marks of 20-13, 20-15 and 21-13.

Court Overrules Opponents

FOREST HILL, N.Y. (AP) — Margaret Court of Australia entered the women's final of the United States Open championships Friday and Sunday to face Rosemary Casals of San Francisco in the bid for a rare tennis grand slam.

Mrs. Court and Miss Casals play today for the title and the $7,500 first prize goes with it, with the Australian heavily favored.

A triumph will give her a sweep of the four major championships, Australian, French, Wimbledon and U.S.

Semi-finals in the men's division are scheduled for today with only Cliff Richey, Nancy's 23-year-old brother, standing in the way of a potential Australian monopoly of this $176,000 event.

Richey, individual standout in the recent Davis Cup challenge round, will face Tony Roche, the Australian left-hander who is seeded No. 4. In the other bracket, Wimbledon champion Rod Laver, seeded No. 1, plays Ken Rosewall, No. 3, in a battle of the new and old brees of Australia's tennis.

Nicole Pilic of Yugoslavia and Pierre Barthes of France, two of the men's doubles title by upsetting Rod Laver and Roy Emerson of Australia.

Juniors Win Pitching Duel To Cop Commercial Title

The Ellis Juniors took advantage of the meagre scoring of Wally Wayne McConnell to edge Rollins Construction 1-0 in a pitching duel, last night, while Rollins Construction didn't. The result was a 3-0 win for the Printers and the Commercial Softball League championship.

TED WAITE

The two hurlers showed the form that gave Waite the best winning percentage and McConnell the most wins during the regular season as they stifled the strong hitting attacks of both teams.

The Juniors scored in the opening frame on a walk to Steve Ling, Cliff Scott's sacrifice and an infield error before McConnell struck out the next two batters to end the inning.

The top of the second produced the only other tallies of the game as the winners mounted their only major attack. Craig Rump reached base on an error, but was forced at second on John Campbell's attempted sacrifice.

A wait to Rod Ridley and a passed ball put runners on first and second and Waite's single produced the Printer's second run. Ridley came across the plate with game's final tally with a dash home on a wild pitch.

WAYNE McCONNELL

A fourth inning single by Craig Rump gave the Juniors their only other baserunner of the game as McConnell hurled perfect ball for the last five frames. "He was really tough", said one member of the Ellis team, "he was catching the corners tonight just like he's been doing for most of the series."

If Waite wasn't quite as dominant throughout the games later stages, he was just as effective, as he twice pitched himself out of trouble.

Rollins threatened in the sixth inning as a hit batter put one man on base and after Wallie had recorded the second out of the inning Jerry Hill punched his third single of the game through the middle.

However, the Ellis hurler got Rollins slugger Ralph Plane on a ground ball to second to end the inning.

Rollins again had a two-out chance, the following inning as McConnell singled and took second when the ball eluded the Ellis outfielder. Wes May bounced a single to the right of second base, but an alert play by charging rightfielder Craig Rump prevented McConnell from scoring.

Waite walked the next man to fill the bases, but got Carl Boonzhower on a long fly to right to work out of trouble. He had the Rollins batters continually popping up or swinging under his sharp-breaking upshoot.

The Ellis righthander record nine strikeouts to go with his five-hit shutout, while walking a pair of batters.

McConnell's drop accounted for 11 strikeouts in his three-hit loss, while walking the same number as Waite.

Rollins	000	000	000	— 0 5 2

Rollins pitcher Wayne McConnell reaches for throw from batterymate Wes May in an attempt to nail the Junior's Rod Ridley at the plate. Cliff Scott watches from the on-deck circle as Ridley out-races third baseman Bill Goodfellow to the plate to score. The Juniors came up with a 3-0 win to take the Commercial League championship series in six games.

Safe at First

Rollins first baseman Jerry Hill a tretches for the throw as Ellis outfielder Craig Rump races to first base. Rump made it safely to start a two-run inning for the Juniors that helped carry them to their 3-0 win.

Few Changes for Juniors

Officials of the Eastern Ontario Junior B League are pretty well maintaining the status quo for this year, with no major changes being instituted over last season's operation.

All six teams entered in the league will be back for another year. The six clubs will again operate out of Oshawa, Kingston, Peterborough, Belleville, Cobourg and Trenton.

One change that was made, is that three of the teams Oshawa, Peterborough and Kingston have undergone coaching changes this season.

The schedule will consist of 30 games, with each team playing 15 at home and an equal number of road games.

Belleville's Junior entry will begin regular season play, Oct. 25, when they entertain the pennant - winning Oshawa club. Their first exhibition match will be Sunday, Oct. 11 against Trenton.

Bowerman First Rate

Gary Bowerman may be second, but definitely not second - rate, on the Canadian Golf scene, as the Belleville golfer was named as an alternate to the Canadian team playing in the World Cup matches in Buenos Aires, Nov. 12.

Bowerman, who has qualified for the PGA tour next year with close to $5,000 in prize money, was named along with Bill Wright Jr. of Edmonton as alternates behind Al Balding and Bob Cor.

He finished second in this year's Canadian Professional Golfers Association tournament, behind Balding, and added another $3,500 to his winnings.

Cox, of Richmond, BC is the 1969 CPGA titleholder.

Ti-Cats Look for Win in Autostade Argos Seek Harrington Replacement

Hamilton Tiger-Cats will be shooting for their first-ever victory in Montreal's Autostade tonight when they meet in home-and-away action in an Eastern Football Conference game in which both teams will be looking for a place at the top.

The teams are tied in first place with Toronto Argonauts. All have won six points. Ottawa Rough Riders, fourth team in the league, are two points behind.

The Ticats have played four games at the Autostade since 1966 and the best they did was a 21-21 tie with the Als in 1968.

In 1968, when Ottawa moved their EFC final game to the Montreal waterfront stadium while their own Lansdowne Park was being demolished, Hamilton took a 42-16 thrashing.

Football was absent in 1967 during Expo 67 festivities. In 1969, the Als moved their home games to the Autostade from McGill's Molson's Stadium and handed the Ticats a 23-13 setback in addition to the tie.

ALs WON

"In the only meeting between the two clubs in Montreal last year, the Alouettes rail up a 25-9 score.

The Hamilton-Montreal meeting is one of two EFC games this weekend and can be seen on the CBC-TV's eastern network starting at 8 p.m. EDT.

Toronto and Ottawa renew their rivalry in Toronto Sunday in a game to be carried by the CTV's eastern network at 2 p.m. EDT.

Hamilton coach Joe Restic still isn't set on his starting defensive unit, with linebacker Bob Krouse nursing a strained knee and cornerback Ted Page a stiff back. Offensive half Garney Henley missed Thursday's workout with a virus infection but is expected to play.

Seeing action for the first time in a Hamilton uniform will be defensive halfback Paul Johnson, a record cut from Washington Redskins of the National Football League who will replace Mac Smith, placed on waivers after Hamilton's 17-13 win at home over the Alouettes last Monday.

The Montrealers also are hurting. Linebacker Charley Collins missed one workout during the week because of a virus and defensive end Steve Bosustow has been sidelined by knee injury.

Coach Marv Richvereky has announced Tony Passender will start at quarterback in place of Wade Mitchell.

The talk around Toronto this week has been the fine and suspension meted out to Argo's defensive end Ed Harrington after he chopped down Ottawa quarterback Gary Wood in their game at the capital city Monday.

Harrington was given a one-game suspension and a $200 fine by the Canadian Football League commissioner, Jake Gaudaur. Argos, fortunately have NFL veteran Art Brahm, a defensive end, in town for a five-day-trial and he's likely to see action against Ottawa in CNE Stadium Sunday.

Ottawa also has a refugee from the U.S. leagues to fill their import quota. Coach Jack Gotta said Friday he expects defensive half Jim Smith, late of Denver Broncos, to see lots of action against Argos.

Another Smith, Wayne Smith of Halifax, will be getting a chance at the Rough Riders tight end slot while Whit Tucker and Billy Cooper share the flanker spot. Tucker was used only briefly Monday, his first game following a knee operation.

High-Flying Riders Meet Lowly Eskimos

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Fans who hold to the theory that football is played between the ears—through morale and confidence—should find meat for armchair psychology in this weekend's Western Football Conference games.

Edmonton Eskimos, reported beset by morale problems and with a 2-6 record, play host tonight to Saskatchewan Roughriders, riding high with a 7-1 showing.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers, 1-6, injury-ridden and with hometown fans wondering about coach Jim Spavital's hardnosed approach, play in Vancouver Sunday against confident British Columbia Lions, who hold a 4-3 record.

Lions are holding down the last WFC playoff spot, two points behind Calgary Stampeders, 5-3. Edmonton and Winnipeg are, therefore, facing "must" games.

One Edmonton player is quoted as saying team members would cheerfully give $1,000 apiece to play for the Lions instead.

Tom Nettles, the little flanker cut by Edmonton to make way for Jim Thomas, arrived in Vancouver Friday for a tryout with Lions—he won't play Sunday—and said he'd like to stay.

Of the Edmonton picture, he said: "Those stories about the team morale being low are true. You just can't believe how bad it is there.

"The Eskimos have changed every offensive position since this time last year, yet the team has the same record, two and six. That's why everyone is down."

Coach Ray Jauch, blaming poor blocking for a 28-13 loss to Calgary Monday, is shuffling again. He hopes to cut down Eska interception record, now 29 in eight games compared with 29 all last year.

Keith Christianson from New Orleans replaces Willie Young at defensive tackle. Bayne Norrie moves to offence, Terry Swarn will go at halfback and Alan Pitcaithley replaces fullback Dave Fahrner.

Saskatchewan, which stopped Winnipeg 30-11 Monday, will start sore-armed Ron Lancaster at quarterback and Steve Molnar will replace injured Bobby Thompson, out for six weeks, at halfback.

Roughies beat Edmonton 23-11 earlier this season.

Spavital's juggling act with Winnipeg continues. John Senst takes the flanker spot of Ken Nielsen, who has what the club calls "a real problem" with his neck.

Ron Johnson will probably start at quarterback, with Wally Gabler still nursing a bruised foot and the memory of a shouting match with Spavital after a recent loss to Calgary.

Spavital Friday cut import linebacker LaVerle Pratt and Canadian defensive back Peter Francis. They were replaced by two defensive backs, import Dana Stephenson and Canadian Bob Larose.

Lions have done a little shuffling too, with Vic Washington, the reluctant all-Canadian who really wants to play for San Francisco 49ers this year, given the word to dress Sunday.

If he plays, he'll have to wait until next year to try with 49ers.

The National Football League rule is that if a player plays one game in Canada, he can't join an NFL club the same season.

Washington, former Ottawa Rough Riders star, told Lions coach Jackie Parker he doesn't want to play. Said Parker: "If he's able to play like he did, he'll be great. It's just a chance you have to take."

Defensive tackle Garrett Hunsperger came off the injured list Thursday and linebacker George Jugum was cut. Friday, defensive back Gerry Herron came off the list and former Stampeder Ray Watrin was cut.

Lions have had a long rest since their last game, which they lost to Edmonton 30-9 Sept. 2. Lions clobbered Winnipeg 48-21 earlier this season.

Eskimo President Denies Report

EDMONTON (CP) — Jack Baker, president of Edmonton Eskimos, said Friday a series of columns by Wayne Overland, sport columnist for The Journal, consisted of "half-truths."

The three-part series by Overland said the Western Football Conference team is on the verge of revolt and that morale is at an all-time low. Overland said internal strife is in the operation of the team by directors.

"The (Overland) has taken half-truths from two or three disgruntled players and put them all together," Baker said.

Overland, in his first column, said that after an Eskimo exhibition loss, 47-7 to Toronto Argonauts, Baker asked guest coach Rod Dowhower to meet director Jack Agrios for an evaluation of the situation. At the meeting Dowhower "launched an attack on the tactics and capabilities of Edmonton assistant coach Joe Zaleski."

Of that Baker said:

"I must publicly state that the action attributed to me with respect to these gentlemen is a complete and utter falsehood."

Pick Assistants

TORONTO (CP) — Fifteen assistant golf pros from across Canada have been named by the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association to participate in the first Canadian assistants championship at Brantford next Thursday and Friday.

Ron Wood of Shaughnessy and Mike Grass of Point Grey will represent British Columbia while Alberta will send Mike Sturko of Edmonton and Burt Drysdale of Calgary to the 54-hole, $3,000 event.

Wayne Frank of Regina will be the Saskatchewan delegate and Winnipeg's Bob Milne will be the Manitoba representative. The Maritimes assistant entered is Greg McCullough of Moncton.

Both Ontario and Quebec will each have four entries.

Paul Whitfield of Cherry Hill, Gary Slater of Burlington and the Rood brothers, Wayne and Brian, of Mississauga make up the Ontario foursome.

From Quebec will be Bob Dubeau of Islemere, Dave Keating of Pinegrove, Simon MacDonald of Cedarbrook and Lew Taylor of Lachute.

French Tempest

PARIS—(Reuters) — More than 40 teams from 18 countries will compete in the world championships for Tempest-class yachts in the Bay of Quiberon, Brittany, Sept. 16-26.

Countries taking part are Canada, the United States, West Germany, Britain, Italy, Switzerland, Sweden, The Netherlands, the Virgin Islands, Poland, Norway, Finland, Denmark, Australia, the Soviet Union and France.

The Tempest class was chosen by the International Yachting Racing Union last year to compete in the 1972 Olympic Games. It is a keel boat with a crew of two.

Pine Valley Foursome Wins Title

TORONTO (CP) — A four-man team from Toronto's Pine Valley golf club won the annual George S. Lyon club team championship with a combined total of 307

The foursome—Tommy Woodall, Bob Harvey, Grant Marshall and club champion Ron Murray—held a two-stroke lead on Thornhill.

The 66 teams played the tournament on the Weston and Lambton courses, encountering stiff winds and rock-hard greens

Woodall, among the early finishers at Weston, fired a 75 while Marshall and Murray had rounds of 76 and 77 respectively at Lambton

The only sub-par round of the day was registered by Thornhill's Brian Wilcox, former Canadian champion, who turned in a one-under-par 69 score at Lambton.

Three clubs were tied for third at 315—Mississauga, London Hunt and Lambton. Dick Weslock of Burlington paced Mississauga with a 75 at Weston. London Hunt's foursome included a father-son combination of John Nash Sr. and John Jr. The youngster Nash led his team with a 76

Whitevale and Waterloo country clubs tied for sixth at 313.

Nijinsky Loss Would Be 'Rarity'

DONCASTER, England (AP) — The bookies, admiting it would be a rare event should Nijinsky lose, made the American-owned three-year-old colt a 1-3 favorite Friday for Saturday's classic English St. Leger.

And it is Rarity, also American-owned, who is given the best chance of beating Nijinsky. Larry Gelb's colt is the second choice at 3-1.

Unbeaten Nijinsky, the son of 1964 Kentucky Derby winner, Northern Dancer, owned by Charles Engelhard and bred by Canadian E. P. Taylor, will be trying for his 11th win in the St. Leger test over 1¾ miles and 127 yards.

Lester Piggott will ride Nijinsky, who has been syndicated for a record $5.4 million and will stand at stud at Bull Hancock's Claiborne farm in Kentucky. He could have one or two more races before being retired.

The St. Leger first prize is $68,906.

Nine Arrested in Drug Squad's Rochdale Raid

TORONTO (CP) — Nine persons were arrested and at least five persons suffered minor injuries Friday night during a police drug squad raid on Rochdale College, an experimental free college in the downtown area.

Police said those arrested had been charged with various offences, including assault police. One policeman suffered minor injuries as bottles and other objects were hurled from the windows of the residential college.

Five members of the college's security force—made up of college residents—said they had been struck by police officers.

One man was treated for undetermined injuries by a doctor in the building and an unidentified 22-year-old man was treated at Toronto Western Hospital. Hospital officials did not reveal the nature of his injuries.

Witnesses said about 40 policemen equipped with crowbars and axe handles entered the building about 9:45 p.m. and proceeded to the sixth floor where they broke down the doors of four apartments and made a thorough search.

A Rochdale security guard who called himself Little John said the police ignored previous arrangements whereby they would ask members of the security force to escort them to the apartments but they wished a search.

Witnesses said the police pushed past security guards, who dress in distinctive black shirts with their names printed in white on the front, and initially failed to show search warrants when requested to do so.

Little John said he asked the officers several times to show search warrants but these were not produced until after the apartments had been broken into.

Security guards who said they had been struck by police included Douglas Currie, 22, and John Hupfield. Witnesses said a guard named Ed Walsh, 25, had been arrested outside the building.

As the search progressed a crowd of about 400 persons gathered outside the building, situated on the main east-west thoroughfare, and many policemen arrived at the scene.

As College security guards attempted to control the crowd, persons inside the building hurled bottles and other objects from the windows. The windshields of a number of police cruisers were shattered and broken glass littered the street.

One witness said that a police megaphone at one point told officers who had apparently not been officially called to the scene to return to their normal duties.

A minor fire erupted on the street, apparently when gasoline leaking from a car caught fire, but was quickly put out by college security guards.

It was the second time within a month that a police raid on the college in search of drugs had resulted in violence.

About 150 city police had to be called to quell a disturbance which erupted Aug. 15 when a six-man RCMP drug squad hauled a youth from the building in handcuffs. That disturbance was more serious than the Friday night incident.

Peter Turner, president of the self-administered college, said Friday night he didn't know how long the police "can use this tactic before there is a riot."

Police raids of this nature will result in a "complete hate relationship . . . the next time you're going to have a lot more bottle-throwing."

Bill King, general manager of the college, noted that some of the security guards had decided not to become involved in any future raids and asked:

"How long can we bail them (the police) out?"

Lewis, Pitman Join in Fearing Sell-out to U. S.

WATERLOO (CP) — The two leading candidates for leadership of the Ontario New Democratic Party agreed Friday that the first action of a socialist government would be to reserve the exploitation of natural resources to public ownership.

"Nine trillion cubic feet of natural gas will be sold to the United States within the next three days," said Stephen Lewis. "It will be followed inevitably by oil and then by water.

"This must stop and this party is prepared to stop it. Conservative and Liberal governments are making this nation and this province the resources playground of the most voracious nation in the world.

"We face a showdown with the corporations and it is a showdown we will win."

Walter Pitman, Mr. Lewis' major competitor for the party leadership, said NDP policy on nationalization of resources industries would bring "a barrage of vilification from those who we determined that this will be another American state.

"It will be tough, but we too will be tough, and we will make it."

The leadership candidates won repeated applause as they spoke to 300 party supporters in a Waterloo auditorium.

Mr. Lewis and Mr. Pitman differed only on how rapidly a socialist government would nationalize existing private industry.

Ontario Young Progressive Conservatives Gather

PORT CARLING, Ont. (CP) — When 250 members of the Ontario Young Progressive Conservative Association meet today at their annual meeting, there will be about one general for every 30 privates, an unprecedented occurrence.

The generals, as Edward Kowal, outgoing OYPC president put it Friday, will be national party leader Robert Stanfield, Ontario Premier John Robarts and seven Ontario cabinet ministers.

"It's always good for the privates (delegates) to meet the generals," said Mr. Kowal, a Toronto lawyer. "We're going to be holding a kind of miniature party caucus with members having direct dialogue with the decision-makers. And we've got more decision-makers this time than we ever had before."

There will be no policy resolutions as in previous conventions, only general themes such as Directions For Ontario on today's agenda. That, hopefully, will lead to free-wheeling discussions with the government leaders.

One topic that the agenda steers clear of is the question of Mr. Stanfield's leadership, recently placed under some cloud by a closed meeting of Prairie Conservatives led by Jack Horner, member of Parliament for Crowfoot.

Ironically, Mr. Horner will be a member of a panel Sunday that will discuss Conservative policy over the years.

"Actually we invited Mr. Horner to come here last April," said Mr. Kowal.

"We saw no reason to alter the invitation," he said, adding the Tories "are sick and tired of hearing about the leadership."

Quebec Liberals Hold Convention

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec Liberals gathered Friday for a convention that figures to be a lot quieter than their last one.

About 2,200 delegates were expected at the three-day 15th annual convention of the Quebec Liberal Federation to consider the party's relation to various "political action forces" outside the traditional party system in Quebec.

No resolutions are expected to be presented to the closing plenary session Sunday and the delegates will not decide upon the party's orientation.

The convention is the party's first since 1969, when Rene Levesque and Eric Kierans, both in the Liberals' top ranks at the time, clashed over the party's attitude toward the Canadian constitution.

Coast Guard Fights Spill

SUMMERSIDE, P.E.I. (CP) — Two Canadian Coast Guard ships were to spread chemical agents today in an effort to disperse a massive oil slick on the waters of the Gulf of St. Lawrence north of Prince Edward Island.

The ships began loading the dispersants Friday while an aircraft carried out an experimental drop of chemicals in a section of the slick, which was spread over an estimated 250-square-mile area of the gulf.

Frank Weston, of the transport department, said the area containing the slick gave a deceptive picture of the amount of oil spilled when, and alone, the barge Irving Whale sank Monday.

He said about 225 square miles of the area covered "is open water."

The effect of the chemical dispersants was an unknown factor, but "right now we are optimistic." Mr. Weston said in a television interview. By tonight officials would be "more, or less, optimistic."

Mr. Weston said information received Friday indicated the Irving Whale was carrying 1.1 million gallons of bunker C oil when it plunged to the bottom of the gulf in rough seas, 32 miles northeast of North Cape, P.E.I.

Earlier estimates put the cargo at 850,000 gallons of oil.

In another effort to combat a pollution threat, a 2,000-foot boom designed to prevent the spread of coastal oil spills was to be towed today to the site of the sinking.

It will be anchored downwind from the resting place of the sunken barge to confine oil oozing from three vents on the craft.

Brisk westerly winds moved the slick away from land late Friday and towards the barge's position. Favorable winds were predicted for today and much of Sunday.

After studying the sunken craft from a two-man submarine, Captain Sven Madsen of New York said the barge appeared to have escaped major hull damage and was resting upright in about 240 feet of water.

He recommended capping the ventilation pipes or vents from which the oil was spilling. There was no indication of when the procedure would be carried out.

Captain Madsen, marine operations director for Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, said the best solution appeared to be to raise the barge but suggested this be delayed until next summer because of the risk of fall storms.

The barge was well-built and too far down to be affected by surface storms, he said.

Parley Assailed By Nixon

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Liberal Leader Robert Nixon Friday called the Great Lakes environmental conference "window-dressing; a waste of time and of taxpayers money."

In a statement Mr. Nixon said the conference cost about $75,000. He said the two-day meeting called to "study cooperation in dealing with pollution of the Great Lakes was "confused and unproductive" because only two of eight state governors involved attended and neither President Nixon or Prime Minister Trudeau were present.

"It seemed that the delegates had nothing to talk about when environmental problems of the Great Lakes basin were presented," he said.

"This doesn't mean to say that when the Ontario government throws a conference the hospitality isn't the best. It's got to be the taxpayers who take the beating."

An official in the special projects branch of the provincial trade and development department said he could not put a price tag on the conference until the major invoices were received.

However, he agreed the conference's hospitality was on a "slightly higher level" than extended for the provincial-municipal conference held last spring. That event cost $65,000.

Governments Said Half-hearted About Constitutional Reform

WINNIPEG (CP) — Both the federal and provincial governments were accused Friday at a meeting of a parliamentary committee of taking a half-hearted approach to the constitutional question.

Professor Murray Donnelly of the political science department at the University of Manitoba, said:

"Most provinces have not taken the idea of a new or revised constitution very seriously."

Manitoba MLA Cy Gonick (NDP—Crescentwood) said Prime Minister Trudeau is using the constitutional conferences to stall for time until role of the central government has been changed.

Both men were appearing before the joint parliamentary committee on the constitution which is holding public hearings in Winnipeg.

Professor Donnelly said the federal and provincial governments should decide now that a new constitution should be drawn up. The job of drafting the new document should be given to experts and a one-year deadline set for implementation.

The draft constitution could be examined and a decision reached on whether to retain or retain the British North America Act.

Prof. Donnelly said he prefers a new approach. The BNA Act was a "poor excuse for a constitution." It was difficult even to amend.

Mr. Gonick, professor of political science at the University of Manitoba, said the constitutional conferences are "one big con-game."

The constitution was being changed by the Trudeau government as it was talking of pulling out of shared-cost programs.

Responsibility for such programs as hospital insurance, grants and loans for public housing would revert to the provinces.

"The provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and the Maritimes are bound to be hurt by this transfer of powers."

Mr. Gonick said that since the prime minister is satisfied with the changed allocation "we'll be asked to be his rubber stamp."

The Manitoba MLA suggested Quebec should be allowed to maintain or extend its powers while the central government should be strengthened in relation to the English-speaking provinces.

When Mr. Gonick referred to the prime minister as "Chairman Trudeau," E. R. Osler (L—Winnipeg South Centre) interrupted. He said Mr. Gonick seemed to be indulging in "cheap journalism not worthy of a member of the Manitoba legislature."

Other MPs objected to other references in the prime minister's motion by Georges Lachance (L—LaPrairie) that Mr. Gonick's paper should not be discussed. The motion however was defeated with only M. J. McQuid (PC—Cardigan) supporting the Liberal MP.

In other briefs:

—David Courchene, president of the Manitoba Indian Brotherhood, said that past injustices to Indians have to be settled before a new constitution is approved.

—Tom Eagle, an executive member of the Manitoba Metis Federation, said that Metis rights do not have to be spelled out in a constitution as long as the document said there is to be no discrimination against any minority group.

—Carolyn Garlick of Winnipeg said the constitution should discriminate that less than discrimination because of sex.

—Dr. E. C. Shaw, a Winnipeg author, said conference meetings should be organized by the federal government so that residents can be properly informed as to what is happening at the federal level.

Assault Denied

TORONTO (CP) — Superintendent Lorne Morgan of the Metropolitan Toronto police said Friday he "defies anyone" to prove police officers under his command assaulted a Jamaican man earlier this week.

He was the first comment about charges by Léon Clarke, 34, that he was beaten, insulted and held in jail overnight Tuesday by police for no apparent reason.

"It's all a tissue of lies," said Supt. Morgan. "This man wears the fact that he is black like a badge.

"I think he is very distraught and was the author of his own misfortune."

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES

FRANCHISE
It seems that one of the most common questions we are asked regularly is the word franchise, and what it means. Well, we have a franchise to offer, and we have been ready for it for a long time. It is a franchise more often used in the service trade.
If you are truly interested in a franchise operation, and have $15,000 to $20,000 cash, then write to us and see if what we have to offer is of interest to you to buy it.
It will be all other franchise it does not exceed to get into this business. We will train you and your staff and help you to get started. We have already interviewed the first year. The dollar can be invested in 1970, and the balance in 1971. Our franchise is for the Province of Ontario. Only one franchise per area will be granted. Please, only the sincere and serious should apply. Write to:

Conspiracy Charges Dismissed Against Brantford Policemen

BRANTFORD (CP) — Conspiracy charges against four senior police officers were dismissed Friday by provincial Judge Fred Hayes after the Crown attorney asked that they be withdrawn because he had not proved his case.

Judge Hayes agreed and dismissed the joint charge against Brantford Chief George Kerr, Deputy Chief Les Butcher, Lieut. Gordon Crocock and provincial police Inspector Archie Ferguson.

The Crown attorney, Harold Daufman of Kitchener, said cross-examination in the morning session on Friday, the fourth day of the trial, had shown that the testimony of one of his chief witnesses, former constable Leslie Lolli, was "tainted" and this had seriously damaged his case.

"Up to this point I have not proved my case," said Daufman. "No matter what evidence is given it will not cure the irregularities."

The four were charged with conspiring to obstruct justice by failing to lay charges against a Brantford constable.

The charges were laid by Robert Stockdale, a former constable on the force who was suspended some months ago under the Ontario Police Act for offences including insubordination, discrediting the force and carrying a pocket sign while on duty.

Daufman said after the noon recess that he had no intention of calling Stockdale as a witness or of entering any further evidence.

Lolli had testified that several officers of the Brantford force had conspired to break-and-enter ring and that they had been responsible over the years for at least 27 major burglaries.

He also testified that another former constable, Paul MacKenzie, had admitted breaking into the local Public Utilities Commission and stealing $90 in bus receipts.

Under cross-examination by Inspector Ferguson's lawyer, Clyve Bynoe of Toronto, Lolli was vague concerning dates and conversations he had had with MacKenzie.

He admitted that at no time had he unequivocally told either Chief Kerr or any other superior officer that MacKenzie had confessed to the crime.

He also admitted he had logged MacKenzie to go to Chief Kerr and confess to the PUC incident, hoping that the chief would make a deal with MacKenzie and let him resign from the force rather than discharge him and charge him with theft.

"You had been trying to get the chief for several years and if you could have trapped him into making such a deal this would have fitted right into your plans, wouldn't it?" asked Mr. Bynoe.

"I just didn't want to get the chief. I wanted to get about 12 other officers as well," said Lolli.

In dismissing the charge Judge Hayes said no evidence presented indicated a conspiracy by the four officers. Lolli's testimony could not be relied on, stating to MacKenzie and "is his opinion only."

There is no evidence of conspiracy and no prohibitive grounds to lay a charge against MacKenzie," said the judge.

At the time of his resignation, Mr. Lolli was facing charges under the Ontario Police Act of 16 counts of being absent without permission. They were dropped when he resigned June 16.

Mr. Lolli is now a student at the University of Guelph.

Ferry Is Freed

TSAWWASSEN, B.C. (CP) — The 359-car British Columbia government ferry Queen of Sidney ran aground at the eastern entrance to Active Pass during high winds Friday night but was pulled free early today.

The tug Island Mariner, after breaking its towline twice, finally pulled the ferry clear about two hours after the grounding.

Rescue craft stood by, but ferry captain David F. Walton of Victoria said the vessel was in no danger. The ferry's 300 passengers remained aboard.

The grounding occurred shortly before 11 p.m. as the Queen of Sidney was entering Sturdies Bay on Galiano Island, between the B.C. mainland and Vancouver Island.

Mary Backlund, a Galiano Island resident, said she heard "a crunch, grinding sound" as the ferry went aground on rocks about 300 yards from shore.

The ferry was on a scheduled run out of this mainland terminal south of Vancouver and carried passengers and cars bound for Galiano, Pender and Mayne Islands.

The Queen of Sidney went aground in the same area as another B.C. ferry, the Queen of Victoria, was in collision Aug. 2 with the Soviet freighter Sergey Yesenin. Three crew members were killed in that accident.

Preventive Use Of Iron Opposed

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Years ago when I was a teenager, our family doctor prescribed iron tablets because I was always tired and my color was pasty.

I felt so good within a month or two after taking the medicine that I've since become hipped on taking iron products that I get from a health-food store. I also give them to my husband and to my own three youngsters. Friends tell me I'm throwing my money away needlessly. Don't you feel iron is important? — Mrs. H.

COMMENT: When there is a lack of iron people develop what we call an iron-deficiency anemia. It is a secondary anemia. Administering iron to such people makes them feel better — as you did, when you were a teenager.

However, I doubt the need to take it as a preventive measure. If blood studies show that you and your family have normal hemaglobin and normal red blood cell counts, one really begins to wonder if it is necessary to take all this iron.

If you give your husband and children a well-rounded diet, there's enough iron in food to supply the body's needs. If you give more iron than is necessary, the body usually gets rid of it anyway.

But suppose tests show that hemoglobin and iron are abnormally low? Instead of taking iron right away, what is more important is to discover the reason for the anemia.

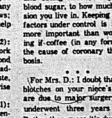
Is an abnormal amount of blood being lost each month during menstruation? Are bleeding hemorrhoids the reason? Is the diet faulty? Are there other causes?

When these problems are solved, iron ceases to be a return to normal quickly with the help of iron supplements. As for everyone in the family taking them daily, for no specific reason, I agree it may be a useless expenditure of money.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I'm going to ask a stupid question. But I have to put my mind at ease. Six months ago I had to have my uterus removed because of tumors. I am only 33. We have been married nine years and have no children.

My heart's desire was to have at least one child, but I had a miscarriage, instead. I have heard so much about heart and kidney transplants. Is it possible to have a uterus transplant? — Mrs. X.

COMMENT: With all the new transplant procedures around the corner, I suppose I should not say "it's not possible." Nevertheless, I will say it's not probable.



It's unfortunate to have a hysterectomy before one has had the opportunity to raise a family. I know how you feel. Your question isn't stupid.

Wanting a child as much as you do, have you considered adoption? Any volunteer women like yourself have become fulfilled after bringing a child into the home.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Is it likely that drinking from two to three cups of 97 per cent caffeine-free coffee a day will cause a coronary attack? — Mrs. C.

COMMENT: Not likely. Instead, look to your blood pressure, to your smoking, drinking and eating habits, to your blood sugar. Let me repeat one suggestion you live in. Keeping these factors under control is much more important than the remote possibility if-coffee (in any form) is the cause of coronary thrombosis.

For Mrs. D.: I doubt that the blotches on your face's face are due to major surgery she underwent three years ago. Rather than pursue the idea to a liver complication, why not get the opinion of a dermatologist?

Jean Dixon's Horoscope

For September 13

Your birthday today: Your coming year is full of moderate pleasures, minor strains but nothing that requires drastic changes. Your character develops as you meet with challenges. Take up serious studies in the limited amount of life time available. Your friends are somewhat either become much stronger or fade out. Today's natives are usually interested in the laws of nature, diets, health care. Nature love nature is frequent.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Don't let your own sudden whims interfere where others are changing their minds at the last minute. Be definite about what you do want, and make sure it happens.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Later you'll recall this vintage Sunday with nostalgia. Early hours are filled with promise, but the emphasis is on a pleasant afternoon and evening.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): This is an enjoyable but disorganized day. Promises that seem reasonable now will be unfeasible in the changing situation coming shortly.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Leave any comment unsaid if you have the slightest reservation or doubt. Later you'll find a broader perspective and be glad of your self-restraint.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): An early start with definite plans will succeed, but be sure everybody knows what is supposed to happen. Pastimes are happiest on familiar grounds.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Take time for a brief rest this Sunday. Family ties can stir feelings whims of others is essential. Imaginative this evening brings guidance.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Today you meet limitations and may find helpful solutions merely by failing to see old issues as problems. Evening brings a quiet personal triumph.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Give everybody benefit of doubt today. The reasons for many deeds may escape you altogether. It is more important to follow tradition than press for material progress now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Don't expect a comfortable Sunday. Nothing is gained by forcing issues and imposing decisions. Information is misleading. Adopt a picnic spirit.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22— Jan. 19): Your inspirations now run ahead of the chance to put ideas into effect. Reread your inner nature, plot the worker of nature and her patterns in all things.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Take the path of least resistance for the moment. Do the simplest available amenities. Save your comments for later. Time is le less, this evening.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Overly detailed plans fall apart today. Nobody seems to be on time or make decisions. Emotional considerations outweigh logic.

For September 14

Your birthday today: There is just enough competition and resistance to your efforts this coming year to keep you doing an excellent job. Changes are mainly refinements rather than strokes of direction. Emotional ties grow swiftly and must be analyzed. Today's natives often are very clever at memories, sometimes the knack of inventiveness. Such talents are under special pressure in present conditions.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Prepare to cope with some interference in your work. You can't plead ignorance — innovate direction and patience. Establish better health-care habits.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Patience and diligence are today's watchwords. Money comes and goes too quickly. Discussions extend over a wide range of differences.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Squabbles may deteriorate all too readily into lasting estrangements. Ignore trivia. Do something to distract your loved ones from present conditions.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Don't react quickly to criticism today — it is merely somebody's effort to be constructive. Applied to your relationships. Relax early.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): No details can be safely skipped now, so get started early. Prepare for much left to the last point, and a great deal can be accomplished. Plan for a quiet evening.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Emotional opposition is all around you—don't involve yourself needlessly. Long - delayed retribution is at hand for many who have flouted natural laws; your participation would help nobody.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): The interference in your work comes from sources far beyond the local people. If you can adapt without squabbling or haste, you will be well ahead. Revise your plans this evening.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): falter today. Focus your attention. Speculative ventures tend to action getting done with the obligations you hate. Patience with family and friends is needed.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): The invitation is to put in more than a day's work. Give your loved ones their full share of your time regardless of anything else.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): The simpler you keep the story the better, particularly in writing. Side issues draw too much attention, so that your point gets lost.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Today you discover if people are concerned with principle, or using principle as an excuse may not completely prevent confusion.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Things have gone your way about as far as feasible without some opposition from those who care about you. It's simply a delay until you get full understanding.

Action Follows Wildcat Strikes

GM Shuts Down Plants at Oshawa, Ste. Therese

OSHAWA (CP) — General Motors of Canada shut down its plants here and at Ste. Therese, Que., Friday night in the face of wildcat strikes which broke out on an official strike Monday at GM plants in the United States and Canada.

The wildcat action came only hours after leaders of the United Auto Workers union in Detroit rejected GM's final offer of $1,300 million in wage increases in a three-year contract.

UAW leaders in Detroit had said either GM or Chrysler—both would be hit by strikes unless a pattern-setting agreement was reached before the current contract expires at midnight Monday night.

About 600 members of UAW Local 222 walked off the job at 6 p.m. Friday night at the GM truck plant here. Of the total of 10,500 men employed by GM at the truck and car plants, about 2,000 normally work the night shift.

The strikers set up a picket line and blocked plant gates with cars and burning tires to prevent the movement of finished 1971-model trucks to the shipping lot.

Ted O'Connor, acting president of Local 222, spent several hours trying to talk the strikers into returning to work, but the men said they could stay off the job until a satisfactory contract was signed.

"The walkout hurt us because it takes the hell away from the negotiating committee," said Mr. O'Connor.

GM reacted to the wildcat action by sending home the remainder of the night shift. Only 100 that were kept on at the car plant to maintain essential operations.

Company officials were not immediately available for comment.

In Toronto, Dennis Pyne, international representative of the UAW and head of the union's GM negotiating team, said the wildcat action was a "sign of impatience" but was "not the official position of the union."

He said the union would attempt to get the strikers back on the job.

In Ste. Therese — about 20 miles north of Montreal — about 700 GM workers left their jobs in disorganized fashion. A local union leader is a "return to work."

"As soon as the men here heard that the Oshawa workers were walking out, they left their jobs," said Maurice Vezeard, a regional director of the union in Ste. Therese. "We (the UAW) couldn't stop them."

Housing Loan Approved

OTTAWA (CP) — Approval of a $13.8 million federal loan to Greene and Thomson Ltd. for construction of 600 apartments and 60 town houses in Metropolitan Toronto was announced Friday night by Robert Andras, minister responsible for housing.

The project includes four 12-storey apartment buildings in southwest Toronto.

Units will be available at controlled rentals with options to purchase, with town houses selling for $24,000, four-bedroom apartments for about $21,000, three-bedroom apartments in the $19,000 range, and two-bedroom apartments in the $18,000 range.

Construction is said underway on the units, will be substantially completed during 1972 at a cost of $7,980 a year, one-third for families earning $7,000 to $8,000, and one-third for those in the $8,000-$11,000 range.

Fishermen Get Loans

TORONTO (CP) — Loans were made available Friday to commercial fishermen in all parts of Ontario affected by a fishing ban due to mercury contamination.

A spokesman for the fisheries branch of the department of lands and forests said the loans, provided jointly by the provincial and federal governments, are to be repaid when the fishermen receive compensation from companies responsible for the mercury pollution.

The loans, initialled last spring for 46 commercial fishermen in the Lake St. Clair-Detroit River area, equal approximately 70 per cent of the value of their 1969 catch.

Canadian Stock Markets Show No Trend During Past Week

By ART JOHNSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canada's stock markets in general showed unchanged to the close of trading this week.

The Toronto Stock Exchange's industrial index, a broad indicator of market movements, stood at 186.69 when trading closed Friday, the same level at which it had begun the week.

Markets were closed Monday for Labor Day.

During the four trading sessions, there were no major fluctuations in market trends.

Markets lulled in midweek after an upward surge at mid-week but more than one day.

On Tuesday, the first trading day of the week, prices moved downward. This was considered by a number agreeing Wednesday. Markets turned lower Wednesday, were up modestly Friday.

Trading was fairly strong. The volume was 4.39 million shares, the highest level of a daily basis in about 13 weeks.

Investment counsels advised clients that the current upward movement is long-term.

Housing Loan Approved

OTTAWA (CP) — Approval of $12.5 million federal loans to Cremona, a Toronto developer, to help finance the project's second and 96 loan, Toronto Metropolitan Toronto was announced Friday night by Robert Andras, minister responsible for housing.

The project includes four 17-storey apartment buildings in Scarborough.

Some units will be available at controlled rentals with options to purchase, with town houses selling for $64,000, four-bedroom apartments for about $25,000, three-bedroom apartments in the $19,000 range, and two-bedroom apartments in the $18,000 range.

The Bank of Nova Scotia announced its leading rate for Natural Housing Act mortgages at nine per cent, up from eight per cent.

Other major banks did not immediately follow, but were said to be watching the situation.

On index of the week, golds were up 0.81 points to 125.76 and base metals .27 to 66.75. Western oils dropped 1.38 to 176.88.

Volume for the four days totalled 6.85 million shares.

Gains outnumbered losses 176 to 168, with 213 issues unchanged.

At the Montreal and Canadian exchanges, the composite index was down .56 to 160.11.

Volume was 1.21 million shares, compared with 6.32 million last week.

Gains outnumbered losses 100 to 100 with 102 issues unchanged.

Action Follows Wildcat Strikes

GM Shuts Down Plants at Oshawa, Ste. Therese

OSHAWA (CP) — General Motors of Canada — loses its plants here and at Ste. Therese, Que., Friday night in the face of wildcat strikes which halted production at GM plants in the United States and Canada.

The wildcat action came only hours after leaders of the United Auto Workers union in Detroit rejected GM's final offer of $1,360-million in wage increases in a three-year contract.

UAW leaders in Detroit had said either GM or Chrysler—or both—would be hit by strikes unless a patent-settled agreement was reached before the current contract expires at midnight Monday night.

About 600 members of UAW Local 222 walked off the job at 4 p.m. Friday night at the GM truck plant here. Of the total of 10,000 men employed by GM at the truck and car plants, about 2,000 normally work the night shift.

The strikers set up a picket line and blocked plant gates with cars and blazing tires to prevent the movement of finished 1971-model trucks to the shipping bd.

Ted O'Connor, acting president of Local 222, spent several hours trying to talk the strikers into returning to work but the men said they would stay off the job until a satisfactory contract was signed.

"The walkout hurt us because it takes the ball away from the negotiating committee," said Mr. O'Connor.

GM reacted to the wildcat action by sending home the remainder of the night shift. Only 100 men were kept on at the car plant to maintain essential operations.

Company officials were not immediately available for comment.

In Toronto, Dennis Tyrie, international representative of the UAW and head of the union's GM negotiating team, said the wildcat action was a "sign of impatience" but was "not the official position of the union."

He said the union would attempt to get the men back on the job.

In Ste. Therese, about 20 miles north of Montreal, about 700 GM employees left their jobs during the night by most union leaders for a return to work.

"As soon as the men here heard that the Oshawa workers were walking out, they left their jobs," said Maurice Vezard, a regional director of the union in Ste. Therese. "We (the UAW) couldn't stop them."

Fishermen Get Loans

TORONTO (CP) — Loans were made available Friday to commercial fishermen in all provinces receive compensation parts of Ontario affected by a Kahar ban due to mercury contamination.

A spokesman for the fisheries branch of the department of lands and forests said the loans, provided jointly by the provincial and federal governments, are to be repaid when the fishfrom consumer resistance to the mercury pollution.

The loans, initiated last spring for 40 commercial fishermen in the Lake St. Clair-Detroit River area, equal approximately 70 per cent of the value of their 1968 catch.

Survival Of The Sneakiest

If you watch TV or go to the movies, you might assume that the life of an editor is somewhat akin to the life of Attila the Hun.

The editor is the dictator, the boss, the villain who with a stroke of a pencil ruins the prose of a budding Hemingway or with a shake of the head wrecks a photographer's career — because that head shake means that photographer's favorite photo isn't going to see the light of day.

Frankly, I rather like this version of the editor's role. The only thing wrong is that it is not really so.

When an article is being put together, for instance, there is one supreme boss — the size of the magazine. As I learned again as we were putting together the sentimental article by sports editor Andy O'Brien about playing golf on the historic St. Andrews course (see page 14).

As I know as much about golf as I do about rainmaking, I was quite content to let O'Brien and photo editor Louis Jaques and art director Max Newton decide on what photos should be used. They wanted to show traps and holes and stuff like that.

The girl who wouldn't fit

But as I do keep an eye on such things, even when I really don't know what is going on, I looked at the final layout and issued a yelp of outrage.

"Where," I asked, "is the picture of that pretty Scottish lass we had? You know, the one watching the game?"

O'Brien explained that she didn't fit into the story because she wasn't playing golf. Photo editor Jaques said she didn't belong because she "didn't illustrate the essential points of the article".

Art director Newton said brutally: "There wasn't any room to fit her in."

I brooded about this for a while. Then I returned to the fray.

"This picture," I explained patiently, "is a picture of a very pretty girl. She is certainly a lot prettier than a sand trap. Put in the photo."

Well, that didn't seem to work. Mind you, traditionally it should have worked. In all the best movie and TV dramas when the editor jumps up and down and shouts and turns purple in the face, things are done his way.

But not here. Perhaps one reason is that I am a five-foot-six editor surrounded by six-foot cohorts. Or something.

Anyway, there wasn't any room for my favorite picture — or so I was told.

But an editor does not survive on authority alone. Sheer animal cunning is really his single greatest asset.

So I got a copy of the photo of the charming Scottish lass. And I ran it in this space.

If golf, as they say, is really rapidly turning into a spectator sport, I think this girl is the greatest reason why it should be a spectator sport.

I'd rather look at her than a sweaty old golfer. Wouldn't you?

Most Canadian schools are obsolete, according to John Young, an outspoken educational innovator. This test will help you find out what's wrong with them

John Young

A REVOLUTION is taking place in education but to judge by their performances, most Canadian principals and teachers have not gotten the message. In teaching methods and organization, our schools are closer to the age of Queen Victoria than they are to the era of man's landing on the moon.

"Most of our schools are obsolete," says John Young, principal of the Campbell River Senior Secondary School in British Columbia, a man who has won a reputation as an innovator and critic of the established order in education.

"Our schools are slaves to the timetable, the teacher-dominated lesson, the control and repression of kids, and the suppression of the excitement, spontaneity and joy of learning."

These are opinions with which most students and a growing number of teachers will agree. But the heavy hand of the past is so firmly in control of the school system in most communities that new educational ideas and methods largely go unheeded.

"What kind of person do you want to influence your child?" Young asks. "Obviously you want an intelligent, independent, creative, warm, tolerant, feeling person.

"Well, this is precisely the sort of teacher most school systems will not promote because they continually challenge the old-fashioned ways of running the schools. They are regarded as troublemakers and seldom become vice-principals, principals and superintendents."

A growing literature and body of research support the educational reformers. These books and studies roundly condemn many of the hallowed practices of our schools. Here are some sample quotations:

"I suggest that no student ever at any time be labelled a failure or led to believe he is failing through the use of the grading system." — Dr. William Glasser in Schools Without Failure.

"According to some authorities, upwards of 70 percent of what we are doing in the schools is of no use whatever to students in getting on with their lives after they leave school." — Dr. John Wormsbecker, assistant superintendent of secondary schools, Vancouver.

"Probably the most obsolete aspect of our schools is the way we handle human beings — the way we handle teachers and students . . . There are so many petty things in the schools that it's a wonder that more kids are not driven out of them." — Cam MacKenzie, principal of Centennial Secondary School, Coquitlam, B.C.

Like all of these educators and writers, John Young believes that the changes so badly needed will come only when enough parents, students and teachers insist upon them. The following questions, prepared with the assistance of Young, may help you to assess the extent to which your own school is obsolete.

Inferior Education

How Obsolete Is Your School?

To get an idea of how obsolete your school may be, try the quiz below.

A few of the questions are more applicable to high schools than elementary schools. Answer questions which are relevant to your school and of which you are sure of the answer.

Answer each question True (T), False (F), or Partly (P). Answer Partly if you think the statement is neither completely true nor false as it applies to your school.

Read the marking instructions after you have finished the test.

1. Does your school attach a lot of importance to getting good marks?

2. Does your school require teachers to do all the administrative jobs connected with teaching rather than have teacher aides to do this work?

3. Do your teachers devote a considerable part of their time to providing the students with facts which they must memorize?

4. Does your school separate the "poor" students ("dull kids") from the "good" students ("bright kids") and teach them in separate rooms?

5. Does your school administer corporal punishment (strapping) to students for infractions of school rules?

6. Does your school have a lot of rules about dress and clothing?

7. Does your school compel all students to take part in certain activities to which some (usually only a few) object very strongly for personal or family reasons? (For example, taking religious instruction; attending a flag-raising; compulsory attendance at or participation in games.)

8. Does your school promote by grade and deny promotion if a student fails a certain number of subjects?

9. Does your school require all students to take certain subjects or courses, regardless of how opposed a particular student may be to one or more of them?

10. Does your school, in most courses, have a standard textbook which is regarded as the authority or chief source of information for the particular course? (For example, in history, geography, etc.)

11. Does your school require students to obtain a teacher's permission (a signed slip, for example) to go to the library, toilet, office, counsellor, study hall, etc?

12. In your school does the principal "rule the roost" rather than allow the teachers to play a big part in establishing school policies?

13. In your school are soft drinks, candy, milk and other vending machines banned from the school buildings?

14. In your school are student visits to community institutions (courts, legislatures, manufacturing plants, airports, etc.) held infrequently rather than very often?

15. Does your school expel girls who become pregnant?

16. If there are several schools in your area must students attend the one to which they are assigned, rather than the one preferred by themselves or their parents?

17. Are emotionally-disturbed children barred from attending your school, even in segregated classes?

18. Does your school take great pride in the number of its students who win scholarships or other awards based on academic performance?

19. Do most of the classrooms in your school consist of rows of desks, all facing the front?

20. Does your school library operate under close and strict supervision discouraging an easy "browsing" atmosphere and denying the students free access to all books?

21. In your school is the discussion of sex largely a taboo subject in the classroom outside of health periods, rather than the topic of frequent discussions in which qualified doctors, psychiatrists, clergymen, parents and others take part?

22. In your school do students taking the same subjects write the same examinations on them at the same hour with the same amount of time available?

23. Are your teachers unable to hold classes in the school grounds, go on field trips, etc., without getting the approval of the principal?

24. In your school is the absence of noise and movement in the classrooms considered to be very important?

25. In your school's tests and examinations is there almost always one clear, "right" answer to a question whatever the subject?

Humans are not meant to sit quietly for five days a week at desks in small rooms during 12 or more years of their lives. To do so bores them to death

John Young's Comments

1. Most schools emphasize marks (or letter grades or gold stars), but they shouldn't. What exams measure, in most cases, is of dubious value — memorized facts rather than true knowledge and understanding. More important, exams condemn many students to low marks and a feeling of failure even though they may be good artists, musicians or athletes. Many never recover from the loss of self-confidence resulting from examinations. Most delinquents get their start by failing in school.

2. We don't expect doctors and dentists to spend their time cleaning instruments, keeping records, collecting bills, etc. Nor should we expect teachers to spend much of their time doing similar chores. They should have assistants to take care of these matters while they devote their time to their students.

3. In most schools the teacher dictates, often from a book, the "facts" a student is expected to know. In class and on exams the student regurgitates these "right" answers. Some students can survive this deadly process but others simply can't. They turn off or drop out. But this process of rote learning continues unabated although all sophisticated, sensitive teachers agree that it does nothing to promote the true educational values of intellectual curiosity, a thirst for knowledge and the ability to think critically.

4. "Ghetto rooms" in which supposedly poor students are lumped together, have no place in a modern school. The whole idea is indefensible on the grounds of morality and democracy. Research shows clearly that mixing the students up doesn't affect adversely the so-called bright kids and it does help the slower ones. In any case, the better students need to learn to understand and have sympathy with those who may have more difficulty with school subjects.

5. Educational dinosaurs to the contrary, there is absolutely no justification for the strapping of students or, indeed, for detention by incarceration in the school room. (How better could principals and teachers indicate that they regard their schools as minor jails!) Such punishment usually generates hate and a feeling of wanting to get even. Children need love and understanding, not punishment.

6. Why should a teacher feel threatened by a boy in shorts or jeans or a girl in a mini or slacks? There is no evidence whatever to suggest that casual dress in school promotes misbehavior. A growing number of schools have no dress codes and behavior has improved where this is the case. To respect the student's right to wear any kind of clothing which reasonably covers the body, is to condition him to respect the rights of others.

7. Schools which coerce students to take part in activities to which they object, are conditioning children to think that it is acceptable social practice to push others around. For example, obese and ungainly children are sometimes forced to take part in physical education exercises which exposes them to embarrassment and ridicule. Any physical benefit is far outweighed by the psychological damage.

8. A student who passes six courses but fails two will, in many schools, have to repeat the grade. This is a ridiculous practice which leads to the boredom that generates further failure. Increasingly, educators are coming to regard promotion by grade as old-fashioned. The report of the provincial committee on aims and objectives of education in the schools of Ontario expressed the matter well. It said: "The lock-step structure of past times must give way to a system in which the child will progress throughout the school system without the hazards and frustrations of failure."

9. Properly and sympathetically counselled, most students can see the wisdom of sometimes taking a course which may not seem of particular interest. But to insist that a student must take the course or courses in order to remain at school, is to deny him the right to the kind of education he wants. Each of us is different and good schools make provision for individual desires and needs.

10. Teachers should not rely upon a standard text for a subject. A single text is far too restrictive and soon gets out of date in any case. Modern schools and enlightened teachers use not one but several books on a subject plus newspapers, magazines, films, field trips, television, guest speakers, etc., as teaching materials.

11. Students feel demeaned when their every movement requires official authorization. Small children require supervision but older ones should not be treated in such humiliating fashion. Senior teenagers may become unruly or rebellious if they are not respected as near-adults.

12. A school at which the principal presides as a little king is almost invariably a bad school. Truly professional teachers should not let themselves be pushed around by principals, superintendents, school board trustees, and department of education officials, most of whom are conservative people who resist change. Teachers should play a big role in formulating school policies and should have the strength of character to assert this right.

13. Adults enjoy the convenience of food and drink vending machines in offices and factories and there is no good reason that students should be denied them. Diets these days are well fortified with vitamins and there are no really harmful effects to be feared from having the occasional chocolate bar or soft drink. To be permitted to do so helps to reduce the institutional atmosphere that exists in most schools.

14. Students should not get the idea that the school is the only source of learning. Knowledge is derived from the total environment and the school should make frequent use of the educational influences which the everyday life of the community provides.

15. To expel a girl for pregnancy is to cruelly and unjustly deny her the right to an education. If put to the test, it is doubtful that a court would uphold such an expulsion. In any case such girls obviously need more education, not less.

16. Although our schools are depressingly uniform, there are some that are not as bad as others. Parents should have the right to send their children to the school that most nearly meets their educational requirements. It would be interesting to see what would happen if this applied in all large communities. The exodus from the fact-pounding schools ruled by petty tyrants might provide a revelation for school authorities.

17. In most areas of Canada, emotionally-disturbed children spend every school day surrounded by other emotionally-disturbed children in segregated schools. This practice helps to assure that they remain emotionally disturbed. Apart from those who are violent, they should have the support that comes from being with people who are mentally stable. And "normal" children will benefit from learning to understand those who are not like themselves.

18. By placing the accent on awards and scholarships, schools condemn most of their students to poor educations. Competition for marks, not knowledge and understanding, becomes the aim of the educational system. Schools should be concerned with the growth and development of the individual. Since students learn at different rates and in different ways, teachers should devote their efforts to helping all the students to achieve their potentials. But when high marks become the aim, the youngsters who most need help are shortchanged in the interest of the grooming of scholarship winners.

19. Humans are not meant to sit quietly for five days a week at desks in neat rows in small rooms during 12 or more important years of their lives. To do so bores them to death. There are many other arrangements possible within the school (study area, independent study, informal circles, etc.) and schools should use them all — but don't. As a result the common characteristics of most Canadian schools are monotony and disinterest.

20. The way to turn a child off from reading is to restrict his choice of books. The library should be a place where he feels free to explore his own interests and not just do assigned reading. The atmosphere should be a friendly one. Schools should assure that a martinet type of teacher is never placed in charge of the library.

21. The schools should play an important part in sex education rather than leave children to get inaccurate information from their fellows. Parents who teach their children about sex would not object to the scientific approach which the schools can provide. Parents who do not do so, would welcome having the school take on this vital and difficult task. Refusal of the schools to emphasize sex education is an abdication of a clear responsibility.

22. Children learn different things in different ways in different periods of time. Therefore, they should be evaluated differently. Schools which give all students the same examinations at the same time obviously have not concerned themselves with individual differences in their teaching methods. Uniform examinations, which assume uniform students, are outmoded.

23. A good test of a school is the amount of freedom it provides its teachers to use individual initiative. A school where a teacher must seek the principal's permission for every innovation — whether to hold a class in a nearby field or bring in a guest speaker — is usually a hidebound, backward school.

24. Learning is not necessarily a silent process. Children may need the heat of discussion and debate to stimulate their thinking on some subjects. The comment of Susan Jacobs, a University of London psychologist, is pertinent: "When we ask children not to move we should have excellent reason for doing so. It is stillness we have to justify, not movement."

25. The objective type of test in which there is always a right answer, may be convenient for teachers but it is not always good for education. Students should not be given the idea that there is always a "right" answer. Children should be encouraged to learn that in life there are several answers to most questions, some of which may be better than others.

OUR ABORTION LAWS AREN'T

It's still about as hard to get a safe, legal abortion in Canada as government "liberalized" the law. And too many women are still injured—or killed—at the hands of back-alley butchers

"SHE went to someone . . . she didn't know he'd be a butcher."

Dr. Eric Saibil, president of the Doctors for Abortion Law Repeal, was referring to a 34-year-old Greek woman who recently died in Montreal as a result of an illegal abortion.

Each year in Canada, an estimated 100,000 women have illegal abortions. Thousands of these women suffer serious aftereffects from these operations, ranging from infection to permanently damaged reproductive organs. Some, like the Greek woman, die.

The circumstances under which women would turn to abortion vary. They may be teenagers unable to cope with the responsibilities of motherhood, or women approaching menopause who no longer feel psychologically able to undertake the task of rearing a child. They may be unmarried girls who face social discrimination, victims of rape or incest, persons with hereditary disease or women who already have families and feel financially or emotionally unable to afford another child.

According to a law passed in August, 1969, any woman can, theoretically, have a therapeutic abortion in Canada if her life or health is endangered by a continued pregnancy. She need only find, according to minimum requirements, a doctor or psychiatrist who will present her case to a board of three doctors at an accredited hospital. The board examines the case submitted and decides whether the hospital will grant an abortion.

Few women, however, are benefitting from the change in the law. According to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, 992 legal abortions were performed in six provinces from April to June this year. The abortion rate in Canada per 100 live births was 2.1, compared to a rate of 4.6 in Britain.

The doctors blame the law, which they maintain has too many restrictions. Prime Minister Trudeau has responded that the law itself is liberal enough—if its application makes it seem inadequate, it is up to those favoring a more liberal application of the law to pressure hospital boards.

Conservative hospital boards are a major contributing factor in the low number of legal abortions performed, but it is also true that the law itself has many built-in restrictions for the doctor, his patient and the boards.

Dr. Saibil, whose organization took out advertisements in Montreal newspapers listing the names of doctors who favor liberalized abortion laws, had this to say about the present law:

"In a place like this [Montreal's Jewish General Hospital] where the law is interpreted probably as liberally as anywhere else, the law doesn't let them do anywhere near the ones we feel should be done.

"Like this Greek woman who died. She had three kids. She didn't want to have another one. Is she going to go crazy? No. She's tough. She's tough as nails. So she won't go crazy. And so, according to the way this thing is set up, she couldn't get one. You've got to prove that you're practically going to go crazy. That you're liable to be seriously mentally disturbed by the continuation of the pregnancy. Most women probably would not qualify for these criteria."

To obtain an abortion you have to prove you're practically going crazy, says Dr. Eric Saibil.

The law restricts abortions to accredited hospitals, which are usually the larger hospitals found in major cities. Many of these accredited hospitals are officially Catholic and either have no boards or have boards with such a restrictive policy that their existence is meaningless. Doctors associated with such hospitals are unable to present their patients' cases. Of the remaining hospitals, some do not have boards, or assign low monthly abortion quotas.

"Another insuperable barrier to most women wanting a legal abortion is the fact that the hospital boards are usually composed of older physicians who believe that abortion is murder or is shady or is bad and who give a very narrow interpretation of the clause under which a woman may obtain an abortion," said Dr. Henry Morgentaler, president of the Humanist Association of Canada. A Montreal gynecologist, he has long been an opponent of Canada's restrictive abortion law and now faces court charges for alleged abortion activities.

"Many of the doctors who are supposed to present the cases of the women are afraid of these boards," he said. "They know the boards very often have a policy of discouraging abortions and they're afraid to be tagged as being pro-abortionist."

Dr. Morgentaler has experienced the effect of such a tag. The hospital he was associated with cut down his status from regular member to visiting member with almost no privileges when he started his abortion campaign about three years ago.

"The law is worded in such a way and the restrictions are so terrible that many women don't even apply because they know beforehand that there's no chance of getting one," he said. "And if they do apply to their doctors, their doctors often do not apply to their boards."

In his campaign against Canada's abortion laws, Dr. Morgentaler has come across cases of women with cancer, diabetes and Hodgkin's disease who have been turned down by hospital boards. Girls who had been raped and women threatening suicide have also been turned down, he said.

"I feel the abortion boards are to blame in many instances for women having to go to back-alley operators," he charged. "Because what is happening is that the hospital in effect says: 'Well, we wash our hands of your case. Go have yourself cut up by whoever you like. It's your problem. When you come back to us bleeding, and in danger of dying, then we'll treat you. We have an obligation to treat you.' So instead of letting women come in through the front door, to have a legal abortion with safety and dignity, they invite them to come through the back door as ambulance cases."

For the woman with money, there are always alternatives. She may try various hospital boards. She can afford the $300 to $600 fee for a safe illegal abortion performed by a competent physician — an operation for which the doctor faces life imprisonment and his patient two years. Or she may go to England, Japan or New York State where abortions are legal and more easily obtained.

For the low-income woman, it is another story. She cannot afford to go from doctor to doctor and board to board until accepted, nor can she afford the expense of a safe abortion. Social and financial grounds are not considered sufficient reason for abortion by the boards — a limitation which originates in the wording of the law. If the woman is refused, her only alternatives are to continue with an unwanted pregnancy, to try to abort herself or to commit herself to the back-street operator.

living in Toronto on welfare, was refused an abortion.

"At that time, I was supporting three children on $45 a month," she said. "And that had to include everything — clothes, food, transportation, cleaning, maintenance, laundry — you name it, it had to come out of that. One of the psychiatrists said to me: 'But that's impossible. How do you do it? It's impossible.' I said: 'That's one of the things I'm trying to tell you. I can't afford another child.'

"Your economic problems mean nothing to them. And whether you want the child means nothing to them. And the welfare of the child means nothing to them. They're concerned with your health.

"At the same hospital that I was refused the abortion," she went on to say, "there was another girl from a very middle-class background. And the kinds of questions she was asked by the psychiatrist were very different from the kinds of questions I was asked. She was told by the doctor afterwards she would have gotten the abortion had she answered that she hated her mother. At which point I nearly cracked up."

Mrs. Powers was advised she would not receive an abortion mainly because she was almost five months pregnant — although the limit set by law is 20 weeks.

She wonders now whether she would have been accepted had she agreed to sterilization — a decision which lower income women are, unofficially but not infrequently, asked to make.

The Abortion Collective, a group of Toronto girls who originally set up a birth control information centre last August only to find that abortion requests outnumbered contraception inquiries 4-1, now refer about 50 cases a week for legal abortions in Toronto

TEST YOUR POLITICS

Next week in Weekend, a quiz to determine where you stand politically. You just might find that you're further right or left than you think.

Women trying to self-abort have used everything from clothes hangers to falling down stairs, poison and vacuum cleaners or outside the country. Harriet Kidechel, one of the organizers, referred to Mrs. Powers' case.

"Part of Doris' problem is very symptomatic. We're getting mostly middle-class young women who quite often don't have any trouble. Working-class women, poor women, welfare women are treated terribly in hospitals. They're told things like: 'You know, this abortion will go much easier for you if you agree to sterilization.' Or else they're refused flatly. The working-class women quite often can't play the game as well as the middle-class women. And it is a ridiculous, insulting and humiliating game that you have to play. One woman I know had to start identifying ink blots before she could get an abortion. So she played their game all right . . . she told them all kinds of ridiculous, hideous things she was seeing in those ink blots because she knew that's what they wanted to hear. They had to certify her half-crazy before she could get an abortion. That's not an easy thing to do. Even if every woman could get through by doing that, half of them would be broken down and beaten by that time. The abortion would be meaningless because she wouldn't be a person any more.

It's Much Easier To Go To New York

Dissatisfied with our own laws, many Canadian women have taken advantage of the most liberal legislation in North America, which went into effect in New York state on July 1.

During the week following the start of the new law, some 250 women from the Toronto area crossed the border for abortions. A hospital in Plattsburgh, barely an hour's drive from Montreal, reported receiving a steady stream of requests from Canadian women. Not all could be handled locally, and many were being referred to hospitals and clinics further south.

"A lot of people," she explained, "feel that, 'Well, those nine months will do her good. Teach her a lesson. She'll have to sit down and accept the responsibility.' In the meantime, the woman has previously had who knows how many years of not being allowed to learn that responsibility; of asking her doctor questions and getting the reply, 'I'm the doctor'; of a whole society that shrouds female sexuality in mystery."

The Vancouver Women's Caucus, whose Abortion Caravan travelled across Canada from Vancouver to Ottawa this spring, tried to dispel some of that mystery. In towns and cities along their route, they held open meetings to discuss Canada's abortion laws in relation to the rights of women. The trip culminated in Ottawa on May 8, where about 400 women, who had come carrying such placards as "This uterus is not government property" and "Every child a wanted child," heard an emotionally-charged brief in which the women declared: "In this society, concern for the fetus is not matched by an equal concern for the living child."

For feminists, abortion on request—by which they mean the decision would be between a woman and her doctor—is only one part of a greater issue of women being able to control their bodies and their lives. For them, abortion is both a symbolic and a medical right.

For those women who have experienced abortions, the issue is considerably more immediate.

"The physical danger to which you expose yourself, not to even mention the emotional trauma, is tremendous," Joy Hayden, a 36-year-old Montreal nurse, said. "A person doesn't have an illegal abortion because she doesn't know better. She's desperate. And her desperation isn't going to go away because someone else, who obviously doesn't have the remotest understanding of what she's going through, is against abortion."

Miss Hayden's "desperation" took the form of trying to abort herself by such means as a gin bath, douching with diluted Lysol and taking quinine before she was able to obtain a safe, but illegal, abortion. Clothes hangers, vacuum cleaners, poison, pumping air into the uterus and falling down the stairs are only a few of the dangerous and often fatal methods women have used in attempts to self-abort.

A striking feature of the situation in Canada is that women are being denied safe abortions at the same time they are being denied adequate family planning facilities. Canada has no domestic policy on birth control, and thus spends little money subsidizing these services. Yet the Abortion Collective, the Family Planning Federation of Canada and several doctors reported that most of the women who come to them for advice on abortion are women whose contraceptives have failed or who have never been properly advised about birth control methods.

There is a definite need for more and better family planning centres for both married and single women, perhaps along the lines of those suggested by Brian Strehler, president of the Family Planning Federation of Canada. These would consist of community clinics in which specially-trained nonmedical personnel could advise women of the advantages and disadvantages of the various methods of contraception. The woman could then make a well-informed request to her doctor for the contraceptive she preferred.

However, even the most effective contraceptives—the Pill and the IUD (intra-uterine device) have a failure rate, in addition to which many women are reluctant to use them because of concern about the side effects or possible long-term risks. Other methods are still less reliable, and it is likely that, even if most women conscientiously use methods to avoid pregnancy, both married and single women will continue to experience unwanted pregnancies which for physical, emotional, social or economic reasons they cannot or are unwilling to carry to term.

It is time the federal government took heed of the growing number of persons and groups who maintain that such an intimate decision should be made by the woman or couple concerned, without being subject to reversal by those who would impose their ideas concerning morality on others who hold different beliefs.

If the government has no place in the bedrooms of the nation, one could well question what place the Just Society holds in the wombs of the women of Canada.

WHAT SORT OF WOMAN HAS AN

"Every female person who being pregnant, with intent to procure her own miscarriage, liable to imprisonment for two years"—subsection (2) of section 237 of the Canadian

THE FOLLOWING is a record of 586 "criminals" —an exclusive survey prepared by a group of McGill University medical students from a questionnaire placed in the office of a Montreal practitioner who performs therapeutically safe but illegal abortions. The method used was the vacuum suction technique.

It covers a period of seven months in 1969 and 1970 and was answered by women from 14 to 45 who were married, separated, single, divorcées or widows. One-third of them had children already and they represented a variety of religions and economic backgrounds. The fee ranged from nothing to $300, the average being $175.

There are approximately 100,000 illegal abortions per year in Canada, surely an indication that the government, the medical profession, the schools and voluntary organizations have failed to make contraceptive education and services widely available. However, all forms of contraception have a certain failure rate so unwanted pregnancies will happen even when precautions are taken.

The women in this survey have broken the law. They do not feel the choice between bearing an unwanted child or becoming a "criminal" adds much to the quality or dignity of the human condition.

Some Of The Facts From The Survey

- The mean age of the women was 24 years.
- Although 21 percent of the group were between 16 and 19 years old, 20.5 percent were over 30.
- 22.7 percent were married while 67.2 percent were single (the remainder being widowed, separated or divorced).
- 30 percent of the women had had children before. The average number of children in this group was 2.5.
- 38.9 percent were Roman Catholic, 43 percent were Protestant, 10.9 percent were Jewish and the rest belonged to other religious denominations.
- A larger percentage of Roman Catholics no longer held their religious views than did Protestant or Jewish, and those Catholics who still held their religious views were more likely to feel guilt both before and after the abortion.
- 62 percent of the group reported that they had attended college or university, a high average which is probably due to the fact that the physician in question was well known to university students (one-third of the women were students).
- The high percentage of students partly explains the high proportion of single women, which is unusual compared to European countries with liberal abortion laws. In 1964-1965, married women constituted from 55 percent (Sweden) to 79 percent (Denmark) of all the women receiving abortions in those countries.
- 86 percent of the married women discussed the abortion with their husbands. Of these men, 94 percent agreed with the abortion.
- 84.5 percent of single women discussed the abortion with the man responsible. Of these men, 91 percent agreed with the abortion, 83 percent offered financial help.
- 68 percent of all the women said they planned to see the man responsible again. However, 80 percent of the women who discussed the abortion with the man said they planned to see him again, indicating a stable, long-lasting relationship.
- 53 percent of the women used no means of contraception to prevent pregnancy.
- 47 percent used some means of contraception, obviously unsuccessful.

Why Were No Means Of Contraception Used?

Some of the other reasons were:

"Four different doctors wouldn't give me birth control pills."

"Negligence."

"Was a virgin—did not engage in intercourse, but was exposed exteriorly."

"The man told me he was sterile due to exposure, in service, to radiation."

"Didn't know of a doctor who would give contraceptive devices while single."

"Rape."

"Don't like the fuss and preparation of contraceptives."

"Had IUD removed owing to infection and thought my timing was safe."

"Depression and very careless attitude toward the future."

"I couldn't take the pill."

"Lack of information on contraception."

"Lived at home, and was afraid of my parents' knowledge of my using precautions."

Methods used by the 47 percent who used contraception unsuccessfully by couple were:

Older Women Are More Likely To Use Contraceptives Than Younger Women

- 63 percent of the 125 women in the 14-to-19-year age group failed to use them while only 41 percent of the 65 women in the 30-34 age group did not use contraceptives.
- 58 percent of the Roman Catholic women did not use any contraceptives, comparing fairly closely with 50 percent for Protestants and 53 percent of Jewish.
- Women who had already had children were more likely to use contraceptives than those who hadn't; 57 percent of women with no children didn't use contraceptives while only 39 percent of women with children neglected to use them.
- Similarly, only 32 percent of married women didn't use contraceptives while 60 per-

● 71 percent of the women consulted another doctor before. In a surprisingly low 3.2 percent of the cases the doctor was totally unsympathetic and unhelpful. A great many referred the women to a doctor who would give a therapeutic abortion.

● The married women in the group gave a variety of reasons for wanting an abortion:

I have all the children I want	67 women
I cannot afford another child	34
I am too old to have another	5
Don't want any children yet	24

Other reasons included rape, health, marital difficulties and mental depression.

The women were asked if they agreed or disagreed with this statement:

"It is the basic human right of a woman to limit her own reproduction without fear of legal or social recrimination. Therefore, all laws that would compel any woman to bear a child against her will must be eliminated."

Some Comments The Women Added To The Questionnaire

"All the children born should be planned, wanted and loved."

"My psychiatrist recommended a therapeutic abortion but my obstetrician told me, 'You're not crazy enough'."

"We shall carry on our relationship as before, hopefully to marry and have a family."

Weekend's O'Brien found North Sea winds were a challenge during the 1970 British Open. Below, Gary Player struggles from a 17th-hole bunker.

If I Have But One More Round To Play...

Let me play it at the much-cursed, much-loved Old Course in St. Andrews

ST. ANDREWS, SCOTLAND.

FOR THE third time in 15 years I tackled the Old Course, but this time with new heart. My previous visits had been duffer disasters, made more painful by people rating the site as 6,951 yards of Scottish cow pasture enhanced by four centuries of exaggerated legend.

But covering the British Open here in July showed me the challenge is stern for golf's greats as well. Only eight ended at par or under. In the five rounds including a playoff by winner Jack Nicklaus and runner-up Doug Sanders, each went over par on two rounds. Gary Player failed to survive the third-day cut, the same Gary I followed for four days at the supposedly-harsher Carnoustie course without seeing him mark more than a five for any one hole in winning the 1968 British Open.

So the challenge is very real and I faced it with determination to find out just why. With a brisk wind off the North Sea at my back, I belted the longest drive of my life: The roll dropped the ball into Swilken Burn 250 yards away. That was the start.

I fished out my ball, took my penalty and made bogey five. Not bad. But now the course veered to the right and there was a crosswind. As I tried to adjust, the wind died suddenly and I ended in heather and gorse. It's more like hitting out of a thick wad of chewing gum and the ball is liable to go skimming over humps and hollows into the endless array of bunkers. Hell's Bunker has sides that go straight up.

Almost every hole has a history of disasters.

From the tee at the sixth, the hole is hidden and if you play it safe you might be in the gully just before the green. At the Hole O'Cross that serves as the green for the fifth and 13th holes, you might go for the wrong flag and land inches away from it only to find you face a 50-yard putt.

On the 18th tee we had to wait for a line of donkeys to cross the fairway on the way to the beach for kiddie rides.

Because the course has stayed close to its original design of nine holes out and nine almost straight back, duplicating many fairways and greens, a shift in the wind at the turnabout ninth can leave you against the wind all the way — or with it. The wind causes the Old Course to play differently every day.

You play the course for a $1.50 green fee, but on Sundays it reverts — according to a centuries-old tradition — to a park where mothers wheel prams and dogs romp.

At the Royal And Ancient clubhouse an official told me he has nothing against our manicured golf courses in North America. "But here golf was born and this is how we feel it should be played."

Palmer, Nicklaus, Casper and Sanders have all told me of the awe they experience only on the Old Course. Certainly with $13,000 as top prize, money didn't draw them to the British Open.

Again I ended calling the Old Course the cursed course, but one wish has emerged stronger than ever. If I have one more round to play, make it here.

CAROUSEL and candy floss. Side shows and taffy apples. Rows and rows of mouth-watering treats contributed by farmers' wives for the cooking contest. Tables of garden flowers that had been lovingly tended and watered until the great day arrived. Displays of patchwork quilts and tablecloths by the Ladies Guild. Proud farmers and their prize cattle. A packed arena for the horse show, where trotters, jumpers and ponies get great applause. The even greater applause that goes to the youngster who wins the potato race.

Does all this sound like bygone days?

It isn't. It's all here and now in many parts of Canada where the country fair is the most important event of the year.

The one we visited, to get these pictures, was in Ormstown, Quebec, where 15-year-old Joan Gillis modelled teenage fashions and had a wonderful day at the fair.

The clothes she wears are designed specifically for the teenager. Most are in the moderate price range and all are available in stores across Canada.

Wants The "Unconditional Leadership Of The World"

Canada's poet-folksinger thinks the world is ready to get together again — with him leading the way

PARIS.

EVERYTHING about his life is there in his songs, said Leonard Cohen over the phone, so why would an interview be necessary? Why, indeed, would anybody want to talk to the 36-year-old Canadian poet and singer whose verses in print and on sound waves have been luring thousands? It's not that he has a message. He can only know for himself, he says. But that knowing of self is a rare and courageous thing that has instinctively pulled others to the promise of peace. When a man tells you so much of himself, you have to become involved.

The word started circulating in volume after the songs of Leonard Cohen were aired on a long-playing record called, appropriately, The Songs Of Leonard Cohen, in 1967, a new plateau in his life. By 1969 and the debut of a second LP, Songs From A Room, most of Europe and even Japan had tuned in. The leftist Paris review, le Nouvel Observateur, labelled him "le folksinger de l'année" and all of Paris agreed, judging by the crowd around me that evening at the venerable old Olympia music hall, the last stand on Leonard Cohen's first-ever concert tour, which had taken him through seven European capitals.

So ardent was the multitude at Olympia that it swarmed up on stage, and the police moved in. Leonard Cohen defied the system and won. The faithful remained, yet most of them didn't even know of Leonard Cohen's literary life.

"Quoi? Il écrit de la poésie? Cinq livres de poèmes! Deux romans, aussi. (What? He writes poetry? Five books of poems! Two novels as well.) Alors, il est vraiment formidable!" was the usual reply when I documented my fellow Canadian.

"Quoi? Il est canadien? Moi, je pensais qu'il était américain."

And given the chance, I told them. There were the books of poetry: the Jewish-rooted Let Us Compare Mythologies (1956) and the love-inspired Spice Box Of The Earth (1961) and the war-weary Flowers For Hitler (1964). Leonard Cohen's first novel of pungent puberty in Montreal, The Favorite Game (1963) burned the bundling boards. Students cheered. In 1966 came more poetry, Parasites Of Heaven and a second novel, Beautiful Losers, described as "a disagreeable religious epic of incomparable beauty". Selected Poems appeared in 1968, and in 1969 the governor-general's prize for poetry was awarded to Leonard Cohen.

Even the Royal Winnipeg Ballet joined the fanfare by staging a ballet, The Shining People Of Leonard Cohen, to his poems, recited by choreographer Brian MacDonald. It premiered in Paris in June before a thunderous audience.

But Cohen was singing his verses to his own music that night. I went to the Olympia. He began with Bird On A Wire, a good, artfully simple musical arrangement that packaged the even better words.

It was not a singing voice but a pleasant voice, a warm baritone that sometimes broke into gravel in despair. Because he recites, rather than sings, his words are not blurred. They ring through clear and untarnished. Because he recites, rather than sings, there is an unnerving honesty about his performance. I think it was this that came through to the French, German and Dutch kids at the Olympia who didn't know what he was singing, but understood what he meant. He was reaching out for them as much as they were for him.

Communication, his theme, is the goal encircled by a moat, not so much of others' obstinacies, but of your own fears and insecurities; when it's occasionally achieved, as it is in the song of a crazy dream of a girl, Suzanne, the world is flooded with light.

After jumping the hurdles of Roslyn School, Westmount High and McGill University, Leonard Cohen had paid the dues of a proper Jewish son of a well-off Westmount family in the clothing business and found Greece an easier place to discover his own. At the concert, his encore was So Long, Marianne, the song of his severing with the blonde Norwegian girl with whom he lived on the island of Hydra and whose son he helped raise there for almost 10 years.

A few days after the concert, Leonard Cohen was relaxing in his hotel suite near the fashionable Champs-Elysées — "not my scene, but somebody else made the bookings", he said, almost apologetically. We were talking over after-breakfast coffee with an Austrian journalist who came to know Cohen through his poetry translated into German. Swedish and Japanese translations exist and a French edition is on the presses. Leonard had on the same tan jacket, pants and shirt he wore for the concert. "I wear this all the time now. I finally found something I feel right in."

You don't really "interview" him. Rather, he walks around talking about places, people and things.

Sometimes, in talking to Cohen, you have your questions turned back to you. He graciously accepted a differing opinion like that of the Austrian journalist, who said that he thought something was sacrificed by the show and singing. This "purist" reaction, as Leonard called it, comes from Canadians and other poetry initiates.

"There comes a time when you have to do things," he explained. "I know both kinds of life. Sure, sometimes I vulgarize myself, but I don't care. I used to be very careful, very cautious but it made me very unhappy. So I'm less careful now and I feel better.

"Maybe I am in danger of losing the noblest element of my character, but I don't think so. I think the central things of the soul are indestructible. I'd like to lead a noble life. Really, I would. But I did once and I bored myself to death.

"I've been baptised in fire, ambition, all these things we go through, and my nature has been vul-

New Healing Substance Shrinks Hemorrhoids, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance in Preparation H proven to shrink hemorrhoids... and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes, and speeds up healing of the injured inflamed tissues.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Now Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

THE NEW MUSCLE CARS

What happens when a novice driver, namely Weekend's Ernest Hillen, sets out to drive Detroit's newest and most powerful monsters? Well, let's just say that Hillen survived. He'll tell you the rest in next week's issue.

Singing isn't new to Leonard Cohen, who delighted the young audience at the Paris Olympia. At 18, he sang with the Buckskin Boys, a group which turned on Montreal teenagers in the 50s garized and destroyed. It has been a long risk from that first poem I wrote at 15 to that concert the other night at Olympia. With each book I write I feel a further deviation from the original flower, but what can I do?

"Sometimes I feel that every day that goes by, I blow. Sometimes I feel that my life is a sell-out and that I'm the greatest comedian of my generation. But I have to keep going. I can't remain 15 and a virgin. So now I'm 36 and greedy. I'm willing to be this.

"I was once never able to stay in the same room with four people. Only a girl who adored me. I feel better now. The more vulgar I get, the more concerned with others I get. I'm trying to cure myself, and the only way to cure myself is to take over the world.

"This is my adventure. My greatest need is to be interesting to myself. I have to have material. I like to make my life tangible. So I toughen myself to do things that are hard for me to do."

Writing, for Leonard Cohen, is that test of character that he approaches to reconfirm his worth, justify his existence; 1965 was a very bad year when he embarked on Beautiful Losers.

"I had to write that book. I was at the end," he told me another evening after asking what I thought of that agonized triptych.

"I hated myself," he continued. "I said if I couldn't even write, it wasn't worth living. So I sat down to my desk and said I would use only the books that were there: a rare book on Catherine Tekakwitha [the 17th-century Canadian Indian martyr] that a friend had given me, a 1943 Blue Beetle comic book and a few others.

"I think it's the best thing I've ever done. It's a technical masterpiece," he said simply. "It was written with blood. It took me nine months and at the end I was writing 20 hours a day and going only on pep drugs and hashish."

Singing, for Leonard Cohen, is just a further step up the mountain of self. He was a singer before he was a published poet. At 18, he sang with the Buckskin Boys, who turned on teenagers around Montreal in the early 50s. When he started writing,

"There was always an invisible guitar." He continued to play for his own purification and friends' entertainment and in 1967 in the ebb tide of Beautiful Losers, he went to the Newport Folk Festival where friends virtually pushed him on the stage, or so he says. It was time for another step.

At the subsequent New York Central Park concert with Judy Collins, "I was so terrified I couldn't tune my guitar and froze after the first verse of Suzanne. I finally got back out there on stage, but only with two girls hanging onto me and everybody saying 'You're great'," he recounted.

"I started hanging around New York hotels and Los Angeles motels. There were some girls I was following. It was pretty awful and I had no money.

"I decided I couldn't live as a coward. I had to sing or I was nothing. I also started to accept guidance and to allow people to love me. It's a difficult thing, to allow people to touch you. It became evident that I had work to do in the world. I knew all about solitude and nothing about cohesion and unity."

Solitude was distinctly lacking in Leonard Cohen's life during my sit-in. There was Sabina, a German girl who joined the gang after the Frankfurt concert, Claire, a French girl who had known Leonard for some time, her boy friend Marcel, Myriam, a fledging French singer, the girls of the chorus and others just dropping in and dropping out.

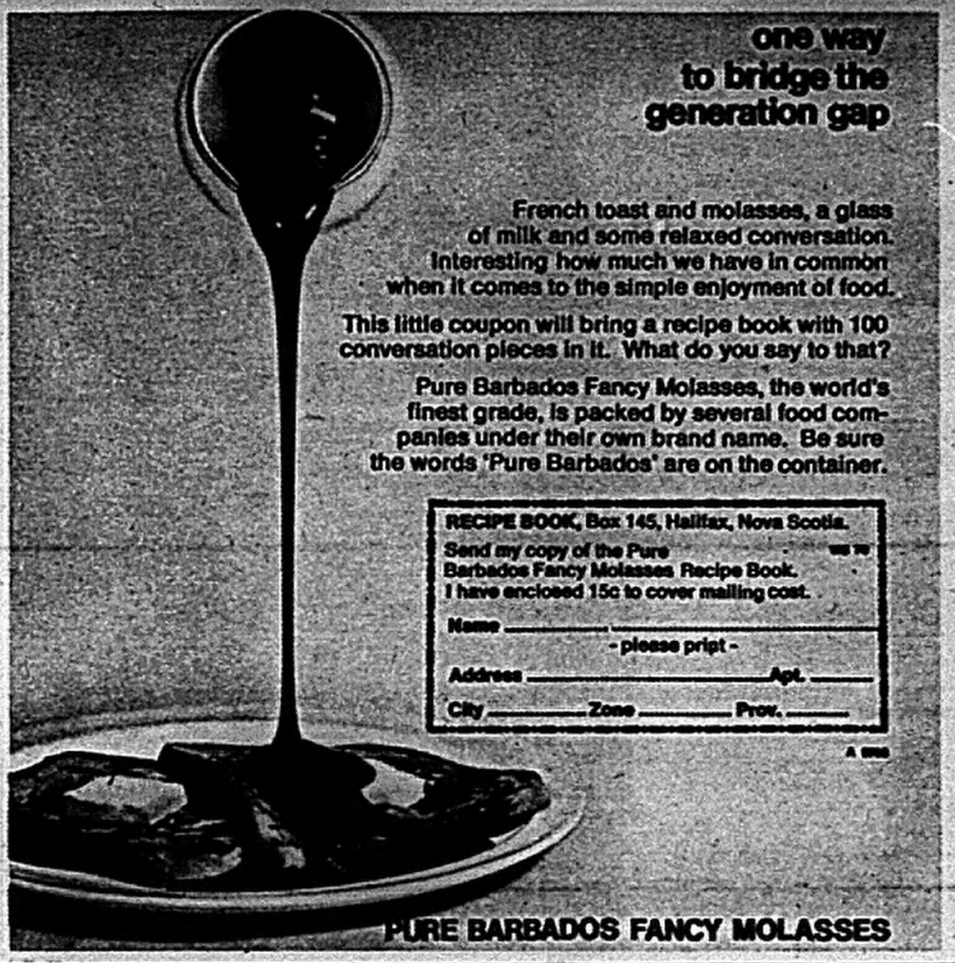
Next evening when Claire was washing her hair and Marcel playing the guitar and Sabina having a snooze, he asked me if I had read The Book Of Changes, a Chinese work that took 1,000 years to write. "It's about the phases of arrangement, holding together, splitting apart and decay — all the possible phenomena affecting a given moment of time. The book has been a sort of teacher for me," he said.

"I feel it's time now for me and others to get together. I feel there's a great getting together in the world again. It was there, that communication, at Olympia.

"I want to take over the unconditional leadership of the world, I want to lead the world to a new sensibility and there has to be a leader, a figure to do it. Sure, you can write that some little guy sang for the first time at Olympia and now he wants to take over the world. But I really believe the world is falling into step and people are getting together again.

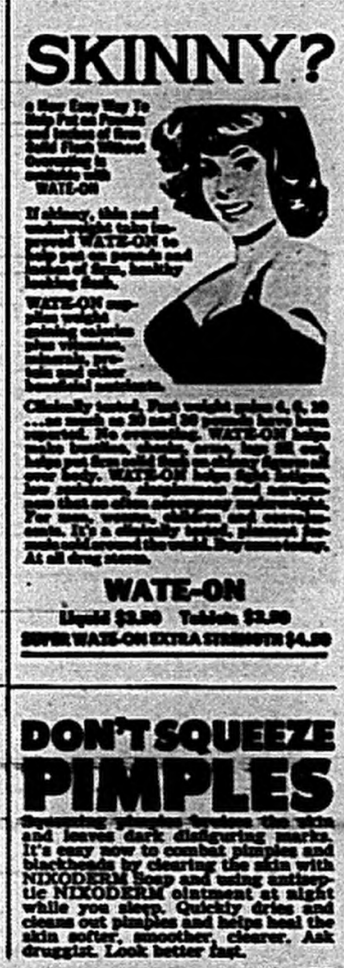
"We'll need everybody doing what they do best, not just singers. They're already starting to do it. The main thing is to let them know they're not alone.

"Suffering has led me to wherever I am. Suffering has made me rebel against my own weakness. Suffering makes you strong. Now, in the midst of my suffering I refuse to suffer. It's there, but I refuse to suffer.



"Sex used to be the only thing that relieved suffering for me. I still like women and sex but for different reasons now," he said, quietly.

"It's wrong to feel sorry for people. It just confirms them in their suffering. It makes it an end in itself. Suffering is really the way you learn what not to do. This thing I want to do in the world relieves suffering."



The poet as a young man suffered most. Mainly because of women, he says. "I wanted them and couldn't have them. That's really how I started writing poetry. I wrote notes to women so as to have them. They began to show them around and soon people started calling it poetry. When it didn't work with women, I appealed to God."

So women and God have left the deepest traces on Leonard Cohen. Also, he agrees, his triple isolation as a Jew in Montreal, in Canada, created a sense of distance and difference necessary for a writer to comment on himself and society.

"But all those borders have been set on fire and I am one man now."◁

Here's A Taste Of The Future—Ugh!

"HERE'S the nastiest news of the week," said the man in the next office as he tossed a clipping on my desk.

Taste Buds May Be Chemically Regulated was the heading on the news story, which said that a United States scientist believes that our taste buds' primary function is that of a chemical sieve that keeps most of the flavor away from the taste nerves. His idea is to regulate our taste buds "to allow the consumption of nourishing but unpalatable substances".

"That's a shocker, isn't it?" said T.M.I.T.N.O.

"You don't want your taste buds regulated?" I asked.

"Thanks but no thanks," said he. "Oh, I know what they're doing. They're planning to get us ready for the day when regular food runs short and we have to start chomping on ugh food. Algae and whimperknuckles and . . ."

"Whimperknuckles? What are whimperknuckles?"

"I'm not sure — but they're the sort of ugh stuff scientists will try to palm off on us if they get our taste buds regulated."

"Well, if they're regulated then you won't mind whimperknuckles, or whatever," I said.

"Maybe not," said T.M.I.T.N.O. "But what I'll mind is having them regulated so I won't be able to taste a juicy steak and corn on the cob and apple pan dowdy and . . ."

"And lemon soufflé and chocolate cake and mushrooms," I interrupted. "You're right for once! It is the nastiest news story of the week. It doesn't give us much to look forward to, does it?"

"No," said T.M.I.T.N.O. "And that's why I'm heading for the oasis around the corner. I'm going to pleasure my taste buds with a few pints before they're ruined forever by some damn fool scientist."

The Leashed She Could Do

"The other day a small girl with a big dog on a leash came into the variety shop where I work," writes Edna Nichols, of London. "And when I told her she mustn't bring the dog in, she said, 'Well, will you hold him for me while I get my candy?'

"So I took the leash and she flashed me a great smile and said, 'Thanks! I'll be back in a minute — the corner store has the candy I want but they wouldn't hold my dog!' "

Reflection Of The Past

If the fashion people insist on bringing back the longer skirt, maybe it's time to bring back the old console — that hall table with the low mirror.

to Doyle

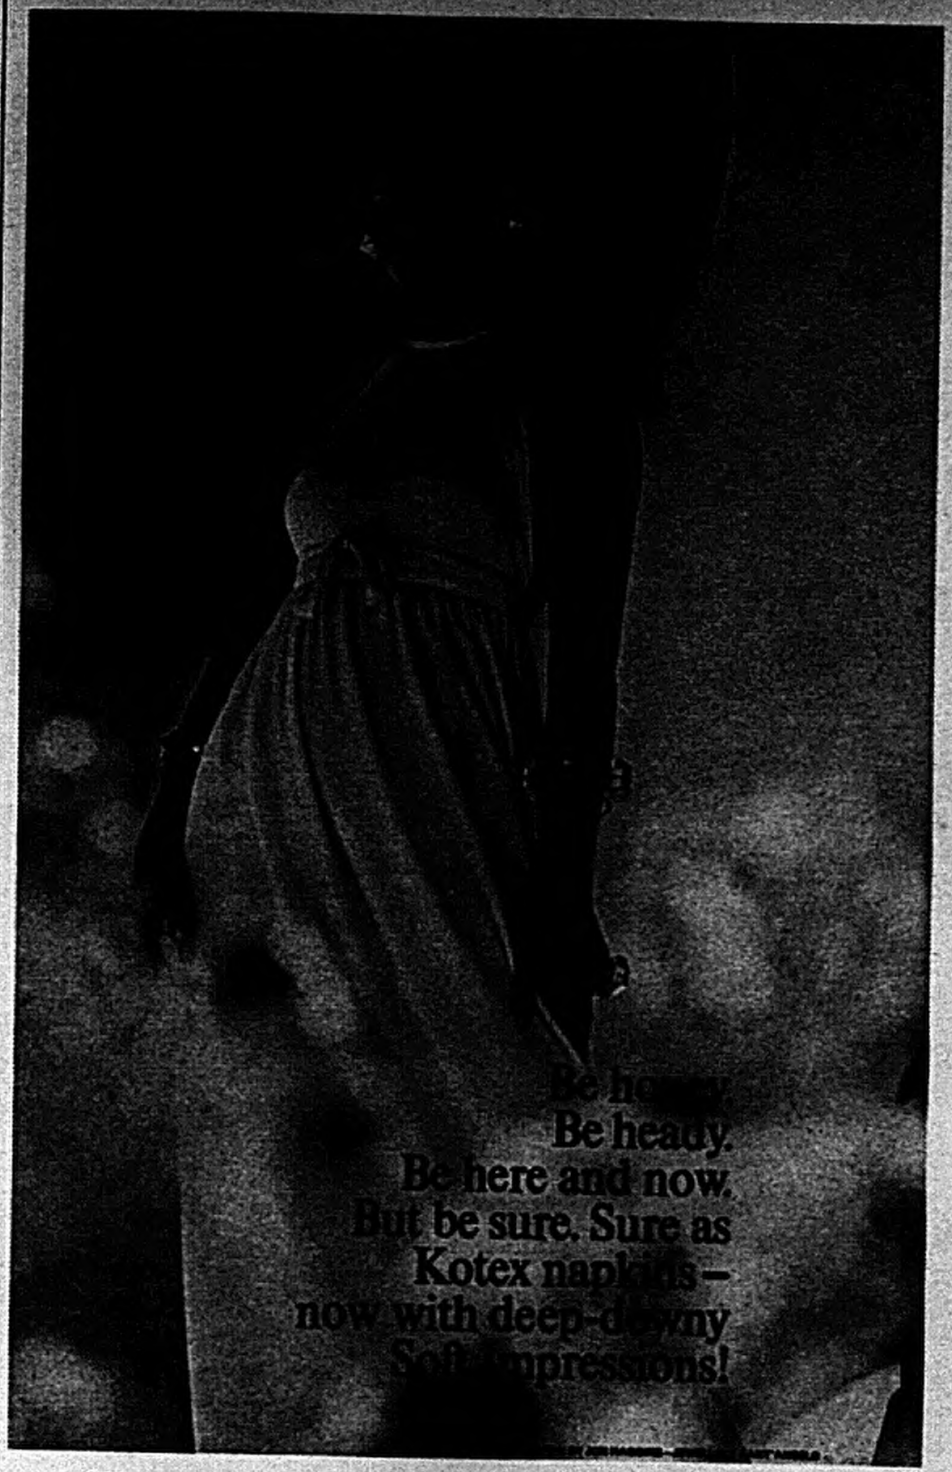
An old-fashioned console table with low mirror is useful for viewing a new-fashioned midi skirt.

That's what I decided when I saw this magnificent mahogany console in Montreal's Nearly New Shop, which is run by the women's auxiliaries of the Royal Victoria and Montreal Children's hospitals.

The volunteer workers in the shop agreed that the mirror would be convenient for midi viewing, and they helped me arrange to have this picture taken of model Glenise Butcher. It shows how useful the bygone piece of furniture could be today.

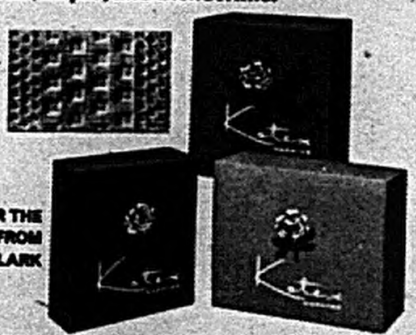
But none of us was sure that the original purpose of the mirror was to give women a reassuring look at their hemlines before they swept out of the house.

So I asked Montreal antiquarian John L. Russell if he thought so.



"Most likely," he told me. "Consoles were in many elegant halls — and sometimes drawing rooms — throughout the 19th century, and they almost invariably had a low mirror. There was also a mirror above. Usually a very high one. That's why a console often turns up without its upper mirror. The owner or his descendants moved to houses where the ceilings weren't high enough for it."

You Name It



Driving between Vancouver and Seattle, Jim Spencer spotted a truck with a back panel reading: [illegible]ter Drilling. As he passed it he was pleased to see that its owner had the suitable name C. Wells.

As a swap; here's another suitable name, Will Last. It belongs, of course, to a shoemaker.

Artichokes And Eggplants:

The Inside Story

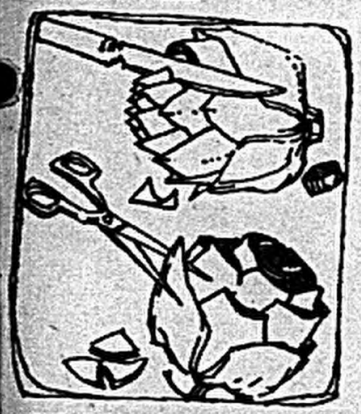
By Margo Oliver
Weekend Magazine Food Editor

THE TWO VEGETABLES that please my eye most are artichokes and eggplants.

And they please my stomach too — they are perfectly delicious to eat. But I keep having people tell me they've never cooked either one.

What's the reason? These rather exotic vegetables decorate the counters in fruit stores almost all year around — so that can't be it. My guess is because they look exotic we are afraid to try them for fear we won't like them. Or maybe it's simply that we don't know what to do with them.

In any case, while they are unusual they are easy to cook and especially good to eat.



Eggplants are the simplest to handle. The only secret is not to overcook. If you think you don't like these purple beauties perhaps you've eaten them soft and mushy from overcooking. Done properly they are slightly firm and very tasty. The easiest possible way to cook them is frying and you'll find a recipe here.

Artichokes are a little more complicated to prepare — and to eat. But I've given complete instructions for cooking and serving here and, once you've done it and served the fancy thistle hot or cold, you'll wonder why you didn't do it years ago.

TO COOK AND SERVE ARTICHOKES

To prepare:

Wash thoroughly. Cut about 1 inch from the top of the artichoke with a very sharp knife to remove main prickly section. Trim tips from remaining leaves with kitchen shears.

Pull off loose leaves around the bottom and trim stem slightly. Dip trimmed sections into lemon juice immediately to keep from darkening.

To cook:

Drop prepared artichokes into a deep kettle filled with boiling water (a 5-quart kettle will hold about 6 medium artichokes). Add 2 tsp. salt, a bay leaf, 6 slices lemon, ¼ cup salad oil and 6 peppercorns. Cover, bring back to a boil, and boil until a leaf can be pulled easily from the stalk or the stem is fork tender. For medium artichokes (2¾ to 3¼ inches in diameter) this should take 20 to 35 minutes.

Lift out of water and turn upside down to drain well. Cut off stems at base so artichokes can sit evenly (stems are good to eat too).

To serve:

Serve hot or cold on a plate with sauce in a small dish or hollow out centre for sauce.

Open centre leaves slightly with fingers if you wish to hollow out centre. Pull out the thin leaves right in the centre then use a small spoon, a melon baller or a grapefruit knife to loosen and lift out fuzzy choke.

To eat:

Pull off petals one by one and dip base of each into sauce. Pull meaty portion between teeth and discard rest of leaf. Lift off and discard choke when outer leaves have been eaten if this has not already been done. Bottom that is left is the choice bit. Eat it with a knife and fork and more sauce.

LEMON BUTTER SAUCE
(for hot artichokes)

1/3 cup butter
1/2 tsp. salt
1/8 tsp. pepper
1/4 cup lemon juice
2 tbsp. finely-chopped parsley

Melt butter in small saucepan. Remove from heat and add remaining ingredients. Return to heat and stir until warmed through.

WINE BUTTER
(for hot artichokes)

1/4 cup butter
1/4 tsp. salt
Dash cayenne
3 tbsp. white wine

Heat butter in small saucepan until frothy and golden brown. Remove from heat and add remaining ingredients. Return to heat and stir just until warmed through.

HERB GARLIC SAUCE
(for hot artichokes)

2 cloves garlic, crushed
1/2 tsp. salt
1 tbsp. dried leaf basil
1/2 cup chopped parsley
1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
1/2 cup olive oil

Mix garlic and salt. Combine with remaining ingredients in blender. Whirl to mix well. (If you don't have a blender, chop parsley very fine and shake ingredients together in a small jar with a tight lid.)

HORSERADISH CREAM
(for cold artichokes)

1 cup cream-style cottage cheese
1 tbsp. lemon juice
2 tsp. prepared horseradish
1/2 tsp. salt
2 tbsp. light cream

Combine all ingredients in glass of blender and whirl until smooth.

CURRY MAYONNAISE
(for cold artichokes)

1 cup commercial mayonnaise
1 tsp. curry powder
2 tsp. finely-chopped parsley

Blend all ingredients.

ARTICHOKES VINAIGRETTE

6 medium artichokes
4 cups water
1 tsp. salt
1 cup white vinegar
1/4 cup olive OR salad oil
4 small cloves garlic, peeled and cut in half
1/2 cup olive oil
1/2 cup red wine vinegar
2 tbsp. chopped parsley
1 clove garlic, crushed

Wash and trim artichokes as directed in To Cook And Serve Artichokes.

Combine water, salt, white vinegar, 1/4 cup oil and 4 cloves garlic in large saucepan. Bring to a boil. Drop in artichokes, cover and cook about 20 minutes or until you can pull a leaf off easily. Lift out of water and invert to drain well.

Cut each artichoke in half and remove chokes. Put, cut side down, in a shallow baking dish large enough to hold the halves in a single layer.

Combine 1/2 cup olive oil, wine vinegar, parsley and crushed garlic in a small jar with a tight lid and shake to blend well. Pour over artichokes.

Cover dish with transparent wrap and refrigerate for several hours, spooning the vinegar mixture over the vegetables several times. Serve very cold as salad. (Serves 6.)

EGGPLANT CASSEROLE

1 medium eggplant
¼ cup flour
1 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
½ tsp. paprika
3 tbsp. olive oil
10-oz. can cream of mushroom soup
½ cup milk
2 tsp. grated onion
½ cup grated Cheddar cheese
2 tomatoes, peeled and sliced
½ cup fine dry bread crumbs
2 tbsp. butter, melted

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Butter a shallow baking dish about 12 x 7 x 2 inches.

Cut eggplant in ½ inch slices (do not peel).

Combine flour, salt, pepper and paprika in a flat dish and dip eggplant slices in this mixture to coat both sides.

Heat oil in large heavy skillet and brown eggplant quickly and lightly on both sides, lifting slices out and putting in prepared baking dish as they turn golden (add more oil to skillet as necessary).

Combine soup, milk and onion in saucepan and heat to boiling. Pour over eggplant. Sprinkle with cheese. Top with tomato slices.

Combine bread crumbs and melted butter and sprinkle over all.

Bake 15 to 20 minutes or until crumbs are browned and sauce is bubbling. (Serves 4 to 6.)

FRIED EGGPLANT

½ cup butter
1 cup fine dry bread crumbs
2 tbsp. grated Parmesan cheese
2 eggs
1 tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
1 medium eggplant

Heat butter in small saucepan until it foams up. Remove from heat, skim off and discard foam. Pour off clear yellow oil and discard sediment in bottom of pan.

Pour enough of the clear yellow oil (clarified butter) into a large heavy skillet to coat the bottom well. Begin heating.

Mix bread crumbs and cheese in a flat dish. Beat eggs, salt and pepper together in another flat dish.

Cut eggplant (unpeeled) into slices ½ inch thick. Dip these slices first into egg then into crumbs to coat both sides. Fry slices quite quickly just until golden. Lift out as they brown and drain on paper towelling. Keep slices hot in low oven (200 degrees) while you complete frying. Add more of the clarified butter to skillet as it is needed. Serve hot. (Serves 4 to 6.)

STUFFED EGGPLANT

1 large eggplant
2 tbsp. butter
¼ cup finely-chopped onion
1 cup ½-inch bread cubes
¼ cup chopped parsley
1 tsp. salt
½ tsp. pepper
2 eggs
½ cup ½-inch bread cubes
¼ cup grated sharp Cheddar cheese
2 tbsp. butter

Fill a large saucepan with boiling water and drop in eggplant. Boil until tender but still firm when tested with a fork (be careful not to overcook), about 15 minutes. Remove from water.

Heat oven to 350 degrees.

Cut eggplant in half lengthwise as soon as it is cool enough to handle. Scoop out pulp being careful not to break the skins. Chop pulp coarsely.

Heat 2 tbsp. butter in heavy skillet. Add onion and cook gently, stirring, 3 minutes. Add pieces of eggplant and cook and stir 2 minutes. Remove from heat.

Add 1 cup of bread cubes, parsley, salt and pepper. Beat eggs lightly with a fork. Add bread mixture and toss together lightly with a fork.

Pile this mixture into eggplant skins. Set them in a lightly buttered baking dish. Sprinkle with remaining ½ cup bread cubes, then with cheese. Dot with 2 tbsp. butter.

Bake about 20 minutes or until lightly browned. Cut each half into two pieces and serve immediately. (Serves 4.)

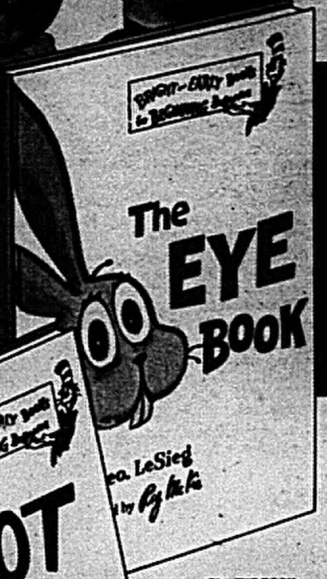
Great news from Dr. Seuss for parents of 2 to 6 year olds!



Take these colorful

3 BRIGHT and EARLY BOOKS all for only $1.65 ($7.50 value)

with your child's trial enrollment in

The Beginning Readers' Program

For the first time ever, there's a new kind of book for very young children. Created by Dr. Seuss and his friends, they're called BRIGHT AND EARLY BOOKS— remarkable little stories that give your youngster a jet-propelled start into the world of reading.

The EYE BOOK
by Theo. LeSieg† illustrations by Roy McKie
A delightful book about eyes and what they see! It explains simple concepts in easy words and wonderfully whimsical pictures that will enchant any child.
† Dr. Seuss's pen name

The FOOT BOOK
by Dr. Seuss
Up feet, down feet. Here runs shoes feet. Only Dr. Seuss, using simple rhymes and delightfully daffy drawings, could have created a book about funny feet like this for kids. Your youngster will love it.

INSIDE OUTSIDE UPSIDE DOWN
by Stan and Jan Berenstain
Here are the famous Berenstain bears to tickle little funny bones. Simple words are combined with hilarious pictures to make your youngster giggle with joy.

For the first time ever, there's a new kind of book for very young children. Created by Dr. Seuss and his friends, they're called BRIGHT AND EARLY BOOKS— remarkable little stories that give your youngster a jet-propelled start into the world of reading.

Dr. Seuss and his friends have done a wonderful thing! They've created BRIGHT AND EARLY BOOKS that charm even very little kids into reading.

Extra easy, breezy and gay, BRIGHT AND EARLY BOOKS make learning to read really child's play for 2-to-6-year-olds. They talk to a tot about things that are delightfully familiar to him: his eyes and the fun of seeing... his feet and the marvels they can perform ...the ideas of "inside, outside and upside down" that a young child finds so fascinating.

But humor is the real magic of these enchanting new books. The big, cheery illustrations are so funny, a youngster can't resist them—and from there it's a natural step to reading the clever (but very simple) rhyming words and phrases. All it takes is a bit of "read aloud" help from you, and your youngster will be on his way. Slowly at first, then with more assurance, he'll be reading proudly all by himself!

From this happy start—on to bigger things!

The three BRIGHT AND EARLY BOOKS shown here are the starter books in the BEGINNING READERS' PROGRAM. They cost $7.50 at the publisher's catalog price. But you may have all three for only $1.65 as an introduction. They'll get your "beginning" beginner off to a happy start in reading. And then it's an easy glide right into reading regular BEGINNER BOOKS...for they begin where BRIGHT AND EARLY BOOKS leave off!

As a member of the program, your child will receive a BEGINNER BOOK each month, and you will be billed only $1.65 plus delivery instead of the publisher's catalog price of $2.50 (you save on every book). After accepting four monthly selections, you may cancel membership at any time.

Enjoy this 10-day treat free!

It's a delight to watch Dr. Seuss and his friends charm your child into reading. We'd like you to see how they do it for yourself. So you're invited to accept the three starter books shown here for a 10-day free trial. You must be truly delighted, or you may return the three introductory books and owe nothing. All But 55 Hostages Freed by Guerrillas

Hostages Reach Cyprus

Cypriot airport officials help unidentified children who arrived at Nicosia airport. They were among the first 180 hostages released by guerrillas. They flew to Cyprus from Amman, Jordan, aboard chartered Royal Jordanian Airlines planes. (AP Photo)

Israel Seizes Arabs As Counter-hostages

TEL AVIV (CP) — Israel has rounded up 450 Arabs, accused them of having links with Palestinian guerrillas who hijacked four planes last week, and sent word to guerrillas in Jordan that if 55 hostages still held are not released "it will be very bad for the Arabs."

It was reported that one of the Arabs deported to Jordan said that he had passed on to the guerrilla leaders a warning from Israel that Arab prisoners would be executed if anything happens to the hijack hostages.

The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, the Peking-oriented group that hijacked the airliners, immediately responded Sunday by promising in a statement in Beirut to "retaliate with complete ruthlessness."

A military spokesman in Tel Aviv said the roundup netted 350 Arab residents of the occupied Jordanian west bank and 100 from Egypt's Gaza Strip.

At least 80 of those arrested were women, the spokesman said.

The informants added that two were close relatives of Dr. George Habash, the Popular Front leader.

Israel officials said two Arab doctors from Nablus, both known supporters of the guerrilla organization, were told to make contact with Popular Front leaders in Amman and warn them to "release the passengers or it will be very bad for the Arabs."

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: A high pressure system is crossing the upper Great Lakes region this morning and skies have started to clear up in the area. Near-freezing temperatures were also reported in some localities. The lower Great Lakes region however remains under the influence of a stalled cold front running from Oklahoma to Ohio and eastwards to the Maritimes. Cloud and rain associated with this system will linger over southern Ontario most of today and Tuesday. Afternoon temperatures are expected to get into the mid-50s in the south and 50s in the north.

Constitutional Parley Opens

OTTAWA (CP) — With some eye-catching British Columbia demands to ponder, all 10 provincial premiers and Prime Minister Trudeau open a three-day conference today to grapple with the country's constitutional and financial future.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett took the offensive early with conference-eve proposals for more federal money for B.C. and more provincial say in jurisdiction over major inanficial jurisdiction over major financial institutions.

His paramount point was for a $500 million annual "compensating grant" to accommodate his province's special economic position. National tariff policy, rather than benefitting B.C., works against it, he said.

Moreover, B.C. must absorb large numbers of immigrants from other provinces imposing extra welfare and other demands on the provincial economy. He also sought a ban on foreign immigration, except for special cases, when national unemployment figures rise past four per cent of the work force. It is over that now.

The Bennett critique included a proposal to permit provincial governments to name members to the governing board of the Bank of Canada and to a national council which he wants established to exert legislative jurisdiction over chartered banks and other major financial institutions. He wants equal partnership with the federal government in these areas.

Bourassa Wants Revision Speeded

OTTAWA (CP) — Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa delivered a bid today for his province's participation in the federal government's decision-making process where "the economic, social and cultural development of Quebec" are concerned.

Mr. Bourassa told the opening session of the three-day constitutional conference, the first since his Liberals took power in Quebec last April 29, that Quebecers want to avoid further delays in revising the constitution.

He said Quebec fellow-citizens will not tolerate any longer either the excessive slowness of the revision procedure of our constitution, or the lingering chaos which stems from it," he said.

Mr. Bourassa outlined the principles of the constitution his government wants. A more detailed proposal is being worked out by Quebec government officials.

He called for "flexible ways and means" of participating in the formulation of federal monetary, fiscal and trade policy and a "predominant role" for the province in developing social policy in such fields as human resources, urban affairs and leisure.

He also sought a distribution of power between the federal and provincial governments in order to achieve regional economic equality.

The 37-year-old economist said a resolute stand must be taken "to make the economic growth of the country may achieve a better balance."

Mr. Bourassa said close participation will also have to be defined in areas such as communications, immigration and external relations that "directly affect the existence and future" of Quebec.

Energy Policy Opposed

TORONTO (CP) — A crowd of 1,000 demonstrated outside Queen's Park Saturday against a continental energy policy.

"We're here to tell Canadians what is going on," said Melville Watkins. "I am convinced the majority of Canadians are opposed to the continental energy deal."

The rally was organized in about 18 days to protest an energy resources agreement between Canada and the United States involving sale of natural gas to the U.S. Rally organizers said the deal would include, in the long run, oil, electric power, coal and water.

Mr. Watkins is author of the Watkins Report on Foreign Ownership and a leading doctrinaire of the New Democratic Party's Waffle group, said Canadians are mystified by government policy on natural resources.

Mr. Watkins said, "There will be no more silent surrenders. We're going to make too much noise for it to be done."

Tim Leary Flees Jail

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (AP) — Timothy Leary, the former Harvard psychology instructor who became a guru to the drug culture, has escaped from prison.

The only clue authorities had today was Leary's blue denim prison clothes, found in a service station rest-room a few miles away.

Leary had been at the California Men's Colony, 200 miles north of Los Angeles, since shortly after being sentenced March 16 to a six-month-to-10-year prison term on a marijuana possession conviction.

Nineteen Freed

PRETORIA (Reuters) — Nineteen of 20 Africans charged with terrorist activities and plotting the violent overthrow of the South African government were found not guilty and discharged here today.

For the other African, Benjamin Ramotse, the defence submitted that his trial was a violation of international law since he was apprehended outside South Africa.

Ramotse claimed he had been captured by Rhodesian troops inside Botswana, taken into Rhodesia and then handed over to the South African authorities.

The judge decided that his plea failed and Ramotse's trial will continue at a date to be fixed later.

Demands Made To Four Lands

AMMAN (CP) — Fifty-five British, Swiss, West German, Israel and U.S. citizens remained hostages of Arab guerrillas today, and their captors said nothing short of their governments' "unconditional surrender" to ransom demands will gain their release.

The other 237 hostages held for as long as a week by the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine reached Nicosia Sunday. Many then left for Zurich and London, while others spent their first night of freedom on Cyprus.

They were passengers in a Swissair DC-8 and a Trans World Airlines Boeing 707 that the Popular Front hijacked Sept. 6 and a BOAC VC-10 commandeered last Wednesday. The commandos had demanded the release of seven Arab prisoners held by Britain, West Germany and Switzerland as the price of their hostages' freedom.

However, the seven remained imprisoned and a Popular Front statement Sunday night did not spell out terms for the release of the remaining hostages. It said the demands have been communicated to the governments involved.

The statement telephoned to news agencies in Beirut, Lebanon, said:

"The PFLP has made these as its final demands and will settle for nothing short of the unconditional surrender to them of all prisoners mentioned."

In Bern it was reported Switzerland, Britain, West Germany and the United States agreed today that they will accept no settlement with the guerrillas which does not involve the release of all passengers and crews of the hijacked airliners.

Reuters news agency reported that the Arab guerrillas holding the hostages apparently hoped for a series of bilateral deals with the five countries seeking their release.

There was no immediate concern for the safety of the hostages—unless retaliatory action by Israel should prompt guerrilla reaction against their prisoners, wrote Reuters correspondent Mohammed Atallah.

Fighting Flares In Jordan

AMMAN (AP) — Palestinian guerrillas and Jordanian army troops clashed again Sunday, part of the Middle East confusion casting a long shadow over Tuesday's opening of the UN General Assembly's 25th session in New York.

The bloody fight near the ceasefire line with Israel left 12 guerrillas and two soldiers dead, Palestinian sources said. Sources in the guerrilla central committee said the commandos were from Al Fatah, largest of the Palestinian groups.

The government radio said the guerrillas were elements of the Palestine Liberation Army.

Iraq claimed there was increased Israeli military activity along the Israel-Jordan ceasefire line, but the military command in Tel Aviv denied this.

Further clashes between the guerrillas and the Jordanian army appeared imminent, as Radio Baghdad reported Iraq had handed over to the Palestinians a 3,000-man brigade of commandos who had been serving under the Iraqi command since the 1967 Middle East war.

Another Palestinian force of 5,000 regulars is stationed in Syria. The Palestinian central committee—nominally in control of the many guerrilla groups—has called on Syria and Iraq to put all Palestinian troops under its command.

Strike at GM to Start Tonight

DETROIT (AP) — A strike against General Motors seemed a certainty today, as negotiators for both the vehicle corporation and the United Auto Workers claimed the other side was inflexible.

Negotiations at GM were scheduled to resume at 10 a.m. EDT, just 14 hours before the midnight strike deadline.

GM was chosen by the UAW Sunday as its strike target if no agreement was reached.

The union and GM met for two hours Sunday and each side termed the meeting unproductive. They said there was plenty of time to reach a settlement today, but each insisted the other should make the first concession.

The strike would make idle some 344,000 union members in 145 locals in the United States and Canada. Members of 27 locals were exempted from strike action because their facilities supply Ford and Chrysler which were eliminated as national strike targets.

"It is quite certain a strike will begin in U.S. and Canadian plants at midnight Monday night," UAW President Leonar Woodcock said at the conclusion of the meeting with GM Sunday.

The strike deadline for Canadian workers at six GM plants will be 1:01 a.m. Tuesday. The plants are at Oshawa, St. Catharines, Windsor, London, Toronto, all in Ontario, and Ste. Therese, Que.

Earl Bramblett, GM's top negotiator, said "the UAW always starts with fantastic demands" and "this year the demands are more fantiftic and vague than usual."

Woodcock said only dramatic changes in the company's position could avert a strike.

Production at Ford and Chrysler would not be affected by a strike, Ford, strikebound for seven weeks in 1967, was eliminated as a strike target Sept 2

"As long as Ford and Chrysler are open," Woodcock said, "the American public will be able to buy all the cars they want."

Chief issues in the stalled talks, Woodcock said, were the union's demands for a substantial wage increase, unlimited protection against increases in the cost of living and retirement after 30 years at a minimum monthly pension of $500.

SOS Signal Is Spotted In Bush

ELMIRA, N.Y. — A search party, spurred by the aerial sighting of a possible signal by members of a small plane cruising for nearly a week, pressed to back its way into a densely overgrown area today.

CPB Trenton suspended its search Friday for the missing aircraft carrying pilot Kyle Mellick and his business partner, Harold Martin, both of Point Claire, Michigan. The pilot last made a radio check at London, Ont., last Tuesday.

A Civil Air Patrol plane, one of 34 aircraft taking part in the search Sunday, spotted what looked like a white cross in a wilderness area near the hamlet of Monterey, 25 miles north west of Elmira.

CJBQ Seeks Approval To Boost Signal Strength

Radio reception over CJBQ will be greatly improved for residents of North Hastings and also in fringe areas of Prince Edward county if an application for a power increase by the Belleville station is accepted by the Canadian Radio-Television Commission.

The station has applied for an increase in power from the present 1,000 watts to 10,000 watts and also for a change in the location of its antenna site.

The CJBQ application along with 28 others from stations in Ontario and Quebec, will be heard at a hearing scheduled to commence in Ottawa on Tuesday, Sept. 15.

Attending the hearing with station manager Frank C. Murray, will be Dr. Gerald Morton, president of Quinte Broadcasting Company, Phil Flagler and Ted Snider.

The increased power to 10,000 watts would enable us to provide coverage throughout North Hastings," Mr. Murray said.

Under present power, reception from CJBQ fades rapidly north of Highway 7 at Madoc and also in fringe areas in the south of Prince Edward county where there is interference from a Watertown station.

The local station filed its application for an increase in power two years ago, in September, 1968.

Members of Hastings County council, as well as the councils of Belleville, Picton and Trenton, have supported the CJBQ application by resolution.

Mr. Murray said a decision on the CJBQ application for increased power could be expected about a month following the hearing.

If the CRTC decision is favorable, CJBQ will erect a new antenna system in Hillier township near Rose Hall, where a 160-acre site has been purchased.

Mr. Murray said the station would erect six 300-foot towers and would also install 600 feet of copper wire in the ground as part of the broadcast system.

The proposed location, together with the new towers and broadcast system would provide increased range as well as ensure absence of interference for other stations.

The Belleville radio station commenced broadcasting in 1948 at 250 watts from a tower north of the city. Thirteen years ago, in 1957, the station went to its present 1,000 watts and at the same time changed its antenna site from Thurlow township to just north of Mountain View, in Prince Edward County.

The station's original antenna site in Thurlow is now used to broadcast its FM programs.

Views on Zambia From Harry Fast

On loan to the Zambian government with the responsibility of bettering the operational efficiency of the railway in the new African country, Harry J. Fast, former manager of the CN Rideau Area here, says the problem is "the best."

In a recent letter to his former office in Belleville, Mr. Fast says there is only one way for the railway in free Zambia "and that is forward."

"No matter what you do it is better than it was," he says.

There are thousands of problems to solve without the need of statistics or analyZbal reports — which he obviously that it does not require study or analysis. "It is most interesting and not a dull moment."

The Zambian railway was run by Rhodesia until 1967 so the Zambians have only brief experience in railway matters.

Most of the railway officers and craftsmen left Zambia when the new country took over in 1967 and expatriates were brought in from many lands, each of which pressed his country run the best railway.

"The country wants to Zambianize as soon as possible and this requires intensive training and leadership. But according to Mr. Fast, the expatriates are not doing the job.

Mr. Fast writes that there are two speeds in Zambia — slow and slower. Wages are low lower than in Canada but productivity is so low that on balance the cost of living is about the same.

The weather in Zambia is so predictable that the newspapers don't bother to carry weather reports.

It rains from November to March and then there is not a single day of rain until the next rainy season.

Houses and public buildings require no heating system and construction is quite simple.

Public buildings are designed open style — they consist mainly of an attractive roof on shelter posts during the short rainy season. Walls are for privacy and security.

Mr. Fast says the country is exactly as is seen in pictures — massive plains which are the home of African animals.

"The women are more useful than in Canada. From childhood they learn how to carry things on their heads. This often makes it possible to do grocery shopping, fire wood gathering and laundry washing quite simply.

"The babies are tied on their backs with a scarf, so a woman can carry a load on her head, a baby on her back and have two packages under her hands all at the same time.

"In most cases the family owns a bike, but this is reserved for the husband. So while Mama is productive doing all the above chores on foot, daddy rides away on the bike to do more important things, such as drinking beer with the boys or commune with nature in the wide open spaces.

"It is their culture and I would say men anywhere knock it," is the tongue-in-cheek comment of Mr. Fast.

Anti-Pollution Organization Is Proposed

Belleville soon may have its own citizens' anti-pollution organization.

Now in the process of probing the potential for such a group is the civic-action Oliphants for Belleville Committee which took initial steps on the proposal last night.

A meeting at the home of committee chairman Donat Clement heard Mayor Russell Scott emphasize the need for a grassroots guardian group on city pollution problems, said committee spokesman William Hockley.

The committee, however, felt such an assignment too complex for its own resources and a separate organization to specifically process pollution issues would be necessary, said Mr. Hockley.

To that end, the committee now will contact other community groups and individuals interested in anti - pollution measures.

Such sources will be brought together for a meeting — possibly within two weeks — to form a 12 - member watchdog group, said Mr. Hockley.

Among its earliest projects would be a priority listing of any city pollution problems and organization of a complaints bureau.

Aim of such a group would be to draw attention to incidents of contamination and, if necessary, bring pressure to bear for their eradication.

Char-Broiled, Rain-soaked Cookery

Diners at the Belleville Flying Club's Fly-in yesterday discovered that cooking steaks for their lunch was quite a chore, especially with the rainfall that permeated the event. Steaks remained rare or medium rare even after minutes of cooking.

Sunday Morning Drizzle Puts Damper on Fly-In

Planes were not the only flying objects at the Belleville Flying Club's fly-in, treasure hunt and steak breakfast yesterday, as rain splashed some of the events.

And yet, except for the conclusion of the treasure hunt, the activities continued into the afternoon despite the drizzle.

Almost 50 planes made their way to the airport for the weekend event which started with a pilots' ball Saturday night at the Sun Valley Motor Hotel.

At the Flying Club, Sunday morning, spectators and flying enthusiasts alike gathered to watch or take part in a treasure hunt and the blustery weather were ignored until the rain began to fall.

The fly-in also offered a steak breakfast and lunch where diners were required to cook their own meat and boil their own corn on the cob.

The steak also met near-disaster due to the rainfall as patrons partook of difficult to cook the meat.

The event was operated by the Belleville Flying Club in co-operation with the Industrial Commission and the Belleville Chamber of Commerce.

Master Guitar Instruction

Stirling reeve Donald Rodgers partakes of some spontaneous guitar instruction from county and western artist Wilf Carter at the Trent Valley Jamboree Saturday night at BCIVS. During the night Mr. Carter was presented with a plaque recognizing him as being the first artist to become a member of the Canadian Country Music Hall of Fame.

Agencies' List Omitted Three

In a list of United Community Service Agencies published Friday in The Intelligencer the names of three were inadvertently omitted.

They are the Belleville Minor Sports Association, the Belleville and District Association for Retarded Children and the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, Quinte committee.

The Belleville Minor Sports Association provides the following activities for about 2,000 boys and girls: baseball, boys' softball, girls' softball, hockey, lacrosse, soccer, track and field and weightlifting.

The Belleville and District Association for Retarded Children runs an adult training centre for the mentally retarded, arranges for medical care and sponsors a Boy Scout troop for retarded boys.

The Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society provides treatment for Belleville and district patients at rheumatic disease units in Kingston and Toronto and provides patient treatment at evening clinics at Belleville General Hospital. It also operates a home physiotherapy service.

OPP Corporal Shot Hunting

An Ontario Provincial Police corporal remains in Kingston General Hospital following a hunting accident west of Northbrook hamlet Friday evening.

Cpl. John Henry, 39, a veteran of 19 years on the force, was hunting bear 12 miles north of Kaladar when he was hit by a rifle bullet in the back chest.

The .30 mushroom bullet was fired by Nelson Vanness, 41, of Northbrook, also a hunting in the vicinity with another party. The bullet passed through a tree before hitting Cpl. Henry.

Intensive Care For Two Injured

A two-car collision at the junction of Highways 7 and 41 Sunday evening sent two Kaladar people to the intensive care unit of Belleville General Hospital.

In critical condition is Mrs. Helen Knox, 41, RR1, Kaladar, driver of one car. Also in the hospital is David Neal, 13, a passenger in the car.

John Knox, 13, son of the driver, was treated and released.

Driver of the second car, Herbert Charles Strain, 24, of Ottawa, was uninjured.

Approval Sought For Rink Tender

APPROVAL in ident en ma

A recommendation from the city Recreation and Arena Committee will be before city council this afternoon asking for acceptance of the Carr-Brisk Construction tender for construction of the proposed new ice arena in West Belleville.

The tender — the only one received for construction of the complete facility — was for $282,953.

If the Carr-Brisk tender is approved by council the city could expect to see completion early in the new year. Plans call for construction of the new covered rink on Harder Drive between Centennial Secondary School and the Sir John A. Macdonald Public School.

The rink would provide a regulation size skating surface with seating accommodation for approximately 400 spectators.

Dairy Princess Starts On Activity-filled Year

Ontario's dairy princess for 1970, Dianne Gunning, is looking forward to "a very busy, but rewarding year".

Since winning the title, she has become an employee of the Ontario Milk Marketing Board in Toronto, in the public relations division.

The result is postponement of enrolment at Guelph University in the household science course. That will have to await election of a new dairy princess next year, but Dianne considers that the education she will get as Ontario's dairy ambassador will be compensation enough.

Last week the Tweed high school graduate was in Buffalo for International Milk Day and early in October, she will go to Wisconsin for the World Dairy Exposition.

By mid-October she will be in Great Britain for three weeks of appearances and tours.

This visit will be in the nature of an exchange, because the British dairy princess is now visiting Canada.

Dianne will accompany her this evening and tomorrow on a tour of Quinte district cheese factories and points of interest.

For the coming year, Dianne will work out of Toronto where she has an office with the Milk Marketing Board for preparation of speeches and promotion work.

The former Hastings county dairy princess is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Gunning, RR1, Tweed.

Prince Edward County Fair Establishes Attendance Mark

PICTON (Staff) — Prince Edward County Fair yesterday closed its gates with a record attendance for its three - day program of rides, exhibits and livestock competitions.

Ticket - takers greeted an estimated 4,000 persons on opening day last Friday. This figure, surpassing last year's first day attendance by about 1,400.

Before the ranch rodeo concluding Friday's program fill-ed the grandstand with approximately 1,000 customers, the fair was officially opened prior to the rodeo performance by county warden Gordon Lloyd, assisted by president of the Prince Edward Demille, Norris Whitney, MPP for Prince Edward-Lennox, George Hees, MP Prince Edward-Hastings and Picton mayor, H. J. McFarland.

A colorful program of horse and pony events again packed the grandstand Saturday afternoon.

Hundreds of visitors to the fair enjoyed floral exhibits, handicrafts and artwork on display in the county centre and in the curling club.

The Crystal Palace this year featured a record-breaking 35 merchants occupying one of the most attractive areas on the grounds.

Outdoor sports and machinery displays interested large crowds of passers-by who stopped to examine what the machine age is predicting for the '70s.

The Carleton Show Band, stars of television's Pig 'n' Whistle, provided Saturday night's entertainment in front of the grandstand. For this lively performance about 1,000 persons jammed the grandstand.

With an additional 200 spectators seated in chairs on the racetrack, the band demonstrated its versatility by playing and singing Irish classics, pop songs and favorite ballads. Audience response to this group prompted fair board directors to book the band for a return engagement next year.

Weather co-operation with county fair plans ceased abruptly Sunday morning when intermittent showers threatened cancellation of the horse-show scheduled in front of the grandstand.

Riders, ignoring the drizzle showed between showers in a fast-moving program of horse races and saddle classes.

Midway rides provided by Playfair Amusements entertained the youngsters while adults enjoyed the Goode Family singing on stage in the county centre.

All floral exhibits and ladies handicrafts remained in place until five p.m. yesterday.

ANAF News

Dominion President J. C. Lundberg, re-elected for the fifth time at the recent ANAVET convention, attended last Thursday's general meeting as he is a member of the Duke of Edinburgh Unit. Before the business of the evening started, president R. G. Burns asked Cdr. Jack to come forward and, on behalf of the unit members, presented him with a very useful gift to show the respect and esteem all the comrades have for him and his tremendous efforts and hard work on behalf of all veterans and their dependents. Cdr. Lundberg accepted the gift and made a short speech of thanks for it and the appreciation for all he had tried to accomplish. He received a very hearty standing ovation from all members present.

The next big event is the Decoration Day ceremonies and president Dick is looking for a good turnout. The date is Sunday Sept. 20, the time of fall-in is 1.30 and the place is the cemetery gates. Buses for those needing transportation will leave the Market Square at 1 p.m. and 1.15 p.m. If possible, please wear medals and berets. The Pipe Band will be on parade.

On the sick report are Cdes. F. Cronin, 728, J. Coughlan, 625, T. Hay, 623, and E. Gardner, 714. All his many friends will be pleased to hear that Cde. T. Descole is feeling somewhat improved and was able to be home for the week-end with his family for a short visit, Cde. R. Feather is still unable to get around and visitors would be appreciated.

Canoeist Is Drowned

A Peterborough man drowned Friday afternoon when the canoe he was paddling with two companions capsized in Mudcat Lake, west of Gilmour.

Reginald Conlin, 41, had just launched his canoe by the highway at 5 p.m. Saturday night when it capsized, throwing him and his two companions into the water.

The others reached shore, but Conlin, a non-swimmer, drowned.

Ontario Provincial Police divers from Madoc and Belleville recovered the body Sunday morning and it was taken to Peterborough for autopsy.

The victim is survived by his wife, Marjroe, and seven children.

Press Search For Lost Indian

TRENTON (Staff) — Search is being co-ordinated today from CFB Trenton, for an Indian man missing since last Wednesday.

Ten service personnel from CFB Armstrong, four guides and an Ontario Provincial Police officer are following the trail of the lost man through dense bush 145 miles northeast of Thunder Bay.

A Turbo-Beaver aircraft of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests has been requisitioned for the air portion of the search.

The individual being sought is employed by a mineral exploration camp on D'Alton Lake, 18 miles north-east of CFB Armstrong.

Such Is Progress

In the recent riots in Northern Ireland young hoodlums were reported to have used not only guns but bows and arrows and slingshots; it was enough to make the likes of Sorley Boy McDonnell turn in their graves!

But even in this part of the world we have similar eccentricities, for among weapons seized this year by Mapanee police was a ball and chain taken from a youth. Other weapons seized by police in the community were two revolvers, a .22 calibre rifle, a blackjack and a large quantity of knives.

The weapons — more than in any year past — were among an assortment of articles which included three bottles of nail polisher remover apparently used for sniffing, and a hypodermic syringe.

Whatever the weapons, medieval or otherwise, the fewer there are around the better. A Napanee police spokesman said a lot of the seized articles are destroyed in the town incinerator after a three-month holding period. We wish more police forces would follow suit; maybe they do just that, but Napanee's example is nevertheless a good one. The situation is all the worse in the United States, where controls over weapons are virtually non-existent.

We know too that the City of Montreal has carved out a niche for itself as one of the crime capitals of the continent. The underworld there needs no encouragement to action, yet recently The Montreal Gazette printed a picture that should appall any lawabiding citizen. It showed a window display at the Sheraton-Mt. Royal hotel in which are displayed an assortment of knives, starting pistols which could easily be converted to fire live ammunition, and handcuffs.

As The Gazette puts it: "Just about everything that a petty criminal would need is on display in the window and at a number of other stores in the city."

Montreal police, says the newspaper, are opposed to permitting sale of such items but point out there is no law against it.

Why? Montreal which has such a high incidence of crime, should not tolerate such easy availability of weapons.

Guards for Aircraft

The six Arabs pictured in front of a hijacked jet in the Jordanian desert are a motley looking crew. They are described as Jordanian soldiers and Palestinian guerrillas who often shoot at each other but in this case apparently could not resist hamming it up for the photographer. One soldier is waving his automatic rifle in the air, while a guerrilla appears to be levelling his weapon in jest at a companion.

It all rather confirms that the Arab soldiers, whether guerrillas or regulars, are an undisciplined crew who like to play at soldiers but would acutile in all directions in face of determined opposition. We are sure that if any British or U.S. military counter action had been taken this would have been the case, but of course the risk of the airliners and their passengers being blown up or fired upon by retreating Arabs would have been too great.

Meanwhile, it is with some dismay that the travelling public contemplates the United States decision to provide armed guards for commercial airliners. Yet it appears to be the lesser of two evils. Either strong preventive action, such this, is taken or hijackings are likely to continue.

The hijackings themselves were as diabolically conceived as their consequences were lamentable. The detention of passengers and crews inside the aircraft amid rapidly deteriorating sanitary conditions was an act of gross inhumanity. At least they were spared the ultimate outrage of being blown up along with the planes, and the Palestine Liberation people are now on notice that further attempts of this nature will be met with force.

We Breathe It

Air pollution is bad enough when you breathe it, as in any downtown area, but when you can see the stuff causing a shimmering effect at a distance then you begin to realize a bad situation is getting worse. It happens in Belleville on a Friday particularly, but also at rush hour every day between 4:30 p.m., with cars lined up along Front Street. You absorb the messy fumes while sitting behind the wheel, edging along with the slow-moving traffic or even while standing at the curb. Diesel buses are among the worst offenders. Ideally, traffic should be banned from the downtown area — it has been done in New York experimentally, and in Tokyo — and who knows it may be necessary here one day.

Opposition Leader: 'I Am What I Am'

Stanfield May Generate More Heat If Not Thunder

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield has apparently assured party MPs of a more aggressive stance in the resumed Parliament, but some wonder privately whether his particular style will satisfy all demands for more aggressive action.

When the caucus met here this week, in the wake of rumored rumblings of internal discontent, there were strong feelings expressed that Mr. Stanfield should go after the government with both barrels firing. There was no argument, said Mr. Stanfield himself.

He had gone to caucus, sources say, already prepared to tell members it was time to adopt a tougher stand both inside and outside Parliament. He told reporters outside the meeting, he thought the public would accept the party to be more aggressive.

But Mr. Stanfield did not spell out in detail to the members his plans.

"However, there was a clear understanding that more heat will be turned on the government," one MP said.

The problem, say some MPs, is whether the Conservative leader can produce what some of the members obviously want —the Diefenbaker system of thunderous denunciation.

There is no doubt that Mr. Stanfield can be tough — more than one caucus member can attest to that—but his toughness and his aggressive qualities have tended to be framed in a practical, low-key presentations. Some western MPs have complained that a bigger clap of thunder is required to bring the message home.

They made this clear to Mr. Stanfield during this week's caucus meeting. And while he made it equally clear that the opposition is to grow more aggressive in the months ahead, there was no indication he would change his basic style.

In fact, he has stoutly resisted this in the past. "I am what I am," he has said.

While pressures remain on him to unleash tirades against the Liberals, Mr. Stanfield still resists such suggestions. Those around him say he remains convinced that volleys fired at nonissues merely detract from legitimate criticisms of real issues.

A real issue for Mr. Stanfield is unemployment and he is said to be preparing for heavy warfare on this when Parliament resumes Oct. 8. A strong stand is also expected on the mothballing of some 57 jet fighters, built at a cost of $215 million.

The Conservative leader has already taken a stiff stance against the government's proposed tax reform, travelling widely across Canada and systematically charging that the proposals put forth by Finance Minister Edgar Benson. His criticisms, it is generally conceded, have been researched, detailed and thorough.

But is he getting the credit he deserves for his efforts? Perhaps.

Many of the MPs say yes, but others are not so sure. One MP, who still talks fondly of the Diefenbaker years, says the former leader could have gotten more political mileage from the white paper by merely waving it from the platform and thundering. "What manner of thing is this?"

Quinte Action Centre Committee

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Many people, recently have asked the question, "What has happened to the Quinte Action Centre Committee"?

The purpose of this letter is to inform the citizens of Belleville that the Quinte Action Centre Committee is still an active organization who unanimously support the Recreation — Arena Committee proposals for the new arena on the Harder Drive site.

Approximately one year ago (Sept. 30, 1969) a walk-a-thon, sponsored by the Belleville Minor Sports was held. The wide support given this walk-a-thon can be taken as evidence that this type of facility is needed and favored in the city. In addition, to 1,100 persons, who actually participated in the walk, there were approximately 12,000 who pledged and supported the project financially. The actual amount realized from this walk-a-thon was $31,000. This $31,000 was deposited in a bank at 7% per cent interest. Thus, by October 8, 1970, the interest on this money will be $6,606.05, giving us a total of $37,606.05. (Three bonded members of our Committee are the signing officers for this money.)

Other projects in conjunction with this walk-a-thon were held. At Guess the Walk-a-Thon Distance — a project sponsored by Walter Watson a local Ontario Land Surveyor. The actual distance of the walk-a-thon was 157,784 feet. (A Mr. Larry Hoskin, 94 Station Street, was the $100 winner of this contest — his guess, 157,775 feet.)

Also a fast-ball game, featuring the "California Girls" was sponsored by the late Richard Ellis was another project undertaken in support of a new arena. These latter two projects netted approximately $818. Consequently the total amount of money raised thus far, including interest is $38,424.05.

The Quinte Action Centre Committee objectives were 1) to establish as clearly as possible the recreational needs in the city; 2) to determine the type of facility that would best meet the need, and 3) to provide whatever assistance may be needed financially and otherwise in meeting the need.

We have endeavored to promote and stress the need of this facility to the people of Belleville and City Council. (Ihave made presentations to City Council on three separate occasions). Our Committee approves 100 per cent of the arena, proposed by the Recreation — Arena Committee and we unanimously agree to promote fund-raising projects, which will help alleviate the additional construction cost of the Arena.

We wish to take this opportunity to publicly thank and congratulate the Recreation-Arena Committee for its untiring efforts for working towards this project.

We would again also like to sincerely thank all those who participated in the walk-a-thon, either as walkers or pledgers and any other citizens who have helped to contribute towards this goal.

It is our understanding that the Recreation-Arena Committee is to present these proposals to City Council re the arena today, and so it is with optimism that City Council in its wisdom will financially approve of this recommendation from the Recreation-Arena Committee.

City Congestion and the Urge to Get Away from It

Montreal Gazette

The worse the congestion of the cities, the stronger the need to get away from it. Chicagoans are buying vacation properties in Canada's Rainy Lake area. Montrealers are picking up abandoned farms in the apt areas of northern Vermont and New Hampshire: Tastes vary from one society to the other, from one area to the next. Americans want the isolation of the Canadian wilderness. Canadians want the warmth of the Florida sun.

The demand for vacation property has sent prices in choice areas spiralling upwards on both sides of the border. Land values have doubled in four or five years. One fear is being voiced that the influx of out-of-town buyers may deprive Canadians and Americans of vacation sites in their respective countries.

So far, there hasn't been any formal action to restrict this cross-border traffic. There shouldn't be in the future. The nationality of property owners ought not to be a matter for concern. If their demand for property drives up prices, all land - owners benefit from the application of their holdings.

So do the local governments that tax land. The additional employment that servicing the vacation properties provides should more than offset any accompanying disadvantages.

What is important is the uses to which the land is put. The local authorities have been largely good in this respect more frequently than not. Choice vacation sites have been spoiled by overbuilding and subsequent pollution. Indiscriminate clearing of the wilderness has deprived some areas of their original attractions.

Large - scale developments have been launched with no concern for the maintenance of environment or ecological balance. Land speculation has run out of hand. Local governments, with visions of multi-million - dollar projects on their doorsteps, have—granted concessions which in the end have cost them dearly. The worst aspect of such projects is that their sponsors believe they are enhanced by giving them all the urban amenities. This, is, of course, the very negation of the concept of a vacation property.

Some local authorities have moved vigorously to protect the original attraction of their jurisdictions. Vermont, as an example, has put in tough restrictions on water supply and waste disposal whose effect is to prevent overcrowding and environmental abuse. Land speculation is checked by a killing through intensive subdivision of abandoned farms that are effectively blocked. The genuine developers are being encouraged.

Other states and the provinces might have a closer look at Vermont's requirements. The flight from the cities will intensify as the cities grow. If the green belts, the parks, the coastlines and the wilderness lakes are to be preserved with their original values, the time to do it is now. This is one area of co-operation which transcends national borders.

Galsworthy's Forsyte Saga

Ottawa Journal

Those whose interest in The Forsyte Saga television series has led them to wonder about the life and times of John Galsworthy, on whose novels the series is based, will find a small but enlightening exhibit at the National Library in Ottawa until September 1.

The exhibit, assembled by the British Council, consists of documents of people, places and events significant in Galsworthy's life. It is complemented with books by and about Galsworthy from the Library and by still pictures of the television version of the Forsyte Saga.

Many authors, it can be assumed, write a great deal of themselves into their stories and this feeling is supported by Galsworthy's own words in a caption by a picture of his family home. He wrote "The site of the Forsyte house was the site of my father's Coombe Warren and the grounds and copplice, etc., were actual, but the house itself I built with my imagination."

From the caption with a picture of Galsworthy's study, we learn that Galsworthy set out with a friend in 1895 on a tour of Australia, New Zealand and the South Seas, at the suggestion of his father, who hoped he would forget an unhappy romance and gain a better understanding of maritime law. (Galsworthy obtained a degree in Jurisprudence from Oxford in 1888.) It was on the return voyage that he met Joseph Conrad who was the ship's first mate. They became life-long friends, and it was six years after that trip, and meeting, his first novel appeared.

A broken romance, a sea cruise, friendship with Joseph Conrad — all good stuff for a post-Victorian writer's background.

From a picture of Galsworthy's wife, Ada, the caption reads "It was Ada who gave him the impetus he needed (to become a writer) and encouraged him to persevere." Perhaps that's part of the reason why women play strong roles in The Forsyte Saga and why it has become so popular today.

Arab Terrorism

Law of the Jungle

Ottawa Journal

The Arab terrorists have declared a state of law of jungle. They proudly segregate a group of captured people, letting some go because of race or religion but holding others under threat of murder. While annihilating national and international law they perpetrate bestial hardships on innocent persons.

There is an awesome obscurity about the cruelty and arrogance of all this. It is outrageous but we have an uneasy feeling that the world has become so accustomed to them and other inroads upon civilized behavior that its toleration has out-run its sense of persecution.

Quebec Investment

Montreal Le Devoir: The investment situation in Quebec . . . remains interesting. It would be ungracious to say what with the plans announced, what is about to be announced. The expectations established in June by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics surely indicate an upward change in private investments. But when the over-all situation isexamined, the euphoria shown recently by Time magazine and The Financial Post becomes premature at the least.

At 4.7 per cent, the increase of new investments expected in 1970 is almost 2% less than half, or very nearly that, the Canadian average. At $586, the per capita investment seems absurdly low, compared with the figures calculated for the other regions, including the Atlantic provinces . . . where almost $200 a resident more will be invested than in this province. It is a state of affairs that must be strongly deplored.

Provincial Police Mafia-connection Inquiry Opens Today

TORONTO (CP) — An inquiry into allegations that provincial police officers have associated with persons with underworld connections opens today.

Conducted by Mr. Justice Campbell Grant of Ontario Supreme Court, the hearing is expected to last at least three weeks and call about 50 witnesses.

The public inquiry, called last July by Attorney-General Arthur Wishart, is the outcome of a controversy that began last October with a complaint by a Burlington, Ont., woman that she had been threatened with a revolver by George Clinton Duke, an Oakville, business-man.

When the case came to trial in December, it was heard in family court, from which the press was excluded. Duke, 65, was ordered to post a $2,000 bond to keep the peace for a year and to stay from the complaint, Elizabeth Citron. He also lost his permit to carry a revolver.

Following an investigation, the attorney-general said the hearing had been private because the complainant was anxious to avoid publicity.

His statement was challenged in the legislature by Dr. Morton Shulman, New Democratic Party member for Toronto High Park.

Mrs. Citron confirmed Dr. Shulman's allegation that she sent a request for privacy had come from Duke although she agreed several months later that she had consented to the private hearing because she was "not interested in revenge."

Meanwhile, Dr. Shulman had brought up Duke's name in another context. He told a legislature committee in June that he had evidence of personal contacts by Duke with senior provincial police officers and with persons connected with the Mafia.

He said OPP Commissioner Eric Silk, Albert Wilson and the late Supt. Isaac R. Robbie had visited Duke's home and that Staff Supt. A. M. Rodgers had tried, through a friend, to persuade Mrs. Citron to drop her protests about the handling of her case against Duke.

The NDP member also said Duke was on friendly terms with John A. (Johnny Peps) Papalia and was associated through Papalia with Dante Gabriel (Danny) Gasbarrini and Donald (Red) LeBarre, all of whom Dr. Shulman described as Canadians with Mafia connections.

The attorney-general rejected Dr. Shulman's call for an immediate public inquiry but launched his own investigation. As a result, Wilson and Rodger were suspended and charged under the Ontario Police Act for associating with Duke.

Mr. Wishart said Commissioner Silk and 10 other OPP officers had been in casual social contact with Duke before he became aware of the allegations. Later, the Commissioner had ordered the other two officers not to have any further contact with Duke.

The attorney-general said there were "no sinister implications" to be drawn from the officers' contact. He also said Duke had acknowledged knowing Papalia, Gasbarrini and LeBarre, but only in connection with his business.

Both Duke and Gasbarrini denied any Mafia connections and Duke issued writs against the attorney-general and Mr. Shulman charging libel.

After further investigation, Mr. Wishart called for the inquiry and the charges against Wilson and Rodger were held in abeyance until it is completed.

Bourassa Promises Party Renovation

MONTREAL (CP) — The 15th annual convention of the Quebec Liberal Federation ended Sunday with Premier Robert Bourassa promising that the party structures will be renovated in a new style and accusing Quebec separatists of perpetrating an intellectual fraud on the population.

In his speech at the close of the three-day convention, Mr. Bourassa said the young Liberals had shown maturity in rejecting the intellectual fraud of Quebec independence and the words and formulas of its advocates.

"What counts for them is freedom of association and freedom of action, and not an illusory independence," he said.

Raymond Parent, secretary-general of the 250,000-member Confederation of National Trade Unions, told one workshop session the party is not really democratic.

Mr. Parent, who was booed three times during the speech, said the Liberal party has its roots in "what I would call the poor period of our history."

He called on the Liberals to distinguish the deeply democratic aspects of their party and to seek roots in popular action instead of "the vaults" of the great financial powers.

Speakers pointed repeatedly to the organization of the separatist Parti Quebecois as an example for the Liberals to follow. The PQ has one organization, with 50 affiliated women's or students' wings.

The young Liberals also felt the PQ organization reacts more quickly to current issues, has better internal communication, and provides all its members with a sense of equal participation, responsibility and importance, something they feel the Liberal party doesn't do.

The delegates voted 150 to 20 in favor of abolishing the Quebec Student Liberal Federation, which includes party members below the age of 21.

The student federation, which re-named itself the Quebec Young Liberals Association and opened membership to Quebec students and workers from 16 to 30 years old, is to meet again in three months to discuss integration.

Mr. Bourassa said the party will create a commission to study ways of modifying the structures of the federation so it will be a means of communication between party leaders and the population.

The commission would report to a special renewal convention which would then work on restructuring the party. He also said party members will be asked to participate more fully in party affairs and "prepare the government's plan of action."

Mr. Bourassa said the Liberals, brought to power in last April's election, will introduce "a new type of action animation and participation" among the population.

The leaders of the Parti Quebecois add, subtract, multiply and divide to try and minimize the election results, but the Liberal party still scored a great victory."

He added that the Liberals are the only part to have received wide support from all elements in Quebec society.

Manitobans Against Quebec Separatists

ST. BONIFACE, Man. (CP) — The Communist party in Manitoba and the Franco-Manitoban Society spoke out against Quebec separatism Sunday in appearances before the joint parliamentary committee on the constitution.

William Ross, provincial leader of the Communist party, said:

"We stand for the right of Quebec to determine its own relationship to Canada... But we think it would be a mistake for Quebec to separate."

Michael Monnin, vice-president of the Franco-Manitoban Society, said that separatism is "acting on our nerves."

The two were presenting briefs to the parliamentary committee in the Greater Winnipeg municipality of St. Boniface. It was the windup meeting in a four-day visit to the Winnipeg area.

The committee is flying to the Yukon Territory for further public hearings before returning to Ottawa Friday.

Mr. Ross said separatism can be prevented if Quebec is recognized as a separate state within Confederation.

He suggested that a "constituent assembly" should be called with equal representation from English and French Canada. The assembly would draw up the new constitution.

Questioned by Marcel Assalin, Progressive Conservative member of the Manitoba legislature for Charlevoix, Mr. Ross said his party believes Quebec should have the right to separate but it would be a mistake for Quebec to take that option.

Mr. Monnin, a 24-year-old lawyer speaking for the Franco-Manitoban Society, said he is annoyed by suggestions by Quebec separatists that French-speaking minorities outside Quebec are "dead ducks."

The French-Canadians in strength in Manitoba in recent years.

He opposed giving Quebec a political status different from other provinces. But he said the constitution should make clear that Quebec has a cultural role unlike other regions.

Quebec could help French-speaking minorities in other provinces to develop their communities.

The Franco-Manitoban brief also urged that the Senate should be elected and reformed. It could protect linguistic and cultural rights.

Dan Oulet, a Winnipeg economic consultant, said that election and reform of the Senate could be a solution to western dissatisfaction with the federal government.

If the underpopulated areas of Canada gained more representation, they could balance the power of Ontario and Quebec.

Senator Donald Cameron (Ind. Lib.—Alberta) said he also favors election of senators.

'71 Chevrolet Caprice

The new Caprice has a longer wheelbase for '71 — 121½ inches — for smoother ride and handling. Chassis design is completely new as well. Ne wpower disc/drum brake system includes improved power front disc brakes and finned rear drums. All Caprice engines for 1971 are designed to run efficiently on new no-lead/low-lead fuel and have an evaporation control system to reduce exhaust emissions. Caprice has a new instrument panel design, cushioned-centre steering wheel design and an improved drive shaft design with constant velocity rear universal joint for a quieter, smoother ride. Front roll "A" type control arms on front suspension and a 4-link rear suspension are both new for 1971. Engine choice ranges from the 'Turbo Fire' 400 V8 to the 'Turbo Jet' 454 V8.

New Records Set by Expo '70

OSAKA (CP) — The strains of Auld Lang Syne—heard here each night at closing time for the last six months—Sunday sounded the end of the Orient's first world fair. Expo '70 had a wildly successful run and counted a record 64.5 million visitors.

Crown Prince Akihito of Japan officially drew the curtain on this $2,000-million extravaganza at 10:27 a.m. during a colorful one-hour ceremony in vast Festival Plaza where richly-varied pageantry was often staged by participating nations.

There under the world's largest transparent roof near the world's largest man-made fountain, thousands of people of many lands—somewhat freshened by the world's largest air conditioner—hid savoans to Expo '70.

With a mixture of regret and relief, temple bells pealed in the clear, warm air and flags were lowered, a poem was recited and symbolic cherry trees planted, gun salutes roared and thousands of colored streamers, confetti and balloons showered over the packed plaza.

Then brass bands struck up the Expositon March and Auld Lang Syne.

In the royal box Prince Akihito and Princess Michiko leaned over the parapet to shake the upraised hands of crowds of hostesses and hosts, accepting the red and white carnations and roses they held aloft.

Farewell celebrations began Saturday with a late-night party at the Canadian pavilion.

There Canadian Commissioner General Patrick Reid—a popular administrator and Mr. Expo to many—was dunked in the pavilion's courtyard pool after joining the Irish Rovers on the floating stage in ballads of Canada and Ireland.

Expo set a record with 77 participating countries—15 more than Montreal's Expo 67—before Emperor Hirohito opened it March 14. Participants ranged from the tiny Persian Gulf oil sheikdom of Abu Dhabi of Nepal, Ivory Coast and Finland.

The Expo association first reckoned on 30 million visitors, then revised it to 50 million—a target reached Aug. 29, 36 days earlier than Expo 67. In Expo's final week, attendance reached a staggering 835,832 Sept. 5, surpassing the 703,664 daily record set by the Brussels exposition in 1958.

Next day Expo was forced into the extraordinary position of having to close its gates at 8 p.m. to avoid being swamped by a million people.

Expo 70, the 21st world fair, will leave a couple of museums and a pavilion and the administration building, both permanent structures. It is expected the site will become a park.

A brief valedictory for all the foreign participants was delivered in English, French and Japanese by Commissioner-General Reid, chairman of Expo's steering committee. Said Reid:

"Expo 70 has achieved honor and renown for Japan . . . It will be remembered as the greatest of traditional world expositions. We will never see its likes again. It was excellent, a tremendous success."

Passport Returned

DURBAN, South Africa (Reuters) — Alan Paton, internationally-known South African author and stern critic of apartheid, has had his passport returned—10 years after it was withdrawn.

The South African government withdrew his passport in December, 1960, when Paton, former leader of the disbanded Liberal party, returned from a visit to Britain and the United States.

The government gave no reason for its action but it was generally believed it was because Paton had attacked South Africa's can government racial policies while abroad.

Paton has undertaken to write a biography of the South African poet Roy Campbell who spent much of his life in Europe.

In his application, he said it was essential for him to visit Britain, France, Spain and Portugal.

MR. AND MRS. PETER STURGEON

Sturgeon – Pringle

Wedding vows were exchanged recently when Judith Yvonne Marie Pringle, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Pringle and Peter Robert Sturgeon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Asa I. Sturgeon, of Cornwall. The double-ring ceremony was performed in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville by Monsignor J. P. Sullivan. Wedding music was provided by Miss Dorothy Grant.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a Victorian styled gown of white silk organza over peau de soie, which featured a high neckline, modified leg of mutton sleeves and bodice trimmed with chantilly lace interlaced with pink satin ribbon. The floor-length skirt extended into a chapel train, was edged with matching lace. Her shoulder-length veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a coronet of braided white satin cord. She carried a cascade bouquet of sweetheart roses.

Miss Rita McLevin, of Cornwall, maid of honor and Miss Sharon Leal, of Beloeil, Quebec, bridesmaid, wore similar gowns of deep pink crystal crepe, fashioned with short full sleeves and empire waistlines. They wore matching picture hats and carried nosegays of white 'mums and pink carnations.

Ronald O'Brien, of Halifax, N.S., was best man and the ushers were Michael Sturgeon, brother of the bridegroom and Ronald Pringle, cousin of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Belleville Sloine Club where the bride's mother received wearing a shell pink sheath of crimpled peau de soie with matching coat and accessories and corsage of white orchids.

She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, wearing a two-piece dress of turquoise herringbone with brown accessories and corsage of yellow roses.

For their wedding trip, the bride chose a light beige crimplene pantsuit with brown accessories and a corsage of talisman roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Sturgeon will reside at 1154 Dougall Ave., Windsor, Ont.

Legion Activities

Branch 99 Ladies' Auxiliary

The first general meeting of the Royal Canadian Legion Branch 99 Ladies' Auxiliary following the summer recess was held in the Legion Hall on Sept. 9 with a good attendance. President Edna Semark opened the meeting.

There were two new members initiated, Mrs. Kathleen Jane McKay and Mrs. Cyneth Ritchie. Another member Mrs. Alice Storms Sr. who was to be initiated had the misfortune to fracture her hip and will be welcomed at a later date. Mrs. Hazel Hughes received a transfer from the Barrie Auxiliary. There were also five applications for membership.

The annual bus trip to Syracuse on Oct. 17 was discussed. Seats are now being filled on first come - first serve basis. Any one wishing to make the trip is asked to contact Daisy Jeffs not later than Sept. 30. A dinner is also planned for Oct. 22 for those not taking the bus trip. It was decided to have the Hallowe'en dance on Oct. 30.

Dorothy Rashotte discussed the final plans for the potluck supper Oct. 2. Members and guests are to bring one dish each with a small charge at the door. Branch 587 service women are to be invited along with guests. There will be a social evening after the supper.

A good turn out was reported by Jessie Bushell for the summer euchres and more now expected with the cooler weather. Connie Pringle reported that cards and a number of items had been sent to the sick.

Gwen Semark sports officer spoke on the bowling and darts. League bowling begins on Sept. 16 at 7 p.m. and darts the same evening at 8 p.m. in the Legion Hall. Zone bowling will begin in January.

It was reported by Edna Semark that four banquets are to be catered to in the near future and help for these is needed. She will be attending the convention in Niagara Falls Sept. 20 and 25 at which time Dorothy Purdey will take her place. Dorothy Rashotte will attend as zone commander.

For the benefit of new members, it was noted that the beret and badge are to be worn at general meetings. The beret can be purchased from the secretary Margie Spencer. The uniform consists of grey skirt, navy blazer and dark shoes. All berets are navy blue, and white gloves are worn when in full uniform.

September 20 is Decoration Day at the Belleville cemetery. Veterans and auxiliary members are requested to join the parade at 1.30 p.m.

The monthly raffle was won by Effie Moore and at the conclusion lunch was served by Hilda Brooks and committee.

Next general meeting is October 20 at 8 p.m.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN CARRIGAN

Carrigan – Cochrane

Rev. Alexander McDowell officiated at the wedding ceremony in Eastminster United Church when Bonnie Nadine Cochrane, daughter of Mrs. Jerry Cochrane, Belleville and the late Mr. J. Cochrane was united in marriage to John Carrigan, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Carrigan of Hamilton. Mrs. R. J. McGuigan played traditional wedding music throughout the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her brother, R. James Cochrane, the bride wore a full length gown of georgette over bridal satin featuring a lace bodice with V neckline and puffy chiffon sleeves with fitted lace cuffs. An elbow length silk illusion veil was caught to an empire petalled headdress. She carried a bouquet of pink roses encircled with daisies.

Miss Judy Edwards as maid of honor wore a shocking pink nylon over peau de soie full length gown and carried a bouquet of daisies interlaced with material to match her dress. Bridesmaids Theresa Carrigan, sister of the bridegroom, Carol Spencer and Joyce Horan were dressed identically to the maid of honor. Flower girl was Miss Rebecca Stuart, cousin of the bride dressed similarly to the others but in blue.

Terry Merritt attended the bridegroom while the ushers were Barry Borbath, Ken Cochrane, brother of the bride and Chris Carrigan, brother of the bridegroom. Ring-bearer was Rickey Cochrane, brother of the bride.

A reception was held in the Tropicana Room at Hotel Quinte where the bride's mother greeted the guests wearing an ensemble consisting of blue antique satin dress and matching colored blue lace coat with blue accessories and a corsage of white 'mums and pink rosebuds. Assisting, the bridegroom's mother wore a champagne colored dress of lace over peau de soie with matching accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

For the wedding trip the bride chose a coral suit with blue accessories and on return they will reside at 11 Orchard Hill, Hamilton.

Senior Citizens Hear Report On Convention

MARMORA — When Marmora Senior Citizens met last week for their first Fall meeting, Mrs. Eva Post, president, gave a full report of the August two - day convention of United Senior Citizens of Ontario held at Queen's University, Kingston. She summed up recommendations of the delegates, numbering over 700 from Ontario, which, if acted upon, could prove beneficial to individual clubs.

A vote of thanks was given members by Mrs. Harold Gunter for their assistance in preparation of refreshments for her recent anniversary celebration.

A motion was passed that regular monthly meetings be held in future on the fourth Wednesday instead of the first Wednesday. A noon potluck dinner, with each member bringing her own dishes will be held preceding the September 23 meeting.

Mrs. M. A. Jones will convene a bingo on Wednesday afternoon, September 16. A card party on September 30 will be in charge of Mrs. Percy Gordon and Miss Grace Warren.

Blocks for a quilt donated by Miss Warren will be finished by members for later raffling.

Marbles put in the hem of your shower curtain will weigh the curtains down and prevent air currents from blowing the curtains in the shower.

MR. AND MRS. JACK BANVILLE

Banville – Pringle

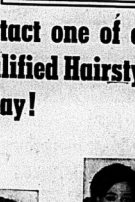
Bridge St. United Church chapel, Belleville was the scene of the Sept. 5 wedding of Lynne Alice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Pringle of Belleville and Jack Robert, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Banville, Belleville, Rev. H. Davis performed the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a street - length coat dress of white Italian lace with a white headdress of organza bows and roses. A corsage of pink and white roses completed the outfit.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Sharon Morton of Orleans, wore a light rose coat and dress ensemble and her corsage was of pink and white roses.

John Morton of Ottawa was the best man.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.



The newlyweds went to points west for their wedding trip and will reside in Toronto where Jack is attending his last year at Ryerson Polytechnical Institute.

Unfortunate Experiences Affect Attitude

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: I can't even bear for my husband to come near me. I don't know if all pain are like him or not. But he is so demanding. If I don't give in to his wishes he gets very mad.

I was in hospital for a nervous breakdown a year ago, but I just couldn't bring myself to tell them these things? I asked the studying psychiatrist what was expected of a wife, and she told me that a wife should give her body willingly to her husband.

At times I want him, but when he gets close to me, I just had to scream. "Leave me alone!" — Too Much

Dear Too Much: Your long letter described, not only your husband's cruple advances, but the unfortunate experiences with men you had as a child. I think the early episodes are affecting your attitude now.

Add to that the super insistence of a husband who doesn't know a man has to woo a woman first and you get disaster. Physical relations ought to climax an expression of love; and many women would react just as you do to clumsy efforts.

My book list on Sex in Marriage is on its way to you. I would also advise another try at unloading it all to a counsellor. . . .

Dear Doris: I'm 15 and can't afford to buy expensive cosmetics out of my weekly allowance. Is there such a thing as a recipe for a homemade facial?

My skin is inclined to be oily and sometimes I am troubled with blackheads. — Fifteen

Dear Fifteen: Fine oatmeal (not rolled oats) is an old time favorite for skin care.

Mix as much oatmeal as you can hold in the palm of your hand with enough milk to make it stiff. Spread it over your face and neck and leave it on for 20 minutes. (Don't look at yourself in the mirror.)

Remove by wringing a face cloth out in warm water and pressing it to face and throat. When meal is all cleared away rinse with cold water, pat skin dry. (Now you can look.)

This is a good skin cleanser; especially helpful for clearing clogged pores and preventing blackheads.

Confidential to Confirmed Nibbler: Enough nibbles could add up to a big fat meal and eventually to a big fat person. I suggest you work on breaking the nibbling habit entirely.

Write a big "No!" on a slip of paper and tuck it into the cookie jar, nut or cheese bowl; or whatever it is you dip into most.

For your age and height; charts estimate a desirable load of 120 pounds. You have a long way to go—but it will be a great thrill for you when the tailoring scales show you are making inroads on that unwanted padding.

If something is troubling you, there's help to be had. Write to Doris for another slant on your difficulty.

FROM THE STAGE TO THE ARCTIC — Moira Dunbar, one of the world's better known Arctic scientists, started out in life as stn actress "playing a long string of comic maids." When she came to Canada from England in 1947 she landed a job with the Defence Research Board in Ottawa and soon became interested in a study of Arctic Ice.

(CP Photo)

Former Actress Now Scientist in the Arctic

OTTAWA (CP) — It's a big jump from the stage to an Arctic ice floe, especially if the two are on different continents, but Moira Dunbar made it.

The Coast Guard history, Uaque ad Mare, calls her one of the world's better-known Arctic scientists and says she is "a frequent and welcome traveller in the polar ice-breakers and aircraft of the Canadian Coast Guard."

Before she came to Canada more tha 20 years ago, however, Miss Dunbar spent seven years in the English theatre, acting and doing such jobs as stage management.

"I was hopeless as a young ingenue. I was what is known as a character juvenile, which meant playing a long string of comic maids."

A forthright person with a good sense of humor, Miss Dunbar, 52, now is one of several scientists in the geophysics section of the Defence Research Board in Ottawa.

"Our Canadian Arctic all kinds of earth sciences from oceanography to meteorology. One of the things we are most interested in now is sea-ice research and that's what I'm most interested in."

It's quite an exciting moment for a scientist to go to the Arctic. The opportunities are greater than they were three years ago.

Miss Dunbar got into her job by accident. A native of Edinburgh, Scotland, she got a master's degree in geography from Oxford University before becoming an actress.

The degree stood her in good stead when she arrived in Canada, for with it she landed a job at the research board in 1947.

"My first assignment had to do with icebreakers in the Arctic. I had to edit somebody's report and I got interested in it."

At that time Arctic ice was an almost untouched field of study, although with the recent reawakened interest in the Arctic it has come into its own.

However in the post-war years there happened to be a number of air force pilots in the North, and they then brought back substantial information which Miss Dunbar began collecting.

"Gradually I've compiled a roadblock for a long time."

Now, however, she has been to the Arctic on icebreakers and airplanes including three flights over the North Pole. She also has assisted with whistle trials in the North. "I was involved in those because I knew about the terrain they were going over."

She also spent a year in California in the International Russian. "In the field I work in, an awful lot of Russian work has been done and there is a lot of literature which isn't translated."

In 1964 she got practice speaking the language when she went to Russia with a government party interested in icebreaker operations. The trip included some time on a Russian icebreaker in the Baltic Sea.

But Miss Dunbar could have missed knowledge of the world's better-known Arctic scientists" if she hadn't had determination.

She doesn't want to say much about that, possibly because she doesn't want to be labelled a feminist. But it was the time-worn problem of a woman working in a "man's" field, and the first hurdle was to get on an icebreaker.

The first time the chance came and went without her in 1954 when a navy icebreaker carrying a group of scientists and assigned specifically to do scientific work was sent to the Arctic.

Although one of the jobs called for a person with Miss Dunbar's experience and interests, a man was hired on contract from England to do it because a woman couldn't be sent on a naval ship.

That made Miss Dunbar all the more determined to go on a northern cruise and she managed to do it the next year on a transport department icebreaker.

"That time there were so many people against taking me up that the matter went right up to deputy-minister level," she said. "However, he decided I was probably harmless."

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Ox Tongue Plenty for Six Gourmets

By MARY MOORE

Epicurean and gourmet lovers please take today's recipe. It is one of the best ways to prepare an ox tongue I have discovered yet. A chef's triumph over higher prices. It also produces flavor and texture you seldom find.

TONGUE A LA MARGARET
(serves 6 gourmets generously)

One 3-lb. fresh ox (beef) tongue
1 bay leaf
1 tbsp. sliced (or instant bottled) onion (first amount)
1 tbsp. salt
1 tbsp. vinegar
8 whole pepper berries
¼ cup dry red wine
¼ cup undiluted canned consomme

TOPPING

½ cup fine soft bread crumbs
1-small onion finely chopped
1 tbsp. parsley flakes
¼ tsp. pepper
¼ tsp. dried tarragon
¼ cup grated cheese

Wash tongue, place in pot with good lid, barely cover with water. Add bay leaf, spices (first amount), salt, vinegar, pepper berries, bring to boil, cover, reduce heat to simmer and simmer 3 hrs. Turn off heat and let cool to room temperature in cooking liquid overnight. Remove from pot and peel off skin and trim out bones and gristle at base of tongue. Cut crosswise into thick (¼") slices and arrange these overlapping on long shallow baking dish. Pour over them evenly the wine and consomme.

Cover with Crumb Topping by mixing together all Topping ingredients except cheese and sprinkle evenly over top. Cover this evenly with cheese. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. 30 min. Serve two slices to each guest. This is a honey of a dream come true and it is both economical and a smash hit.

NOTE: Strain and reserve broth in which tongue was cooked and use as base for homemade soup.

Ann Landers

Physical Symptoms Of Pregnancy Develop

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Can a girl think herself into pregnancy? I mean can she want to be pregnant so desperately that she actually believes it? A friend of mine told me this happened to her cousin. The girl was married for six years and wanted a child more than anything in the world. She went to several doctors who said there was no physical reason why she and her husband could not have a family. Suddenly she began to have morning sickness. She was positive she was pregnant at last, even though her gynecologist told her she was not. The girl gained 30 pounds and bought maternity clothes. After nine months she woke up in the middle of the night with labor pains. The doctor on duty at the hospital told her she was not pregnant and she must have eaten something that didn't agree with her.

Is this possible? Please answer soon because ex-wives thing similar is happening to me. The only difference is I am not married. — KNITTING BOOTIES IN MY HEAD.

DEAR KNITTING: A woman cannot think herself into pregnancy but she can want a child so desperately that her body develops all the physical symptoms. The medical term for imaginery pregnancy is pseudo-cyesis. These emotionally disturbed women need psychiatric care.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please tell me what you think of the organization called the O.W.L.'s — short for Other Women Lnd. The purpose of this group is to rehabilitate ex-wives. They help the "Alimony Junkie" shape up instead of sitting around watching TV, drinking martinis, overeating, and making life miserable for her former husband. O.W.L. points out that a man who commits murder can be freed in 20 years but a man who is the victim of a bad marriage often has to pay for it the rest of his life.

The O.W.L.'s are not against child support. They insist that a father has a moral obligation to take care of his children until they are of legal age — to see that they are properly fed, clothed, housed and educated. They claim it is unfair for an ex-wife to sit on her backside and collect alimony to "get even with the child" or because she is too darned lazy to move. Please express your views. — GARDEN CITY.

DEAR GUARD: The goals of the group, as outlined in your letter make sense for some ex-wives, but not for all. An exception is the woman who, after 25 or 30 years, gets dumped for a younger model. If she has no skills and has never worked she should not have to start punching a time clock. Ditto, the ex-wife who is in poor health, or the discarded mate of a rich man — especially if she helped him get rich.

I do agree that a childless divorcee who puts in fewer than five years should not be allowed to hug the alimony Teddy Bear for the rest of her natural life.

Not only is this grossly unfair to her ex-husband, and to the woman who may be trying to help him rebuild his life, but a divorcee with loads of loot is bound to attract some bad heels.

Canadian Flag Will Shed Maple Leaf

TORONTO (CP) — The symbol is a Canadian flag shedding a dead maple leaf.

It stands for Survival Day, Oct. 14, one month away.

Anti-pollution groups across Canada say they will try to have city councils close a downtown street for a breath of fresh air, organize outdoor working parties on the banks of polluted rivers or hand out armbands with the warning symbol.

About 150 of the groups are being asked to compile dossiers on specific problems of pollution in their communities and the governments' response to them. The briefs are to be combined in a fat volume and taken to Ottawa.

"Survival Day exists to bring coherence into the fight against pollution and other environmental abuses," says an article in Dateli, a tabloid paper published twice monthly in Hamilton at McMaster University. Backing the paper and the plans is a no-strings grant of $10,000 from the youth fund of the Anglican Church of Canada.

The paper—the title in German means a slate roughly as "being first"—has printed lists of anti-pollution groups and books, a tongue-in-cheek tourist guide to the best pollution spots in Saint John, N.B., and a Vancouver brief on oil spillage.

One issue offers a celebrated game. Mordecphy, in which anything done to a property is considered development. The government plays in the game but always loses money and the last player to escape bankruptcy wins but dies immediately.

Groups in Vancouver and Hamilton are doing studies on recycling glass and metal wastes; the Calgary Survival Day Council wants to call attention to the polluted Bow River; the Ontario Federation of Labor and the province's council on community college presidents will co-sponsor Survival Day conferences at community colleges.

The emphasis on local problems is no accident. Last April 22, "Earth Day in the United States drew speeches from legislators and hundreds of thousands of marchers—100,000 in New York city alone—but left anti-pollution groups squabbling among themselves.

From Oct. 12 to 14, the Canadian Council of Churches will hold a seminar in Ottawa on ecology and responsibility.

Richard Dayles, the administrator for Survival Day, says the whole idea is to raise in people's minds the question of our made of living—luxurious waste."

THE LITTLE WOMAN

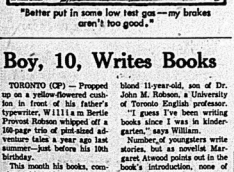
Dief Says King Acted by Clock

TORONTO (CP) — John Diefenbaker says former Prime Minister William Lyon Mackenzie King, clad in pyjamas, looked at the hands of the clock at 10:20 a.m. June 14, 1940, and predicted Germany would lose the Second World War.

In an interview Friday, Mr. Diefenbaker, also a former prime minister, reminisced before his 75th birthday next week, and said the incident took place as members of Parliament listened to the war news in a back room of the House of Commons where the prime minister liked to sleep in times of stress.



He said that Mr. King would not make any decision, in cabinet or out of it, unless the hands of the clock were in opposite directions, or unless one hand covered the other.

Mr. Diefenbaker recalled that as the members sat in the room, Mr. King was asked if it was true that Paris had fallen.

"Mackenzie King nodded and walked over to the clock on the wall and looked at it. The time was exactly 10:20 a.m."

"Then the prime minister said: 'Gentlemen, it's going to be all right. The Germans are not going to win the war. I know because the hour hand and minute hand of the clock are pointing in exactly opposite directions.'"

THE BETTER HALF By Bob Barnes

"Better put in some low test gas — my brakes aren't too good."

Boy, 10, Writes Books

TORONTO (CP) — Propped up on a yellow-flowered cushion in front of his father's typewriter, William Bertie Provost Robson whipped off a 100-page trio of pint-sized adventure tales a year ago last summer—just before his 10th birthday.

This month his books, complete with tables of contents, footnotes, forewords and afterwards, will be published by New Press, a fledgling Toronto firm.

The feat is unspectacular to the author, a cool, articulate, blond 11-year-old, son of Dr. John M. Robson, University of Toronto English professor.

"I guess I've been writing books since I was in kindergarten," says William.

Number of youngsters write stories, but as novelist Margaret Atwood points out in the book's introduction, none of them get published. She says the only other known literary prodigy, Daisy Ashford, wrote a novel at age eight but it was not published until 1919, well after the author had grown up.

Your Car

Automatic Choke Must Be Clean, Adjusted

By RAY STAPLEY

A reader writes:

Before driving away on cold mornings, I run the engine to warm it up. It starts fine, but I must go out again in a few minutes and step on the gas pedal to release the choke.

"If I don't get out soon enough the engine is roaring and gobbling up fuel. When I go out too soon and release the choke the engine stutters and runs unevenly before eventually smoothing out. If I don't judge the warm-up period properly (and this always seems to be a guess), before starting off the engine quits.

"I have taken the car to several repair shops but the engine is warm by the time I get to them. They just start the engine and tell me nothing, except that the choke is not sticking.

"I have been advised to install a manual choke. May I hear from you regarding this problem?" — Mrs. A., Stouffville, Ont.

While for many years most vehicles have been fitted with automatic chokes, there are still a few motorists who argue that a hand - operated choke is better. Years ago the manufacturers found that many drivers either forgot to use the choke, or could not learn the knack of operating it properly. As a result of this oversight the drivers would damage motors by grinding over the engine for long periods, or until the battery went dead.

When clean and properly adjusted, the automatic choke does a good job, and seldom is it necessary to install a manual choke to cope with problems that occur during warm - up periods.

When an engine is cold, the automatic choke completely closes restricting the flow of outside air which provides a rich fuel mixture for starting. Once started, the choke still remains partially closed for a few minutes to provide a richer mixture during the warm-up period. When the normal operating temperature is reached the choke fully opens.

A heat - sensitive bi-metal spring is the main device that operates the choke valve. As the engine heats, the tension of the bi-metal spring decreases, allowing the choke to gradually open.

When the engine is cold the spring tension increases, thus closing the choke. Vacuum power from the engine, plus the rush of air past the choke valve, also assists in the choke opening cycle. Little pressure is needed to open or close the choke valve. The slightest maladjustment or dirt on the mechanism is all it takes to upset the delicate balance of the automatic controls.

This is why it is so important to remove and overhaul the carburetor occasionally. External choke linkage which can be cleaned and adjusted without dismantling the carburetor should be checked each time the engine is tuned.

Setting up and adjusting the choke mechanism to factory specifications after the carburetor has been overhauled is quite tricky. Usually this is the deciding factor as to whether or not the automatic mechanism functions properly with either a hot or cold engine. Make sure that the mechanic who does the job is well-trained in the fine art of carburetor work.

Frequently overlooked is the condition of that all important bi-metal spring. In time, it can become sluggish and fail to react properly to temperature changes. For the mildest cost involved, it is wise to replace it on older or high-mileage vehicles.

To avoid adding to our already serious air pollution problem, the authorities are asking us to avoid extended warm-up periods while the car is parked. As well, the engineers now maintain that it is less damaging to engine to bring it up to operating temperature by driving at reasonably low speeds for the first few miles.

In cold weather, to minimize stalling or starting trouble and premature engine wear there is no substitute for a hydro - operated block warmer.

Sydney J. Harris Says

War Perpetuates Itself

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

(During his vacation, we are reprinting selections from Mr. Harris' collected volume of column in book form, "Leaving the Surface.")

In 1917, the year I was born, the U.S. went to war against Germany for the first time. One of the chief reasons we gave for entering the war on the side of the Allies was the terrible "militarism" of the Kaiser. And the worst symptom of this militarism, we said, was the fact that Germany had compulsory conscription. Young boys were drafted against their will into the Kaiser's army, even before a war was declared.

Now, 50 years later, we are engaged in an undeclared war in Vietnam. We have a system of compulsory conscription and have had it ever since Selective Service was set up in World War II, a quarter-century ago. And nearly everybody here takes it for granted. We may differ and argue about the form of the draft, but almost all Americans agree that compulsory conscription is a necessity in today's world. We beat the Kaiser, but the Kaiser's militarism has eventually won. We have become what we went to war against our enemy for being.

And this is the great indictment of war as an institution. It reduces everyone to the lowest common denominator of humanity. It makes the victors almost indistinguishable from the vanquished.

One war, and one generation, after we had fought the Kaiser, we fought Hitler's Germany. We were appalled when the Nazis bombed Coventry and Rotterdam, undefended cities, killing tens of thousands of civilians — men, women, and children. The Nazis and Japs were doing it as an act of humanity — for it would bring the war to an end sooner. We rejected this hereditary hypocrisy, and condemned the Nazis as bestial barbarians.

Then, not much later, we bombed the undefended cities of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, killing tens of thousands of civilians — men, women and children. We said we were doing it as an act of humanity — for it would bring the war to a sooner end. And nearly everybody here takes it for granted. We may differ and argue about the form of the draft, but almost all Americans agree that compulsory conscription is a necessity in today's world. Punch Only Needs One Big Sabre Name

by Maurice Switzer Sports Editor

Names, he doesn't have a lot of.

Aside from a Fleming or Goyette here, or a Marshall or Crozier there, George Imlach's Buffalo Sabre training roster reads like a membership list of Hockeyplayers Anonymous.

And if anyone was thinking those National Hockey League veterans were going to be the mainstay of Buffalo's new expansion entry, they might have been taken aback when club physicians ordered electro-cardiograms for the quartet Friday.

"Just a safety precaution," Fred Hunt assured inquisitive onlookers at the Sabres' Peterborough training camp, which opened its dressing rooms to 43 aspiring NHLers Thursday.

"I think we are the only NHL club to have these older players go through these tests," Hunt surmised.

Chairman of the Buffalo board Seymour Knox (the III) must have been about ready for a cardiogram himself when he saw the list of hasbeens, also-rans, and generally undistinguished players who skated out under the Memorial Arena floodlights.

Mr. Knox (the III) appears to be counting on two factors to keep the Sabres rattling in their first NHL campaign: a rivalry with the Maple Leafs who unceremoniously canned coach Imlach and a not-untalented rookie named Gilbert Perreault.

"We're counting on him," under-stated Knox. "We are hoping he'll play an important part on our team."

Mr. Perreault's 51 goals and 70 assists as a 1969-70 Montreal Junior Canadien do tell a big talking, except for an admission that he has sore feet.

Hockey's number one amateur draft choice wasn't on skates all summer and Imlach's seven-hour daily training bouts have taken their toll.

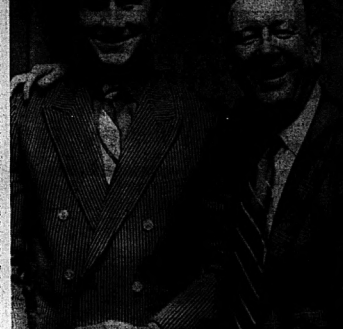
"It's pretty tough. In junior we just skated for the first day or two. But here you work hard—every day!" puffed Perreault, who has already trimmed eight pounds off his arrival day (198) weight. He plays at 185.

Touted by Imlach as hockey's next Bobby Orr, Perreault won't turn 20 until a Nov. 13 game in Oakland. By that time the handsome Victoriaville native hopes to be well on the way to the 25-goal output he has set his sights on.

The cardiograph might have to be dragged out again when Perreault informs Imlach of what his playing price will be.

As for the proposed Toronto-Buffalo rivalry, the Knox dynasty expects that will also help fill the 15,100 vacancies at Buffalo's Memorial Auditorium.

"We'll beat the hell out of them," bleated another Knox, Northrup R. (presumable the 1) after arriving in Peterborough Friday to see what sort of hockey team one can buy for $6 million.



. . . And you can tell Stafford Smythe that with my compliments."

The cross-lake rivals meet six times during the coming season, but, unfortunately, not in the pre-season exhibition schedule which the Sabres kick off Thursday night against New York Rangers in an 8 p.m. Peterborough game.

The Memorial Centre will also be the scene of Sabre exhibitions against Oakland (Saturday, Sept. 26) and Pittsburgh (Sat. Oct. 3). Sunday, Sept. 29, the Sabres will stage their inter-squad game. All Peterborough game times are 8 p.m.

In addition to catching their first pro glimpse of Perreault, Quinte area commuters might keep an eye out for Larry Holmes the Picton goaltender who toiled for the Senior McHawks and is now attending the Buffalo camp.

Also of interest will be the trial use of the proposed "free faceoff" rule, penalizing the stalling tactics of freezing the puck or intentionally shooting it out of the playing surface.

Donna's Hat Has Big Stake In City Racing

Three-year-old Donna's Hat is making herself well-known around the Belleville Fairgrounds track after winning the record Greenleaf Memorial Stake Race and this Saturday the final Corby Distilleries Stake worth $796.

Owned and driven by Sherman J. Moore of Lindsay, Ontario, Donna's Hat won in a 2:14.4 photo finish in the featured event on the Quinte Riding and Driving Club's 18-heat card.

In the first Corby Stake elimination Madge Madge owned by Elwood White of Lesly's Bay was the winner with April M. Magic (Ronald L. Males, Brighton) taking the second heat. Each took the winner's share of $597 purses.

Last year's winner Mary Killeen came in fourth in the second heat and was eliminated from the final.

Al Vance's 13-year-old Nibla Hanover broke a new lifetime record by finishing fastest of the tenth heat in 2.16 flat in front of Guy La Rush.

Mary Bing won her first of the season in 13 starts by winning the first race for owner-driver Jim Cochrane. Brian Wann won the eighth race with L. Cirfield on the sulky.

Peter Magic chalked up her third straight win in the ninth heat.

Al Vance drove Bay State Millie to a lifetime record of 2.14 in the sixth and Goldcock racked up her fourth win in six starts with a 2.12 fifth-race finish.

Dingman Not Second Too Late

A split-second win made Saturday night's stock car racing at Riverview Speedway in Trenton one of the best nights of the season.

The super feature was the event that had the crowd on their feet at the finish in one of the closest races of the season. Sam Dingman took the lead and was well out in front until the orange light came on when a bumper was dropped in the middle of the track. With a half-mile of race left, this gave Hugh McCullough a chance to overtake the leader. As they came out of number four turn and headed for home, it was anybody's race.

Dingman won by a split second to chalk up his fourth main event win of the season, tying him with Larry Stacey and Wayne Foster for the Molson's Annual award.

Other winners were John Sinclair of Newcastle in the qualifying heat, Larry Stacey, second qualifier, John Woof of Codrington, the eight-cylinder consolation and John Sinclair in the sixth feature.

First Race 8 - cylinder qualifying — 10 laps:

Kinsmen Drop Damp Squeaker

The Belleville Kinsmen Juniors saw their hopes of an all - Ontario OBA title, dampened and finally washed out by some outstanding Toronto pitching this weekend. Perth Boys Club applied the crusher Sunday when they edged the Kinsmen 1-0 in a 7 inning, rain - soaked contest.

The Toronto team had taken a 6-1 win on their home diamond Saturday night, avenging an opening 7-2 loss in Belleville. The losers managed only two hits over the series' last 25 innings, after connecting for 14 safeties in the first ten.

Burly righthander John Iceton aided the Belleville hitting in Sunday's contest, allowing only a single to Dale Dorvill in the 12 - inning contest. He struck out 17 batters and walked seven en route to his shutout win.

Terry "Midge" McTaggart took the loss. "He pitched one heck of a game for us", said coach Moe Hunter, "he was a little tired towards the end." McTaggart gave up seven hits and three walks, while striking out 14 Toronto batsmen.

Belleville's best scoring chance came in the ninth inning, when Paul Goodfellow walked and moved to third on an overthrown pick - off attempt. Iceton worked himself out of trouble, however by retiring the next two batters.

In Saturday's loss, the Kinsmen carried a 1-0 lead through six innings before Perth reached Belleville pitcher Garnie Adams for two runs in the seventh frame and another four in the eighth.

Steve Bunce allowed four Belleville hits and the only run before giving way to Rick Langdon, who pitched one-hit shutout ball in relief. They notched 15 strikeouts between them and walked six batters.

Adams gave up a total of eight Toronto hits, while whiffing nine batters and allowing seven bases on balls. Paul Goodfellow had a double and single for the losers with the other hits going to Brian Coughlin, Warren Hay and Bob Laffman.

Belleville Minor Softball President Howie Shugg and youngsters Sammy Taylor and David Little seem to agree that the association Presentation Day held Saturday, was a success. Cresta and trophies were passed out to the winning city teams, while all the youngsters received free hot dogs and soft drinks. An estimated crowd of over 400 attended the event.

Alou Muffs Fly That Brings Cubs Within Game of Pirates

Manager Danny Murtaugh and pitcher Steve Blass of Pittsburgh Pirates were just a hairs-breadth away—when Matty Alou let Chicago Cubs slip through his fingers.

Alou, Pittsburgh's usually sure-handed centre fielder, muffed a fly ball with two out in the ninth inning Sunday and the Cubs went on to take Blass and score two quick runs for a 3-2 victory that tightened the three-team scramble for the National League's shrivel East Division title.

The sudden turnabout carried the third-place Cubs within one game of the first-place Pirates and within one-half game of the runner-up New York Mets, who lost 5-4 to St. Louis on Joe Torre's 12th inning homer. It also caught Murtaugh, the Pirates' manager, with his hand outstretched.

"To tell you the truth," he said, "I was stepping out of the dugout to shake Steve's hand."

Blass led 2-1 and was one out away from a five-hit victory when Alou dropped pinch-hitter Willie Smith's short fly for a two-base error. Don Kessinger laced a run-scoring single on the next pitch to tie the game, took second on Glenn Beckert's lshed the shaken Blass—and scored the winner on Billy Williams' second-pitch single to re-Bevser George Brunet.

"I should have caught the ball," said Alou, fighting back tears in the Pirates' quiet clubhouse. "I knew the wind was blowing in, but I should have caught the ball.

"I'm not about to criticize Matty," said Blass, who wound up with his 12th loss in 21 decisions. "He's saved me a thousand times. I still had a chance to get Matty off the hook if I had gotten Kessinger, but I didn't do it."

Elsewhere, San Diego Padres stunned Cincinnati's Reds, the West Division leaders, for the third straight time, 5-4; Los Angeles Dodgers downed San Francisco Giants 5-3 in 10 innings; Montreal Expos topped Philadelphia Phillies 4-2 and Houston Astros drubbed Atlanta Braves 10-6.

In New York, Torre, who had struck out three times, won it for St. Louis with a leadoff homer in the 12th off Ron Herbel, the Mets' fourth pitcher.

St. Louis reliefers Nelson Briles, Frank Bertaina and Frank Linzy, the winner, combined to retire the last 22 Met batters in order after a sixth inning single by Cleon Jones.

Joe Hague drove in the Cards' first four runs with 4 homer and a single.

Pete Rose's 16th homer gave the Reds a 4-3 lead in the eighth inning at San Diego, but the Padres bounced back in their half on a two-run pinch-double by Larry Stahl.

Tom Haller pinch-hit a three-run homer in the 10th, breaking a 1-1 deadlock at San Francisco, and the Dodgers, ending a five-game losing streak, added another run before the Giants rallied for a pair in the bottom of the inning.

Cesar Nedeno's two-run double and two Atlanta errors keyed a six-run first inning burst that carried the Astros past the Braves.

Expos Pick Up Pair From Faltering Phils

MONTREAL (AP) — Rusty Staub scored the go-ahead run on a throwing error and Ron Brand got in another with a sacrifice fly as Montreal Expos came up with two runs in the eighth inning to beat Philadelphia Phillies 4-3 Sunday.

The Expos defeated the Phillies 4-3 here Saturday.

Staub, who opened the inning with a single, went to second on Bob Bailey's fielder's choice and raced home when pitcher Joe Hoerner tossed Ron Fairly's sacrifice bunt into left field. Brand then drove in Bailey with a fly to centre.

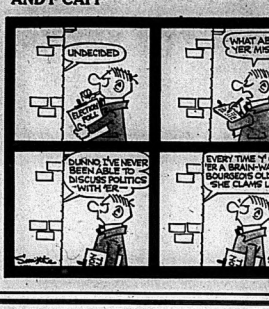
The Phillies had tied the score in their half of the inning with Ron Stone producing an RBI single and Byron Browne knocking in the other run with a sacrifice fly.

Cold, rainy weather kept fans away but Expos total attendance for 64 playing dates this season advanced to 1,243,863.

The club surpassed its 1969 1,212,608 Saturday as 22,221 fans witnessed two-run homers by John Bateman and Don Gessner power the home team to that day's win over the Phillies.

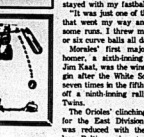
In Sunday's action, O'Donoghue came out of the bullpen in the eighth to quell a Phillies' uprising and pick up his first National League win against two losers.

Montreal opens a three-game series here tonight against the pennant-contending New York Mets with Bill Stoneman 5-14 facing Jerry Seaver 14-8.



In Saturday's game, two-run homers by John Bateman and Don Gessner carried the Expos to their victory over the Phillies.

The Phillies jumped to a 2-0 lead in the first inning on a two-run homer by John Briggs but Expos came back to tie the score in the bottom of the third on Gosger's blast. It was only Gosger's fifth homer of the year.



Bateman's homer, his 13th of the season, came after Fairly's one-out single off Phillies starter Lowell Palmer.

The Phillies scored once in the eighth on a bases-loaded walk to Deron Johnson. Reliever Howie Reed finally got the side out getting pinch hitter Jim Hutto to hit into a force play at second.

Dean's Spyder Spins Winning Web

GAINESVILLE, Ga. (AP) — The golden era of Team McLaren's domination of road racing in North America came to an end Sunday.

The driver who did it was 38-year-old Tony Dean, a British whose 182-cubic inch Porsche Spyder 908 shouldn't even have been racing against the likes of the 600 horsepower McLaren-Chevrolets.

Dean, a veteran of many European courses, happened to be the guy sitting in the right position at the right time as the more powerful cars ahead of him dropped out one by one in a wreck-marred Canadian-American Challenge Cup race at the new Road Atlanta Circuit 40 miles northeast of Atlanta.

The British romper home to collect $16,450 from the $61,500 purse—the largest payday of his career—and end Team McLaren's string of Can-Am victories at 19. A McLaren team driver hadn't lost in the series since Oct. 13, 1968, and they had won the series title nine times in a row.

Dean's win at Road Atlanta, came after four separate early leaders either wrecked or ran off the new 2.52 mile course.

Denis Hulme, who had posted three Can-Am victories as the No. 1 Can-Am driver, wrecked while leading on the ninth lap. Pete Revson, the New York sportsman driver, and George Eaton, a Canadian department store heir, suffered the same fate while they held the advantage later.

Peter Gethin of Britain, Hulme's teammate who had won the most recent Can-Am at Elkhart Lake, Wis., secured a sure winner until he was blackflagged for a pit road violation, then blew the engine in his car a lap later.

Lothar Motschenbacher of Beverly Hills, Calif., was third, Oscar Koveleski of Scranton, Pa., fourth and Roger McCaig of Scarborough, Ont., fifth

Turnout Sparse At Mosport

MOSPORT, Ont. (CP) — Mark Donohue of Media, Pa., breezed to an easy victory Sunday in the Mac's Continental auto race, lapping all but the second and third-place finishers in his first start of the 1970 series for Formula A cars.

Ernie Wiesner of Toronto collected second place and David Hobbs of London, England, third.

The race, 11th in the series of 13 Continental Championship races this year, attracted a field of 19 cars and a poor crowd of 2,500. All but two cars finished.

Perfect driving conditions caused by intermittent rain prevented an all-out push.

Birds Trim Magic Number By Bombing Boston 13-2

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Steve Hargan's fast ball was gone with the wind, Rich Morales' homer was gone in a flash . . . and Baltimore Orioles were just gone.

Hargan said the wind helped as he pitched a two-hitter to lead Cleveland Indians over New York Yankees 3-1; Morales delivered a 3-for-4 basebelt homer as Chicago White Sox nipped Minnesota Twins 3-2 and the Orioles bombed Boston Red Sox 13-2 Sunday to cut their magic number in the American League East to three games.

"I had the wind behind me," Hargan said after allowing the Yankees a fourth-inning single by Roy White and a single by Danny Cater in the 8th inning.

"I'd always heard that if you get a good horse, ride it, so I stayed with my fastball.

"It was just one of those days that went my way and we got some runs. I threw maybe five or six curve balls all day."

Morales' first major league homer, a sixth-inning shot off Jim Kaat, was the winning margin after the White Sox scored seven times in the fifth and held off a ninth-inning rally by the Twins.

The Orioles' clinching number for the East Division pennant was reduced with the Yankee loss. Baltimore is out of hailing distance with a 16-game lead over New York.

Elsewhere in the AL, Kansas City Royals took a pair of extra-inning affairs from Oakland Athletics by identical 8-7 scores; California Angels turned back Milwaukee Brewers 2-1; and Washington Senators cuffed Detroit Tigers 10-4.

Homers by Craig Nettles and Buddy Bradford helped Hargan notch his sixth victory in 12 decisions. The Yankees scored an unearned run in the fourth.

Hargan, master of his fine pitching performance, credited Bradford with saving the victory when he made a running catch of Jimmy Lyttle's line drive in the eighth after the Cater single.

"It sure got me out of a jam," Hargan said.

The White Sox, playing their last game under acting Manager Bill Adair, sent 12 men to the plate in their big fifth inning but needed Morales' long ball for the deciding margin. The Twins scored early on Tony Oliva's run short with their two-run uprising in the ninth.

Mike Cuellar, Baltimore's stickout southpaw, won his 23rd game as the Orioles ran their winning string to six.

Mark Belanger, Boog Powell, Merv Rettenmund, Brook's Robinson and Cuellar each knocked in two runs as Baltimore swrapped up the victory with three runs in the ninth inning and six in the seventh.

Lou Piniella knocked in the tying and winning runs with a two-out triple in the last of the 11th to give the Kansas City their first-game victory. Ed Kirkpatrick scored Jack Hernandez with a two-out, pinch single in the 12th complete the Royal sweep.

The win win spoiled a big day for Oakland's Reggie Jackson, who collected his 21st home, a double and four singles in the doubleheader.

Mrs. Court's Slam Grand

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Ken Rosewall, at 35, became the oldest in 41 years to take the men's title and Margaret Court made good her women's grand slam in an Australian sweep Sunday in the U.S. Open tennis championships.

Playing the same centre court where he won the U.S. title 16 years ago, the five-foot-seven Rosewall, believed by some to be over the hill, whipped left-handed Tony Roche, another Aussie 10 years his junior, 2-6, 6-4, 7-6, 6-3.

The oldest man ever to win this 80-year-old grass court fixture was Bill Tilden, who was 36 when he notched the seventh of his titles in 1929.

Mrs. Court, a 28-year-old Perth housewife, defeated Rosemary Casals of San Francisco 6-2, 2-6, 6-1.

Earl Rowe Back in Sulky

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Big Champ, a bay stallion driven by Jack Kopas, barged through the mud at Garden City Raceway Sunday night to score an upset victory in the featured $11,800 Garden City Stakes.

Raising his 1970 bankroll to $8,000, and returning $16.10 for a $2 win ticket, Big Champ recorded a winning time of 2:19 2-5 for the one-mile pace. Baron Adios, driven by Wes Coke, was second, 1½ lengths off the pace.

Longshot came through in four of the nine races. OK's Velvet paid $30.60 to win the third race, Lexington returned $70.70 for the fourth, Allerton F. Adios $21.30 for the fifth and Chippidale $20.20 for the seventh.

At the raceway Saturday night, Mimi Lee Frost won the featured $11,072 standardbred futurity and paid $3.40.

The featured fourth race saw the debut of Demon Countess, with Earl Rowe, former Ontario lieutenant-governor, in the sulky. Demon Countess finished sixth.

It was the first drive in two years for Mr. Rowe who drove his first race in 1913 and five years later entered politics.

Als Have Hamilton Revenge, Argos Intercept Ottawa Plans

By IAN MacLAREN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Coach Sam Etcheverry added something to peanuts' work for his stumbling Montreal Alouettes last week, using powers of suggestion to revitalize the Eastern Football Conference club.

It had the desired results. The Als shocked Hamilton Tiger-Cats 38-24 at the Autodrome Saturday night, taking revenge for a 37-12 Labor Day loss to Hamilton.

In Toronto Sunday, the Argonauts paralyzed five interceptions into a 30-25 win over Ottawa Rough Riders.

The weekend victories left Montreal and Toronto tied for first in the EFC with eight points each, two ahead of Hamilton and four up on Ottawa.

Etcheverry conducted more team meetings and "a lot of hard work" for Montreal's victory. After winning their first three starts of the season, the Alouettes dropped their next two.

The fresh man coach was ready to try anything, even benching his veteran quarterback, Sonny Wade, and replacing him with newcomer Tony Passender.

Wade did a lot of work this week and held more meetings than usual," he said after Saturday's game. "We met every day to review our offence and it looks like there's nothing like meetings to make a team make fewer mistakes out there. . . ."

And they did it in areas that have been questioned in recent weeks—quarterbacking and backfield running. Wade got into the lineup midway into the second quarter and never let up.

He passed for three touchdowns—to flanker Terry Evanshen, Dick Smith and Tom McCarthy—and ran for a fourth. Halback Dennis Duncan ran for the other two Montreal scores. George Springate was successful on all but five of five convert attempts.

Tommy Joe Coffey, the all-time points leader in the Canadian Football League, was Hamilton's one-man scoring machine. He collected two touchdowns, kicked a 40-yard field goal and two converts. Ed Buchanan scored the other Hamilton touchdown.

Coffey's 17-point production moved him into the EFC scoring lead with 53 points, one ahead of Ottawa's placekicking teen-ager, Ivan MacMillan. MacMillan kicked up 13 points on four field goals and a convert in the Rough Riders' loss.

John Rickrup replaced Ivor Zeager as the Hamilton quarterback in the fourth quarter after Zeager suffered a bruised hip. Rickrup Reatic called a jammed thumb on his right hand.

A detailed examination and x-rays of the injury Sunday disclosed no serious damage and the veteran was expected to be ready for Hamilton's next game Wednesday at home against Calgary Stampeders.

The Als rolled for 221 yards running and passed for another 221 for a combined total of 352. Hamilton mustered a meagre 89 yards rushing to 293 on passes.

The Argo-Rough Rider game revived animosities that developed from their Labor Day encounter in Ottawa when Tom-Joe's defensive end Ed Harrison was ejected and subsequently fined and suspended for creasing Tim Nicklas of Ottawa quarterback Gary Wood's head with a forearm.

The Rider's team bus arrived at CNE Stadium with a sign advising: "Argos—watch our Gary today!". Toronto did and contributed to put pressure on the Ottawa pivot all day, forcing him to hurry his plays.

Toronto quarterback Don Jonas, whose two fourth-quarter field goals provided the winning margin, finished the game with 11 passes in 19 total including three field goals and conversions of Argos' three touchdowns by Jim Hopkins, Don Sutherin and Dave Rainey.

Hugh Oldham and Wood scored the Ottawa touchdowns.

Sutherin's touchdown came on one of his four interceptions in the game. Dick Aldridge also was responsible for two Argo interceptions and Ron Arends another.

Nicklaus Averages $20,000 Rounds In World Series

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The big guy sat there and looked embarrassed, a sheepish grin crossing his face as someone informed him he had averaged almost $20,000 a round for his six appearances in the World Series of golf.

"Is that so?" replied Jack Nicklaus, who then shrugged.

Nicklaus appeared on the verge of collapse in the front nine over the 7,189-yard Firestone Country Club course Sunday in the final round of the World Series.

In three holes he had missed three fairways and five greens, was in four traps and missed five putts under six feet.

And Dave Stockton, the 28-year-old PGA champion, had pulled into a tie with him in the chase for the $50,000 first prize in this event that brings together the holders of the world's major championships—the Masters, PGA, U.S. and British Opens.

But Nicklaus recovered with three consecutive clutch putts starting on the 13th.

He birdied the 17th and finished with a par 70 for 136 and a three-stroke margin over Stockton and Masters champion Billy Casper, tied for second at 139. Each won $11,250.

Tony Jacklin, young Englishman who holds the U.S. Open crown, also had a 70 for 141 and pocketed $7,000.

The victory pushed Nicklaus' winnings for the year to almost $200,000, but the 29-year-old does not count on the money list since he is considered an exhibition by the PGA. Nicklaus now has won more than $226,000 in six World Series appearances.

Getting the ball to fly accurately is probably the biggest problem the average golfer has with long irons. When the ball consistently follows an unintended path, the thing is being done to decrease the chance of a festive loft at impact.

Very often this is the result of an incorrect address position. For the long irons, play the ball forward, no more than an inch or two from your left heel. Position your hands even with, or perhaps slightly ahead of, the ball. This will help you to even the loft of the club face to face loft at impact.

If your hands get ahead of the ball at address, you'll probably impact in a similar position which will take loft off the shot.

Bombers Only 'Major' Threat

Winnipeg Blue Bombers scored the only two touchdowns in two Western Football Conference games during the weekend, but the Bombers came out losers.

Winnipeg, riddled with injuries, lost 16-13 to British Columbia Lions at Vancouver Sunday in a game neither side seemed ready to win. The defeat left Bombers in the conference basement with the season half gone.

In the other contest, fourth-place Edmonton Eskimos upset conference-leading Saskatchewan Roughriders 10-4 at Edmonton Saturday.

B.C. moved into a second-place tie with Calgary Stampeders with their victory, penetrating within the Winnipeg 20-yard line only once—and that time they had to settle for a single when Ted Gerela's field goal try went wide.

Gerela kicked three field goals and three singles for 12 points, extending his lead in the individual WFC scoring to 15 points over Saskatchewan's Jack Abendschan. Lions' other points came on a pair of safety touches—one of them a strange third-quarter gift from Bomber coach Jim Trimble.

Spavital ordered punter Ed Ulmer to concede two points—which gave Lions a 9-7 lead at the time—when Winnipeg had third down at its own six-yard line. The move was aimed at getting possession at the 25-yard line, but a roughing penalty against Bombers on the safety play gave them the ball at their 11¼ and they had to punt three plays later.

Winnipeg led 13-10 mid-way through the fourth quarter, after a touchdown by quarterback Ron Johnson, his six-yard scoring pass to end Andrew Bilecki and a convert by Tom Deacon.

But Vic Washington, the former Ottawa Rough Rider, thrilled the Empire Stadium crowd of 36,250 by running back Winnipeg kickoff 58 yards to give Lions possession at the Bombers' 25-yard line. Gerela kicked the tying field goal three plays later from 38 yards out.

He added a single on a wide 35-yard attempt with less than two minutes left and Johnson was trapped for a safety on the game's third-last play to finish the scoring.

Washington, who had announced intentions of sitting out the option year of his Canadian Football League contract after being suspended by Ottawa, arrived in Vancouver a few days ago. Sunday's was his first game since undergoing off-season knee surgery. He caught four passes for 48 yards.

Brothers completed 12 of 23 pass attempts for 135 yards and had two intercepted. Wally Gabler, who started at quarterback for Winnipeg despite a bad ankle, completed three of eight and had two intercepted. Johnson—who played the entire second half—was good on six of 10 passes and had two intercepted.

Bombers had a total of 103 yards through the air.

B.C. rushed for 228 yards and had a total offence of 363 yards. Winnipeg made 190 yards on the ground for a total of 285.

At Edmonton, quarterback Ron Lancaster, who completed 19-324, Dave Cutler kicked three field goals of 29, 49 and 41 yards, and a single, to account for all of the Eskimos' points. Abendschan kicked field goals of 36 and 18 yards for Saskatchewan.

But the glory belonged to the Eskimo defence which stopped the powerful Riders at the Edmonton 12-yard line in the dying minutes to preserve the victory.

Saskatchewan quarterback Ron Lancaster, whose long passes to Nolan Bailey and George Reed had moved the ball 73 yards to set up the crucial sequence, tried three passes in an attempt to score. They were tipped away by Edmonton defenders Dick Sopcis, Doug Brandt and Jim Hibbard.

The Riders managed only 61 yards rushing, Reed making 50 of them on 13 carries. Lancaster completed only nine of 30 passes.

Intrepid Picked Shoo-in NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Sporting's oldest monopoly resumes Tuesday and it is hard to find anyone who doesn't expect more of the same—another boatman sailover for the United States in the America's Cup competition.

Many think Intrepid, only the second boat picked twice to defend the cup, will win the best-of-seven race series in four straight over the Australian challenger Gretel II.

One of his entourage reported Sir Frank Packer of the Aussie syndicate, as feeling bearish about his boat's chances.

But match racing such as for the America's Cup is a battle of hillfolds, design, space age technology, crew selection and organization, horsemanship, sailing tactics and luck.

Intrepid showed herself a winning combination of all of these in her somewhat surprising victory over Valiant in the elimination trials. Valiant was the 7th product of the genius of designer Olin Stephens who also designed Intrepid which soundly defeated Australia's Dame Pattie in the 1967 challenge.

Valiant was believed to have been an improved refinement on Intrepid but Intrepid proved that life can begin again at age three after having nautical time lifting by 30-year-old designer Britton Chance Jr.

Gretel II, designed by Alan Payne, was not all that much of superboat in trial runs against the original Gretel which lost to Weatherly in 1962. Yet Gretel II handily defeated France 4-0 in an eliminations series match against the French challenger. And France was supposedly an improvement over Gauntlet, built as a trial horse for her and designed by Olin Stephens. So what does all that prove? Who knows and that's what makes yacht racing.

Namath Sharp As Jets Close With Dallas Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Joe Namath helped close out the National Football League exhibition season in the kind of form New York Jets hope will get them off to a fast start in regular-season play.

Namath, late reporting to training camp because of personal problems, looked sharp Sunday night in guiding the Jets to a 29-21 victory over Dallas Cowboys in the Cotton Bowl.

Houston Oilers whipped Philadelphia Eagles 24-14 in the only other game on the final day of the exhibition season. Play for keeps starts next Friday night when St. Louis Cardinals play the Rams in Los Angeles.

In Saturday night's games, Pittsburgh Steelers topped Oakland Raiders 20-6, Los Angeles edged San Francisco 49ers 17-14, Washington Red Skins downed Baltimore Colts, 17-14, Cleveland Browns shaded the New York Giants 30-28, St. Louis Cardinals upended Kansas City Chiefs 34-24, Detroit Lions whipped Cincinnati Bengals 31-14, Atlanta Falcons outlasted Miami Dolphins 20-17, Green Bay Packers trounced Buffalo Bills 34-0 and New Orleans Saints beat San Diego Chargers 20-14.

Namath completed 19 of 21 passes for 251 yards and two touchdowns in the Jets' victory. He hooked up with rookie Richard Caster for 73 yards on his second scoring effort to put the Jets ahead 26-21 in the third quarter after Roger Staubach had cone off the bench to lead the Cowboys back from a 19-7 halftime deficit.

Namath played until midway in the fourth quarter.

Stanford Shakes Ratings

The opening of the 1970 United States college football season for Arkansas followed a reverse pattern from the closing of the 1969 season. But the result was the same—a ratings-shaking defeat.

The Razorbacks fell victim to a comeback in the final game of 1968 to lose to Texas 15-14 and miss their shot at the National championship. Saturday, they staged a comeback but lost 34-28 to Stanford, a loss that will cost them their No. 4 ranking in The Associated Press poll.

Stanford, sure to advance in the rankings, built leads of 27-0 and 34-14 as quarterback Jim Pruskett passed for a touchdown, Hillary Shockley ran for three and Eric Cross ran a punt back 61 yards for another.

Then, with a partisan crowd at Little Rock, Ark., cheering on Arkansas scored on a pass by Bill Montgomery and a run by Bob Burnett and had a fourth down and less than two yards to go for a first down at the Stanford four.

Linebacker Mike Simone, who sprained an ankle in the first quarter, then tackled Montgomery inches short of a first down with 22 seconds remaining and time ran out on Arkansas.

Two other members of The Associated Press Top Ten saw action Saturday, and both won. Third-ranked Southern California walloped Alabama 42-21 at Birmingham, Ala., at night, and No. 9 Nebraska blasted Wake Forest 36-12 at Lincoln, Neb.

Southern California, led by quarterback Jimmy Jones and Sam Cunningham, smashed through Alabama for 485 yards on the ground, with Cunningham scoring twice.

TORONTO (CP) — Heavyweight boxer Paul Nilsen, arrested Friday on a charge of robbery, will be allowed to fight in a bout here Wednesday night, Mery MacGibbon, Ontario athletic commissioner, said Sunday. Nilsen, 24, is charged with robbing a tobacco wholesaler of $3,000 in cash and $1,200 in cheques as the wholesaler was going to his bank Friday. "If he's out of jail and the charge hasn't come up we will allow him to fight," MacKenzie said.

COQUITLAM, B.C. (CP) — New Westminster Salmonbellies captured their Western Lacrosse Association championship Saturday night, downing Coquitlam Adanacs 9-5 to take the best-of-seven series 4-2. The Westminster now advances to the Mann Cup Canadian senior lacrosse final against Peterborough Lakers. The best-of-seven series starts Tuesday night in New Westminster with all games to be played in the West.

Toy Sales Down?

Peter Stevens, president of the Canadian Toy Manufacturers' Association, says toy sales in Canada this year are expected to be down about three per cent from the same time last year. However, he believes that consumer buying confidence will pick up in the next few months. (CP Photo)

Higher Hydro Costs Forecast

TORONTO (CP) — Higher electrical costs were predicted Saturday following tentative agreement on a two-year contract between Ontario Hydro and Local 1,000 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees.

The agreement was reached after a 36-hour session of bargaining which involved provincial mediator H. W. Dickie.

Bob Abbott, Hydro's manager of labor relations, said that although both parties were satisfied with the agreement, it would indirectly result in higher costs to the consumers.

The 19-man union executive meets Wednesday to determine whether the agreement should be sent to the 11,000-member membership for ratification.

The 12.5-per-cent increase was above the federal government's six-per-cent guideline but a Hydro spokesman said it was the best settlement since the government announced its proposed limit.

The agreement came after 9½ months of bargaining, including 3½ months of mediation with the provincial labor department.

George Gathercole, Ontario Hydro chairman, said the agreement was in line with current settlements in industry.

It will cost $18 million over the next two years and includes a three-level increase.

Weekly salaried clerks and technical staff get a 6.5 per cent increase in 1970 and another 6.25 per cent, including a 1.25 per cent prepayment, in 1971.

Operators will receive a six-per-cent boost in 1970 and 5.75 in 1971, including a 1.25 prepayment.

Trades personnel and employees on other salary schedules will receive an 8.5-per-cent increase in 1970, and in 1971, a 7.25 per-cent hike including the same prepayment.

When negotiations broke off Aug. 27 and the slowdown started, management was offering a 15-per-cent increase over two years while the union demanded 21 per cent.

Many non-monetary issues were settled but not disclosed.

The publicly-owned utility dropped its demand for a work week which includes weekends. The union has said the step would lead to unlimited overtime.

Training Pact Delayed

HAMILTON (CP) — The signing of a federal-provincial training program for men on welfare was postponed Saturday because Health Minister John Munro was home in bed with the flu.

John Yaremko, Ontario minister of social and family services, said Mr. Munro were to have signed the agreement at the opening ceremonies at an adult training centre for mentally retarded.

The western provinces and Quebec already have signed with the federal government.

Under the program that Ontario agreed to sign last week, municipalities will be able to apply for federal and provincial funds for work projects where men will draw allowances while learning work disciplines. The federal government will bear half the cost and the province and municipalities will share the remaining half. The funds are available under the Canada Assistance Plan.

Mr. Yaremko said the province had not consulted welfare recipients on whether they want this program. But in the past he had spoken to many people on welfare to try to determine what they would like as a general aim for the province's welfare programs.

"It may be the time has come when we are going to have to put more emphasis on what they can do for themselves."

"We're moving into an area of psychological experimentation," he said.

It would be a problem trying to find work for those who are unable to hold a job due to mental attitudes or poor work routine while there was such a high rate of unemployment in Canada.

"It's hard to say what success we'll have but we're going to make an attempt."

Those participating will receive a bonus on their welfare cheques, he said.

But "this is not a work-for-welfare program."

White's District

WHITE'S DISTRICT — Rev. John Bunner of Westminster United Church is attending the Iona College Institute on marriage and family counselling at the University of Windsor. In his absence the Sunday service was conducted by Mr. Harold Brintnell of Madoc.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wilson and Scott were in Toronto recently for the marriage of their daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. William Yateman spent last weekend with their daughter Mrs. Bernard Madsworth of Belleville. When preparing to return home Mrs. Yateman fell and fractured her right hip. She is now a patient in Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Pentagon on 'Speed' Says Poet

HAMILTON (CP) — The head of the Le Dain commission on the non-medical use of drugs met poet Allen Ginsberg Friday and ended up borrowing the Ginsberg collection of documents tracing the history of narcotics control.

Gerald Le Dain sat silently through a four-hour drug seminar at McMaster University, declining an invitation to speak, because his second report on misuse of drugs has not yet been tabled in the Commons.

Poet Ginsberg, black-bearded and black-shirted, told the seminar that the "entire Pentagon operates on amphetamines . . . that's why their judgment is so faulty."

"And the only reason CODA (Council On Drug Abuse) exists is to further the interests of the big pharmaceutical companies. They've been selling overpriced drugs so long—and diet pills subject to public abuse—and now with this CODA campaign they're fawning over the police so the public won't notice that the companies themselves are th big drug abusers."

The moderator of the seminar introduced Mr. Ginsberg as "the poet who has been involved in social criticism for many years."

Mr. Ginsberg, 44-year-old native of Paterson, N.J., said he had evidence that the "war in Southeast Asia is largely an opium war" and "proceeds from the sale of Southeast Asia opium go towards financing the China lobby in Washington."

Tillotson Takes Tobe Trophy

By GEORGE R. CARVER

Golf, like the temperatures swept into the upper fifties at the Bay of Quinte Country Club Saturday.

Competition best went on as upwards of 30 platinum-haired swingers sighted their contracts on the fourth annual Silver Top Trophy. It was the fourth annual fairways frolic for the silver - threads among the - golfers Tobe - donated silverware.

Age rules called for years between 50 and Rip Van Winkle's last birthday.

And when it was over and the last 50ist or smoke had creaked back into place, Miles Tillotson tucked the Tobe trinket under an arm and bled for the nearest rocking chair, his low net score 67.

Close behind was Fred Fisher who won the low gross with a net 70.

Chairman Mike Piperni and his committee Ross Burtt, Doug Bannon and George Balaza presented awards to the winners of three classes —

50-55; 56-60; and 60 upwards, at the post-tournament dinner.

Nineteenth hole consensus was that the journey was a success, despite the fact Jack Diamond and his pudgies peeked over paunches to plot their putts.

Gord Edwards took the first net award in the 50-55 group, with a 69, Jim Begley winning low net with 83. Jack Diamond's 81 won the 56-60 group net, Doug Grant taking low net with an 84. Ray McCoy won the 61-over net with 67, with Ralph Ketcheson winning low gross with 83.

Second low net and gross in 50-55 went to Steve Bowerman 69 and Abe Tobe 94. Second low net and gross in the 56-60 were won by Frank McCue 70 and Lloyd Lantz 84, while second low net and gross in 61-over went to Hal Emerson 67, and H. Gibson 85.

Non-winning players were presented with golf balls.

Deep Depression Is Very Dangerous

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I hate life. I wait for death. You don't seem to realize how much little it means when a human being dies. And how many (too many) are born to replace each death: breathing air, eating food, taking up room and space, sleeping in a warm comfortable bed, suffering, being disappointed, hurt, dragged down spiritually, emotionally, mentally.

The whole cycle is meaningless. The efforts spent in living, the energies, the enthusiasms spent, the high ideals trampled. I just want to scratch out an existence; the good intentions, all past now. All for nothing. The sum total of one life: Nothing.

Of course, this isn't necessarily the same sum total for all human life. Some lives mean something. They contribute, even though only self-love, self-care. It's something. These humans want to live.

Your life, Dr. Steincrohn, is dedicated to helping those who want life and to live it as comfortably as possible. But if human beings discover all roads lead to a blank wall, such persons should have the respect and dignity from others to choose to end their life, any way they select.

I want to be left alone! I am so sick of being expected to say and be and do according to some norm. To have a certain attitude, be in certain moods, feel certain feelings — so that I may be rated "acceptable" and "adequate."

I go to my clergyman and he says, "Don't you know it's a sin to contemplate self-destruction? Pray for your persons say. You sinner. You unspeakable, wretched sinner."

I can just see your words in print: "This Woman Needs A Psychiatrist." In your blissful innocence do you think you can help? It's too late.

I went to a social worker, not being able to afford the transportation to a doctor. He was a good listener. Until he heard "suicide". He got frightened. He got me into a hospital where I stayed a month. It solved nothing. I came home to the same situation I left behind.

Everything that put you in to this condition remains. Most of all you are still you. Only now you have astronomical medical and hospital fees. I have a job. Soon I will have it all paid for. (One way or another!)

Professionals panic at the word "suicide." They don't want the responsibility of a patient who breathes that word. Clergymen speak it as if it's a dirty word. Doctors shy away from it. People — including family — have contempt for those who speak it. My parents call it "being silly" and say "don't you know all the trouble you make for everyone?"

But I am infinitely patient. (Twenty years with a man who is a vegetable proves that.) I will plan very carefully. Planning for the youngest of my six children, planning for me. I will die alone. Nobody at me. Nobody showing a very bad script under my nose to say, "React this way. Speak these words. Act only this way." (Signed: A Nobody)

Comment: No signature. No address. (The postmark was Hackensack, N.J.) No way of getting in touch with her family to warn that she isn't being "silly" — and that her prediction is correct. I agree, this woman needs a psychiatrist. Right now! Her depression is deep and dangerous. Many can be saved from suicide if their threats or actions are not written off by the family as "being silly."

You may still have time to help her.

Robarts Believes Medicare Costs to Continue to Rise

TORONTO (CP) — The cost of government-sponsored medical insurance "will just continue to mount," Premier John Robarts predicted on a radio program Sunday night.

"There's no way you can prevent it," he said on the CFRB public-affairs program Let's Discuss It.

"The costs are going to escalate; they're going to go straight up and it's going to cost the people of this province a great deal of money."

He said the medical plan "is a fact of life with which my government has to live. . . .

"I think history will prove this has been a bit of a disastrous thing."

Mr. Robarts added: "I am going to make it work in Ontario."

He said some changes are planned in the next six months but when asked if they included bringing nursing homes under the plan he said only: "That is just very, very expensive."

He said the Great Lakes pollution conference in Toronto last week involving Ontario, the federal government and officials of eight states "accomplished precisely what we set out to accomplish and that was to establish machinery whereby we could get co-operative action."

He said working through treaties could take up to five years.

"What I want is to be able to get on the phone to Michigan, New York, and have somebody over there who knows and is working on our joint problems so that we can do the practical things."

Jean Dixon's Horoscope

For September 15

Your birthday today: Events and changing conditions soon divert your plans into unexpected directions, some of them profitable. Your challenge this year is to get to know more people better. Emotional relationships become important. Today's natives are imaginative, enthusiastic, impulsive, usually with a delightful story to tell. Natural talents for hairdressing and care of the hair are common.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Work around interference without letting it upset your pride. Restrain impulse until you get a chance to tell your story. Romantic interests thrive now.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): You can improve work matters despite much confusion. Your views are important to influential people — make yourself known gracefully. Now is a chance of bettering your situation.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): You continue to get too many calls upon your time. Find a balance between home affairs and career activities, then just simply take a break.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): If you will quietly apply yourself, most differences smooth out. Some business deals made now promise well, despite coming changes of conditions.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Differences of opinion seem inevitable, but you can nonetheless make productive arrangements. Property improvement, consideration for the concerns of older people are indicated.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Long established relations encounter friction. New emotional contacts have a sparkling appeal. Find some understanding of the paradox within yourself.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Your work continues to be uphill because people are slow on details. Keep at it; do what you can. Your earnings are due for an increase.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Personal projects thrive despite possible squabbles among people over them. Your imagination brings up many useful concepts. The later hours favor romance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Personal matters become so complicated that your work efforts are hindered. Get a very early start and keep at it; you will find out something you didn't know.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Your skills at organizing things come into good use today. You can get help for those you care about. Include your friends in an evening of festivity.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Apply your attention to business contacts rather than friends today. You have an unusual opportunity for a profitable long - range financial arrangement. Seek introductions.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Even contrary people can be of assistance today. The key is your tact and patience. Marital bickering is normal now, also smoothing out the problems afterwards.

Stanfield Is Opposed to Total Dependence on United States

PORT CARLING, Ont. (CP) — Ontario's young Progressive Conservatives ended a two-day convention Sunday with a standing ovation for Robert Stanfield after a speech in which the national leader called for a policy of internationalism that is not totally dependent on the United States.

"We want a Canada which is, of course, a good neighbor on this continent," Mr. Stanfield told the 200 delegates, most of them under 30. "But to be a good neighbor, it is not necessary to be a total dependent."

Canada should accept continental policies when they "are mutually beneficial and when they respect our own autonomy and our own priorities, but we want to make the decisions ourselves."

Mr. Stanfield's qualified rejection of continentalism emphasized a principle theme of the conference—youth's rejection of material comfort for a new "quality of life."

Michael Adams of Toronto, president of the party's national student federation, said in a panel discussion Sunday that "America today represents all the things which will destroy our country."

Energy and Resources Minister George Kerr, one of six Ontario cabinet ministers who attended, told delegates Saturday the popularity of small cars and the desire of young people to move into wilderness areas indicates "that youth today doesn't seek for, or want, the comforts of living of this generation."

The impact of youth on the conference, held at Eagle House, a resort 50 miles from Orillia, was felt in the informal discussions and the election of Sean O'Sullivan, 18, of Niagara Falls, as the group's first teen-age president, succeeding Edward Kowal, a 30-year-old Toronto lawyer.

Other officers elected: first vice-president, Brian Henderson, Thunder Bay; second vice-president, Jules Krenis, Waterloo; and third vice-president Ralph Tarom, Ottawa.

Mr. O'Sullivan's new nineman executive are all under 30, reflecting the success of a youth movement launched two years ago by Mr. Kowal. In 1968, about 80 per cent of the Ontario Young Progressive Conservative Association's 8,500 members were 25 years or older. Today, the percentage is 35.

Mr. O'Sullivan credits the influence of the under-30 members with the appearance at the conference of a third of the Ontario cabinet, as well as Premier John Robarts, and several MPs.

"We used to have a tough time getting the ministers to come," said Mr. O'Sullivan. "This time they were anxious to be here."

Mr. Kowal said the decision to do away with written policy resolutions and permit free-wheeling discussion on any problems was the result of pressure from the youthful wing to avoid formality and routine.

Mr. O'Sullivan admitted in an interview that all his efforts in the next few months will be to prepare for an election and he has already appointed Darwin Kealey, 24, of Ottawa as a paid, full-time youth organizer for the province.

Individuals Will Have Say in Cultural Field

TORONTO (CP) — Private cultural agencies and the individual Canadian artist will have a say in the formulating and implementing of Canada's cultural policy.

That was the assurance Secretary of State Gerard Pelletier gave representatives of the fine arts Saturday night when he announced the setting up of an advisory committee to work with the government in developing a Canadian cultural policy.

"We don't believe that an arts policy can be implemented without the help of artists, any more than we believe any senior government official can acquire instant mastery of cultural affairs," he told delegates attending a national forum on cultural policy.

The advisory committee will include spokesmen for the artistic community, who will have the same status as the other members and will be involved in the decision-making process."

The "other members" to which Mr. Pelletier referred are the heads of federal cultural agencies, such as the CBC, the Canada Council, the National Film Board, the Canadian Film Development Corp., the Canadian Radio-Television Commission, the National Arts Centre and the national museums.

He said the committee will begin regular meetings this fall "to work out long- and short-term policy objectives, the means of putting them into practice, and their budgetary implications."

Criticism of Mr. Pelletier's announcement even preceded it.

Hugh McPherson, former commissioner of the National Film Board, referred during an earlier address to forum delegates to reports "that the secretary of state will establish an 'advisory council' made up of heads of federal cultural agencies and private citizens named by him."

"On the surface this sounds very good," Mr. McPherson said.

"But since the council is only advisory, the minister need not take its advice.

"At the same time this advisory group would surely undermine the boards of governors of the various cultural agencies that now serve the government.

"A politically-minded secretary of state would be able to use the advice of his 'advisory council' against the advice of various boards of governors."

The result, said Mr. McPherson, would be that "the secretary of state and his proliferating personal staff could have the final word on cultural policy and affairs."

Jacques Godbout, a Montreal film-maker and member of panel discussion prior to Mr. Pelletier's speech, said that, in his opinion, "Canada needs ... at least four cultural policies because the different cultures (English, French, Indian and Eskimo) are all equal."

In his speech, Mr. Pelletier said the government opposed "any measure aimed at assimilation" of the different cultures within Canada.

About 300 delegates attended the two-day forum which was sponsored by the Canadian Conference of the Arts, a non-profit association of arts organizations and supporters. The forum ended Saturday.

Alternative Proposal for Arena Postpones Council Decision

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

Council decision on the awarding of a contract for the city's portion of the second industrial ice arena will be delayed as the result of an unexpected turn of events at yesterday's council meeting.

A recommendation to award the building contract to Carr-Bridge Construction at a cost of $222,933 was before council but was tabled on a close vote after Mayor J. Russell Scott suggested a different type of construction might save the city money.

A special meeting of council has been called for next Monday afternoon to again deal with the arena question.

Mayor Scott said the $300,000 cost of the arena was $100,000 more than had originally been considered. "I am greatly concerned for the taxpayers' money," he said.

The mayor noted that the taxpayers had frowned down on construction of an arena complex to cost something over one million dollars.

Since then, he said, the Ben Bleecker Auditorium had been built without recourse to the voters at a cost of around $300,000.

"Now we are talking of another building at more than $300,000, and will have spent one half the cost of the complex without anything to show for it."

Mayor Scott said he had approached Dominion Steel Co. Ltd., regarding the possible cost of an alternative structure and said their estimate would be available by Thursday of this week.

He suggested that an alternative building might result in

Trudeau Is Cool To Robarts Plan

United Effort Needed

OTTAWA (CP) — More effective inter-governmental collaboration is needed, rather than fundamental constitutional change, to fight pollution and meet the needs of rapid urban development, Ontario Premier John Roberts said Monday.

In a paper to the closed-door federal-provincial premiers' conference, he said primary responsibility for pollution control should rest with the provinces but the federal government should provide funds for major public works in the field.

Neither the federal nor the provincial governments should have all the powers needed to meet the effects of urban and industrial development that cause harm to the environment, he said.

One important move would be to have federal governments and agencies made subject to provincial law. The courts have so far granted the federal government and enterprises under its jurisdiction an immunity from provincial control and this, Mr. Robarts said, "has presented a major obstacle to Ontario's goal of local control over local problems."

While the provinces should

Piecemeal Changes Urged

OTTAWA (CP) — After one day of their summit talks, the leaders of Canada's federal and provincial governments appear to be making little progress in their search for a method of speeding along their constitutional review.

There were even some suggestions Monday that they, in effect, start all over again.

This appeared to be the effect of a suggestion by Premier John Roberts of Ontario—supported by several other premiers—that the government leaders give "high and immediate priority" to arriving at a formula for amending the constitution within Canada.

Mr. Robarts was reported to have told the closed-door conference that such an effort could be made while the leaders continue to deal with "bread-and-butter" changes in the constitution.

But during a day in which little progress was reported to have been made in seeking faster constitutional progress, Prime Minister Trudeau was said to be decidedly cool toward a new emphasis on an amending formula.

He pointed out that efforts were made 30 years ago to reach such a formula, and renewed efforts were made by both the Diefenbaker and Pearson governments before the so-called Fulton-Favreau formula was finally eased out of the picture in 1964.

"We're going in circles," Premier Ross Thatcher of Saskatchewan said Monday after the delegates had spent most of the day, the first of the three-day conference, talking about ways to make more progress amid the complexities of constitutional review.

One suggestion from Premier Thatcher was that in areas of particular concern to one province the federal government and that province hold constitutional talks before bringing their proposal before all the provinces.

"If Ottawa and Quebec wish to get together more frequently to hammer out a mutually-satisfactory document we would have no objection."

Mr. Thatcher also supported Mr. Robarts' contention that renewed emphasis be placed on establishing an amending formula.

Premier G. I. Smith of Nova Scotia said he would support a "very early look" at the formula question, but he offered reservations. "I cannot forget the previous efforts in this direction when a great many difficulties arose."

Premier Robarts argued the case for an amending formula,

Constable Held After Robbery

BRIGHTON (Staff) — A Belleville provincial police officer is being held at Cobourg following the armed robbery early today of the 1967 Restaurant and service station on the Macdonald-Cartier Freeway northeast of here.

In custody is Glenn Doyle, 39, a constable stationed at OPP district headquarters in Belleville and an officer with five years service on the force.

Cobourg Crown Attorney G. F. Bonnicastle said Const. Doyle has been charged with robbery while armed with an offensive weapon.

He is expected to appear in court at Brighton tomorrow, said the prosecutor.

Hijacked Hostages Remain Locked in Secret Prisons

AMMAN, Jordan (CP) — More than 50 hijack hostages remained locked in their secret prisons today while negotiations between their guerrilla captors and Western governments were at an impasse. Israel seemed to hold the key to the duration of their detention.

At a news conference guerrilla leaders warned again today that any attempt to free the hostages by force would only endanger their lives. They demanded swift bilateral action in swapping hostages for imprisoned guerrillas and warned: "We will not wait forever."

The hijackers, the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, announced Monday night it had closed the door on all further mediation with the Western governments involved negotiating as one to obtain the 54 hijacked airline hostages it still holds in secret hideouts. Today, the guerrillas expanded on bilateral negotiations.

The Popular Front is demanding the release of seven guerrillas held in Switzerland, West Germany and Britain, in addition to an unspecified number of guerrillas in Israeli prisons.

The Popular Front laid-down four conditions today:

—Release by Switzerland of the three Arab commandos it holds and their delivery to a safe place in exchange for the Swiss hostages held in Jordan.

—Release of the three Arab guerrillas held in West Germany in exchange for the German hostages.

—Release of Arab girl hijacker Leila Khaled by Britain and the return of the body of a dead hijacker for the freedom of eight British hostages.

—For the release of American and Israeli hostages the Popular Front demanded Israel should announce its agreement on four points.

These called for the release of a commando arrested in Haifa, of two Algerians detained at Tel Aviv airport in July, of 10 Lebanese soldiers seized in south Lebanon in January, and of an unspecified number of commandos held in Israeli jails.

Asked why the American hostages should be linked to the Israelis, a Popular Front spokesman replied:

"We regard the government of the United States as an enemy and we consider the Americans we hold are part of the Israeli people."

Guard Shoots Hijacker

SAN Francisco (AP) — A male passenger demanding to go to North Korea attempted to hijack a Trans World Airlines jetliner today. He was shot by another passenger, a private guard for a shipment of securities, after being in control of the plane for a little more than an hour, deputy sheriffs said.

Robert E. De Nisco, 34, an employe of Brinks, Inc., stood up and shouted "Police" and began struggling with the hijacker after the pilot announced the hijack after the plane landed.

One shot was fired. The hijacker, described only as a young white man, was reported in serious condition at nearby Peninsula Hospital, where he was taken to surgery.

International Court Proposed To Try Hijackers of Planes

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Secretary-General U Thant stepped outside the UN Monday night to call for an international tribunal to try aerial hijackers.

In a speech to the UN Association of the United States, the Secretary-General said:

"It is high time that we go to the root of this phenomenon and treat its causes with novel remedies and not with old-time recipes to which it is largely immune."

Observers greeted the statement, delivered on the eve of the opening of the silver anniversary session of the 126-country General Assembly, with questions of how Thant's proposed tribunal could be formed.

The suggestion was stronger than anything Thant had said in his annual report to the General Assembly, on aerial hijacking or anything else.

Hundreds of Thousands Idle

Strike Closes Many Plants of GM

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers went on strike against General Motors Corp. today, choking off car production by the world's largest manufacturing firm and making idle hundreds of thousands of workers in Canada and the United States.

Pickets were posted around GM facilities in 31 states and at seven plants in Ontario and Quebec after last-minute negotiations failed to produce a new contract for the auto industry.

The old one—a three-year-pact—expired at midnight Monday night.

The shutdown will cost the workers about $42.5 million a week in wages, but will also cost GM a whopping $30 million a day in lost production.

Both GM and the union said they were far apart on reaching a new contract, but pledged talks to make the strike as short as possible. They said they would try for another meeting Wednesday.

However, some union and industry sources predicted the strike would be lengthy, and might exhaust the UAW's $120 million strike fund. Union officials said the strike funds would last seven to eight weeks, with the 344,000 workers on strike drawing up to $40 weekly each. Some 27,000 of them were in six Ontario plants and one in Quebec.

But another 73,000 were ordered to stay on the job at 27 GM plants to produce auto parts for companies not involved in the dispute.

The strike is the first widespread shutdown of GM since 1964, when failure to agree on a new contract closed the firm for 10 days.

The only other major strike against GM lasted 113 days in 1945-46. That was the longest work stoppage ever in the industry.

The strike comes just as GM is introducing its 1971 models, including the sub-compact Vega 2300, designed to help fight off the challenge of imported small cars.

UAW President Leonard Woodcock criticized the GM contract offer and said the auto-maker "held out no other choice" but to strike.

Legal Marijuana Could Destroy Society Addiction Researcher Tells Rotarians

By BARRY McCULLAGH
Staff Reporter

The only way drug use among young Canadians, now at epidemic proportions, can be stemped out is by the young people themselves, as instigators of the situation, living up their use, according to Miss Mahoney, a researcher for the Addiction Centre at Queen's University.

Mr. Mahoney told Belleville Rotarians yesterday that counselling on drugs should begin in early at Grade 4, Youth, he said, must be taught a sense of identity and purpose in life.

"If we are stampeded into legalizing marijuana now, I'll be warned, "we could have a big social problem on our hands and see society declining quite possibly in five to 10 years."

Three wards of the psychiatric hospital in Kingston, he said, are jammed with young patients who would not have have suffered irreparable brain damage and will never come out.

Mr. Mahoney, who has done drug research with young people under controlled conditions said just as there are some people exactly alike there is no drug which produces reactions to drugs. Monitoring of the brain patterns of the subjects showed that dependency was under the influence of drugs and those who say drugs are harmless cannot deny this.

The drug researcher, who testified before the LeDain Commission, said there is a very vocal lobby in favor of legalizing marijuana and he was loud in his condemnation of Health Minister Munro for saying that if a sufficient number of people were for it the government would be remade to do so.

"He should have been booted out of office so fast he would not have had time to pick up his chair."

Hospitals, said Mr. Mahoney are not equipped to deal with the addicted and 25 years ago "we were "swamped" by drug patients, whose ills are looked upon as "self-inflicted wounds". Kingston General however has set up a small separate unit to treat such cases.

Mr. Mahoney endorsed the concept of a community emergency hostel staffed by medical assistants and with psychiatrists on call where drug victims could seek help. Follow-up assistance is necessary too, for those who want it; otherwise they would be back on drugs again within a week.

Mr. Mahoney viewed kids on drugs having "never learned to face reality or accept responsibility for an on-going society, and who are out to destroy society by not becoming part of it."

Ten years ago there was a hard core on drugs among criminal elements and slum dwellers. Now it has broken out across the country and even in the elementary schools.

He pictured the youngsters as being "deliberately brainwashed" to destroy society as it exists today.

"They are still spouting the same Marxist concepts that I learned when I was going to school." Eventually they are going to destroy themselves because they do so about-face.

A former production manager and broadcaster, the Montreal-born Mr. Mahoney alluded to the billions of dollars involved in illicit drug production and traffic.

He said the money is going to countries "which are out to destroy us." Most of the chemical cartel, he added, is behind the iron curtain, and the opium poppy is found in seven countries of the Arab world.

Emphasizing that drug use creates a psychological dependence, Mr. Mahoney said his centre has had nine or 10 kids a day, including speed freaks. Without exception they have started with marijuana and went on to speed and LSD.

"Pressure is being placed on schools.

Co-ordinator Reports On Remedial Program

BLOOMFIELD (Staff) — Special services co-ordinator for Prince Edward County schools, Russell Williams, has reported the first year of the new school term evaluating remedial and follow-up systems for slow learners.

In his report to county school trustees, Mr. Williams remarked that he has sat in on classes from kindergarten through grade 11 in eight schools. He described the remedial system as "very good" although in some schools they are only beginning.

His work during the past week included answering teachers' questions about testing systems and investigation of the need for speech improvement and the possibilities of its introduction in county schools. Mr. Williams told board members that he assisted with the new individual timetables now in use at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute and also discovered several grade nine students with emotional problems.

He added that he is trying to find teacher diagnosticians who can test pupils and offer remedial help and follow up.

At the request of John McNeil, Prince Edward County director of education Mr. Williams reported a special education meeting held in Belleville recently. Donald McTavish, superintendent of education for Ontario, attended this conference organized to establish special education courses for teachers. Represen tatives from Prince Edward County, Lennox and Addington counties, and Peterborough joined the discussion. A further meeting will be conducted in Belleville on Thursday as a follow up.

Mr. Williams said the teachers would be questioned for their reactions to the availability of these courses in this area.

Oral French Program Discussed by Board

BLOOMFIELD (Staff) — Prince Edward County board of education figures show that total additional expenditures across the county to implement an oral french program for 1,530 students is possible five through eight is approximately $9,000 to $9,500.

The cost was discussed in relation to each elementary school during a board meeting last night. It was noted that no additional teachers were required for Sophiasburg, Ameliasburg, Hillier, Ameliasburgh, Queen Elizabeth and Wellington Consolidated schools. Three of these schools recorded additional minimal costs of about $150 to support the French programs. At Queen Elizabeth school the program is limited though Prince Edward Collegiate Institute at an additional cost. An itinerant teacher has been hired to teach oral french in Athol and South Marysburgh schools. In North Marysburg a grade four to ten teacher has been added to the staff.

The total cost was estimated by education director John McNeil at about 25 cents per pupil. The students receive 20 minutes of daily instruction in oral french using time chopped from other classroom subjects. By dropping two or three minutes from regular classes the new program can be fitted into the student's schedule.

Told that no additional teachers were required for the French program in most of the schools, trustee Dorothea Carson observed that these schools now are short teachers when once trained other subjects last year. "What went out?" she asked. Mrs. Carson said that she understood the 20 minutes used in studying French was extra class time but she still was eager to learn what instruction has been deleted from the shortened programs. Mr. McNeil agreed to ask each principal for an answer to her query.

had held up the restaurant and fled with $150 after hijacking a truck.

The robbery was staged about 1 a.m. when an armed man confronted the cashier at the restaurant.

The man then fled to the truck parking lot, climbed into the cab of a transport and told the Quebec truck driver to get going, say police.

Cobourg town police stated out into interchanges north of the town.

A police officer was alerted when approaching transport flashed its lights. He took off after the vehicle, radioing ahead to a cruiser at the next interchange.

There they stopped it the driver jumped out of the truck yelling "he's got a gun" and dived underneath his truck.

Trustee Appointed

Nelson McKibbon, a former appointed trustee with the old Bay of Quinte District Secondary School Board, was appointed Monday night to the Hastings county board of education.

He will fill the unexpired three-month term of trustee John D'Eyrn who resigned when he moved to Prince Edward county.

The appointment was made in caucus after the regular public meeting of the school board.

The four remaining Belleville trustees submitted names for consideration and Mr. McKibbon was selected for the position.

Enrolments Up Slightly

BLOOMFIELD (Staff) — Elementary school enrolment figures are "holding steady" across the county according to education director John McNeil. Mr. McNeil has predicted a slight increase in the number of public school pupils in Prince Edward by the end of this month but reports 50 new students for the new Edward Collegiate Institute. He remarked that no figures are now available from the Hastings County school board reporting the number of Prince Edward students from Ameliasburg in attendance there. He forsaw a possible countywide secondary student increase of 60 to 75 pupils for the 1970-71 school year.

Loyalist Ex-President Has Queries for Board

By KENNETH SMITH
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — "I do not want to be negative but Loyalist is my flesh and blood as well as my sweat and tears and I am hard pressed to be dispassionate," J. Kenneth Bradford said last night.

The ex-president of Loyalist College discussed the operations of the Loyalist Board of governors and the future of the institution in an address to Trenton Rotary Club.

He mentioned that he was still "friends with two-thirds of the present board," but that he "reserved the right to disagree when not in accord with any one of their joint actions.

"A college is not a political instrument. It is not to be subject to the considerations and limitations by which a politician weighs his actions and their possible consequences," Mr. Bradford contended.

"Now I am one of the community, one of you," he told the Rotarians, adding that as a private citizen he had some questions to be answered, not covered by them (the Governors) in public."

The first question dealt with the second phase of construction at the college.

The ex-president asked if the brief had been submitted to Queen's Park for Module II, what type of construction would be used for the project, what purpose would it serve and what would it cost?

"What steps have been taken to reduce morale at Loyalist among staff and student?"

"What about reports from staff that they have been told that they do not have a valid contract despite assurances from the province to the contrary?"

"How will the college cope with problems introduced for staff and students by influx of OMRP (Ontario Manpower Retraining Program) and their procedures?" he inquired.

"What is the current status of the teacher-provincial salary negotiations? Is the college able to suggest a substantial retroactive raise in salary levels from operating funds?" Mr. Bradford continued.

"What is the actual number of full-time students enrolled apart from apprenticeship, OMRP and extension as compared with the goals of 600 to obtain full grants this year?"

"What steps have been taken and, if taken, were they prompt enough to bring consideration of establishment of a pilot college at either Picton or Trenton as a satellite?" he asked, explaining that he had been exploring the possibility of a Loyalist satellite operation in Trenton or Picton for the last three years.

"The community has to know what is going on," he said, suggesting that the teachers' association, students' representatives and the press be admitted to Loyalist board meetings.

Mr. Bradford surveyed community college systems in Canada, at one point, comparing the Ontario boards of governors to those in the western provinces. He explained that here there are usually 12 governors for each college, in the east six.

Referring to the western example, the ex-president said "at least, that system has reduced conflicting opinions at board meetings by half".

Furthermore, he added that in the west there is "a trend to small boards with limited operational powers".

In closing, Mr. Bradford made what he called "an appeal" to Rotarians "to get into the action and make Loyalist a great college that we will support with pride."

Transportation of Students Remains Major County Problem

Getting there is half the fun, but it's no laughing matter for parents and school administrators in Hastings county.

Transportation — the perennial bugbear of the educational system in one of Ontario's largest counties — was examined again at Monday night's meeting of the board of education.

Many rural bus routes are too long, pupils are picked up too early and don't get home until too late, trustees were told.

Alteration of routes to provide better service has not been considered in the past because of efforts to save on the cost of the board's $1 million transportation budget.

But trustees decided a new look at transportation was overdue, and asked transportation officer John Bancroft to bring in a report within a month.

Trustee Donald Williams of Stirling noted that "our first consideration should be good service" and asked that some routes be shortened.

Some students living at the top of the Oak Hills, 12 miles from Centennial Secondary School, are travelling 40 miles to get to school. They are being picked up at 7:30 a.m. and don't get home until 5:30 p.m." he said.

Assistant superintendent J. M. Cousins, the administrator in charge of transportation, agreed that he was "not entirely happy with transportation".

He revealed that a neighboring county, with about the same number of students, spends twice as much as Hastings county on transportation.

Later, in discussions, Mr. Williams said the neighboring county was Northumberland - Durham.

The most difficult section of the county for school transportation is centre Hastings, Mr. Cousins said. Pupils are bused from farms on narrow township roads where no place exists for bus turnings.

He called for trustees to meet three times a year with transportation officials to inform them, and local parents, of the situations in their areas.

A delegation of Stirling area parents attended the meeting to ask for route surveys by bus drivers each August before school opening.

"Until three years ago, each bus driver surveyed his route and told the parents exactly what time their children would be picked up," commented one mother. "He also had an accurate count of the number of children he was required to transport."

Mr. Cousins noted that the driver survey was an old-fashioned and time-consuming method of determining transportation needs, but might be the only effective method of handling the problem.

He presented statistics to give the board some idea of the bus service it operates through contracts with school bus operators.

The county now has 278 school bus routes, run by 108 operators. In the 194 school days this year they will log 1¾ million miles over county roads. School buses travel 15,000 miles each day over the county's 25,000 square miles.

Board Fed Up with Conflict Charges

Trustees of Hastings county board of education last night called for an end to charges to conflict of interest on the part of their chairman, James Clarke.

"This should be dropped before it leads to a cat and dog fight; we've listened to it long enough," said F. John Follis.

His motion to declare the subject closed to debate in the future was seconded by Ralph Weaver of Trenton, but the chairman disallowed the motion.

The re-awakening of the issue centred on refusal of the board's solicitor, D. H. Bateman, to rule on possible conflict of interest on Mr. Clarke's part. The firm of which he is vice-president and general manager, Wilson Concrete Products, was awarded a sub-contract for construction of Bayside' Secondary School.

Trustee Paul Fleming had raised the issue several times and had asked the board to seek its solicitor's opinion.

The solicitor, in his letter to the board, said the issue is a matter for the board only and is not within the jurisdiction of the board or a trustee to deal with.

Mr. Fleming said he had anticipated such a reply, and again raised questions about the extent of the chairman's financial interest in the contract.

His motives were questioned by Raymond Rowe of Frankford, who said "Trustee Fleming, I feel, has questioned the integrity of administration and also the members of the board over the years.

"I would like to know the reasoning behind such questioning, or is it for publicity?" asked Mr. Rowe. "If there is no reason, this board should request an apology."

He cited five instances in which Mr. Fleming had, in his opinion, questioned the integrity of the board of administration.

Mr. Fleming replied that he, had no apologies to make.

Trustee Mary Jean Hutchison of Trenton said Mr. Rowe was trying to express "what the rest of us think".

The debate on conflict of interest was, she said, "regrettable, undignified and unnecessary.

"I hope we don't have to suffer through this again," she added.

Several trustees reiterated their faith in the integrity of the chairman and the administration before the debate was closed.

Arena Decision Delayed

a saving of from $20,000 to $30,000 over the proposed concrete structure. If no tenders could be called on a competitive basis .

"The arena is a big item and most of the cost is a direct cost to the taxpayers," he said.

The tabling motion presented by Mayor Scott was carried on a 4-3 vote.

Supporting the tabling motion were Mayor Scott, and Aldermen Ernie Payne, Reagan. Orr and Smith. Negative votes were cast by Ald. Ireland, Jeffrey, Joyce, Hamilton and Soutter.

The tabling motion presentsfurther debate on the arena issue and Ald. Donald Soutter as chairman of the recreation and arena committee was able only to give a brief background before the vote was taken.

Ald. Soutter said tenders for the arena had been called both on the basis of a complete building and also by sub trades.

No bids had been received on three of the sub-trade categories but "guesstimates" on the cost of these trades indicated the cost of the arena on a sub-trade basis would be only from two to five thousand less than the Carr-Brand bid for the complete building.

The alderman said the committee felt this was not enough difference to warrant supervision by the city and accordingly was "recommending approval of the Carr-Brand tender.

Although discussion on the arena question was terminated by the tabling motion, Ald. Soutter and Ald. Jeffrey were still able to voice their displeasure later in the meeting.

Under bylaws Ald. Jeffrey said the tabling motion from Mayor Scott was "very unacceptable."

"The recreation committee worked hard for weeks and came up with what was wanted. Now here we have an entirely new concept," she said.

Ald. Morgan couldn't see it. Ald. Jeffrey's way. "If we can save $20,000 to $30,000 we can still go ahead," he said.

Still later in the meeting under general business, Ald. Soutter said the tabling motion passed by council placed in jeopardy two of the principles of conducting city business.

He objected strongly to the "unilateral action" of Mayor Scott in requesting Dominion Bridge to submit a cost estimate on a steel arena building.

He said any questions regarding a steel structure could have been answered.

Tabling of the recommendation to award the tender to Carr-Brand was contrary to the city's tendering procedure and the integrity of council was open to question, he maintained.

"I am not too sure but what this whole project is unethical as far as council is concerned and unprofessional as far as the contracting industry is concerned.

"I am sorry I cannot reply," returned Mayor Scott, indicating that as chairman he was unable to do so.

"However, I have spoken and what I said stands," he said.

The tabling motion cut off any explanation of the relative merits of a steel arena structure as compared to concrete or wood, but this matter had been thoroughly discussed by the recreation committee prior to tenders being called.

The decision of the committee at that time had been that maintenance, insurance and certain other costs of steel or wood would be greater and members voted in favor of a concrete structure.

REAL ESTATE
A NEW HOUSE OR AN OLD ONE — WHICH IS FOR YOU?
ED McKIBBON
Broker, Belleville Realty Ltd.
Unless you have very rigid reasons for wanting one rather than the other, be objective and look at both.
A new home buyer can usually select the paint colors, tiles, and bath fixtures etc. — a very real advantage for the long-held visions of your "dream" home.
An old home will have these features completed however, but this carries with it a built-in advantage. Very often a decorative idea looks good in a drawing or in a mental mage but doesn't pan out too well in reality. In a lived-in residence, you see just what you're getting.
The same goes for shrubbery. If you have innovative ideas, however, the undeveloped lands of a new house are your golden opportunity to bring them to realization.
And so it goes. For every argument there is a counter. The benefit of looking at both is that you expose yourself to different ideas and approaches that can change your thinking. Mixed with these points are the basics like neighborhood, architecture, availability of schools and shopping areas.
One consideration that could strongly affect your decision is financing, and circumstances here can vary. Discuss your needs frankly with your Realtor.

Education Costs

As we were saying just recently, a lot of water has passed under the bridge since the days of the one - room or little red schoolhouse.

Today we have the paradox of an educational system groaning under the weight of its own bureaucracy and its own ambitious and a restive student body pursuing elusive goals. Jobs for those who do graduate are becoming increasingly scarce and there is talk of students being concerned about the need to develop meaningful alternatives to the traditional school curriculum.

Just what those alternatives might be we have no more idea than the students, but clearly it will be a matter of evolution rather than any sudden overnight development. If the young people are going to be in the forefront of such a trend, they will have to display greater insight and drive than they have been credited with in recent days.

Take Senator Grattan O'Leary for example. Most young people, according to the veteran journalist, orator and political campaigner, do not know what they are talking about. In the same breath Senator O'Leary blamed the media for not enlightening the young to any great extent. He made his comments during a CTV question period.

Told that young people are impatient because "all Parliament does is talk," the senator replied: "Listen, from the days of Pericles — Pericles to Lincoln, Lincoln to Churchill — governments, great movements and the preservation of freedom has been due to talking, on words."

But to get back to the comparatives of education today, there was Education Minister William Davis admitting in Belleville last week that some county educational establishments are better off than others. This is scarcely surprising, but we can deduce from the minister's remarks that the upgrading of the less affluent systems will mean further escalation of costs. As Mr. Davis himself hoted, "the biggest issue, on a continent-wide basis, is finance."

We wonder in these circumstances, is it too much to ask that stronger attempts be made by government, at both the provincial and municipal level, to keep costs down. Deputy Education Minister J. R. McCarthy has said that falling birth rates would reduce the annual increment for education to two or three per cent from the 10 to 15 per cent of the last two years; but Mr. Davis on the other hand does not see this happening for some time, nor does he anticipate a tightening of the educational purse strings. For the rising movement of people into the Hastings county area would offset the expected drop in the birth rate.

At least a stricter watch could be kept on finances. If the public were getting their money's worth back in fully qualified students entering productive jobs it would not be so bad. But can this be said of education today?

Show Business

If as Paul McCartney recently stated, the Beatles will never perform again in public, then Sunday night's re - run performance of the Ed Sullivan show will be a most historic final appearance for fans here. Featured were the Beatles themselves and other leading performers in a program dedicated to the compositions of the celebrated British group.

As individuals the Beatles of course are still going strong, and particularly Paul McCartney who has brought out a record entitled simply McCartney. As a group though the Beatles have an established place in contemporary music and undoubtedly they will maintain their appeal for many years to come.

Meanwhile it is good to see another popular slice of Show Business still packing them in. We refer to Hello Dolly! which has outdistanced My Fair Lady as Broadway's longest running show. Going on now for its 3,000th performance the Dolly role has featured such luminaries as Ethel Merman, Ginger Rogers, Carol Channing, Betty Grable, Martha Raye, Phyllis Diller and Pearl Bailey.

They are all great figures of the entertainment world, and yourself in appearance and attitude to life. They have the kind of talent and zest we might all envy.

Baby Seats

Car seats for babies appear to be coming into greater use. Rear seats are recommended for maximum safety and we have seen a number of infants seated thus. If it seems like a case of splendid isolation the babies nevertheless seem to enjoy the passing scene and anyway would be safer there in an emergency. Infants may be seen in front seats too and we can only say that the safety factor in their case is reduced considerably.

A Last Hurrah?

PCs Look Wistfully at the Old Diefenbaker Magic

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Ever seen such a sorry scene as some of the Progressive Conservatives—as they progress from one leader to the next—trying now in their weakness for the Old Warrior to buckle on his shield and armour and help lead them, once again, into battle?

Caught with their popularity polls never lower, and the next campaign, whenever the election horizon, they are in a bliss funk for their political lives.

If only the Old Tory Terror would march out, shoulder to shoulder with the deflated, they implore — hoping he will hear the anguish of it — they might be saved.

After all, when they had struck him down, he had been carried from the field saying something about . . . . . am wounded but I am not slain . . . I'll lay me down to rest awhile . . . and rise and fight again. . . His loyal Prairie band of parliamentary partisans is not dodging the wreckage.

They do not have to ask his forgiveness for any betrayal, because they stood with him to the end, helpless to save him from the teeny-bopping mercenaries who were recruited and rung in to wreak their ruin of him.

They wasted him recalled, if only as a co-captain of the Tory troops in the last election, then to step aside again.

He walked for the call, but it never came, and except for the Prairies and the Atlantic Provinces where regional loyalties prevailed they were massacred to a man west of the Rockies and decimated between the Lakehead and the New Brunswick border.

The Tories now talking so wistfully of what might have been — and still could be this next time out "if only" are many of the same disaster-ared clique, in and out of Parliament, who conspired to destroy him.

For a time, in the chaotic delirium of relief, they thought they had decapitated him and mounted his head, like a trophy of the hunt, in their collective rumpus room.

But the head keeps talking back and the body will not stop twitching.

It long since has become stunningly apparent that there is more life in the Old Chief, even now at a ripening 73, than almost any one of them.

To do them justice, though, they did send an envoy to him once with a message that might have been an embassy but really was not and a plea that definitely was.

It came by special plane, two days before the last Conservative election campaign opened in Winnipeg.

They were facing disaster, and they knew it.

They knew that only the Old Warrior, taking to the Winnipeg platform, beside Bob Stanfield, could light a Prairie political fire for them that might, with momentum sweep across the Rockies, and then with a change in the wind, roar across Northern Ontario's rocky shield into the industrial heartland.

But failing that they knew that, nobody but The Chief could so pack the Winnipeg rally that the stretcher would be battering in the doors.

It was late, insultingly late, when the envoy came home into Prince Albert, and after all, the Old Man, who had taken 307 of them to triumph in Ottawa 19 years before, did have his pride.

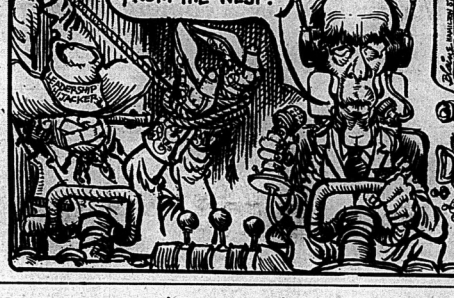
So he did not ride to the rescue.

He stayed put in Prince Albert and won his 18th successive election while all but 73 forlorn survivors were losing theirs.

It was the worst Conservative disaster in 15 years and five campaigns.

But now, in this bleak Conservative Autumn, something could be stirring.

For the Old Warrior, while he has a fierce pride, has an even more fierce loyalty. Old friendships are everything, and he still has far, far more friends than new-escapee recruits in the ranks of the Conservative Commons caucus.



He loves to fight the 'impossible' fight — after all, did he not bring down the hated Grits in humiliating defeat after 22 unbroken years of "Wits's to stop us!" Liberal rule?

And the pressure is mounting — let us face it, really it will not take all that rushing to send him out on the campaign trail he knows so well in a "farewell tour," a "Last Hurrah..."

Can't you just see it?

Dief the Chief and Quiet Bob, side by side, on platforms, at airports, on supermarkets, at barbecues, fish-fries?

It could be the biggest thing since Laurel and Hardy, Wisdom and Whitfield and Costello, and evil, okay, Bergen and McCarthy.

Crane Operators' Wage Hike

Ottawa Journal

A plaintive footnote, written by the Prices and Incomes Commission to the story of the Toronto crane operators who recently conned a 53 per cent wage increase over three years out of their employers:

"This settlement has occurred in the face of a prospective decline in the volume of construction activity in the Toronto area and elsewhere. There is no evidence that pay increases of this magnitude were required to induce or attract or maintain an adequate supply of crane operators. Nor did the settlement include changes in work practices designed to yield unusual productivity gains."

With more wringing of hands the PIC reports that its officials had met with both parties prior to the final settlement and warned of the consequences of an inflationary agreement. But the contract which has emerged "reveals no concern whatever with future cost, price or employment levels in the construction industry."

The crane operators and their bosses will justify this flouting of the national interest by arguing that only a small number of workers are involved and that the direct impact on total construction costs will not be large. Inflation is always being blamed on someone else's raise.

But welders and bricklayers, policemen, postmen and teachers, bank presidents and office workers will be saying if crane operators can now make $17,000 a year, they too deserve healthy increases. Six per cent? What a joke!

The PIC has performed the inquest and issued its coroner's report. It will meet the fate of most coroner's reports. Employers and employees have both been guilty of evoking the spectre of prices and age controls all around — a dangerous thing surely not warranted in today's circumstances, but it could come and will come with much more of that nonsense in the crane business.

Majority Suffer For Acts of the Few

Hamilton Spectator

It is an unfair reality of life that people are not only judged by the company they keep but by the color of their skin, the country of their birth and the shape of their nose. This it is that in the eyes of many Asians and Europeans, Americans are all brutes because a few of them massacred women and children in a Viet Nam village. In the same vein, Italians are treated with caution by many Americans because of the activities of the Sicilian Mafia in the United States; and long-haired boys are frowned upon because in a campus "revolutionaries," hippie compound leaders and pot peddlers happen to let their hair grow over their collars.

It is the old story of being tarred with the same brush. In other words, if the citizens of Egypt, Jordan and the other Arab nations of the Middle East are suffering propaganda wounds today because of the insane acts of a few thousand Palestinian Arabs, history is merely repeating a sociological phenomenon that has been with us since Adam's day.

The Failure to Exercise Power

Hijackings A Reminder of Pirates of Old

Winnipeg Free Press

The meaning of great power is just that: power wisely but inexorably wielded. As history has proved time and again, in this world power alone cannot order. Where there is no power, or reluctance to use it, the world becomes the prey to every kind of desperado on the make, as was witnessed by the terrifying events of recent days. Indeed, what happened in Jordan when four airliners were hijacked by Middle East gunmen, was a depressing evidence of the new anarchy that has gripped the world; or rather of the old anarchy in a new guise. The jetliners and automatic weapons used in the hijacking were late 20th century. The gunmen came straight out of a cast for a play witnessed by Julius Caesar.

The ancient Romans lived about as securely as we do, or as we did until recently. A Roman citizen could travel unharmed and without fear of life or for his possessions from the far reaches of the Euphrates to the banks of the Rhine. Roman power, represented by Roman legions, Roman navy, Roman officials and Roman police, was the guarantor of law and order, at home and abroad. The moment Rome collapsed there was no power to hold back the rovers, pirates and bandits. Society vanished and the dark ages began. Houses had to be built as fortresses and the law-abiding inhabitants could defend themselves against marauders. The picturesque castles and the fortress-like cathedrals, now the delight of what might well be the last of the tourists; the Saracen towers along the Mediterranean coast that today are the favorite homes of famous artists, all these were the products of the chaos prevailing in those powerless times. Man was never sure when an attack would come whether by bandits from near home or Arab pirates from across the sea. The movement of people ceased and world trade collapsed. The Mediterranean, once cleaned up by Julius Caesar who had the pirates crucified en masse, again became like today's Central Park in New York at night: Only the foolhardy risked crossing it.

The Roman empire ailed for about a century and a half after A.D. with the flight of the last Roman emperor, Romulus Augustulus. It took 11 centuries until the battle of Lepanto in 1571, before the tide began to turn. And even Lepanto did not put an end to piracy. By weakening Turkish power it led to a new anarchy in North Africa. The Barbary pirates, who plagued the Mediterranean for three centuries, were extirpated only in 1830 with the French conquest of North Africa. In the West Indies it required a joint action by the United States and British navies to put an end to piracy there. Only when power was applied was piracy tolerated. Ransom paid to the pirates for the release of hostages merely encouraged their enterprise, in the same way in which the release of convicted terrorists emboldens the Arab desperados. After the recent hijacking of Greek airliners the Greek government promptly released the convicted Arab killers. So now four airliners are hijacked, and the Swiss and the Germans already prepare to pay ransom by releasing the killers they are holding. No government seems to suffer the opprobrium heaped upon the governments of Guatemala and Uruguay that refused to give in to the kidnappers who then murdered the hostages.

Power, as Roman shows, can vanish easily, more often because of the weakness on the part of those who wield it than by dint of an actual weakening of the great power's material base. But while it vanishes slowly, it takes a long time for power — and order — to be restored.

Unless we shake off our lethargy, our civilization will crumble as quickly and irrevocably as did that of the Romans and the dark ages will be ushered in by the hijacking of the Soviet Union which has been arming the hijackers and which has her own reasons for seeing Western traffic and trade without parachute. Piracy, says international law, is a crime not against any particular state but against all mankind. It has to be extirpated, and this cannot be done other than by great power, or an alliance of powers.

Doctor Potter Comments on Province's Proposed Drug Plan

Dr. Richard Potter today suggested provincial and federal authorities should "take a serious look" at the quality standards which are 40 rejected from the Ontario government's new comparative drug price program.

If the drugs are not considered up to quality in Ontario they shouldn't be on the market list, the Quinte MPP said.

Rejection of the drugs was revealed yesterday by Ontario Health Minister Thomas Wells as he outlined the province's Parcost program — expected to lower the cost of prescriptions by 10 to 15 per cent.

The Parcost directory lists available prescription drugs by brand names and manufacturer, under generic titles and compares the prices.

The 60 drugs have been approved for sale by the Federal Food and Drug Directorate.

Mr. Wells, who refused to divulge the names of the drugs or their manufacturers, was asked if the drugs could be considered inferior by the Ontario government's view.

"We are very concerned," he said. "We hope the companies will bring them up to our standards. We just didn't agree with their quality. We are showing only drugs of a high standard in our index."

"I just can't quite see their attitude in saying ' we have found 40 drugs we don't think should be used but we're not going to tell you what they are'," said Dr. Potter today.

"Frankly, if this is the case, I don't think they should be on the market."

The 440 drugs selected for have the main responsibility for controlling local problems, there is a need for co-operation with the federal government in tax abatements, grants, loans and other incentives to pollution control.

The federal government should also undertake environmental research and provide money for parklands and green belts around cities. He asked for federal help on Ontario's $30 million plan to develop park and recreation areas in the Niagara district.

"If the federal government is unable, because of different jurisdictional lines, to provide assistance and to undertake significant action programs jointly with the provinces within the existing constitutional setting, it cannot be expected that a different distribution of constitutional powers would lead to a more successful program of pollution control and environmental management."

the first edition of the Parcost index, to come into use Oct. 1, were chosen by an advisory committee of doctors, pharmacists and purchasers of pharmacology and medicine. The committee examined the clinical performance of each drug and tested pharmaceutical plants to check the drug's manufacturing.

Dr. Potter also indicated reservations about the success of the Parcost scheme.

"I'm not too optimistic how much this program is going to save taxpayer or patient," he said.

Doctors, druggists and the public have always been aware of price variations in the cost of drugs, he said.

"Most of us have been doing what we could to reduce the price to the patient in prescribing," said Dr. Potter.

Pharmacists, he said, are generally most anxious to co-operate in this program.

He pondered if doctors, already involved in much paper work, would have time to search through the index before writing prescriptions.

"But, maybe I'm wrong," he added.

Dr. Potter said the solution to drug costs would be the eventual inclusion of drugs under medicare, Such a program, however, would be costly, he warned, and would have to carry a prescription fee to guard against abuses.

It should also be based on a means or a private basis.

Top priority now, said Dr. Potter was to have nursing-home care carried by medicare.

"The Parcost plan works this way:

Doctors using the index will be able to choose the most inexpensive drug on the list for their patients.

The patient will then be able to take his prescription to a pharmacist participating in the plan and have it filled at the cost listed in the index, plus a $1 dispensing fee.

Parcost is a voluntary plan, involving drug manufacturers, doctors, pharmacists and the consumer, Mr. Wells explained. He did not know whether doctors can or will co-operate.

So far, 320 of Ontario's 1,600 pharmacists have joined the plan.

The program involves a contractual arrangement between the Ontario Pharmaceutical Association and the druggist members. The OPA represents about 80 per cent of Ontario druggists. The provincial government, however, will pay the $250,000 cost of producing the comprehensive prices publication and promoting its use.

Mr. Wells said the list would not be made available to the public because it was meaningless to the average citizen. Persons wishing to see it should ask their doctor or druggist.

Ontario Liberal Leader Robert Nixon yesterday accused Mr. Wells of undermining public confidence in all drugs and drug companies by not making the drug danger available.

Wells countered that on the one hand 40 drugs fall short of Canada's department of health minimum standards, while on the other hand refusing to list the drugs publicly, as if it were in the public interest not to know."

Dr. Allan E. Dyer, executive director of the advisory committee choosing the Parcost drugs, said in an interview before Mr. Wells' announcement that some of the rejected drugs are dangerous because their manufacturers were not completely aware of their contents. Others were simply ineffective.

Dr. R. A. Chapman, head of the Food and Drug Directorate in Ottawa, said Monday he would be "not surprised" if any of the rejected drugs were hazardous to health.

Canz listed in the directory revealed differences ranging up to 450 per cent in the price of penicillin tablets available in Canada.

The index shows that one of the most widely-used penicillin tablets — 500,000 IU — is provided in comparable quantity by 11 manufacturers.

Of these, one manufacturer sells the tablets at $11.10 per 100. Another charges $2 for 100.

Captain Fined For Oil Slick

TORONTO — The captain of a Greek tanker yesterday was fined $2,000 here for permitting oil pollution of Lake Ontario near the Prince Edward County shoreline at Pt. Petre.

"Pollution is a serious matter and cannot be condoned," said Provincial Judge C. W. Guest, as he levied the fine against Capt. Sokaris Georgopoulos, master of the tanker Talnaron.

Maximum fine under the Canada Shipping Act is $5,000.

The ship's captain—charged after an oil slick one and one-half miles long was discovered off Point Petre May 13 — was not present for the hearing. But a plead guilty was entered on his behalf by lawyer P. M. F. Jones.

Crown prosecutor Walter Perwarn said an aerial survey spotted the oil slick and efforts to reach the ship by radio were unsuccessful. Had the aircraft not been on the scene, he said, the incident might have gone undetected.

Mr. Perwarn said the ship's master was made liable because it was not known who actually discharged the oil.

Labor Council To Be Active In Politics

The Quinte District Labor Council will seek advice from the political action experts of organized labor before deciding the shape of its participation in upcoming local elections.

Trenton municipal and Hastings County board of education elections are among campaigns to be noted later this year, the QDLC was told last night by its president Robert Andrus.

Labor councils in both Trenton and Belleville — which earlier this year amalgamated to form the QDLC — have run candidates in previous municipal elections. This year, George Grest, a labor - backed candidate, won a Trenton council seat.

Mr. Andrus indicated last night the QDLC contemplates carrying on the tradition of local electoral involvement. However, what shape the participation takes will be discussed further, The QDLC executive and its political action committee will also meet with organizers from labor's upper echelons — either the Ontario Federation of Labor or the Canadian Labor Congress — before developing a program, he said.

Meantime, last night's meeting at the Belleville Canadian Legion hall, emphasized organized labor's growing involvement with community

The session heard that organization of a local chapter — similar — on pollution now is entering its final phases.

A seminar, run in conjunction with Loyalist College, is part of a province - wide debate on pollution scheduled for Oct. 17.

One aim of the event is to co-ordinate efforts of local and - pollution groups by centralizing discussion in one place, Douglas Bourassa, a QDLC organizer for the seminar said.

All interested citizens and community groups are invited to participate in the day-long program at Loyalist.

Last night's labor council meeting also heard an outline of the work and aims of the United Community Services.

UCS executive director Isidore Cooperman briefly addressed the meeting and answered questions on the service's operations.

The meeting also saw presentation of the labor council's founding charter granted by the Canadian Labor Congress.

It was presented by CLC district representative Harry Noakes to Ian Reilly, Boot and Shoe Workers Union representative — and the man who laid much of the groundwork for amalgamations creating the QDLC — who in turn formally handed it to Mr. Andrus.

Piecemeal Reform Urged

he said it would give the leaders greater flexibility in bringing in new changes, and such changes could be incorporated one at a time, rather than doing the "rather large" job of rewriting an entirely new constitution.

"In other words, let us act together when we agree together, and not await the one grand day of wholesale constitutional change," he said, in any event, is not likely to come about soon."

This fifth in the current series of constitutional conferences was called mainly to consider ways of speeding the process which, on the surface at least, has appeared to be moving slowly over the last three years. Each conference has produced some sharply-contrasting opinions on how the talks should proceed, some leaders favoring the wide, over-all review and others asking for specific changes that would affect current problems.

The problems of agriculture in the West and economic disparity in the East have been raised at most constitutional conferences. Premier Ed Schreyer of Manitoba said Monday he would like to see constitutional clarification of the regulations covering the marketing of agricultural products, a system now in "chaos."

These subjects will be raised again at the current meetings after the government leaders complete discussions on constitutional authority in the field of pollution, and on proposals for clarifying such authority over the operation of financial institutions other than banks.

Premier Smith said Monday that economic disparity is one of the subjects he will want to talk about under the "other business" item on the agenda.

But conference sources said every effort would be made prior to this to reach a consensus on speeding the talks generally.

Premier Robert Bourassa of Quebec said his government favors an acceleration of efforts to revise the constitution and he hoped it would result in "a flexible federalism which will express our true freedom as Quebecers within the structure of a dynamic participation in the great plans involving Canada as a whole."

While endorsing most of the demands put forth by previous Quebec governments, Mr. Bourassa's statement was low key.

He said he wasn't interested in quarreling over words and symbols.

Mr Trudeau termed the Quebec presentation "a clear commitment for federalism." He said "It's very encouraging."

After the initial discussion on pollution questions Monday, Energy Minister J. J. Greene told reporters that the meeting produced a "clear conviction that something has to be done." He said there was also a consensus that if the present constitution prevents action "we're going to get around it."

He said the fight against pollution could be made more effective with constitutional changes.

President Says:

Students Can Shape Future of College

Loyalist College students—beginning a new year today — were told they are the major factor in the college's community image.

"To prosper as a college we need the respect and support of the community," said Loyalist president Herbert Yzerg.

Since most of our contact with the community is through you, the student body, the image you create will be the image of the college."

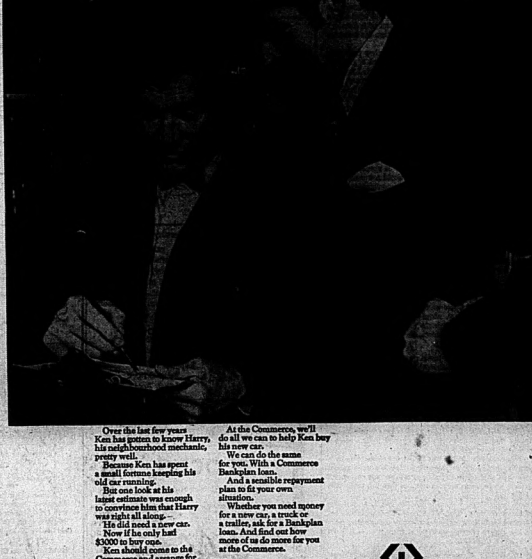
Opening 41st assemblies marking Loyalist's fourth year of operation also introduced students and Loyalist's new president — appointed this past summer — for the first time.

Registration in day courses to date is estimated 550 students—about 200 of them freshmen.

Night extension courses and Management refreshing students bring the total registration to an estimated 1,500 in the 1970-71 Loyalist student body, Mr. Yzerg noted.

Yesterday also brought the first day of classes for the college's new technical-building — Loyalist's first permanent structure.

Workmen still were putting finishing touches to its exterior as classes began.



Before talking up their assignments the students also received a reminder from Mr. Young that development of the college was linked to their academic endeavors.

"Obviously, no matter how generous the people of this province have been in providing this college with all the funds necessary . . . the college will never succeed unless we provide the spirit so necessary to make this a living institution," said Mr. Young.

Students must be committed to building academic excellence and the development of Loyalist as an outstanding Ontario institution, he said.

"You are a generation which holds amazing power to make of your world what you will," said the president. "There is no reason or excuse for your generation to be inactive. If, during your stay at Loyalist, you in some way can contribute to its growth, then you'll have the satisfaction of contributing to the success of your college."

WESTMOUNT

Constituency Assistant Worries About 'Little Guy'

MONTREAL (CP) — Anne Dawson, constituency assistant to Quebec's new lands and forests minister, says an important part of her job is keeping in touch with "the little man who is struggling to survive on a pinched income."

The 23-year-old graduate of McGill and Dalhousie universities says "these people have a lot of pertinent things to say and if the party system is to survive, these are the people who must become involved."

Miss Dawson declares Westmount riding's reputation in Montreal as a bastion of English Canadian wealth and power.

"It's a mistake to confuse the riding with the city since the riding includes 80,000 people and very few of those are earning $100,000 a year or living on the hill in Westmount."

She worries about "the little guys who usually get shifted from department to department when they try to call a government office."

She was establishing a community creation program in another part of the city when she met the sister-in-law of Kevin Drummond, Liberal member for the national assembly for Westmount.

"When Mr. Drummond was looking for a person with experience in community work to act as his constituency assistant, his sister-in-law suggested me.

"The position . . . isn't new but we believe our attitude towards it is. My primary function in this multi-faceted job will be to act as a channel of information for Mr. Drummond in order to give him an idea of the temper of the riding."

Besides visiting church and youth groups and citizens' clubs, Miss Dawson expects to learn riding needs via the grapevine.

"The phone started ringing as soon as I started the job. Most of the calls have been from people on welfare and from old people on pensions. So many of these have been frustrated by government switchboards that I say 'let's start again from square one'."

She hops into her car for visits to pensioners who can't afford to take the bus to her office. It usually surprises them but "my garage is paid by the government as is my mileage so why shouldn't I make myself available to them?"

Miss Dawson feels most people have difficulty in articulating their ideas known to elected representatives.

"In the past there has been a tendency for politicians to almost disappear once elected. I think this is why there is today the gap between the people and Mr. Drummond.

"One of the things I like best about this job is that it isn't political. I am being paid by the government but I don't push a political philosophy. I am working for people. Many are trying to find an answer to the urban malaise and this is one approach."

MR. AND MRS. BARRY R. DETENBECK

Detenbeck – Hayman

St. Columba Presbyterian Church, Belleville was the scene of the recent wedding ceremony when Margaret Gayle Hayman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Hayman, Belleville was united in marriage to Barry Rod Detenbeck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rod Detenbeck of Manitouwaug, Ontario. Rev. S. Gentle officiated and wedding music was rendered by Mrs. R. Blachford who also accompanied the soloist Miss Sherrill Taylor in appropriate nuptial selections.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a full-length gown of silk lagoda and alencon lace with the bodice featuring a high wedding band collar and full sleeves with fitted cuffs accented with alencon lace. Appliques of matching lace adorned the full skirt and chapel train which was caught at the waist with a wide sash and large set bow. She wore a full length veil and carried a cascade bouquet of red roses, gardenias and white carnations.

Maid of honor was Miss Sandra Low who wore a long pink voile over batiste gown with the bodice and cuffs embanced with white daisies. She wore a wide brim white straw hat with pink daisies. Bridesmaids Miss Marilyn Hayman and Miss Barbara Hayman, sisters of the bride and Miss Laurie Detenbeck, sister of the bridegroom and Miss Linda Hill were dressed identically to the maid of honor but in mauve. All attendents carried white baskets of white pink and mauve daisies and miniature carnations.

James Detenbeck attended his brother, while the ushers were Paul Hayman and John Hayman, brother of the bride, Brian Shaver, Brian Royle and Donald Brunet.

A reception was held in the Hotel Quinte Pinnacle Room where the bride's mother received the guests wearing a turquoise peau de soie dress with matching hat and a corsage of white and turquoise tinted 'mums. The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a midnight blue georgette over taffeta dress with pale blue corsage.

For the wedding trip to the Laurentian Mountains in Quebec the bride donned an orange, yellow and white printed voile dress with matching sleeveless coat, white accessories and a corsage of gardenias.

Mr. and Mrs. Detenbeck will reside in Waterloo.

Emerald Can Be Even Nicer Than Diamond

MONTREAL (CP) — Who says diamonds are a girl's best friend?

Certainly not Gerard Gauthier, dapper French gemologist at the Gabriel Lucas jewelry store in Montreal.

"A good sapphire is just as exquisite as a diamond," he says, "and a nearly perfect emerald can be even nicer."

Although diamonds traditionally have been regarded as the acme of previous gems, Mr. Gauthier says many jewellers prefer to work with other stones. One that he knows of, for example, prizes opals above all else.

In the gold and ivory velvet salon where Mr. Gauthier lectures about jewels to small groups, there were several glass cages of glistening bracelets, necklaces and rings. Few featured only diamonds.

The explanation is simple. Roger Lucas, the firm's designer and son of Gabriel, likes all precious gems. He believes that by putting sapphires, rubies and diamonds side by side they enhance each other.

Mr. Gauthier brought out four pieces of clear glass, one rough and dull and the others representing the various stages of gem cutting. The fourth piece, a replica of a finished gem, sparkled in the light.

The skill with which a stone is cut determines its ultimate value. One small crystal may be worth much more than the original from which it was cut. If the polish, crown and girdle have been placed to bring out the jewel's clarity and color.

No two gems are alike. Each diamond, ruby and emerald has its own characteristics and personality, and customers are usually delighted when they see the flaws and imperfections of their gems revealed under a microscope.

"Like a snowflake, every stone is different and a woman likes to know that her diamond has something some characteristic, not found in any others," Mr. Gauthier says.

WEDDING

MING — THOMSON

A quiet wedding was solemnized at 4 p.m. on Aug. 29 at Sunnybrook United Church, Red Deer, Alberta when Elizabeth Jane Thomson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thomson of RR 4, Belleville was married to Robert Ming of Red Deer. Rev. Jensen conducted the ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father was attended by her sister Mary Thomson as maid of honor. Allan Ming of Hadlen, brother of the bridegroom was the best man.

After the ceremony, a dinner was held at Parklander Motel for the immediate families of the bride and bridegroom. The newlyweds are residing at Red Deer, Alberta.

Ann Landers

Vasectomy Is Not Always the Answer

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In regard to your answer to M.J.M. approving of vasectomy: that's dandy! But what a bout people who lose their children in an accident or a disaster?

ANN LANDERS

Once a man has that operation, his fathering days are finished.

And consider, please, another possibility — this one comes straight out of my own life. I was a widow with one child. I married again last year and am now pregnant. If it were the other way around, and my husband had lived instead of me, I would want him to rebuild his life with another woman and have more children.

I, too, am concerned about the population explosion, but I don't believe the male operation is the answer for everyone. — FROM KENTUCKY.

DEAR KEN: Neither do I — nor did I say it was. It is my personal opinion that no man under 35 should consider the operation unless he is certain he would not want more children under any conceivable set of circumstances.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Am I to blame? You be the judge. Several weeks ago I stopped by the home of a friend. We were to go to a meeting together. I found her at the foot of the basement stairs — dazed and in pain. Her nose was bleeding and she was certain it was broken. I helped her into my car and took her to the nearest hospital. She did indeed have a broken nose. The doctor on duty set it and she spent the night and part of the next day there.

Now several weeks later my friend is not speaking to me. Why? Because she says I did a terrible thing by taking her to a Minneapolis hospital. She claims a real friend would have driven her to the Mayo Clinic which is only 90 miles away. It seems she is very unhappy about the way her nose looks. Frankly, it wasn't so good to begin with and I don't think it looks any different. Please comment, Ann. I can't seem to get through. — TALKED OUT.

DEAR T.O.: It would make no sense for a housewife who broke her nose in Minneapolis to be driven to Rochester to get it set. Apparently your friend expected plastic surgery along with the bone setting which (course is rarely done on an emergency basis. This "friend" sounds like a pain in the neck With a little luck she may stop speaking to you permanently.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am an average, middle-income homemaker who dreads shopping. Whenever I enter a store I feel as if I am being watched.

Yesterday was the limit. I was trailed out of the store by a woman who asked to see the sales slip for the $2 purse I picked up on the sales counter. When I showed it to her she apologized. The incident made me so nervous I had to take two nerve pills when I got home.

I have never stolen a thing in my life and I resent being treated like a common thief. Merchants are complaining because business is bad. It might get better if customers were treated like decent citizens, which most of us are. — R.S. IN THE NATION'S CAPITAL.

DEAR R.S.: Of course most people are decent citizens, but the dishonest ones seem to be increasing in number and shoplifting losses are reaching alarming proportions. Last year in Washington D.C. area alone, the merchants suffered losses approaching $90,000,000.

The reason — dope. Users say shoplifting is the easiest way to support the habit. Meanwhile, back at the ranch, the government continues to close down methadone treatment centres because "we can't afford them." Write to your Senators and Congressmen, folks. And attach this column to your letter. People in public office usually look twice at something from a newspaper.

Mary Makes Cookies For A Dear Friend

By MARY MOORE

For a dear friend of mine with low blood pressure the doctor prescribed a cookie and ½ cup of tea first thing in the morning, adding that the patient's blood sugar was low on something.

I wanted to have a hand in this early morning cookie routine so in the kitchen of a cottage, window of which overlooked beautiful Lake Joseph, I made

NUT REFRIGERATOR COOKIES (5 doz.)

NOTE: This dough does not necessarily have to be chilled or frozen. I baked one panful which I had shaped into balls between my palms and flattened with fork when on pan. Both unchilled and chilled dough cookies tasted exactly the same, but the chilled (or frozen) dough was much more easily shaped.

½ cup shortening
½ cup butter
2 cups light brown sugar
2 eggs
3 cups sifted all-purpose flour
3½ tsps. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
1 tsp. nutmeg
1 tsp. vanilla
1 cup chopped walnuts

In beater bowl cream together the shortening, butter and sugar until light and pale. Beat in eggs. Sift together flour, baking powder, salt, nutmeg and add with vanilla and beat in with beaters. Remove beaters and stir in nuts. Turn dough out on very long piece of heavy wax paper and shape into 1¼" diameter roll, rolling it back and forth under your palms to make a smooth roll. Wrap well and chill or freeze. To shape into balls and flatten with fork (lines or buttered cookie sheet.) When dough is hard, slice into ¼" slices and place on buttered cookie sheets (I had four pans full) and bake at 375 deg. Club Activities

ARTS AND CRAFT CLUB

The Belleville Arts and Craft Club met for their first fall meeting at the Recreation Centre last Wednesday at 8 p.m. The president Mrs. B. Cornell called the meeting to order and welcomed everyone. Mrs. R. Tickhurst read the minutes of the previous meeting and Mrs. D. Riley gave the treasurer's report. There was a discussion on demonstrations for future meetings and some suggestions were offered.

Everyone was transported to Mr. Harold Robinson's at 50 Auburn Dr. for a demonstrating of wood working done in multi - colored wood, Mr. Robinson gave a step - by - step instruction of how the wood is assembled and then how it is made to the desired shape. A number of articles were on display giving each one some ideas for gifts.

Coffee and light refreshments were served by Mr. Robinson. Mrs. Cornell thanked Mr. Robinson for the interesting evening.

Successful Living

Acceptance Helps Ex-mental Patient

By DORIS CLARK

Sometimes I think the hardest part of all for a mental patient is the time when he or she returns home.

The family may handle him like a china doll, ready to break at slightest impact. Yet he should be treated like a patient convalescing from, say, pneumonia. Just as much care, no more.

One girl hospitalized that her mother was always talking about doctors was sick. In another found herself avoiding a too-solicitous neighbor.

Putting faith in the convalescent can work magic:

"It was my wife and my brother expecting so much of me that made me feel I just could not let them down. To be accepted by my family and friends was thrilling."

Being together again inspired another family to readjust their values:

"We've determined to take ourselves less seriously. Now we play together. In summer we go on impromptu picnics. I have taken up piano practice again and we often have a sing song after supper."

In all provinces of Canada there is a rapidly expanding program of help for the mentally ill. For literature, or for help in getting a speaker on the subject, write to the Canadian Mental Health Association, 52 St. Clair Avenue East, Toronto 290, Ontario.

Dear Doris: About your advice re relatives hosting shower parties: You are right in saying that this is a social role in Anglo-Saxon groups, but with other groups of people, particularly those with Eastern European backgrounds, it is expected that the mother of the bride-elect, sometimes along with the mother of the groom-elect, will host a large shower party, to which both women relatives and friends are invited.

Also, within the last decade it has become quite acceptable for a woman relative of the bride-elect to give a shower party to which only other women relatives are invited. This kind of party is quite common in groups of British ancestry.

Again, we are having the occasional incidence here of non - European couples having "presentations" at their wedding receptions. — A Women's Editor

Dear Editor: Thank you — and I stand corrected, especially in regard to the European New Canadians.

Many new and interesting cultures come to us from over the seas.

Dear Doris: I go out with this guy on Friday nights. He's O.K. but my oldest boy friend just to go with him. Now the guy I broke up with my last boy friend me out just for fun. He also says if he isn't under liquor he wouldn't take me out.

What should I do about this if anything? Should I go out or not going with this guy I really like? — Hung Up

Dear Hung Up: A clear case of sour grapes. What on earth would a guy and a girl go out together for, but fun?

My only reservation would be if there is truth in the statement that he is "under liquor" when he takes you out. Could this be true?

P.S. Has it occurred to you that his big intention in staying these things is to say double in your mind? — Which he has!

Are you in doubt about the proper etiquette to use for your special occasion? Ask Doris, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for her reply.

EMO Alters Emphasis, Giving Top Billing to Civil Crises

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canada Emergency Measures Organization, long geared almost totally towards planning for a nuclear disaster, has embarked on a new program of preparedness to meet peacetime civil emergencies.

The revised approach came to life last week at a seminar of federal and provincial emergency planners at the Canadian Forces Base Petawawa civil defence college in nearby Arnprior, Ont.

A paper presented to the two-day seminar by J. F. Wallace, director-general of EMO's national survival and recovery program proposed what is called a new national objective:

"To develop throughout the nation non-military plans and preparations for responding to emergencies caused by internal or external threats to the social, political or economic structure of Canada."

Stuart (Tubby) White, EMO director-general of long-range planning, told the conference that while the threat of nuclear war has not been eliminated, civil threats to Canada should take precedence over the threat of war.

Copies of some of the papers presented at the closed seminar became available to The Canadian Press Monday. EMO officials said that what Mr. Wallace called "a shift in emphasis on . . . the order of priorities as between the external and internal threats" received solid backing from provincial representatives.

C. R. Patterson, national coordinator of civil emergency measures, said in an interview Monday this did not represent a reduction of the organization's responsibility to plan against nuclear disaster.

"We are trying to give more positive direction to having a total emergency response rather than a total wartime emergency response with a peacetime spinoff."

Mr. White said Monday that EMO's role as co-ordinator of federal emergency activities will not change. However, instead of waiting until called upon by civil authorities, EMO officials in the provinces will take the initiative in making the organization's services available in emergency situations.

An example of the type of emergency planning which the organization hopes to develop in the future was carried out last April in British Columbia, when the U.S. Army was planning to send a shipment of nerve gas through the Strait of Juan de Fuca from Okinawa.

Under EMO auspices, federal and provincial officials plus a number of scientific experts met to consider what steps should be taken in the unlikely event that the shipment should meet with disaster going through the strait.

A detailed plan for protection of the public, with special instructions for groups like farmers and fishermen, was ready for distribution by the provincial civil defence co-ordinator when U.S. military authorities called off the shipment under pressure of public opinion.

Sydney J. Harris Says

Human Brain Is Slighted

(During his vacation, we are reprinting selections from Mr. Harris' latest collection of columns in book form, Leaving the Surface.)

Our veneration of the machine in this computer age has led us to a subtle but definite downgrading of the human brain. We forget that in order to make a machine that seems smarter than man, man must be smarter than the machine.

The human brain contains about 10 billion neurons; each of these cells is connected with hundreds, and sometimes thousands, of others. No machine ever devised by man could approach the complexity and versatility of the human brain. According to Arthur Samiel, consultant to IBMs research department the chances of constructing an artificial brain that could duplicate ours is about the same as the chance that every American will be stricken with a coronary on the same night.

In the new book, The Computer Age, prepared by Gilbert Burck and the editors of Fortune magazine, the cost of duplicating the brain's cells and connections is estimated that even at the indfecmally low cost of only five cents per cell and one cent per connection, the cost would come to more than $1 quintillion, or $1 billion billion . . . more money than all the governments in the world together possess.

Samuel, by the way, is the man who taught a computer to play checkers so well that it now consistently beats him. But checkers is a relatively simple game, with a finite number of alternative moves. Chess is a different matter: no machine yet programmed can play very much better than a good novice. The number of all possible moves in a chess game is something like 10 to the 40th power: to examine all these, even the fastest computer would take longer than the age of the universe, which is estimated at about two billion years.

Doubtless, the vast funds we are spending for computer research are worthwhile, for the more we can get machines to do for us, the more will our own faculties and energies be released for specifically human projects. But at least an equal amount should be spent on developing the brains we have, the unused potential that resides in each of us, and especially in our children. My own guess is that all of us utilize no more than between 10 and 20 per cent of the intellectual capacities we have — and that decisive research could show us how to exploit the enormous mental powers that are lying unused at the mind's bottom.

It is not enough that a few brilliant men can create computers to "think" for us: for the greatest thinking machine is inside each of us.

PM Urged To Oppose Asian War

QUEBEC (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau should be speaking out for an end to the war in Vietnam rather than attacking organized labor if he is sincere in his concern about inflation, the president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers says.

William Smith, 68, who is about to retire after 15 years as chief of the 32,000-member national union, told 400 delegates at a CBRT convention that the Prime Minister is deliberately seeking to mislead Canadians with accusations that wage gains cause inflation.

If Mr. Trudeau were sincere in fighting inflationary pressures he would be speaking out from his high office against this damnable war, urging the states to pull out, thereby ending it all and, at the same time, solve partly our problem of inflation."

Drug Law Study Needed

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — More discussion is needed before any action can be taken to change current drug laws, Provincial Secretary Robert Welch said Monday.

Mr. Welch said that because widespread use of hallucinogens has developed almost overnight, it is unrealistic to expect society to shift its attitudes without a great deal of public discussion.

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Bursitis Attack Is Very Painful

"It hurts like a thousand toothaches" — "I can't sleep or eat" — "Every time I move I have to keep from crying."

If I asked you to guess what it's all about, you might be correct in saying such are reactions to a gall bladder attack, to kidney colic, to arthritis or to scores of other painful maladies. But the bursitis patient is likely to say, "That's me."

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I am in my mid-40s and consider myself a healthy fellow. So much so, that I took on the job of painting our house . . . inside and out. Not being used to so much physical strain on my right arm, I developed a painful bursitis in my shoulder.

It has been so bad, I've had to be away from my office for over a week. I've applied heat, taken aspirin and other pain killers, but it seems to be getting worse. My appetite has gone and I get less than a few hours sleep. I suppose it's silly to ask, but don't you think it's time to see our doctor? I can hardly move my arm. — Mr. A.

Comment: Whatever the illness, the patient has a responsibility as a member of the medical partnership. It's the doctor's job to diagnose and to treat, and the patient's to cooperate. And as I keep saying, the earlier you get to see him, the better.

For example, you say you can hardly move your arm. It's likely that movement intensifies the pain. Result: You will move it less. Result? A frozen shoulder; a stiff shoulder. A stubborn condition which may take months to get over.

It's likely, as you say, that unusual strain put on it by taking on the painting job. Using his tiredness, or a heat pad and the traditional aspirin is all right for a few days. However, complainers arise when it goes untreated for weeks or months.

Therefore, if there's no improvement quickly, it makes sense to see the doctor. Usually a few treatments with cortisone controls the pain. Then it is the patient's added job to keep the strain off the joint, to give it a chance to rest and heal.

Bursitis means an inflammation of the little lubricating sac in the joint, and inflammation doesn't disappear in a few days. Gently, persistently, you will have to move your shoulder joint to prevent it from stiffening. Whether the bursitis is in a shoulder, knee, elbow (or anywhere else) call on the doctor for help early. If simple measures fail to bring you comfort.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I drink from 10 to 12 cups of instant coffee every day. I am 58. I also have high blood pressure. I don't smoke, but am very nervous. I take so much coffee because it just seems to be my "crutch." Am I wrong? — Miss M.

Comment: Throw away your "crutch." It may be causing your nervousness. Stop taking your instant coffee and you may find instant relief. There is enough caffein in a dozen cups of coffee a day to make you nervous. If you can't limit your intake to a cup or two a day, then quit altogether.

For Mr. T.: Undergo an operation to increase your height by severing the thigh bone to stretch the leg? Even if I were five feet tall, I would emphatically say no.

* * *

For Mrs. R.: I wish I knew the cure for ringing and singing in the ear that sounds like a cricket chirping. It can be stubborn. What does your ear specialist say?

Datsun welcomes the competition

Datsuns came first, second, third and fifth in the 1970 East African Safari Rally.

Nine out of nineteen cars to finish were ours.

We won the Canadian Winter Rally.

We won the 10,000 miles Around Australia Rally.

We won our class in the last Shell 4000.

We won the Canadian National Rally Championship in 1967 and 1969, and we're way out in front again this time.

We've proved our car a winner time after time, year after year.

Here's why.

Not just for glory

We did it to see what Datsun could do under extreme driving conditions. We wanted to test our car to its limits, under the worst possible conditions against the best possible competition.

And as a result of the results, today all Datsun drivers get superb performance, ironclad durability, smooth handling and up to 35 miles to the gallon.

Here's what the competition's got to beat 96 horse overhead camshaft engine. Dual barrel carb. Alternator. Independent rear suspension. Unit-body construction. Lots of no-lost extras. Like bucket seats, front disc brakes, door-to-door carpet, and flow-through ventilation.

And of course, the complete safety package including telescopic shock-absorbing steering column, headrests, harnesses, and four-way flashers is standard. The only options are a radio and 3-speed automatic transmission.

We want to be fair

Without the untiring efforts of the competition we wouldn't be where we are today. Our front. We want to thank them, because the harder they try, the harder we have to try. And that's good for everybody.

Vandals: High Cost in Low-Rental

Vandals last night broke into near ly-completed unit of Pine Street low-rental housing scheme and caused damage estimated at $1,000 by Police Chief Douglas Crosbie. Workers Ilio Romanchych (left) and Bert Hoffyzer ponder room spattered by tar-like tile cement. Similar damage throughout the unit may mean most of flooring must be replaced, walls and fixtures repaired.

QDLC Enters Discussion Of Proposed New Arena

Despite a warning the proposed westend Belleville ice rink had degenerated to a "political football", the Quinte District Labor Council last night demurred from immediately asking city council to speed up the now controversial project.

But the QDLC may yet send an executive expression of opinion on the issue to city hall.

Request for such a submission came from Robert Cook, himself a city employee and a man with credentials in local organized labor and minor sports.

Mr. Cook is the Canadian Union of Public Employees Local 907 representative to the labor council, and a second vice-president of the city's Minor Hockey Association.

What he sought was a letter to city hall stating QDLC support for the project and for city council to "quit fooling around and using it for a political football — that the children of this city need it."

"It's a drastic situation," he told the labor council.

(Later, he said more than 1,200 youngsters registered for minor hockey last year — a situation which saw some teams having to carry 25 players. Under such pressure, current ice facilities permitted only one 45-minute game a week, without practice in some cases. This meant some players were "lucky if they got four minutes hockey a week."

New industry had pushed the population up, Mr. Cook said. But, if the city is "hollering for new industry, they should be prepared to look after these industries too."

Mr. Cook told the QDLC that concern about teen-agers had recently evoked much debate on a drop-in centre.

But "nobody seems to be very damn worried about these kids who have no place to skate," he said.

Several QDLC members noted cost estimates of the rink project had risen since it was first discussed.

Council president Robert Andrus pondered the advisability of an immediate resolution which could compromise the QDLC in view of the cost situation.

Later, such a move might conceivably be interpreted as organized labor telling council to proceed with the project "no matter what the price," cautioned Mr. Andrus.

Details on last evening's rink debate at city hall were not known to the labor council when Mr. Cook raised the issue.

QDLC member Gerald Cunningham suggested no action be taken until complete details were reported.

Mr. Andrus said the QDLC executive and its public relations committee would fully discuss the issue and decide if a letter should go to city council outlining local labor's reaction.

Noisy Dogs, Fertile Cats In Council

Cats and dogs were a topic of discussion at city council yesterday as petitions of objection were heard from two different sections of the city.

Sidney Street resident William Sheppard asked for passage of an anti - noise bylaw to control the barking of dogs.

He said that a nearby resident on Benjamin Street owned a number of dogs which made a continual nuisance of themselves by barking at all hours of the day.

And a written petition was received from North Frank Street residents complaining about the numbers of cats in the neighborhood which are said to be polluting lawns and shrubbery.

The Frank Street petition objected to the unlimited breeding of cats and recommended that each household be limited to two cats with any additional felines being taxed the same as dogs.

Council was advised that the city's present anti-noise bylaw covered the unnecessary ringing of bells and playing of radios, but did not cover barking dogs.

Both petitions received by council were referred to the city solicitor for possible action.

Garbage-picker Said Litterbug

Unauthorized salvage from garbage containers in the city's downtown area, and possible provision of a waste room for collection of garbage in apartments came up for discussion at yesterday's council meeting.

Alderman Robin Jeffrey said she had received complaints of some unauthorized person salvaging from garbage containers on Front Street each Monday and Thursday night.

The result, she said, was that litter was dumped onto the sidewalk and allowed to blow along the street.

"This is littering," she said, asking if the person responsible could not be charged under the city's anti-litter bylaw. The matter was turned over to the city clerk for action.

In the matter of a waste room for garbage collection at apartments, a report from the city clerk indicated this was not a requirement under the zoning bylaw and buildings were not required to provide such a room.

However, building inspector Grant Stickle has been requested to bring the subject before the Ontario Building Association executive with the view of possible inclusion of such a requirement in the national building code.

Hardships Anticipated

Council Objects Planning Board Makeup

Composition of membership in the proposed Quinte Planning Area as suggested by Municipal Affairs Minister Darcy McKeough came under fire at city council last night with direction being given for a letter of objection to be sent to the provincial department.

The proposal by the municipal affairs minister suggests that Belleville, with nearly one half of the total population of the area, be restricted to one quarter of the membership.

Municipalities in the proposed planning area are Belleville and Trenton, the villages of Frankford, Stirling and Brighton, and the townships of Sidney, Thurlow, Murray and Brighton.

The proposal is that Belleville with a population of more than 33,000 be allowed six members, Trenton three, and the remaining municipalities two each.

Sidney township is suggested as the "designated" municipality and as such would be entitled to one additional member on the board.

Mayor J. Russell Scott said it was only reasonable to expect that the municipality with the largest population and assessment be the designated municipality.

Ald. Enos David said that with the proposed board membership Belleville would always be outvoted.

Frank Stockmans, assistant city planner said the designated municipality would have authority to approve board members and also must okay any official plan.

Both City Manager J. R. Reynolds and City Solicitor John Miller agreed that representation on the planning board should be governed by population and assessment.

The largest municipality should be the designated municipality said Mr. Reynolds. "Belleville should not be locked in at six members."

Mr. Miller saw the proposed membership ratio as the cause of immediate trouble and future hardship.

"The city should object strenuously," he said.

Ald. Ben Corke recommended that a letter of objection be forwarded to Mr. McKeough and the motion was carried by council.

Picton Nomination

Nomination day in Picton for members of council and representatives of the Prince Edward School Board has been set for Nov. 23 at Queen Elizabeth School auditorium.

Council nominations will be for the positions of mayor, reeve, deputy reeve and six councillors. School board positions open will be two elected by public school supporters and one by separate school ratepayers.

Trudeau, To Visit

No specific functions are being planned for this area, but an invitation for Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau to visit Belleville next year will go out from city council. Council was also told that Ontario Premier John Robarts has been invited to be the keynote speaker at an Ontario Traffic Conference scheduled for Belleville next June.

The recommendation asked that Mayor J. R. Scott be authorized to invite Mr. Trudeau to pay an official visit to Belleville some time in the spring of 1973.

"Okay, as long as it is a year before the next election," quipped Ald. Ben Corke.

Ald. Robin Jeffrey, however, questioned the prime minister being invited to the city unless he was to take part in some special function.

"You just cannot ask him to come," she objected.

Robarts Invited To Belleville in 1971

What would be the cost and what are we getting into?" she asked.

Mayor Scott replied that the cost would be minimal.

"We have had no visit by Mr. Trudeau to Belleville and I think it would be in order to let the citizens see the prime minister," he said.

Second Stage Doors Closed

The final curtain has been drawn on The Second Stage.

The youth drop-in centre closed permanently Sunday night after 18 months of operation.

It had been running on borrowed time since the end of August, with the landlord slated to renovate the Front St. premises for a new tenant. He had agreed to allow the drop-in centre to continue operations until workmen were ready to start.

The deadline came Sunday, to the disappointment of club members and supervisors.

"You can't run a centre, used by 70 to 80 kids each night, without installing the necessity for it," said Roland Belanger, one of the directors of the club.

With Byron Casselman, Mr. Belanger has been operating the centre since it lost Kinsman Club sponsorship early this year.

"I hope the community also realizes the necessity of a centre and gives us its moral support," added Mr. Belanger.

United Community Service's executive director, Isldore Cooperman, is now conducting a study of drop-in centres and the recreational needs of Belleville's young people.

"For the time being, the question of re-opening the centre in another location is in the hands of UCS," said Mr. Belanger.

"I hope something materialises quickly, if not, The Second Stage's directors and supervisors will have to look into the matter again."

Bridge Sought To Eliminate Traffic Jams

Belleville city council wants a new high level bridge over the Bay of Quinte so that long traffic tie-ups resulting from bridge openings may be alleviated.

A motion from Mayor J. Russell Scott requesting the Ontario Minister of Highways to take immediate steps to alleviate traffic tie-ups by constructing a replacement of the swing bridge, was passed unanimously by council.

The motion asked that the city ask neighboring townships to support the resolution and similarly notify the minister of highways, local members of parliament and the premier of Ontario.

Mayor Scott said that traffic tie-ups during the summer season were becoming so great that they could conceivably interfere with Highway 2 traffic.

Traffic Congestion Concerns Merchants

Belleville's Downtown Association wants something to be done about the congested traffic conditions in the city's downtown area.

The request was made to council yesterday by Roger Porter, chairman of the Association who said that traffic at the upper bridge has become a deplorable situation, particularly with regard to north and south flow and that through traffic along Front Street was creating a congested situation and should be removed from the extremely busy district.

Merchants asked that a traffic survey be undertaken without delay and the necessary steps be taken as soon as possible to improve conditions.

Merchants felt the matter of such importance that the survey and work should be conducted on a crash program basis.

Plans for additional crossing facilities at the upper bridge as recommended in a previous survey should be revived, according to the merchants' brief, which also suggested that serious consideration might be given to construction of a roadway over the proposed new trunk sanitary sewer up the Moira River.

Mayor J. Russell Scott said council was aware of the problem and said that a traffic study was being undertaken.

The city will retain a firm of consulting engineers to do a study of major roadway projects involving with special consideration for a north-south arterial roadway.

Among other things the survey will determine is the feasibility of Canniffon Road as an arterial roadway with erection of a grade separation across the CN double tracks.

City To Proceed With Water Projects

Construction of the proposed water pipeline from Lake Ontario may take as much as five years before it is completed, but in the meantime, Belleville will go ahead with work to temporarily boost the city's water filtration plant capacity.

The work, including necessary facilities at the filtration plant, trunk main sewers and a new underground water storage tank, could cost an estimated $900,000.

An Ontario Water Resources commission order designating a Quinte area water area was approved Aug. 5 and with the 30-day limitation for objection now past, the area board will be set up.

One of the recommendations of the OWRC was to pipe water from Lake Ontario.

At the same time the Belleville Public Utilities Commission was directed not to proceed with its planning for present additions to the city water plant.

Instead the city will go ahead with work to temporarily boost the plant's capacity, also with construction of a new underground storage tank in northeast Belleville and necessary mains.

Mayor J. R. Scott said the temporary work at the filtration plant would boost the present 8 million gallons per day to 13 million gallons.

This, with construction of the underground storage tank would be sufficient to meet water needs for the Belleville area until lake water was available.

Ald. Donald Soutter asked whether the Ontario Water Resources Commission would own the new underground reservoir and connecting sewers.

Mayor Scott replied this would not be the case. The city would pay construction costs and receive a 15 per cent subsidy from the OWRC because the facility would be providing for area needs.

Ald. Soutter said the OWRC subsidy should be greater than 15 per cent.

Discussion on the additional water facilities was prompted by a letter from Thurlow township asking that a clause in a previous city-township agreement not be waived by the township with water until completion of the filtration plant be insisted.

Council took no action on the request.

Ald. J. C. Orr said the intent of the previous agreement was to supply Thurlow with water when it was available — hopefully by next summer.

Black Diamond Visitors

Julie Ann Greenleaf, Dairy Queen of England and Wales, listens to some talk about cheese from Patricia Maracle, Black Diamond Cheese guide. Ontario Dairy Princess Diane Gunning is also involved in the plant tour. Today both girls toured Belleville.

More Work Needed To Finish City Hall

The brickwork of Belleville's century old city hall has been sandblasted and the trim has been given a new coat of paint but more work is needed if the "new look" appearance is to be protected.

Yesterday, city council members were told that the sandblasted brick needs the application of silicone to prevent absorption of water and also that the brick needs repointing.

Cost of the silicone application is estimated at about $750.

Ald. Enos David drew attention to the need of the brickwork being pointed up and councillors went along with the idea.

As a result the city purchasing agent was authorized to get prices for both the silicone application and for pointing of the brickwork.

The required additional work on the exterior of the old city hall building drew a comment from Ald. Ben Corke who said he was disturbed that it had been necessary for two contractors to bring this to the attention of city hall officials.

He suggested that the city should have on its own staff capable of making recommendations when work on city buildings was needed.

Mayor Scott replied that this matter was already under consideration and added that a report would be coming to council regarding the possibility of the city setting up its own maintenance department.

Lakers Leave Powless Behind in Quest for Lacrosse Title

VANCOUVER (CP) — Peterborough Lakers arrived Monday without eastern scoring champion Gaylord Powless, but coach Jimmy Allan said the loss of Powless would not hurt the Ontario club's chances in the Canadian senior lacrosse final.

Powless, who topped all eastern scorers this year with 138 points, was one of three players Allan recruited for the Mann Cup final.

"He just didn't fit into our plans," Allan said.

"It was a last-minute thing. I'd rather not say anything more about it."

Allan said he will bring in a player from another western team in time for tonight's opening game in the best-of-seven national final against New Westminster Salmonbellies.

"We have a couple of players in mind, but we want to talk it over first."

Second game will be played Thursday with the third Saturday and the fourth Monday, Sept. 21. Other games, if necessary, are scheduled Sept. 22-24-26. All will be played at 5,000-seat Queen's Park arena in nearby New Westminster.

Peterborough and New Westminster met in the national professional lacrosse final last year with the Lakers winning a classic seven-game series. The pro lacrosse since has disbanded with the teams now back in the Canadian Amateur Lacrosse Association.

The two other Ontario players Peterborough picked up for the Mann Cup—forwards Jim Higgs of Huntsville and Chuck Li of Brooklin—are both expected to see action in tonight's opener.

Allan said he plans to use Higgs, three-time winner of the most valuable player award in the national junior final, with Cy Coombs and John Davis of the Lakers' top forward line.

Higgs will replace Jim Patterson, who is attending the Toronto Maple Leafs' National Hockey League training camp.

Allan, who will go with veteran Pat Bakie in goal for the first game with Wayne Platt in reserve role, put the Lakers through a light workout at Queen's Park Monday night.

"I'm not too worried about our layoff because we've been practising regularly," added Allan, whose Lakers finished one point behind the Powless-led Brantford club in league play.

"I'm hoping we'll get off to a fast start. We know the Salmonbellies are a good team, but I feel we've got more balance than last year and this should make up for playing away from home."

As the team playing host in the final, the Salmonbellies are not allowed to pick up players from other Western leagues. However, coach Cliff Sopka had said he would not depart from the fast-breaking game which has won him two straight western titles.

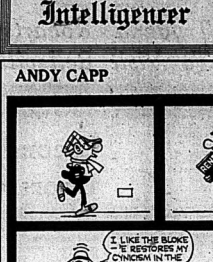
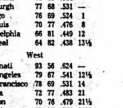
Floyd Ends Long Absence



NEW YORK (AP) — Floyd Patterson, 35, returns to the ring tonight after a two-year absence for a 10-round match with Charlie Green, an undistinguished New Yorker, at Madison Square Garden.

The man who at 21 was the youngest to win the world heavyweight title, in 1956, and the only man to ever win it back, in 1960, has not fought since he lost to Jimmy Ellis Sept. 14, 1968, in Stockholm. Ellis then held the World Boxing Association's recognition as champion.



Green, 28, is a puncher with a 13-4 record. He never has been in with a ranked heavyweight.

The Garden expects a crowd of about 18,000 to pay $75,000 to see the show which will be carried on a special television network of about 60 stations with the New York area blacked out. Ring time is 10 p.m. EDT.

MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal Expos announced Monday that John Boccabella will be sidelined for the rest of the 1970 National League baseball season. Boccabella, a 29-year-old first baseman-catcher, underwent surgery Monday for removal of his appendix. He appeared in 81 games for the Expos this season and had a .269 batting average with five home runs and 17 runs batted in.

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland Indian pitcher Sam McDowell was released Monday from Shaker Medical Centre after treatment for a mild concussion and a head wound suffered when he was attacked and robbed in downtown Cleveland Sunday night. It took seven stitches to close the wound, but he is expected to play against Detroit Tigers Thursday.

CHICAGO (AP) — Johnny Sain was named pitching coach of Chicago White Sox Monday by new manager Chuck Tanner. Sain, 51, pitched in the majors for 12 years. He has coached for Kansas City Athletics, New York Yankees, Minnesota Twins and Detroit Tigers.

Expos Go Farming

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — Baseball teams from Quebec City and Trois-Rivieres will be admitted into the Eastern League, Tommy Richardson, president of the Class AA circuit, said Monday.

Richardson said in a telephone interview both prospective new members were represented at a meeting in New York during the weekend and he was confident they would be accepted at another meeting Saturday.

In Montreal, Jim Fanning, general manager of Montreal Expos, said his National League team "will look pretty closely at the situation."

"It will have to be studied," Fanning said when asked if one of the cities could become an Expos minor league affiliation.

He said the Expos already have a Class AA affiliation at Jacksonville, Fla.

However, he said if Jacksonville jumped to Class AAA ball next year, it would leave the Expos free to affiliate with one of the two cities.

Defence Best Offence: Hodges

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Defence, says Gil Hodges, could be the name of the game in the final stages of the National League's East Division title countdown.

To prove his point, New York Mets keep digging in, holding the line and scooping up everyone else's fumbles.

"Our defence has picked up so much in recent games," the Mets' manager said before Monday night's game against Montreal Expos.

"A thing like that goes unnoticed, but it shows up in your pitching. The pitching looks so much stronger."

Then the Mets backed Danny Frisella's solid relief pitching with airtight play in the field before capitalizing on a Montreal defensive breakdown for four unearned runs in the 10th inning and a 9-5 victory that sent them into a virtual first-place deadlock with idle Pittsburgh Pirates.

New York trails the Pirates by less than one percentage point, with the split-place Chicago Cubs, who also had the day off, one game off the pace.

Los Angeles Dodgers snapped San Diego Padres' five-game winning string 12-4 and San Francisco Giants outlasted Atlanta Braves 7-5 in the only other games played Monday night.

Two scheduled American League games—California Angels at Minnesota Twins and Oakland Athletics at Milwaukee Brewers—were rained out.

New York fell behind the Expos 4-0 as rookie Clyde Mashore ripped a two-run homer off Ray Sadecki in the second inning for his first major league hit, and then singled in the fourth to ignite another two-run flurry.

Three walks, three singles and an error by third baseman Coco Laboy gave the Mets five runs in the fifth, but the Expos tied it against Frisella in the bottom of the inning on a walk, Mack Jones's pinch double and a sacrifice fly by Bobby Wine.

Jones's bloop double was the only hit off Frisella, who retired the last 15 batters he faced before leaving for a pinch hitter in the 10th.

Jerry Grote started the Mets winning rally with a single, and pinch-runner Rod Gaspar stole second. He took third as first baseman Ron Fairly booted Bud Harrelson's bunt, then was trapped in a rundown on Tommie Agee's tap to third. But catcher John Bateman's throw hit Gaspar in the hand, and he came on to score the tie-breaking run.

Wayne Garrett's run-scoring double, a walk, Ron Swoboda's sacrifice fly and Donn Clendenon's run-producing single completed the rally, enabling the Mets to square their season series against the last-place Expos at eight victories apiece.

The Dodgers softened up San Diego with a six-run salvo in the first inning and coasted home as Wes Parker drove in three more runs with a single and double.

Parker, with 102 runs batted in, is the first Dodger to top 100 since Tommy Davis and Frank Howard, eight years ago.

It's easier to be pessimistic than just about anything else, and supporters of a second city arena are probably more entitled than most.

But we don't agree with all the gnashing of teeth that could be heard after Monday night's first home game of the city council season.

Mayor Russell Scott's motion to delay acceptance of a $251,900 tender on a new arena should be taken at face value — an attempt to see if the mayor can, by a self - imposed Thursday deadline, get an offer for a less expensive contract for the badly - needed ice surface.

Monday night Mayor Scott was the villain for the ardent boosters of Belleville recreation. If he this week produces a, say, $20,000 saving he will immediately become the ratepayer's hero.

Personally, last night's vote by council to table acceptance of the only tender submitted on such a costly project did not seem to represent defeat of the arena question.

However, members of the recreation-arena committee might be excused for feeling slighted. Charged by council with the task of submitting a report concerning a new arena's site, substance, and cost, the committee toiled for six months only to have their coup de grace tarnished by a non-debatable delaying action.

But it's doubtful the 6-5 council vote to postpone — apparently for no more than a week — the construction go - ahead for a new arena indicates anything more than a sincere desire to save taxpayers' dollars.

In the first place, council has long since been convinced of the need of, let alone the desires for a second ice surface.

They have watched communities like Kingston and Peterborough complete third major ice surfaces, and heard tales of Belleville minor hockey players nodding through 6 a.m. Memorial Arena practices.

Then a year ago, they watched — and some participated — 1,100 of the local citizenry staged a walking referendum around the Bay of Quinte, raising the better part o fthe $33,424.65 waiting to be withdrawn from the Quinte Action Centre Committee's bank account to help get a new arena off the ground.

I can predict the imminent council okay for a new arena with the confidence of one who has $600 worth of blister - inspired optimism.

His excursions in the Market St. Forum as a Belleville Senior A Mo-Hawk apparently have stood Ron Riley in good stead.

The 22-year-old winger on the Mo-Hawks of two winters ago has received one of 52 Hockey Canada grants of $2,000 to further his studies — and play hockey — at Montreal's Loyola College.

A rookie with Loyola's Warriors last season, Riley finished third in team scoring with 27 goals and 27 assists in 34 games.

Property of the NHL's Pittsburgh Penguins, Riley is currently attending the Penguins' Brantford training camp.

Ron is a native of Deux Montagnes, Quebec, and played his junior hockey with the Laval Saints then with London Nationals as a teammate of Detroit Red Wing sensation Gary Unger.

He worked this summer in Belleville at the Station St. Liquor Control Board outlet.

Trenton junior hockey graduate Bob Dailey is still cutting the mustard with Toronto Marlboros.

Dailey — one of the world's largest 16-year-olds at six-five, 230 pounds — survived the Marlie's first cut Sunday and will be playing his rookie defence spot tonight as the little Leafs take on St. Catherines Black Hawks in a pre-season exhibition at Toronto's Gorge Bell Arena.

Belleville Mo-Hawk season tickets are now available to the general public, for $25 for the 28-game home schedule, offering new seats, heating and possibly plexiglass screening.

The Belleville Senior A entry opens their season in the Memorial Arena Friday, October 2 against Owen Sound, the club they beat out last winter for the OHA Senior A league's sixth and final playoff berth.

Team training camp dates are pending the installation of ice in the Memorial Arena tentatively set after the Sept. 26 weekend.

The Mo-Hawk booster club holds its inaugural season's meeting this Wednesday night at 8 o'clock in the Pinnacle St. Recreation Centre.

Belleville's Junior B hockey entry is off to one of its best starts on record, boasting a new sponsor — to be announced soon — and the return of a strong nucleus of players.

Coach Floyd Crawford has a pool of talent including outstanding goaltender Ron Jury and sophomores Danny Lapenetie and defenceman John Mulvihill, neither of whom looked out of place as 15-year-olds with the fourth-place Ellis Printers last winter.

A pair of possible starters are forwards Ricky and Terry Meagher, who could give the juniors a shot in the scoring area.

The Belleville B's open their 30 - game schedule at home Sunday, Oct. 25 against the Oshawa Crushmen.

Senior Saints Have Beef, Need More Hooves

By ERIC EMERSON
Staff Sportswriter
(FIRST IN A SERIES)

The word on Quinte Secondary School's defending Bay of Quinte Senior Football champions appears to be that "Locke's linemen" are solid. But what the Saints are really looking for is some "Simon Scampers".

Coaches Rick Locke and Jack Sisson agree — we're pretty solid on both the offensive and defensive lines". "You could say that we're looking for our backs to bloom", claims Sisson, the offensive coach.

Returning from last year's team that swept through the schedule undefeated will be 18 players, including 13 starters.

Player personnel appears to have dictated a change in Quinte's offensive philosophy as both Barry Burnside and Jim Sled, whose end sweeps produced the bulk of last year's 254 points have graduated.

The team has shifted from the full house backfield alignment of previous years to a double wing, in order to take full advantage of bruising fullbacks Paul Hall, a Dist. recruit, and Rick Graham.

Returning quarterbacks Darwin Easton and Stan Brooks, along with Junior graduate Rick Meagher should give the Saints depth at that pivot position and keep the offense from becoming simply a "three yards and a cloud o' dust" type. All three can put the ball in the air.

In the trenches, the defending champions appear to be exceptionally deep in big, talented lineman. Anchoring the offensive line will be tackle Tom Hakin and guard Brian Hennessey, both starters last season.

Locke's defensive front five promises to present a formidable front to enemy offenses with the three Whalen brothers — Fred, Mike and Steve — and junior grad Rod Hinne manning four of the posts. All four saw action in last year's unit which allowed only 37 points in the regular season.

Linebacking is an unknown commodity at the present.

We think that the players we have there can do the job," says Locke, "but Larry Stalker is the only returnee from last year. Our biggest overall problem is deciding what position everyone should play."

The deep backs could suffer from lack of experience, with only Terry Meagher returning and Meagher may be switched to a corner linebacker position.

Neither coach is committing himself to a definite preseason predictions, but both allow that "we should be able to say what everyone else has," claims Sisson. "We know that Centennial certainly will have the speed and Trenton should be tough, as well." "Pick us for third," says Locke.

While everything appears to Getting in Gear

Darvin Easton shows early-season running form in a Quinte Saints practice last night. Easton is one of the three quarterback candidates that coaches Rick Locke and Jack Sisson are hoping will supply much of the offensive punch this year. Last year's offence powered their way to 254 points in the Saints seven consecutive league wins.

Minor Softball Arrives at Crossroads

"To run or not to run", is Belleville Minor Softball president Howie Shugg's soliloquy.

The incumbent head of the minor softball body has indicated that unless more support from the parents is forthcoming, that he will refuse to run for another term at this Wednesday's general meeting of the city sport body.

"It's just too big a job to do without some help", says Shugg. "we sent out 600 letters requesting help from the parents and we got ten replies. That's not a very good average."

President and an equipment manager for the West Hill are the only positions left to be filled.

Already elected for the 1971 season are East Hill vice-president, Bob Ryckman; West Hill vice - president, Bert Trice; secretary - treasurer, Richard Moore; statistician, Larry Hedge and East. Hill equipment manager, Jim Campbell.

The meeting has been switched from the Recreation Centre to Ben Bleecker Auditorium and will begin at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

Coaches Get Big Chance

Belleville's Minor Softball members are meeting their sideline seats this Thursday to demonstrates to their charges and the general public just how the game of softball should be played — they hope!

The West will be looking to avenge an earlier loss to the East Hill coaches team. Acording to one West Hill Stalwart, "those guys feel that they've got a pretty good team, but we've been working on some secret strategy. We'll murder them."

Manning the posts for the East team will be president Howie Shugg, Al Eros, Glynn Reynolds, Leo Holland, Jim Campbell and others.

Included in the West's lineup are Glen Jacques, Bob Brooks and Wayne Muir.

Game time will be 6:15 p.m. Thursday at Queen Victoria School on Pine Street.

Referee Clinic Held in City

Belleville has been chosen as the site of one of the two Ontario Hockey Association's referees' clinics in eastern Ontario this year.

The clinics, under the direction of former NHL referee and member of the CAHA's referee's committee, Hugh McLean, will be open to all referees.

The fist will be held at the Peterborough Memorial Centre on Monday, September 28 at 6:30 p.m. with the second slated for the Belleville Arena at 12 noon, Sunday Oct. 4.

Referees are asked to bring their skates, sweaters and whistles.

Also, in connection with hockey officiating, Tim Williams of Belleville has been named by the OHA as a referee supervisor.

Dairy Queens Move Ahead

Dairy Queens moved one up on Cozy Grill in the Women's softball finals by taking a tight 6-5 win last night to hold the best-of-seven series two games to one.

Barb Brandner hurled a five-hitter for the winners, downing three on strikes and issuing the same number of walks. Sandra Claus took the loss as she gave up 10 hits and two walks, while fanning five batters.

Sharon Hannah and Joyce Seniuk each had a triple and single for the winners. Cathy Hannah had a triple and single, while Doris Lockwood had the only other extra base hit.

For Cozy Grill it was Sharon Francis with a homer and Sandra Claus slamming a triple.

Injuries Centre of Attention As NHL Clubs Settle in Camp

Training, past and present, are the talk of the National Hockey League training camps as the last of 14 teams settled into their pre-season locations Monday.

RON ELLIS
Leaf Gen. Out

Chicago Black Hawks, at Chicago Stadium, and Philadelphia Flyers, at Quebec City, were the final arrivals. Toronto Maple Leafs and Detroit Red Wings were first off the mark Sept. 5; the Leafs at Maple Leaf Gardens and Detroit at Port Huron, Mich.

First serious training casualty was goaltender Rocky Farr. The Buffalo Sabre rookie escaped with a cracked left cheekbone when a deflected shot struck his face mask during a scrimmage at Peterborough, Ont.

Farr, 22, underwent surgery in Toronto Monday night and will lose at least 10 days of training camp.

Meanwhile, Toronto winger Ron Ellis skated Monday but did not take part in the Leaf scrimmage. Ellis, Toronto's top goal scorer last year, injured his knee Friday in a collision with defenceman Mike Pelyk and is expected to miss the Leafs' first exhibition game at Ottawa Thursday against St. Louis Blues.

Boston veteran Johnny Bucyk, whose knee was injured in a boating accident in August, is expected at the Bruin camp in London, Ont., Wednesday.

Serge Savard, recovering from a broken leg, skated for the first time with Montreal Canadiens and described his 15-minute session as tiring. Doctors estimate it will be at least two weeks before the defenceman can take part in regular workouts.

Meanwhile, the Bruins announced two more signings—defenceman Dallas Smith and forward Don Marcotte. Other regulars from last year who have reached contract terms with Boston include Fred Stanfield, Wayne Cashman and Wayne Carleton.

Bobby Orr, Ted Green, Rick Smith and Phil Esposito are in the final year of extended contracts.

Pierre Bouchard, son of a former Montreal defence great, Emile (Butch) Bouchard, was signed to the Canadiens' Montreal line corp. He performed last year with Montreal Voyageurs, Montreal's farm team in the American Hockey League.

Vancouver Canucks, meanwhile, will look at six goaltenders during their three exhibition games this weekend to determine who they will carry along with veteran Charlie Hodge.

Hodge apparently has the No. 1 position sewn up. Coach Hal Laycoe gave the Montrealer permission to arrive late "because he's in good physical condition and doesn't need the preliminary training." He was drafted from Oakland Seals last June.

In Calgary vying for the back-up position behind Hodge

JOHNNY BUCYK
Treats Trick Knee

are Ed Dyck, from Calgary Centennials of the Western Canada Hockey League; Dale Halterman, University of Calgary; Dunc Wilson, drafted from Philadelphia Flyers; and veteran minor league pros George Gardner, Lynn Zimmerman and Serge Aubrey.

Vancouver, with a 10-game pre-season schedule, plays at Edmonton Friday, Calgary Saturday and Winnipeg Sunday, all against Minnesota North Stars.

General manager Bud Poile said the main problem his new NHL club has faced in camp is finding an interpreter so Finlander Lasse Oksanen "could feel at home."

Oksanen, 27, was captain of Finland's national team and scored 22 goals in 22 league games at Tampere last year.

Fifty-nine players turned up at the Flyers' camp. General manager Keith Allen said most of those on hand reported in good shape.

Also on hand was goaltender Doug Favell, recovering from a severed achilles tendon suffered in a freak dressing room accident last year. He did not dress.

St. Louis, meanwhile, moved their training sessions from Ottawa to St. Andrews, N.B., during the weekend. They'll wind up training there Wednesday before moving to Ottawa and the game with Toronto.

Billy Crapo Says:

KEEP WEIGHT "INSIDE"

A heavy foot pedal or lever goes by the wall that those who would hold the body still will hit the ball, miss it, or end run. That still applies, although it does need a bit of explaining.

It means that you should never allow your weight to drift "outside" your feet throughout the back- and downswing. Ever since the Greeks discovered that weight, although transferred, should remain within the width of your stance.

Those who let weight drift to the outside of the ball foot on the backswing will jump away from the target. The children of Ham thrown are out of kilter. When you let your weight go outside your left foot early on the downswing, you'll be moving toward the target and destroying the centrifugal force you need to zap the ball.

Clay Okayed by New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Former heavyweight boxing champion Cassius Clay was granted the right to fight in New York State by a federal judge Monday.

Clay had brought suit against the State Athletic Commission under his Muslim name, Mohammad Ali. He had been barred from fighting here since his conviction for refusing to enter the armed services.

Clay has not fought in three years. Last week, however, he signed to fight Jerry Quarry in Atlanta Oct. 26, under a Georgia licence.

Meilleur Loses Blood

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Jimmy Meilleur came home Monday night, and it was a knockout.

The middleweight boxer knocked out Howard Blood of Detroit in the seventh round of a scheduled eight round bout in his first ring appearance in two years. He is formerly of Windsor and now living in New York.

Also on the night's card was Gary Broughton, Canadian middleweight champion from Kitchener, who got a TKO against Joe Blair, of Akron, Ohio, at 44 seconds of the third round.

Broughton is to defend his title Oct. 7 in Halifax.

Meilleur said, "I hope Broughton wins down in Halifax. Then I would like a shot at his title in Windsor."

Dillon's Song in 2:08 Time

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — Dillon Song was the featured eighth race at Garden city raceway Monday night with a time of 2:08 for the mile.

The pacer beat out Matthew Hanover and Ronnie Star and returned $4.80 for the win.

The daily double of Sterling Arbela, winner of the first, and Keystone Gary, winner of the second, returned $24.

The sixth-race exactor of Joey Montgomery and Little Lad paid $13.80.

Monday's crowd of 3,110 wagered $180,301.

Crews Under The Weather

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Yachting's World Series starts today under predicted weather conditions that may make them all wish they were water skiing in the Bahamas.

Rain and cool northeasterly weather blew over the America's Cup course off shore Monday and similar conditions are predicted for the 31st defence of sports' oldest monopoly, the American retention of the trophy they have held since 1851.

After three years of designing, planning, recruiting and funding, Intrepid of the New York Yacht Club will face Australia's Gretel II of the Royal Sydney Yacht Squadron, in the best-of-seven race series.

Intrepid is the favorite with 43-year-old Californian architect Bil Picker at the helm.

Gretel, Australian challenger, however, represents knowledge gained by two prior Aussie efforts at the cup. They are no strangers to the course over Rhode Island Sound, a combination of two tidal currents plus the prevailing ocean swells.

Nor are they strangers to the sophisticated metals and shaped timbers that go into the 12-metre sloops that are the current standard bearers for the cup competition.

Programs Probably Selling Better In Western Cities

Chances are they're selling more programs in the Eastern Football Conference this year than they are out West.

The same old guard from last year dominates the Western Conference scoring again so far this year—but things are vastly different in the East.

Of the 18 top WFC scorers, only one is a rookie—Hugh McKinnis, Calgary Stampeders' southpaw back from Arizona State—and he comes halfway down the list, with 34 points on four touchdowns.

Ted Gerela of British Columbia Lions leads the parade again with 75 points on 17 converts, 16 field goals and 19 singles. Two more kickers—Jack Abendschan of Saskatchewan Roughriders and Dave Cutler of Edmonton Eskimos—follow with 60 and 58 points respectively.

In the EFC, it's last year's scoring champion—Tommy Joe Coffey of Hamilton Tiger-Cats —up on top with 53 points on three touchdowns, 11 converts, seven field goals and three singles.

Then come the rookies.

Ivan MacMillan, 18-year-old from Alexandria, Ont., is a single point behind Coffey.

Ten points behind MacMillan is his team-mate, Hugh Oldham, a 26-year-old flanker from the University of Oregon by way of the Continental League.

Don Jonas, quarterback for Toronto Argonauts and all 27 a rookie only insofar as the CFL is concerned, is in fourth place with 41 points, one behind Oldham. Jonas came out of Penn State and was a standout with Orlando Panthers of the Continental League before moving north.

Then came five holdovers—Bill Symons of Toronto, Terry Evanshen of Montreal Alouettes, Sonny Wade of Montreal, Jim Thorpe of Toronto and Dennis Duncan of Montreal.

Terry Wellesley, 21, a Belleville product of Tennessee Tech, now with Ottawa Rough Riders, follows with Gary Wood of Ottawa, the Cornell University quarterback who was back-up to Fran Tarkenton with the New York Giants of the National League.

Other names new to the CFL in the scoring parade are Tony Moro and Tom Bland, both with Toronto.

Symons is the leading rusher in the EFC and Jim Evenson of B.C. heads the rushing in the West. Thorpe in the East and Terry Swarn of Edmonton in the West lead the pass receivers.

Wood and Jonas, although their percentages differ, each has 11 touchdowns passing to lead the EFC while their WFC counterparts are Jerry Keeling of Calgary and Ron Lancaster of Saskatchewan, with 14 and 11 respectively.

WE SEEK A MAN WITH AMBITION

We're looking for a man with ambition, who wants to get ahead with a future! Right now we're looking for a man who believes in the value of service, who believes people will pay for quality and who believes in himself and his company.

As our international company grows, we need more salesmen to meet and help customers with service, installation and sales of our products. If you're that man, we'll train you for the future, and we will reward you with a salary, bonus, car, expenses and benefits. Please write, in confidence, stating age, experience and telephone number to: Mr. Brent Rowland, Vice President, Marketing, Canada Wire and Cable Co. Limited, 1780 Birchmount Road, Scarborough, Ontario M1P 2G7.

Now in addition to these 2 respected Toronto Franchise Dealerships, we have acquired a Trenton Franchise.

The men selected will own a very high income business of their own. Their success will depend on the first year and while achieving a greater income and future for the qualified leads. Full company training and all the necessary support.

Call collect for an appointment.

The ideal man is over 30, owns a car, and has a high school diploma. Please give us complete details of your background and experience.

NOTICE

THE EXPROPRIATIONS ACT, 1968-69
NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR APPROVAL TO EXPROPRIATE LAND

IN THE MATTER of an application by the Corporation of the City of Belleville for approval to expropriate land being part of Lot 17, Haslett's Plan, filed in the Registry Office for the Registry Division of the County of Hastings, lying and being in the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, for the purpose of widening and reconstructing a section of Dundas Street in the City of Belleville.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that application has been made for approval to expropriate the land described as follows :

ALL AND SINGULAR that certain parcel or tract of land and premises situate lying and being in the City of Belleville, County of Hastings, and Province of Ontario, being composed of part of Lot 17, Haslett's Plan, for the said City of Belleville, and being designated as Part 7, on a plan of survey deposited in the Registry Office for the Registry Division of the County of Hastings as HSR Plan No. 272.

Any owner of lands in respect of which notice is given who desires an inquiry into whether the taking of such land is fair, sound and reasonably necessary in the achievement of the objectives of the expropriating authority shall so notify the approving authority in writing.

(a) in the case of a registered owner, served personally or by registered mail within thirty days after he is served with the notice, or, when he is served by publication, within thirty days after the first publication of the notice;

(b) in the case of an owner who is not a registered owner, within thirty days after the first publication of the notice.

The approving authority is
The Council of the Corporation of the City of Belleville,
City Hall,
Belleville,
Ontario.

THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE.
E. M. DAFOE, Deputy Clerk.
(For) ADAM S. STALKER, Clerk.

NOTES :

1. The Expropriations Act, 1968-1969 provides that,
   (a) where an inquiry is requested, it shall be conducted by an inquiry officer appointed by the Minister of Justice and Attorney General;
   (b) the inquiry officer,
      (i) shall give every party to the inquiry an opportunity to present evidence and argument and to examine and cross-examine witnesses, either personally or by his counsel or agent, and
      (ii) may recommend to the approving authority that a party to the inquiry be paid a fixed amount for his costs of the inquiry not to exceed $200, and the approving authority may in its discretion order the expropriating authority to pay such costs forthwith.
2. "owner" and "registered owner" are defined in the Act as follows :
   "owner" includes a mortgagee, tenant, execution creditor, a person entitled to a limited estate or interest in land, a committee of the estate of a mentally incompetent person or of a person incapable of managing his affairs, and a guardian, executor, administrator or trustee in whom land is vested;
   "registered owner" means an owner of land whose interest in the land is defined and whose name is specified in an instrument in the proper registry, land titles or sheriff's office, and includes a person shown as a tenant of land on the last revised assessment roll.
3. The expropriating authority, each owner who notifies the approving authority that he desires a hearing in respect of the lands intended to be expropriated and any owner added as a party by the inquiry officer are parties to the inquiry.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids... and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of tissue in inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and I consider important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Relief is so great, so quick, so consistent and suppository form called Preparation H.®.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Satisfaction or your money refunded.

Guerrillas Resisting New Jordan Regime

Mideast Peace Hopes Dimmed

CAIRO (CP) — Egypt pronounced the United States Middle East initiative dead, because of American arms aid to Israel, but Washington insisted it was still alive.

Israeli Premier Golda Meir flew to Washington to seek more arms aid after breaking off the peace talks because of alleged ceasefire violations by the Egyptians.

The leader of the most extreme of the guerrilla forces, Dr. George Habash, was quoted in a West German newspaper interview as saying he was prepared to risk a third world war to obtain his objectives, including a "socialist Palestine."

Habash leads the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, which hijacked three airliners and is holding 54 passengers as hostages in return for Arab guerrillas held by three Western governments and Israel. Negotiations for their release have got nowhere so far.

As for his seizure of the airliners, Habash told a newspaper interviewer:

"If that should be the only way to destroy Israel, Zionism and Arab reaction (rich Arabs) we would in fact welcome the Third World War.

"Naturally, we do not want peace. Peace means the end of all our hopes. We want a socialist Palestine."

Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad pronounced the U.S. peace initiative dead, Monday.

However, Riad said Egypt "is ready to respect" the Middle East ceasefire as long as Israel refrains from shooting across the Suez canal.

Sources in Washington said the United States will do everything possible to get Egypt, Israel and Jordan back to the peace table. They also denied Riad's allegation that the United States promised Egypt not to provide military aid to Israel during the ceasefire and the peace negotiations.

Reuters Washington correspondent Desmond Gottlieb reported that diplomatic observers in the U.S. capital felt that there were few prospects for renewing the Arab-Israeli talks under United Nations auspices in the near future.

However, Reuters correspondent Francis Gadiani reported from the United Nations in New York that diplomats there were confident Middle East peace mission of UN special envoy Gunnar Jarring would be salvaged once the Arab and Israeli foreign ministers arrive for the General Assembly session.

They said they expected the assembly meeting, which goes into its second day today, would see a new impetus to get the mission under way.

Of the Middle East states directly involved in the talks, only Jordan's foreign minister, Aston Attallah, attended the opening session of the general assembly Tuesday. But Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban and foreign minister Riad were expected shortly.

Israel Sept. 6 suspended its participation in the Jarring talks until reported violations of the ceasefire by Egypt were rectified.

"The U.N. building—it's been hijacked"

Sharp Rejects Proposal

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — A move has started to bring aerial hijacking before the 25th anniversary meeting of the United Nations General Assembly, which opened Tuesday.

Foreign Minister Carlos Romulo of the Philippines said in an interview that he will seek to have Secretary-General U Thant's suggestion of an international tribunal before which hijackers could be prosecuted put on the agenda of the 126-country assembly.

While Romulo was making his statement to The Associated Press, Canadian External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp was virtually rejecting the secretary-general's suggestion in a chat with Canadian reporters.

He said Canada will continue to pursue a Canadian initiative along that line at an emergency meeting of the International Civil Aviation Organization general council that opens in Montreal Friday.

Canada wants the ICAO to make a declaration linking hijacking with bilateral agreements that countries work out with each other to provide landing rights for their respective airlines.

Under the Canadian plan, if a country refused to deal effectively with a hijacker those bilateral aggreements would be cancelled.

Trip Aimed At Aiding Peace Move

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — President Nixon flies to Europe Sept. 27 for a nine-day tour stressing U.S. naval power in the Mediterranean and his efforts to resolve the deepening crisis in the Middle East.

The focus of a White House announcement Tuesday was on travel in the Mediterranean area, with visits to Italy, Spain and the U.S. 6th Fleet, as well as a trip to Britain.

Diplomatic observers believe one important goal of the trip is to review the balance America can peace initiative in the Middle East and to win support for Jarring's.

The president will fly to Europe nine days after conferring with Israeli Premier Golda Meir at the White House Friday.

The president is expected to speak to Mrs. Meir about hopes of a resumption of the peace talks.

PM Uncertain How Chinese Talks Will End

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said today that Canada-China recognition talks "can not conclude yet and we dont know how they will end up.

The Liberal leader's comment on his government's longstanding attempt to extend diplomatic recognition to Mainland China came during an appearance on the NBC-TV show Today.

Groups Unite Under Arafat

AMMAN (Reuters) — Battle-ready Arab guerrillas raced to positions across Amman today under orders to resist any moves by regular army forces controlled by the new military government in Jordan.

Supreme guerrilla commander Yasser Arafat—appointed earlier in the day as over-all chief of newly-united commandos, militiamen and Palestinian army units—issued strict instructions that his men must fire only in self-defence but should resist any advance by the Jordanian army.

The guerrillas' central committee ordered the unification of all units after King Hussein appointed army officers to replace civilian members of his cabinet including Premier Abdel Moneim Rifai who quit Tuesday night. Soon after the military government was sworn in, all Jordan was clamped under martial law.

Arafat also sent messages to the heads of other Arab states, calling for intervention to "put an end to the bloodbath in Jordan."

The precise meaning of "intervention" was not made clear.

Guerrillas under Arafat's command took up battle positions around the city, ignoring broadcast government appeals that they turn in their weapons.

Arafat attacked the formation of the new government, saying that by suspending martial law the authorities have revoked the ceasefire agreements with the guerrillas.

Arafat's appointment as guerrilla supreme commander puts him in theoretical command of an estimated 50,000 Palestinians and 12,000 Iraqi troops stationed in Jordan.

The decision to unify guerrilla forces was made by the central committee of the guerrilla movement—which rules more than a dozen commando groups —during an emergency session this morning.

At the session, the committee also lifted the suspension of the radical Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, whose membership was suspended Saturday for defying committee decisions about the passengers and planes it hijacked to Jordan last week.

Hussein's appointment of a military government headed by a Palestinian—Brig. Mohammed Daoud—was officially described as a temporary move designed to obtain enforcement of the latest ceasefire agreements between the government and the guerrillas.

But the guerrillas clearly distrust the motives which prompted the king to call in the army and impose martial law for the first time since the 1967 six-day war against Israel. Observers believed there was little prospect of the new government and the guerrillas coming together amicably to enforce the agreements.

Observers in the Jordanian capital said it seemed clear that if the guerrillas rejected the olive branch, the new military government would not hesitate to move against them in a bid to end the government-controlled crisis once and for all.

Such a step could bring Jordan—already in a state of near-anarchy—into virtual civil war.

The king's call to the army has swept away from power many officials sympathetic to the guerrillas. Several of the ministers in the cabinet of outgoing Premier Rifai were from the occupied West Bank and pro-guerrilla.

Also sympathetic, and trusted by the guerrillas, was the army chief of staff, Lt.-Gen. Mashhour Haditha, now transferred to the post of king's adviser on military affairs.

Right Method Used To Halt Hijacking

MONTREAL (CP) — The method used by a Brinks guard in preventing the hijacking of a Trans World Airlines plane in San Francisco Tuesday is an excellent example of the right way to act, the International Air Transport Association says.

A spokesman for IATA, the Montreal-based organization representing 105 international airlines, said Tuesday the guard first asked the captain if he could help and acted only when given approval by him.

The guard, not employed by the airline, was protecting a securities shipment on the plane. He had seen a man passing notes to the pilot, suspected an hijack attempt and offered assistance in his own note to the captain of the Boeing 707.

The flight from Los Angeles landed at San Francisco and some passengers were let off while others who remained on board were moved to the front of the plane.

The guard then shot the hijacker over about 10 rows of seats and police boarded the aircraft and took the injured man to hospital.

The IATA spokesman stressed that regular passengers should never take action on their own initiative because it could endanger everybody on the plane.

Guerrillas Won't 'Wait Forever'

AMMAN (AP) — Palestinian guerrillas holding 54 hostages from three hijacked airliners say they "cannot wait forever" for Western governments to release commando prisoners as ransom.

"Our conditions are clear, and when any government returns our prisoners, we will hand back their prisoners," Ghassan Kanafani, a spokesman for the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, said Tuesday.

No Major Progress on Constitution

OTTAWA (CP) — Under the heading of "other business," Canada's political leaders were to tackle more immediate, practical problems today after spending two days wading through the complex jungle of the constitution—with few dramatic results to display.

As in the four previous constitutional meetings, the heads of the federal and provincial governments ended their talks by saying they were useful, worthwhile and that progress is being made. But there still were no major breakthroughs to report in specific areas of the constitution.

What the conference did do was to revive the search for a formula whereby the constitution—now the British North America Act—can be amended in Canada without reference to W minster.

And there also was general agreement—with no specific pledges—to try to speed the whole constitutional review process and "keep the public involved and fully informed of progress."

For Another Story On The Constitutional Conference, See Page 10

By renewing the emphasis on an amending formula, the constitutional talks appeared to be reverting to their start when it was decided to leave such a formula until after all other constitutional matters were settled.

Farmers Fight Education Costs

Hillier township farmers in their stand against rising education taxes hit where it hurts most — the municipal pocketbook. At noon hour yesterday there was the customary tax deadline line-up at the township office but clerk Bert Evans (shown returning from lunch) found payments shy of the levy for education in most cases. The protest is encouraged by farm organizations. (For story, see Page 2.)

Bayside School A Trend-Setter

Bayside Secondary School is being hailed as "a forerunner in contemporary school design."

The proposed school, whose construction is stated to begin next week, was chosen for the school architecture exhibition at Canadian Education Showplace Oct. 22-24 in Toronto.

A letter to the Hastings county board of education from Bayside architects Bolgon and Heloonen said the building was one of the few projects to receive unanimous approval from the architectural advisory committee.

The $4.5 million school is designed with open area classrooms, group and individual laboratories and seminar centres, and a central library. On completion, it will be one of the few open - plan vocational and academic secondary schools in the province.

Basford's Stand Irks Sales and Ad Speaker

Consumer Affairs Minister Ronald Basford was accused of inept leadership last night for his recent stand suggesting advertising was responsible for adding millions of dollars to the cost of Canadian goods.

Levelling the charge was Lynn Helgard, a department supervisor for the Montreal advertising firm of Freeman Mathes and Mithe Ltd.

Mr. Basford's comments "are erroneous and misleading and we can't afford this type of leadership in Ottawa," said Mr. Helgard. "His comments are striking at the foundation of the free enterprise system and we do not want to be led down the garden path."

Raising Mr. Helgard's ire was a speech made 10 days ago by Mr. Basford in Boston before 750 marketing executives.

At that time Mr. Basford said there was an "advertising pollution" and that there were no controls being exercised by the advertising industry on its own product.

Mr. Helgard said the foundation for Mr. Basford's remarks originated with a 1967 report and the charges had been subsequently "laid to rest."

"Sabre rattling" on Mr. Basford's behalf consisted of "irresponsible remarks by a member of the federal cabinet," charged Mr. Helgard.

During the body of his address Mr. Helgard said that the most powerful force on earth today was the ability to communicate.

"Man must do so to achieve but to make it possible he must have a commitment to change. Communication is only an idea transmitted from one mind to another," he said.

Communication depends on enthusiasm, which must be on enthusiasm, which must be self generated; confidence in one's self and the propagation of ideas.

As a closing hint, Mr. Helgard added "the shortest distance between two people is a smile."

Doyle Remanded

BRIGHTON (Staff) — A Belleville police constable who has now resigned from the OPP today was remanded for two charges arising from the armed robbery of a Macdonald-Cartier Freeway restaurant early Tuesday.

Glenn Doyle, 35, was remanded on two charges of armed robbery and forcible seizure of a truck.

Supt. D. J. Wellesley, commanding officer of Belleville OPP detachment, said Mr. Doyle yesterday admitted his resignation from the provincial police. It was effective immediately.

He was charged after a man held up the 1967 restaurant northeast of Brighton and hijacked a truck, later stopped at Cobourg.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

THE R.A.N. MEMORIAL SERVICE The relatives, members and friends of Pte. 1st, R.A.N. are invited to attend a memorial service to be held in St. Andrew's United Church, Trenton, on Sunday morning at 7:30 p.m. for the purpose of laying a Memorial Wreath for our late Member Fred Arthur. Parade will form at the Legion Hall at 7:15 p.m.

Signed: R. L. Hoskins — Secty.

Razing the Roof

Workmen Terry Donovan and George Carbery pull boards from the roof of the old Holland building on Pinnacle Street. Demolition of the old church, railroad station, and plumbing supply shop will provide space for a new Royal Canadian Legion building. Sod turning and dedication ceremonies will be held on Saturday, Sept. 26 at 2 p.m.

Alderman Questions Sidewalk Replacement

City alderman Arthur Keegan would like to know why the cost of replacement sidewalks in Belleville is assessed against the general rate when the actual cost of construction they were paid for under local improvements.

The question was asked by the alderman at this week's meeting of city council.

Some walks only now being replaced were built shortly after the turn of the century, he noted.

City manager J. R. Reynolds said that under the municipal act, sidewalks may be replaced either under local improvements or be assessed against the general rate.

The act also provides for replacement walks to be built on the basis of costs split between local improvements and the general rate.

The policy of this council is to rebuild walks under the general rate," said the city manager, "but the policy could be changed."

Storm sewers in Belleville at one time were built under local improvements but about 20 years ago the policy was changed and, since then the cost of such sewers have been assessed against the general rate.

Farmers Withhold School Taxes

HILLIER (Staff) — Area farmers who belong to the National Farmers Union have displayed a show of strength in their rebellion against paying escalating education taxes.

In the noon hour yesterday a number from the local dissatisfied group collected at the township office to formally complain while paying their municipal taxes.

Clerk Bert Evans made no comment as the farmers withheld education levies. He issued receipts to them for the municipal portion of the bills.

One large landowner expressing discontent voiced the opinion that the trouble started when the province sold the people of Ontario the idea that centralized public schools were the answer to the problem of rising education costs. His total tax bill of $707.86 broken down, listed $434.50 owing for education. Like the others he just paid his municipal taxes.

Three Held Over

TRENTON (Staff) — Participants in the disturbance complaints investigated by Trenton constable Mark Boulden before his death July 29 appeared in provincial court here today.

Decision was made at noon by Judge S. Roebuck to hold the proceedings over until Nov. 25 for rescheduling in the same court room.

Charged are Gordon Wesley Welsh, 18 on two counts of assaulting an officer, one each of causing a disturbance and drinking under age: Carl Anderson charged with disturbing the peace and Peter Kerr facing charges of assaulting an officer, causing a disturbance and drinking under age.

An inquest into the death of Const. Boulden is scheduled to open in Trenton Oct. 1.

tutional changes had been agreed on. But Prime Minister Trudeau and most of the premiers discounted such suggestions.

Most of the delegates had supported arguments advanced by Premier John Robarts of Ontario that a formula should be established so that constitutional changes can be made in Canada as they are agreed upon, rather than waiting for the completion of the over-all constitutional review.

Mr. Robarts said that agreement on an entirely new constitution will be "a long time coming." Premier Ross Thatcher of Saskatchewan said it wouldn't be in his lifetime.

Twice-yearly meetings of the government leaders will continue next year, with a February meeting in Ottawa and a June conference in Victoria. The only premier to suggest fewer get-togethers was Premier Ross Thatcher of Saskatchewan who said once a year is enough.

After five constitutional meetings, all of them with extensive publicity, the leaders appeared sensitive about not having any easily-digestable announcements to make about agreements on specific subjects.

Premier Robarts said Tuesday night it is important that the public realize the complexity of the job and that worthwhile progress is being quickly made in the search for an updated constitution.

Unless some rapid progress is made, said Mr. Trudeau, it will be necessary to "dampen the enthusiasm" of expectation.

Officials expressed fears privately that unless some concrete results can be pointed out soon, the public will lose all interest in the seemingly endless string of constitutional talks. Mr. Trudeau has said frequently that he favors public involvement in the constitutional review process.

IN MEMORIAM

BIRD — In memory of my dear wife Ina Myrtle Bird who died Sept. 16, 1969.

Sweet was the memory she left behind,
And dear was the love we had for her kind,
Of the one we loved so much,
Memories are all we have left,
Sweet thoughts we'll always keep,
God has her in His keeping,
We have her in our memory.
— Always remembered by husband Clarence.

MITCHELL — In loving memory of Mary Ann Mitchell who died and was buried away Sept. 16, 1968.
Time flies by and year by year,
Memories of you are always dear,
A place in our hearts no one can fill,
A voice you hear, and always will,
— Sadly missed by Mother and Family.

Marine Rescue Service Gets Support

Belleville city council has taken action at restoring the use of a radio by the local La-Salle marine rescue service which has been operating with its communication equipment since the middle of the summer.

Emergency Health Services in Toronto, through its director H. H. McNally M.D., in July ordered Stu Meeks to remove radio equipment from his rescue boat indicating that the frequency being used had been allocated by the Federal Department of Communications for utilization by ambulances in the land mobile service only.

Mr. Meeks, operator of the marine rescue service, said the rescue boat was still being operated but lack of radio communication placed it in an awkward position.

So far this year the rescue boat has received 250 calls, all of which were answered at no cost to the taxpayer.

Calls include emergencies such as boats running aground, spark sailboats and stopped motors.

This week the rescue boat was called to assist the owner of a cruiser whose motor had stopped opposite Union Carbide allowing the boat to go aground on an island in the bay.

"We got the call at three in the morning," Mr. Meeks said. "The boat owner had been flashing an SOS and was standing in the water trying to keep his boat off the rocks."

Mr. Meeks' problem was brought to the attention of council through a letter from the owner.

Alderman Don Soulter suggested that the city manager write to Dr. McNally for background information leading up to the removal of the radio in the rescue boat, following which a decision could be made on possible action.

Mayor J. R. Scott said the marine rescue service should not be allowed to lapse unless there was some alternative. Otherwise something will happen and questions will be asked, he said.

Alderman Keegan said the marine rescue service was just as important as ambulance service on the highway.

A letter from City Manager J. R. Reynolds has gone out to Dr. McNally advising him of the importance of the rescue service, stressing that it was an urgent matter of safety and should be continued.

The letter suggests that Mr. Meeks be allowed use of the radio on the present frequency of using this, an alternative be provided.

County Questions City's Good Faith

The city of Belleville has not acted in good faith in its proposal to construct a railway overpass on the Haig Rd. extension in the city's northeast section.

This is the claim of County Clerk-Treasurer and Administrator, Carl Bateman who in a letter to C. W. Rump, secretary of the railway transport committee, Canadian Transport Commission, says that, based on the assumption the city was acting in good faith, neither Hastings county or the Township of Thurlow objected to the closing of the Station Street crossing.

The crossing was closed to allow the CNR to expand its yard facilities at the east end of the railway yards.

The county agreed to realign county road 8 at no cost to the city, to provide a through artery for traffic along the 2nd of Thurlow to come into the city.

Mr. Bateman, in his letter to Mr. Rump, says it now appears that the city did not seriously intend to carry out its commitment (of erecting the Haig Street overpass).

The county has been notified by the city that the proposed overpass is not included in its five year capital works program.

The county now wants the matter reopened.

Mr. Bateman said that closing of the crossing has created many problems with the residents of that area who own property on both sides of the CNR tracks in addition with vehicular traffic using county road 18 coming into the city.

Monday at city council it was agreed to call a meeting of county representatives, the transport commission, railway, and city, to discuss the problem.

Marmora Firemen Win Field Day

MARMORA (Special — The Hastings and Prince Edward Mutual Aid Field Day was held Sunday afternoon at the Intermediate School playgrounds. Testing their skills were firemen from Deseronto, Frankford, Stirling and Marmora.

Total points won by the teams were: Marmora — 33; Deseronto — 21; Frankford — 17; and Stirling — 15. Marmora led in the equipment race, two - man coupling race, 24 - foot ladder race, replacement race and bucket race. The 14 - foot ladder race was won by Deseronto firemen; Frankford topped the efficiency race, and Stirling came first in the hose - cart race.

Cecil Neal, chairman of Marmora Fire Department, attributed Marmora wins to team spirit and enthusiasm of the local firemen.

What Price Gasoline?

The high cost of gasoline that motorists in the Belleville area have to pay compared to prices in the Ottawa and Oshawa areas has drawn the ire of a local insurance salesman.

J. Farley Parnell, in a letter to city council this week says he is at a loss to understand why in this area when Belleville is served by the pipeline (which passes north of Cannifton) that regular gasoline sells at 51.9 cents when the same product sells for 46.9 cents in Ottawa and at 41.9 in the Oshawa area east of Toronto.

Mr. Parnell points out that the prices quoted are not for crude gasoline but for gas supplied by the major oil companies.

"I feel that this is something council should look into, for I think this is very unfair to us in this area," wrote Mr. Parnell.

The letter was referred to the city manager who was directed to send a copy along to the appropriate government department.

- - And Fuel Oil?

In those days of creeping inflation lower prices are something of a rarity.

But that was the gratifying surprise this week for city council when tenders for the municipality's annual supply of fuel oil were opened.

The city's requirement was for 82,000 gallons of oil and the lowest tender, submitted by Texaco Canada Ltd. was for 14.6 cents per gallon as compared to a price of 14.74 cents paid last year.

Council members commented on the lower price as the contract was awarded to the lowest bidder.

Bridge Move

Belleville is taking two significant steps forward which ultimately will bring the city further into line with contemporary progress in Canada.

First, there is at long last official recognition of the hampering effect on communications of the Bay Bridge linking Belleville with Prince Edward County to the south.

Secondly there is a move to invite Prime Minister Trudeau to the community.

Mayor Russell Scott has taken the initiative on the bridge issue with a resolution drawing attention to the patently obvious disadvantages of the existing bridge.

Built in 1891, the bridge must be one of the oldest structures of its kind in Canada. But this is one facet of our history which is not in the general interests of the community to preserve. It will be scarcely even worth removal to another place, like London Bridge's transfer to Lake Havasu City in Arizona.

Belleville's population is on the brink of a rapid increase. There is new industry and the establishment of an additional hotel facility like the Four Seasons inevitably will mean both population and tourist growth. The new north end shopping centre will also attract people from a wide area who will also be drawn to the tourist areas of Prince Edward. Envisaging such increased traffic it is not difficult to picture also the traffic tie - ups that would result at the Bay Bridge. Such a situation should not be tolerated, but it is a very real possibility if an overhead bridge is not constructed to replace the present structure.

As things stand, everyone is familiar with the traffic tie - ups that occur when the bridge is opened to permit passage of vessels and too, there is the question of safety; in winter especially the Bay Bridge and the approach to town past Zwick's Island leave a lot to be desired.

A visit by Prime Minister Trudeau is another factor which would be in line with progress in Belleville. Alderman Robin Jeffrey suggested in council Monday it would be better if such a visit were to coincide with some special event, otherwise she could not see the great man coming into our midst. Then why not the Bridge? And it's lesson in history and how to hustle such a project than today's picture caption on how they do things in Germany will help.

The Mayor's resolution incidentally is going to many municipalities. Their support is desirable too before it is sent to the Department of Highways, MPPs and Premier Robarts. In view of progress in other spheres locally, the bridge concept should now be made a priority.

Soldiering On

Lean and fierce looking as ever, Ken Rosewall at 35 became the oldest man in 41 years to take the men's title in the U.S. open tennis championships at the weekend.

It was a remarkable achievement as Rosewall defeated fellow Australian, Tony Roche, ten years his junior, to win the title for the second time. The last time was 14 years ago. In a game as demanding as any, age has not rewarded this lengthy interval. He was also the Wimbledon finalist in 1954 (losing to the Czech, Jaroslav Drobny) and again this year (losing to another Australian, John Newcombe), and shows every indication of being a man to beat for some years to come.

It is worth mentioning also that several other past champions are still soldiering on - notably Richard Gonzales, a grandfather at around 42, Roy Emerson and of course Rod Laver, while others have fallen by the wayside. For example, what ever became of Frank Sedgman (1951-52) and Neale Fraser (1959-60) to name only two?

She Stands Firm

Strange, but here is a girl who is more interested in her work than in boys. Melinda Hertel is 16 and she has called a one - girl strike against her school in Birmingham, England. And all because she was placed in a class with 16 boys and only three other girls. The word is that Melinda is not interested in having boys and their whistles, notes or offers of dates. And get this, she has refused to go back to school unless she is placed in an all - girl classroom. Well, Women's Lib takes many forms and if this girl is a good scholar it might be the better part of wisdom and valor if the authorities let the teenager have her way.

Zambia Throws Its Weight Around

Newsmen Jailed During 'Non-Aligned' Conference

By JOHN LaBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The cynic may wonder what has been accomplished by the conference of "non-aligned" nations that has just concluded in Lusaka, Zambia.

An opening question might be: How many of them are the non-aligned? Another would be: What sort of weight do they swing?

The answer to the first question is as vague as some of the conference resolutions. The answer to the second is: Not much.

The non-aligned bloc of about 54 countries has a population of about 1,000 million people, of whom half are in India. In general they are poor and, although they enjoy diplomatically half the membership of the United Nations, they contribute only five per cent of its annual budget.

Despite this, they might reasonably be expected to exert a moral force toward bringing about an easing of tension between the two big power blocs facing each other. So should they be able to apply moral suasion upon countries such as South Africa and Rhodesia in which white dominated rule is imposed upon the blacks.

Unfortunately for this concept, the press that received the biggest play out of Lusaka was a display of authoritarianism by the black Zambian government against reporters from other countries attempting to cover the conference.

Some highly respected correspondents of major newspapers and press agencies were arbitrarily thrown into jail--after receiving credentials--amid lemonades from Zambia's London office about how much partying. Some were barred from the country on undefined pretexts.

The result has been that, whatever the non-aligned statesmen might have been doing constructively, much of the news going out to the world has been devoted to how news personnel were being pushed around in a place where spokesmen were looking for a better deal for minorities. The egalitarian sentiments of the politicians took second place.

Apparently much of the conference doings went on in the back rooms and many of it will be trickling out later. Some has already come out, including the odd eyebrow-lifting item such as appeared in The Guardian in London Friday under this four-column headline:

"Kaunda will ask U Thant to dissolve NATO."

The accompanying story says the Zambian president will fly to New York next month to present to the UN General Assembly a demand for dissolution of NATO and other military alliances.

NATO members, including Canada, will be surprised to hear that the UN secretary-general or the UN itself can do anything to break up the military alliance. If the report is correct, Kaunda and company have their wires crossed.

Otherwise, the non-aligned apparently came up with standard resolutions, such as calling for action against South Africa with its policy of apartheid and condemning Britain for not moving more strongly against Rhodesia.

An interesting aspect of the conference is that the non-aligned group, as of a few years ago with 25 members, has picked up much more membership but does not appear to have solidified into anything than a club such as the Commonwealth.

Pollution Control

This 580 ft. chimney of a Mannheim, West Germany, power plant will help keep the air clean over the Rhine-side city. Once in operation, the chimney will funnel gases through at the rate of almost 40 mph, purifying them almost entirely (99.5 per cent). The smokestack was build in a record period of 34 days and nights by 50 men working in two shifts. It is made of reinforced concrete with an acid-resistant ceramic lining. Further north, in the Industrial Ruhr, the chimneys must be more than 800 ft. high to keep down pollution. (German Features picture.)

Students Evaluate Their Professors

Montreal Gazette

Students can be competent judges of their professors, says Professor Edward F. Sheffield of the University of Toronto. He told the conference of the International Association of Universities that student opinion concerning the promotion of teachers "needs to be considered in a more scientific and organized way." It's rather frightening to think he means it.

He certainly has supporters.

In some universities departments, students have filled out computer cards evaluating the work of their professors. A small consideration, perhaps, but one wonders whether the roles of professors and students are not gradually being reversed. Youth must be served, but must it be respected and obeyed for qualities of wisdom and understanding that it cannot possibly possess?

The prospect of students sitting in judgment on their professors originates in current thinking. The student is no longer someone who has a come to be taught. Instead, he becomes a customer obtaining a service and demanding an unquestionable right to immediate satisfaction.

The trouble is that a university is not, or should not be, a market - place. A satisfied mind is not necessarily an educated mind. More likely, it is a mind that has not even been aroused. . . . The success or failure of a university teacher depends upon his ability to arouse a lasting curiosity about his subject, a phenomenon that can only be judged in its effect upon many minds over a period of time.

Professor Sheffield reported on the results of a survey among 1,000 graduates whom he asked to identify excellent teachers they had had, and to explain their choices. The graduates would be capable of rendering a considered judgment, of course, fortified by their awareness of what has remained with them after their student days were finished. It is difficult to see, however, why a survey of this type would encourage the belief that student opinion ought to be solicited on campus and given an important influence in the retention and promotion of teachers.

Most universities have become such large and impersonal communities that many students do not even have enough meaningful contact with their teachers. They have strayed too far from the ideal of a community of scholars, in which there can be a true dialogue between inquisitive minds.

When a student - professor relationship is a personal one in that sense, then perhaps the student may have a relevant opinion about the worth of his professors. Even then, it would still be more important than the judgments of a professor by his own peers.

Aggression Prime Topic Of TV News in States

Time Magazine

On the premise that television news is a "sensitive barometer of the central values of a culture," University of Western Ontario sociologist Benjamin Singer has come up with a neat way of telling Canadians and Americans apart. He compared the CBC's National and the CBC Evening News for 21 consecutive evenings, and found that the world portrayed in the two television newscasts differs substantially. In the Singer's survey, "aggression items" -- news of violence, protest and war -- made up 49.3 per cent of the Canada report and only 28.3 per cent of the CBC news. Nor was the concern of the war in Indochina to Americans that provided the measure of difference. Excluding Viet Nam, CBS still gave twice as much of its time to "aggression items" as did the CBC. Singer did not attempt to decide whether the discrepancy stems from a more aggressive society in the U.S., more interests among Americans in hearing about aggression, or a difference in news judgment between the two networks. What ever the reason for the difference of the two perceived worlds perhaps it has always been thus. After all, where the British North America Act soothingly prescribed a region of "peace, order and good government" for Canada, the U.S. declaration of independence set still of lights more assertively enshrined the goals of "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," not to mention "the right to bear arms."

Farm Vacations

Kitchener - Waterloo Record

The University of Guelph is carrying out research into the possibility that Ontario farmers might be able to get cash income from the tourist business. There are thought to be 25 family farmers now in province which are offering farm vacations in an organized way. Their customers are city people who are willing to pay for board and lodging in a farm home and a holiday in a rural setting. Two Guelph professors, one a specialist in landscape architecture and the other in agricultural economics, are studying the possibility of enlarging farm-vacation activity to make it a useful source of income for farmers. Their project is being financed jointly by the Ontario and Dominion governments.

The struggle for Mexican independence began 160 years ago today--in 1810 -- after the aristocracy sided with the Spanish viceroy to repress democratic trends. The movement became a racial conflict heralded as the fight for equal rights for Indians and mixed-bloods.

The movement's armies were crushed but the conservatives failed in their bid for independence in 1820 to secure their power after a more democratic regime was established in Spain. The cycle of civil war, revolution and foreign interference continued until 1930.

1963--Canada sold Russia 228 million bushels of wheat and flour worth $500 million.

1941--The Shah of Iran abdicated.

1893--Calgary was incorporated.

Murders Have Increased Since Death Penalty Abolished

Peterborough Examiner

The number of murders in Canada is on the rise.

In 1966, when Parliament abolished capital punishment, (except for the murder of policemen and prison guards) for a five-year trial period, there were 220 murders in the country. In 1969, we had 341 murders. The rate increased from 1.3 murders per 100,000 population in 1966 to 1.9 per 100,000 in 1969.

These Dominion Bureau of Statistics figures were disclosed by Barry Mather, a New Democratic Party MP for Surrey, BC, and a leading opponent of capital punishment.

These figures shouldn't really surprise anybody.

The same thing happened in England.

Yet, the argument over the death penalty has been going on for years not only in Canada, but in many other countries. Opponents in almost every country claimed that killing somebody, even legally, was barbaric and nothing more than society's revenge.

But their main argument was that the prospect of being hanged or electrocuted or being put in the gas chamber was not a deterrent.

They said most people kill by sudden anger and it is such a state of mind the threat of being executed for the killing never even occurs to the killer.

Maybe not. Still, the fact is that as soon as the death penalty was abolished the number of murders began to rise. There is no question about it, death is a great deterrent, and if it is removed, the last natural brake on man's emotions is neutralized.

But the most important thing is not whether the murdered should live or die but how society should be protected from him. Death is final; an executed killer will never kill again. The argument therefore should not be over whether a murderer should be executed or not, but whether he should ever be allowed to be free and menace society, or not.

For the problem with life sentence, for example, is that it is not really a life sentence.

A man sent to prison for life can be -- and usually is -- free after a number of years.

Therefore, if a murderer, who remains a potential murderer even after being caught, is hanged, he ceases to be a threat to society. But he also ceases to be a threat if he is locked away from others -- in prison or any other place capable of containing him -- without being to be killed.

The main propaganda weapon of the abolitionists therefore, should not be the largely hypocritical slogans of barbarism, but the safety of citizens.

They can only be safe from murderers if murderers are kept separated. -- by the grave or by thick walls.

Bridge Model on Display at Fly-In

The model shows boats passing under the spans of the island-hopping bridge linking Ontario and New York State.

Trustee Assails Classroom Lack

Hastings county is moving too slowly on school building programs, a trustee charged Monday night.

Donald Williams of Stirling expressed his concern to board of education members and asked for a report on building needs in the county.

Focusing on his area, which he noted, was only a small part of the over - all county system, he remarked that the board was "falling further and further behind" in providing school accommodation.

He reminded the board that it was installing "more and more portables" in an attempt to meet accommodation needs.

Both the Stirling and Frankford schools require additions, Mr. Williams said. Sir MacKenzie Bowell and March Hill schools each has one portable, Batawa and Glen Miller each has two, Frankford has three and Stirling five.

Stirling elementary school, with a rated capacity of 615 pupils, is accommodating 748 this year.

Because of the three-three-a-year kindergarten entry system in use in centre Hastings, the school may accommodate about 30 more pupils by the end of the year.

"We boast of our libraries and art rooms, but they are in use as classrooms," said Mr. Williams. "Although we have classes on paper, we don't have them in fact."

"We have a real problem with school facilities; we're not moving fast enough on them," he concluded.

Director of education Earl Rounces agreed.

"A difficult situation exists throughout the province," he said. "For the last year we have faced a serious limitation of debenture funds for school buildings."

But the capital fund situation has loosened up a little, he indicated.

Last month, the department of education asked county boards to indicate their building needs.

French-only Camp For Hastings Pupils

Centre Hastings is doing its part to foster bilingualism.

An experiment in partial French immersion is slated for next week at Quin-Mo-Lac Camp on Moira Lake, where 80 grade 7 and 8 pupils will gather for special instruction.

The one-week camp experience is part of a continuing program in the centre Hastings area. Five camps have been held this year at Quin-Mo-Lac — two in the spring and three this fall.

About 200 children from grades 7 to 12 have enjoyed going to school in an informal camp situation. Their teachers augmented by consultants and other teachers, move into camp with them, and volunteers, including parents, take turns in providing eight-time supervision.

About 100 elementary school pupils are in residence at the camp this week. When they move out the French experiment begins.

The first two days of the French camp Sept. 21 and 22, will feature vocabulary reviews and English conversation will be permitted.

Open house for press, parents and public, will be held Sept. 23.

Then it's down to business for the last two days, as teachers try to reinforce a French-only rule among the pupils.

Frank Tate, associate superintendent, who last year instigated the use of Quin-Mo-Lac for special programs, said the children attending the French camp all have one to two years of oral French instruction at elementary school level.

How well they can cope when forced to use French only in a residential setting remains to be seen.

The pilot project will be closely watched by county educators to determine if it can be applied on a wider scale in language instruction in the future.

Board Tables Three Motions

A motion to have an accountant hired by Hastings county board of education as an internal auditor, responsible only to the board, was tabled Monday night at the request of its instigator, Paul Fleming.

The motion has been hanging over the board since last June, when Mr. Fleming gave notice he would present it "at the next regular board meeting."

All meetings during the summer were special sessions and the motion could not be debated.

Mr. Fleming gave no reason for asking for tabling until the next meeting.

Two other Fleming motions, also hanging fire since June, were carried by the board. They called for definition of the duties of all committees of the board, with recommendations on the duties and responsibilities to come from the administration.

Mr. Fleming said there was over-lapping of committees' duties, and confusion about their responsibilities.

Both director of education Eric Rounces and board chairman James Clarke agreed that a report to clarify the functions of committees was due.

The report is expected to be ready by next month.

Dad Drives

Parents Protest Walk to School

BLOOMFIELD (Staff) — "When I was a boy I walked to school from MacDonald's Island to Bloomfield," Prince Edward school trustee Douglas Caley told a parent protesting his childrens' half-mile hike to Wellington Consolidated School. Replied the concerned father, "When you were a boy horses and buggies met you on the road, not cars going 50 miles an hour."

Wellington ratepayers Mr. and Mrs. Peter VanHaarlem Monday night with county school board members to ask why their children are no longer picked up by a school bus after riding one for almost 12 years. Mr. VanHaarlem insisted that it is dangerous for his children to walk the half - mile distance to school because there is no sidewalk. He demanded an explanation from the board as to why the youngsters could not ride the bus this year and threatened to withdraw them from school today unless he received satisfactory action. He suggested that he could meet with township council to request a sidewalk if the board would agree to bus his children until it could be built.

Harmon Montgomery, chairman of the transportation committee explained that the bus was rerouted this fall bypassing the VanHaarlem's home. He added that the bus transportation system was basically for students in the country not for town pupils.

Mr. Montgomery noted that some Picton students walk two miles to class. "If we make exceptions we're apt to have Picton expecting transportation in town too," he observed.

Trustee Everett Robinson pointed out that bus drivers in the past have done "neighborly acts" by giving rides to pupils not entitled to bus transportation when there were empty seats on their buses. He added that he did not think this was a board policy followed under the board's direction.

Board chairman Edward Rutter reinforced this statement, noting that a bus driver apparently had picked up Mr. VanHaarlem's children on his own initiative. He made it clear that the transportation committee would review the problem but could promise no action by today. "Don't penalize the children by taking them out of school because there is no bus or no sidewalk," urged Mr. Rutter.

Several trustees commented that many students throughout the county must walk on side roads to reach their schools.

Mr. Van Haarlem is driving his children to school and will continue to do so until the matter is resolved.

Director Suggests Industrial Arts Course Be Added

BLOOMFIELD (Staff) — Education director John McNeil has recommended the introduction of industrial arts classes at the grade 7 and 8 levels this term in North Marysburg, South Marysburg, Athol and Sophiasburg schools.

His suggestion to Prince Edward County school trustees followed the rejection of an earlier plan to integrate these pupils in classes at Queen Elizabeth school and Prince Edward Collegiate Institute. This idea was dropped when it became apparent that the result would be over-crowded classrooms.

Mr. McNeil met last week with three industrial arts teachers from county schools and a special consultant from region 9 to discuss the local programs. He noted that industrial arts is changing in its concept and added that the consultant felt greater variety was needed in Prince Edward County schools. It was his observation that woodworking seemed basic to all three county schools and suggested the introduction of drafting as a possible change. Classroom sizes were examined and figures showed that approximately 15 studied industrial arts in Wellington and Queen Elizabeth schools. At Pinecrest school from 26 to 31 pupils form this class.

The special consultant attending the meeting observed that the majority of Ontario school boards supply the materials used in home economics and industrial arts courses for about $2.50 per pupil. Students must finance more expensive projects themselves.

Smoking No Longer Smart Thing to Do

By DORIS CLARK

It used to be thought that it looked smart for a young person to smoke. Now that's out. It's a habit that could damage your prestige — the very opposite of the result you want.

When a young girl smokes, many folks also decide she has other out-of-school habits: less evident ones. Same with the boys.

The evidence is overwhelming now, that smoking is a large cancer threat. Doesn't that make the smoker appear the opposite of smart?

Dear Doris: My husband and I had an argument six months ago and he has only spoken to me about three times since. My daughter, who is 22 has a boy friend he doesn't like, although he hasn't even met him.

When I stuck up for her, he told me I could get out. Since he started calling her old cache and old bags and cats, everything has been right as rain. I told him what I thought about it so he told me I was running a "house".

Doris, there aren't any men much in our town. Everything I can be said is only fit for cats and dogs. All the children are disgusted with their father.

I left his bed one night when he came home to me and he was up all night carving and growling. Is there any hope of living with him? Can't Take Any more.

Dear Can't Take: The quiet cradle is for a rattle? That's a sullen silence is just as hard to bear — maybe harder. Get many shots. Family ills should be relieved and happy.

Try a cool, deliberate approach to a conversation. Calmly point out to your husband that objecting to the boy friend will force her to hide. Tell him, too, that retreating into silence is childish and useless.

This dignified reaction might just be the shock treatment he needs. A counselor could help you work your way through this.

Dear Doris: After reading the letter from Tense and Confused I am prompted to write.

My husband and I were separated for years because of domineering in-laws. When he asked me back he promised we would live our own lives; that if any of the crowd of drunkards became obnoxious he'd buy me a shindy house to use on them. After trying to stand their obscenities I finally did resort to insisting that they leave.

Those in-laws consider kindness a weakness. They also consider a husband cheating on his wife as "having a little fun". My husband had joined with them in getting stupid drunk and engaging in port or-switching orgies.

They fight among themselves and I don't want my babies growing up in that atmosphere. My husband says he wishes he had left with me, years ago.

In - laws: Let married couples have their own lives! —

To Each His Own

Dear To Each: You made the grade and won through, for your children's sake and your own. Let this be a lesson to any in-laws suffering spouse.

Human relations can hurt — or bring happiness. Get Doris, a trained counselor, to help on hostile yours.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "Be careful not to scatter those boards around. The builder won't like it if you break anything here. You can play without moving things around too much."

Mother: "This property belongs to the house builder and it isn't right for anyone to trespass here. We wouldn't like it if his children got into our things while we were gone."

Children need to be told what is right and wrong. This is the way they learn to respect the rights of others.

Canadian Pork Is Prestige Item on Menu

By MARY MOORE

Canadian pork is leaner, healthier, cheaper and consequently gaining momentum as a prestige item on gourmet menus and on barbecues.

The homemaker who is the buyer will note "cheaper" instantly and it is my part to tell her how to prepare the pork to a chef's satisfaction.

"No matter how fish you slice it it's still bologna" is an old saw that can be borrowed. Butchers slice pork chops thinly so they will look. Pay more to the buyer. She in turn takes the chops home and overcooks them to a hard state because she has been drilled since childhood to thoroughly cook pork because of the danger of trichinosis. There is no cause to fear this ever again because of our strict inspection procedures. In recent years over 250,000 swine carcasses have been microscopically examined in meat plants across Canada and all have been negative. Incidentally the production of pork and pork products in our Western provinces is increasing partly as the result of their diversification program.

One great advantage that pork has over beef is that all cuts are lender. So get out of your beef eating rut and let pork help to lower your budget and add surprising variety to your menus.

The latest way I have served pork chops is barbecued.

BARBECUED OR BROILED PORK CHOPS (serves 3)

8 thick (generous 1") loin pork chops

Bottled barbecue sauce

OR

Homemade Barbecue Sauce

NO. 1:

1 cup bottled barbecue sauce

1 cup sweet pickle juice (or beer)

1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce

2 tsps. salt

NO. 2:

1 cup tomato juice

¼ cup vinegar

2 tsps. sugar

1 tsp. salt

¼ tsp. pepper

¼ tsp. garlic salt

To serve 8 select rib, loin or shoulder chops cut 1-1¼" thick. Place on grill 5" from coals or preheated broiler burner. Broil over glowing coals (with lazy ash) for 10-15 min. on each side, brushing with barbecue sauce of your choice (see above) on both sides. Serve hot from the grill.

Ann Landers

Drunks Tend To Disrobe

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please answer a question that has been bugging me for a long time. Why is it that when people (especially women) get plastered they want to take off their clothes? I've never seen a drunk get on anything — they always seem to be unpeeling. Usually the women start by kicking off their shoes, then the belt comes off, next the earrings, headbands, stockings — dresses. With men, it's suitcoats, vest, then neckties — etc. Can you explain this extraordinary behavior in normally decorous people? — DEVILED EGG.

ANN LANDERS

DEAR DEV: Alcohol releases the inhibitions and distorts the judgment. Too much booze fools folks into believing that whatever they do is O.K. Alcohol dilates the surface blood vessels and warms people up. The natural inclination when people get overheated is to make themselves comfortable. Some of these people become quite uncomfortable the following day, however — when they have trouble remembering the previous night's activities.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: May I answer Miss Monday? It could have been written by my mother-in-law — to me or to either of my two sisters-in-law.

Before her sons married she planned every spare minute for them. Their vacations were an endless series of visits to dozens of elderly relatives. They were not allowed to have friends. She said "outsiders" disrupted the family unit.

When my husband was in Vietnam she came to my home and demanded that I share his letters. When I refused, she called me names you wouldn't believe. My brothers-in-law are now in the service and they don't write very often as she telephones their commanding officers regularly.

My mother-in-law has decided that "those three miserable girls" have turned her boys against her. But guess who buys the birthday gift, the Christmas gift, the Easter ham and the Mother's Day plants? — THOSE THREE MISERABLE GIRLS.

DEAR GIRLS: You girls just might turn out to be the world's best mothers-in-law. There's no teacher like experience —especially a bad experience.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My great uncle is 83 years old but could pass for 65. He became a widower in '68 and ever since his wife died he has been the town playboy. Last week he took out two ladies — the differences in their ages was 40 years.

Six months ago Unk began to make subtle passes at me when nobody was looking. I laughed it off but it's not funny anymore. Last night he cornered me in the garage when I went to get charcoal for the barbecue. He grabbed me and kissed me full on the mouth. I had a terrible time getting free of him.

Ann, I don't want to tell my husband, yet I am afraid to be around this worm. He is a family favorite and I'd hate to let people know sweet, adorable Unk is a dirty old man. What should I do? (P.S. Please don't print the name of my city.) — CLUTCHED.

DEAR CLUTCHED: O.K., no city, but don't worry about anyone guessing Unk's identity. Every city has its share of dirty old men.

Tell Unk if he makes one more false move he will no longer be welcome in your home and you'll have to tell your husband why. Then do it — if you must.

Albery United Church was the scene of the recent wedding of Valeria Coleen Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moore of Belleville, and of Joseph Daniel Doxtator, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Doxtator of RR 1, Carrying Place. Rev. Morris McLeod officiated at the traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. McLeod, organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an empire-waisted floor-length gown of peau-de-cherne. Her bouquet consisted of yellow roses and white 'mums.

Mrs. Nancy Weese, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Audrey Moore, sister of the bride and Laurie Doxtator, sister of the bridegroom. All wore dresses identical to that of the bride, but in a rainbow colored material. The bridesmaids carried bouquets of tinted spider 'mums.

Best man was Charles Weese, brother-in-law of the bridegroom. Ushers were Peter Wright and Doug Mason, both of Belleville.

A mauve street-length suit with white accessories and a corsage of white roses was the sartorial choice of Mrs. Frank Moore, the bride's mother for the reception that followed the ceremony. The bridegroom's mother wore a peppermint - green street-length suit with white accessories and a corsage of white roses.

For the wedding trip to points south, the bride left in a white dress trimmed with blue with white accessories and a corsage of yellow sweetheart roses. Upon return the newlyweds will live in RR 1, Carrying Place.

Couple Mark 25th Wedding Anniversary

TWEED — On the occasion of the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Van Alphen, their son Charles held a surprise gathering for friends and neighbors at St. Edmund's Parish Hall on Aug. 29.

The day began with an anniversary Mass celebrated by Rev. Father J. C. Gronenwegen. Present in the sanctuary was Rev. T. E. Richmond, a personal friend from Kingston. Organist Bill Anderson accompanied soloist Leonard Whalen.

Guests were from Sarnia, Hamilton, Oakville, Kingston, Toronto, Amherstview, Belleville and Tweed and were ushered by Allan Rivers.

Following the Mass, guests were received at the hall by the still surprised couple and were then entertained by the Land G'Lakes Orchestra. A lunch was provided by the local women and at this time the couple cut the three-tiered wedding cake. Immediately after the lunch, an address was read by Simon Cournyea, who expressed on behalf of their friends and neighbors warm congratulations. He said, "We know through your stories of the war times in Holland life was not always cheerful, but by your love, understanding and courage for one another, you were able to face it and maintain that happy, cheerful outlook on life that you always seem to possess." A presentation of wallets containing money was made by Mrs. Simon Cournyea.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Alphen received guests later in the evening at home. After 19 years as residents in their adopted country, they are planning a three-week visit to their homeland.

Antique Collectors' Paradise

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church annual antique show and sale attracted a large number of interested buyers and spectators, as doors opened Tuesday afternoon.

There were 19 antique dealers, including two newcomers, the Village Bookstore, Toronto and Phillips Lampshades Ltd., who set up displays at the annual antique sale and show at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, which opened on Tuesday afternoon and will continue until 10 p.m. Wednesday evening.

Antique collectors had a heyday buying or just admiring the outstanding displays of china, glassware, silverware furniture and other items set up by the dealers. Of special interest in the stall set up by Lovick's Antiques of Bloomfield was a Prince Edward County rocking chair with a seat made of rattan imported from Cairo, Egypt. Kaye McFarland Antiques, Napanee, featured a pinewood baby carriage from Quebec circa 1810.

Mrs. Ruth Gossdinger of Shannonville and Mrs. June McNish, Canniton had among other things, a number of brass rubbings to show visitors to their stalls. These rubbings, taken off churches, tombs and various monuments in England show a wealth of detail. Two of them in this stall depicted a medieval knight and his lady.

Copper kitchenware gleamed in the stall of J. Drapeau and G. Finkenburg of Aimuil, Quebec while Mrs. Claire Passmore of Rockcliffe Antiques Brockville had a decanter called "pilgrim's bottle" which is about 100 years old. Two carved display cabinets and two "gingerbread" clocks made in the U. S. around 1800 caught the eye in the stall run by Lloyd's Antiques, Peterborough, owned by Helen and Lloyd Chun. These gingerbread clocks were generally used as kitchen clocks.

The Village Bookstore display featured a number of books of special interest to the antique collector. Among them were "Small Antique Silverware" by G. Bernard Hughes and the official guide to popular antiques and curios.

Conveners of the show sponsored by St. Andrew's Guild were Mrs. Kay Robertson and Mrs. J. Clendenan. Visitors could relax over a cup of tea in the tearoom which also featured home-made pies and cookies. All proceeds go to the music fund for the church.

Mrs. Garnet Thain (nee Doris Kelly) is a patient in Belleville General Hospital following surgery.

NEEDLES BLAMED

VANCOUVER (CP) — A city health officer reports that an increase in the incidence of hepatitis in Vancouver in recent years is due in part to drug addicts using dirty hypodermic needles. As an example, he says "there was a party at which 17 kids got speed; 12 of them used the same needle and five of them got hepatitis."

Good Office Relations Stressed at NSA Meet

"The career girl must develop more than technical skills to advance in today's world," members of the Belleville chapter of the National Secretaries' Association were told last night.

"Appearance, personality, sophistication and thoughtfulness make the difference," said Patricia Soutter, a teacher at Loyalist College with broad experience in the business world.

Friction and discord in many offices develops not from differences in work load but stems from envy, jealousies to gossip and the spreading of unchartable, borderline truths,' said Mrs. Soutter.

"Tolerance in our society is not on the highest rung of the ladder these days but it is an uncommonly desirable virtue for the career girl to practise The supreme reward is not that you are tagged outwardly with having a charitable disposition but, in the personal evaluation which only you can make, your inner life becomes more enjoyable.

In discussing the "tensions and strains which are a part of the business office which is progressive, alert and competitive," the speaker said it is not enough for the good secretary "to just ignore disrupting antics but you must use your common sense, good will and personality skills to short circuit this type of office politics without precipitating a crisis or making matters worse.

"More people lose their jobs because of personality differences than for any other reason. Many extremely capable workers become classified as unemployable because the importance of good relations with the office staff have never been practiced." she said.

Mrs. Soutter suggested that every working girl could embark on a "home improvement plan".

"In the business world you are not only under an obligation to do a good conscientious job, but part of the bargain is that you look decorative while you are doing it," she said.

"For each of us to improve our social and career positions we must undergo an intense, personal introspection."

"This requires a study in a cold analytical light admitting our weaknesses and recognizing our strengths," she concluded.

At this time chairmen of the various committees were appointed and these included: bulletin, Bonnie Lee Poole; budget, Lena Deacon; by-laws, Lorraine Stanley; civic, Thelma Schlievert; CPS service, Helen Worrell; education, Iris Downey; membership, Joan Wilson; program, Marjory Gross; publicity, Jeanette Hart; secretaries' week, Marlene Phillips; ways and means, Marg Kleinsteuber and historian, Nell Morley. The nominating chairman will be elected at next month's meeting.

A number of guests were also introduced and these were: Marlene Seal of Kerr and Simons Insurance Adjusters; Annis Culloden of the Dept. of National Revenue; Sue Johnston, Hastings County Court House; Marian Hunter and Belle Milloy of Arthur A. Sills; June Broad of Watson and Wingard; Barbara Miller of Pyrotenax, Trenton; Bernice Taviner, CFB Trenton; Lois Brown, The Intelligencer and Donna Walker, Belleville General Hospital. Newest member of the Association is Gail Lundberg, secretary to the credit manager at AOCO Ltd.

Winner of the door prize was Sue Johnston.

TO BUY OR NOT TO BUY? — That is the question facing this mini-skirted lass and countless women across Canada as the mini look is being shunted aside by the midi-length in dresses and coats. Though there is some buyer resistance, retailers in all parts of the country predicts the midi will have taken over completely by winter. (CP Photo)

Cross Canada Survey Reveals Midis to Take Over by Winter

By JEAN SHARP
CP Women's Editor

Lots of women are going around saying: "I'll never wear a midi; I'll never wear a long skirt." Probably they know all the time that they will, though, if the makers and marketers of clothes decree it.

And they have. The spring shows had many midis, and a Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press of fall fashions indicates that Canadian retailers have bought them and expect to sell them.

In Toronto some store owners have told saleswomen they must wear midis at work. One large department store has midi-length uniforms on its elevator operators. While all around town miniskirts and dresses are on sale, the boutiques are showing midis, and—surest sign of all—the occasional midi-length you see worn is on someone chic and attractive.

In other areas, predictions are that the midi will have taken over completely by winter. Though there is some acknowledgement of buyer resistance, only Regina reports minis selling as well as last year. A department store manager there says: "We've sold next to nothing in the new midi length."

Perhaps by way of easing people into accepting the longer lengths, some centres predict a gradual decline of the hemline. A Vancouver fashion expert says hems in coats and dresses are, on the average, two inches longer than they have been.

In St. John's, Nfld., retailers expect a length two inches above the knee will be the big seller for the early months of the fall. Two inches below and mid-calf are expected to be leaders by winter.

In Montreal, all newspaper ads and store mannequins are showing midis or lengths just below the knee now.

An Edmonton boutique operator says: "Even customers who thought they wouldn't, wind up trying a midi on and buying. It makes a woman feel feminine."

The maxi appears to have disappeared, except for the odd appearance as a rain or sports coat in vinyl or tweed.

Sales of pant-suits are booming. One Toronto fashion writer suggests they represent a way out for women not ready to buy a midi length.

They are around in a variety of styles from skin-fitting jump suits to kindlier, many layered versions worn with midi-length sleeveless vests, jackets cropped at the waist and in-between-length tops.

An Edmonton store owner is one of several who say the gaucho look will be big this fall. It features, a la Rudolph Valentino, a midi-length flared pant-skirt, blouse, vest and gaucho hat and boots.

With a few such exceptions, styles generally are clinging. There is no more room for the average amount of pudge in a midi style than there has been in minis.

Fabric favorites in Saint John, N.B., are typical in their tendency to cling. They are knits in polyesters or wool, ariel plus nylon, woven dacron and wool, chiffon and crepe.

Fashion colors are purples, burgundy, mauve and plum, Winnipeg retailers lead their list with red, a Vancouver fashion co-ordinator tops hers with brown, but both add the purples.

Ottawa buyers say the basics will be accompanied by heavy belts and chains, big rings and other jewelry, clunky shoes and big purses of suede and leather.

Costs will be knee- to midi-length with belts and buttons, and slightly flared skirts.

Shoes are chunky, with higher, heavier heels than last year's. Crushed vinyl or soft patent, metallic heels and bright colors are expected to sell well, though the neutral colors are best-sellers as always.

The knee-high fitted boot should continue to lead the field this year in wet-look vinyl or kid. There is some interest in a mid-calf height.

A Month of Menus Computer Custom-Tailored

NEW YORK (AP) — A month's worth of menus, custom-tailored by computer for individual families, is being offered by a California food company to millions of housewives trying to feed their families nutritionally as well as economically.

The offer is called the We'll Help You Make It program. It's being sponsored by Hunt-Wesson Foods, Inc., which says its objective is to help families live successfully within their food budgets while understanding and meeting necessary nutritional standards.

Edward Gelsthorpe, Hunt-Wesson president, says the cost-free program will serve family budgets ranging from under $20 a week to more than $50 a week. He said people of every income group are expected to participate.

The program works this way:

A housewife sends Hunt-Wesson a coupon that is contained in its newspaper and magazine advertisements or available at food stores, noting the amount of money budgeted for a week's groceries and the number of persons in the household in each age category. A computer then goes to work on this information to design 90 meal plans for that family's needs. A readout is mailed to the household.

With the various menus developed by Hunt-Wesson's kitchen staff, about 750 different menu plans could result to cover a variety of situations, the company says.

For those who might look askance at the impersonality of computer-planned meals, a letter accompanying the sample sized that the menu plan is just a guide.

"If you'd rather serve the 14th day's dinner on day 8, go ahead," it says. "Or shuffle all of the menu ideas until you have a plan that pleases you. You're the one who has to live with it."

Actually, a housewife may find the shopping hints on the computer readout sheet of great value even if she doesn't follow the menu plan.

The letter that accompanies the computer sheet with its menus, recipes, and shopping hints points out that grocery stores spend a great deal of money each week advertising special and sale items and this information should be taken advantage of.

"Make a list of the items that attract you and try to create a few days' menus around them. This could be the beginning of some big savings for you.

"Always stay flexible while shopping. You may have been planning to serve pot roast for dinner, but when you get to the store you might find an unadvertised special on lamb. Forget about the pot roast. The name of the game is saving money."

Other advice is more specific. The tip printed next to a dinner menu which has as its main course baked pork chops makes the point that shoulder pork chops cost less than loin or centre-cut chops, but cook just as tender when simmered or baked.

The Experts Say

Today's Washing Machine Has to Be Versatile

OTTAWA (CP) — A washing machine has to be versatile to handle the many fibres, treatments and constructions used in today's washable garments, says a buying guide on washers in The Canadian Consumer.

The magazine, published by the Consumers Association of Canada, says automatic washers account for half the total sales of washing machines in Canada, although wringer washers are still widely used, especially in rural areas which have a water shortage or no plumbing facilities.

The third type of machine, the washer-spin-dryer, is also gaining popularity in rural homes. It consists of one tub with the washer on one side and the spin-dryer adjacent. Rinsing is done by lifting the clothes from the washing tub into the spinner and pouring water through them.

Prices of automatic washers vary greatly and the consumer should budget for charges to install necessary plumbing and a three-prong outlet.

Manufacturers claim capacities ranging from eight to 18 pounds, depending upon weight and bulk of the clothes. All automatic washers have fit filters, but not all of these are self-cleaning.

Special features on some models include dispensers for bleach, fabric softeners and rinse conditioners. It is wise to consider the cost of such extras against your budget.

The article says the lowest-priced automatics are for families with few wash-and-wear or synthetic fabrics. The usual controls on such a machine are only a water temperature selector and a starter.

The medium-priced automatics usually have three wash-water temperatures and two agitator and spin speeds.

De luxe models have a single selection of the proper cycle for the type of fabric and load to be washed. These "programmed" washers lack flexibility for special washing needs, but some machines are partially programmed and permit more washing flexibility.

One of the most important points to look for in a wringer washer is the emergency release that loosens wringer pressure. It should be easy to reach from wherever you are standing while doing the laundry and should react to the slightest pressure.

Controls should be easy to reach and operate and control of pressure on the rollers is an important feature.

A good test in the store is to swing the wringer to all positions and see whether the washer tends to fall over with the weight of the action. If it does, try another line that has better balance.

Also watch for: a motor switch that controls the action; gravity draining or pump-driven draining; casters if necessary; smooth and rounded edges everywhere; and a plainly marked water line.

The spinner in the third type of machine, the washer-spin-dryer, whirls at high speed to extract water from one load while another is being washed. The water goes back into the washer or is drained. In most models, the spinner can be used for rinsing.

The water supply comes from an ordinary tap which should have a threaded fitting to take the washer hose.

These machines are usually more expensive than the wringer machines and they take up more space.

The article also says that the guarantee or warranty that comes with a washer should be for at least a year, and more for transmission parts. Ask about the guarantee on the whole equipment and on parts. Make sure there is a service centre available to you, for the particular model you buy.

Bourassa Presents Familiar Demands in Different Manner

OTTAWA (CP) — The substance of Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa's position on constitutional reform differs little from that of his predecessors, but the 37-year-old economist has shown a new style in putting forward his provincial demands.

Mr. Bourassa came to his first constitutional conference seeking as much and in some areas more than the late Daniel Johnson and Jean-Jacques Bertrand.

But the Quebec Liberal leader's tone was more conciliatory than that of his Union Nationale predecessors, reflecting his often-stated intention of getting to the root of the issues facing Quebec instead of engaging in showmanship and quarrels.

Prime Minister Trudeau, annoyed often by the approach of Quebec's former Union Nationale government to constitutional reform, expressed satisfaction with the 27-page outline of Mr. Bourassa's position presented Monday, the opening day of the conference.

Mr. Trudeau described the statement as "a clear commitment for federalism" and said he was encouraged because "there's no more hedging."

In substance, however, Mr. Bourassa was as aggressive as Mr. Johnson and Mr. Bertrand.

He said Quebec wants "a flexible federalism which will express our true freedom as Quebecers within the structures of a dynamic participation in the great plans involving Canada as a whole."

He rejected Quebec independence as a workable option, but said the Canadian federal system must show "strict respect for the special characteristics of our culture and the aspirations of the Quebec community."

Mr. Bourassa sought Quebec participation in "the process of decisions of the central government which have a significant impact on the economic, social and cultural development of Quebec."

He said he expected "enough political maturity" on the part of the federal government and the other provinces "to appreciate what the stakes are in this federal challenge we put before our fellow-citizens on the occasion of the April 29 election."

He supported his appeal with a warning that Quebec "will not tolerate any longer either the excessive slowness of the revision procedure of our constitution, or the lingering chaos which stems from it."

It remains to be seen whether Mr. Bourassa's words will be heeded. Although he emerged from the conference's closing session Tuesday saying the other Canadian governments had agreed to speed up the process of constitutional reform, other participants seemed less enthusiastic.

A statement issued by the conference at its close Tuesday said that while it is important to continue and complete the rewriting of the constitution as quickly as possible, "it was nevertheless recognized that it would be unrealistic to expect an early completion of the task. . . ."

Some other premiers, especially John Roberts of Ontario, feel the priority now is the working out of a formula for amending the constitution without having to appeal to the British Parliament.

Mr. Bourassa said Tuesday Quebec is ready to discuss "the possibility of an amending formula," but feels the matter is "very complex and very difficult."

He wants the constitutional conference to get on with the revision process as its first order of business.

He was pleased that the conference had accepted a proposal by Saskatchewan Premier Ross Thatcher that bilateral meetings be held between Ottawa and Quebec to negotiate a new constitution.

The conference went beyond Mr. Thatcher's original proposal in approving meetings of two or more of the 11 governments to discuss constitutional reform.

QUESTION: We are going to be visiting Ottawa. While there, we would like to take a trip up the Gatineau. Can you give us any details about the Gatineau Park?

ANSWER: Just north of Hull between the Gatineau and Ottawa Rivers, Gatineau Park comprises about 88,000 acres of the rocky wooded area known as the Canadian, or Laurentian, Shield. A haven for nature lovers, Gatineau Park is a project of the National Capital Commission. Once the domain of the Algonquin Indians, the territory was invaded by the Iroquois Confederacy about 1650. During the 19th century, settlers from the United States, the British Isles and eastern Canada arrived. Evidence of their habitation may still be found, but the park is being returned to its native states. There are 45 types of trees in the largely deciduous forests, as well as 100 varieties of wildflowers. Park wild life within the game sanctuary includes such species as squirrel, chipmunk and raccoon and, in fewer numbers, deer and black bear. Many rocks within the park were brought to the area millions of years ago by an immense icecap which, assisted by other forces, dotted the area with 44 lakes. Lakes Meach, Philippe and Lapeche provide fishing for black bass and trout; Quebec fishing license required. Lac Philippe and Lac Lapeche offer swimming and boating; camping at Lac Philippe and at Taylor Lake; free. Free outdoor concerts singers and instrumentalists. Check locally for hours.

QUESTION: I am going to be in San Francisco next month and understand that driving in the city can present some unusual hazards. Can you give me any tips on this?

ANSWER: In driving around San Francisco, remember that Market Street, the main thoroughfare, runs diagonally through the city; visitors often forget this and lose their sense of direction. Major east-west arteries are Bush and Pine, one-way streets with synchronized traffic signals; Bush goes into the city; the numbered avenues are in the western part. The many one-way streets make a street map particularly helpful. The downtown speed limit is 25 m.p.h., or as posted, 15 m.p.h. at blind intersections. Unless a sign explicitly prohibits, it is legal to turn right at a red light after coming to a full stop. Rush hours, 7 to 9 a.m. and 4 to 6 p.m., should be avoided if possible.

Parking in hilly San Francisco is strictly regulated and rules are strictly enforced. Besides posted tow-away signs, he color of the curb also governs parking. Red means no parking whatsoever. Green and yellow indicate limited parking, usually only while loading or unloading passengers. White curbs, often found at entrances to public buildings, are limiting only while the given building is in use.

It is unlawful to park any vehicle on any grade exceeding 3 percent without effectively setting the brakes and blocking the wheels by turning them against the curb or by other means. In parking uphill, the front wheels must be "headed" or turned out so that a tire is resting against the curb; when parking downhill, they must be "toed", or turned in. If there is no curb, a block must be used. The emergency brake must be used and firmly set; it is strongly recommended that motorists have their brakes thoroughly checked before driving or parking in San Francisco.

Marijuana Penalties Are Eased

HAMILTON (CP) — Justice Minister John Turner says fines, not jail sentences, have become the method of punishing nearly all persons convicted for possession of marijuana or hashish.

"We don't want to send a generation to jail and we're not doing so," he said in an interview, elaborating on a speech made last week at the opening of the fall term of the Ontario Supreme Court.

"In our current practice we are going by way of summary conviction for simple possession of marijuana and hashish and I'd say that close to 100 per cent don't involve jail terms.

"And if there is a summary conviction, then under the new Criminal Records Act the individual can apply in two years' time to have the record wiped out."

The act provides for making application to the solicitor-general for a pardon, granted to anyone who has generally behaved himself since the conviction.

The act applies to federal law violations. Those convicted in a summary proceeding can apply in two years and those found guilty of indictable crimes must wait five years.

The Narcotics Control Act was relaxed a year ago to permit the summary prosecution of drug users, but not traffickers.

Mr. Turner declined to comment directly on a report in which two Toronto legal researchers said inconsistency by doctors in applying the year-old federal abortion law was forcing women to go "hospital-shopping" for an abortion.

THE BETTER HALF — By Bob Barnes

"You never did catch on to the fact that all my old love letters were mimeographed, did you?"

Nixon Suggests Unions Shed U.S. Controls

HAMILTON (CP) — Ontario Liberal Leader Robert Nixon Tuesday appealed to organized labor to lead in developing a Canadian identity by freeing itself from some of the controls exercised by international unions.

"There are 101 international unions in the country, which in fact, means American unions which have affiliates in Canada," Mr. Nixon said at a Liberal party dinner here.

"Compare that with 59 national unions, the majority of which serve the public service workers."

"I am not objecting to affiliation with international unions—I am saying that within those organizations Canadian workers should be considered autonomous in many major areas."

He appealed to unions to seek the power to elect their own directors to international executives; to elect Canadian executives to deal independently on behalf of Canadian workers; to conduct their own labor-management negotiations, speak for Canadian workers on Canadian facts and ratify their own contracts.

"Canadian directors should have jurisdiction and control over funds raised from union members in Canada," he said. "Where unions are affiliated the international unions should still receive a proper share of funds . . . but the cheques should be signed by Canadians . . . and Canadian funds should be invested, according to priorities determined by Canadians."

Mr. Nixon listed the United Steelworkers, Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Association of Machinists and Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks as unions in this country that must send their contracts to be ratified in the U.S.

Wjlle they operate Canadian affairs which are effective in many ways, final decisions on contract matters are made in the U.S., Mr. Nixon said. Other unions cannot elect a Canadian director for Canadian affairs without international approval. While Canadians have a democratic vote and voice at international conferences, they can have little influence at meetings which are 95 per cent American.

The percentage of dues collected from Canadian members and turned over to the American-based International ranges from 10 to 75 per cent, Mr. Nixon said, and while this helps create strike funds of benefit to Canadian workers, "we can legitimately ask ourselves whether in fact our workers have control of the decisions which affect them as Canadian workers."

A text of Mr. Nixon's address was released in advance of delivery.

Public Service Union Advocates Changes in Law

OTTAWA (CP) — The Public Service Alliance of Canada today urged Prime Minister Trudeau to consider changes in collective bargaining legislation for the public service.

A letter signed by Claude Edwards, president of the alliance, to the prime minister, recommends the government remove restrictions on the scope of bargaining and broaden the power of arbitration tribunals to include areas now forbidden them under the law.

The Library Corner

By O. D.

Pregnancy, should be a healthy, happy time. Childbearing is a natural process, the supreme physical function of womanhood. The fifth edition of Expectant Motherhood incorporates the principal advances made in maternity care over recent years to the end that this volume may serve as a modern guidebook for expectant mothers.

A CHILD IS BORN Text by Dr. Aen Dally. Photographs by Ronald Sweeney.

This book is a remarkable record of a baby's birth. The pictures, taken by a young Dutch photographer at his own wife's confinement, show in astonishing detail every stage in a normal delivery, from the onset of labor to the moment when the baby, washed and dressed, is handed to its mother. A Child is Born, introduced by one of Britain's leading obstetricians, will be an invaluable guide to parents and parents-to-be, as well as a useful aid to all those concerned with preparing mothers for childbirth.

STRONG FAMILY, STRONG CHILD by Barry Bricklin, Ph. D., and Patricia M. Bricklin, Ph.D.

Barry and Patricia Bricklin — psychologists and parents — emphasize the thesis of their new book, strong families produce strong childhood. Ooa says, what is a strong family? In their book the Bricklins maintain a strong family is one that is organized, not chaotic. Organization means each person knows his duties and discharges them — and knows and respects his limits as well as those of fellow members.

YOUR CHILD AND YOU by Arnold Arnold

Most contemporary parents are constantly searching for answers to the many questions posed by their children's birth, growth, development and education. This book outlines the most fruitful practices according to the best available research and information of the moment, considered in the light of present-day conditions and needs of parents and children.

CHILDREN'S HOUSE — Parent-Teacher Guide to Montessori by Kenneth Edelson

There are few subjects of greater interest to parents and teachers than discipline. Maria Montessori, developer of the Montessori Method, believed that the only true discipline is "active" or "inner discipline," which is developed by the child himself as he works at interesting tasks at home or at school.

FAITH IN FAMILIES — Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

The time has come for renewal of faith in families. For too long they have borne the brunt of bearing and rearing children, educating them in a difficult world situation, with little credit and appreciation. Society has to have families in order to survive. George Bernard Shaw once cynically observed that parents are the worst people in the world to have children. Dr. Duvall points out that the family has survived longer than any other institution and that children, adults, and all nations need what today's families have to offer.

THE DIFFICULT CHILD — edited by Joseph Roucek

The creative child is without question a difficult child. Parents do not want their children to be considered different or peculiar, and teachers try to make them conform to behavioral norms or become socially well-adjusted. There is much in this book that will help and guide a wide number of parents and teachers.

Duke Probe Bar Asked

TORONTO (CP) — Lawyers in an inquiry into alleged connections between the provincial police and men associated with organized crime today moved into the Ontario Court of Appeal.

Three Harvey Dalier, counsel for Oakville, Ont., businessman George Duke, was to apply for an order to restrain Mr. Justice Campbell Grant from continuing the inquiry.

Mr. Dalier argues that testimony given at the inquiry could be prejudicial to Duke, who is involved in a libel case.

Mr. Justice Grant said Tuesday the inquiry would resume at 3 p.m. today unless the Appeal Court rules otherwise.

Mr. Dalier told the hearing Tuesday that he would call Mrs. Duke to the stand to testify that the evidence of Elizabeth Citron, linking his client with ties for provincial police officers and alleged gangsters, has been "a pack of lies."

The lawyer said Mrs. Duke has denied making any of the statements attributed to her in testimony during the last two days.

"I am sorry if it has come to that," Mrs. Citron said during cross-examination. "If she now says that, it is because she is in fear of her life. She told me before the trial she was 100 per cent behind me."

The trial mentioned was at Milton, Ont., last December when Duke pleaded guilty to a charge of threatening Mrs. Citron. He was ordered to post a $2,000 bond to keep the peace and was prohibited from carrying firearms outside his home.

The inquiry followed statements last June to a legislature committee by Dr. Morton Shulman, New Democratic Party member for Toronto High Park, that Duke was on friendly terms with OPP officers and with men associated with organized crime.

Suppliers Of GM Pinched

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — Suppliers of General Motors of Canada Ltd. plants began to feel the pinch today—the second day of a strike against the automotive giant by 27,000 workers in Canada and more than 360,000 in the United States.

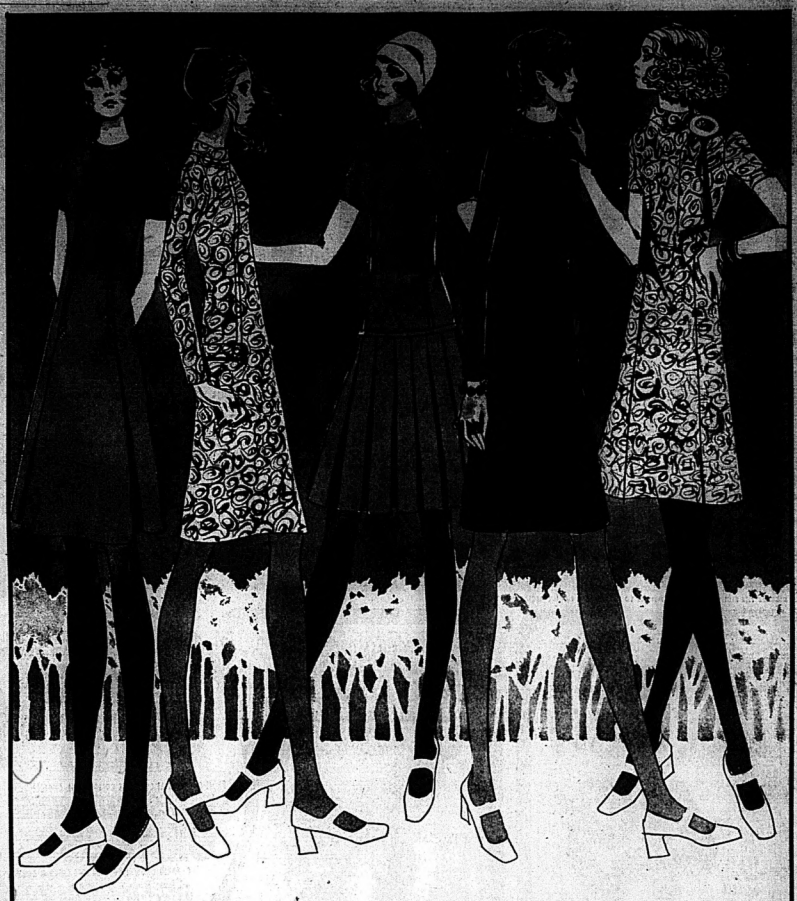
Meanwhile, GM pickets here said they are preparing for a long strike and many said they had built up savings in expectation of a lengthy work stoppage.

"The company isn't going to give in very quickly this time, said Donald Doyd, a welder in the plant since 1961. "They're going to let us stay out for a while until we get good and hungry."

At GM's car assembly plant at St. Therese, Que., workers said they are having no problems getting extra jobs in the bush or at a federal airport construction site 20 miles north.

Russia May Finance Tractors

OAKVILLE (CP) — M. V. Bazilli, president of Twin Lake Tractors Ltd., said Tuesday he is considering Russian financing for Canadians who want to buy imported Russian tractors.



Mr. Bazilli, who imported 50 medium-ranged tractors from Russia last year and sold only 25, said his company's efforts to sell the machines have been blocked.

He would not say who was doing the blocking but said it was difficult for Canadians to get financing agreements in order to buy the tractors on credit.

In a telephone interview, he said the tractors—55- and 70-horsepower models—retailed for $3,550 and $4,900 respectively, 35 per cent less than the same type of tractors being sold on the Canadian market.

The Topic Is Unity

Anglican Canon Ralph Lattimer (centre) and United Church's Dr. Robert Craig drew more than 200 listeners and debators as they outlined plan for church unity at St. Thomas' Parish Hall last night. Audience of all ages included (above, from left).. Sharon Moynes, Thom Wills and Lynda Murray.

Church Union Topic

Anglican-United Meeting Attracts More Than 200

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Members of two of the Quinte district's leading Christian communities last night were cautioned that church denominationalism is inadequate in the modern world.

But concern of both clergy and their congregations with purely local church problems and practices is one of the major current obstacles to church unity.

The warnings came from two leading Canadian churchmen assigned to a historic mission that could revolutionize the Anglican and United Church communities — church unity.

For Anglican Canon Ralph Lattimer and the United Church's Dr. Robert Craig — commissioners on unity for their respective churches — last night marked their first visit to Belleville this year.

It was also their most involved — placing them before more than 200 district churchgoers and clergy at two local nominations at St. Thomas Parish Hall.

The two-hour confrontation generated a debate that a was both clergymen not only discuss the effects of unity on both churches but warn of its necessity.

"In a very real way we live in a world that demands a united approach," said Dr. Craig, "because denominationalism is no longer adequate in our time."

Church communities have become prone to placing emphasis in the wrong directions, he indicated.

"We have erred in the last 100 years in identifying the church with the building we use as the church. For people are the church," he said.

But, he added, there was "lack of concern on the part of clergy and laity" with inter-outside local involvement.

The non-involvement exacted to the "area of thousands" seeking a fulfillment "meaningless" pursuits — from drugs to homosexuality, said Dr. Craig.

"There's not sufficient concern on these things in Canada," he said. "Our denominationalism turns us inward."

The latest Belleville meeting was one in a continuing cross-Canada dialogue involving both clergymen since they were appointed to their task two years ago — the last night's session also permitted them to detail their discoveries and possible trends that have evolved in that time.

They gave the outline of the unity movement to date:

Various joint groups appointed by both churches now are engaged in devising a plan of unity, grappling with the intricacies of doctrine and administration. The first draft will be ready next year, for distribution throughout both church communities. Expected reviewers will take at least a year and a final plan is deadlined for spring, 1973.

This should stimulate more activity toward a decision on unity Dr. Craig said, after last night's meeting.

With the existence of a definite plan "people are going to have to face up to things and see that they're going to have to do something," he said.

Meantime, however, trends toward unity are in evidence at various points in Canada, last night's meeting indicated.

Churches already are sharing resources to overcome common problems in part of Saskatchewan, Vancouver and Northern Ontario — a co-operative movement that at times extends beyond Anglican and United Church congregations.

Indeed, said Dr. Craig, nothing will be inserted in the plan of union to prevent "closer co-operation" with other churches.

Neither commissioner estimated how long progress toward the ultimate goal of total unity would take.

But Dr. Craig emphasized that the pledge is toward "complete organic union" and the dissidence of a "significant minority", would have to be examined.

"The prospect of leaving a continuing United Church or Anglican Church of Canada is not pleasing or interesting to any of us involved at the present time.

"Our hope is that the plan of union will be acceptable to all except to that minority who will never change, and will seek familiarity in other places.

While total consent was always impossible to achieve, he believed at least 90 percent of church members would be involved in eventual union.

Canon Lattimer also indicated that the trend to union was increasing among world churches.

Since 1925 until recently, there were 149 church communities involved in 31 union negotiations. Of these Anglicans participated in only a single movement.

Currently there are 39 union negotiations underway in various parts of the world. The Anglican Church now is involved in 19.

Significantly, he added, not one of the unions thus achieved has dissolved or generated splinter groups.

Union does not signify uniformity, said Dr. Craig. Neither is it an opiate between beliefs.

"It is not a choice between isms," he emphasized.

Neither is it sufficient for Christians to say they are spiritually united.

"God made Himself visible," he said. The church is visible — and it is the way it is visible that counts.

While divided Christians give the impression that "we preach unity — but we are not together."

The two-hour debate — organized by a study group of St. Thomas Anglican Church and Bridge Street United Church members — engaged both members in a wide range of questions on effects of union, ranging from baptism to the forms of church services.

Even the future of women in church service was discussed — an issue the unity commissions now are tackling, Canon Lattimer indicated.

But, commented one woman, Jesus did not appoint women among his apostles.

"He also didn't appoint a Gentile," noted Canon Lattimer. "He only appointed Jews — and yet we have a great many non-Jewish people in the membership of our ministry today."

Liberals Meeting Tonight

PICTON (Staff) — W. R. Menzies, director of publicity and research for the Prince Edward - Hastings Liberal Association has named Picton lawyer William B. Lane as an expected contender for the association's presidency. Other candidates for this office vacated by Bellevillian Donald Jones include Anthony Dalcar, Batawa, and Mr. Menzies.

A member of Picton town council, Mr. Lane has been vice-president of the riding association for two consecutive terms.

The association will conduct its annual meeting tonight in the Batawa recreation hall with several resolutions slated for discussion. One of these states that if a guaranteed annual income is introduced in Canada, senior workers should be given priority in taking advantage of it. This would permit young persons to help with the alleviating unemployment problems. Mr. Menzies observed that the sponsor of this resolution felt that it would be more feasible economically to retire older workers sooner, supplementing their pensions, than to pay healthy young men annual sums to do nothing because of job shortages.

Liberal candidate for the Prince Edward - Hastings riding is George Cunningham, former reeve of Ameliasburg and a trackman at Trenton High School.

He was defeated in the 1968 election by Conservative opponent George Hees.

Game Preserve Open Saturday

WAUPOOS (Staff) — A Prince Edward County farmer catering to hunters with a taste for pheasant under glass, this month will open the Waupoos Island hunting preserve stocked with 1,200 birds.

Bert Thissen, RR 4, Picton plans to open his 200 - acre game preserve to sportsmen this Saturday. It will remain open to December 15 and, weather permitting, will continue to welcome hunters until the end of March.

Mr. Thissen offers three fee plans to interested sportsmen, the first an $80 club membership. This fee enables each hunter to shoot ten pheasants and allows him to hunt ducks in season on the 300 acre preserve and along its five miles of lakeshore property. Extra pheasants shot will cost the hunter an additional $5.50 per bird. The club membership plan is limited to ten hunters.

A $55 club membership permits hunters to shoot ten pheasants but does not include duck hunting rights. Pheasants must be shot by mid-December under both plans. A third fee plan does not give membership to the hunter but will permit him to shoot a minimum of two pheasants at $6 each. Ther is no limit to the number of birds shot in this fee plan. No Sunday shooting is allowed on the hunting preserve. Mr. Thissen has stocked his preserve with 1,200 birds that he has reared. He observed that eventually he hopes to fill his south from Highway 401. The first property — an old quarry owned by J. Bolt — is already under option with parks board plans being to develop it as a rock garden.

Approve Greenbelt Plan

Belleville city council this week gave its green light authorizing the Moira River Conservation Authority to enter negotiations for the purchase of property on the west bank of the Moira River and south of Highway 401 for the purpose of flood plain and greenbelt development.

A provincial grant of 75 per cent is available for property purchase with the city to pay 90 per cent of the remaining 25 per cent. Ten per cent of the Authority's 25 per cent share would be borne by the whole Authority.

The Authority will seek to acquire west bank property south of the Moira Bridge on Highway 401. The first property — an old quarry owned by J. Bolt — is already under option with parks board plans being to develop it as a rock garden.

Following purchase by the Authority, the river bank property would be leased to the city for a nominal $1 per year.

The hope of the parks board is to eventually acquire the entire west bank property of the Moira between the highway and College Street for development as a greenbelt area.

Resold School Now Renamed

Tweed's former high school already the subject of as many changes as a chameleon on tartan underwent another Monday night.

Its new name was changed to a newer one — Tweed - Hungerford Senior School.

The school was closed as a secondary institution last June, sold to the separate school board, scheduled for re-opening as a kindergarten-through grade-10 school, sold back to the public system for a senior elementary school and re-named S. H. Connor Senior School.

The reason for the name, said assistant superintendent Frank Tate, was to make the existing S. H. Connor school and the new building "as one".

But the trustee from the area, Laurison Gunning, reminded the board of other considerations.

The Tweed-Hungerford board joined the S. H. Connor board before amalgamation of individual jurisdictions into the county unit, bringing about $92,000 with it. The idea behind the merger was a new school.

"I think the people of Hungerford deserve some consideration in the name," said Mr. Gunning.

The S. H. Connor name had never been applied officially to the former high school, so trustees quickly passed a motion bestowing the title Tweed - Hungerford Senior School on the building.

Mr. Tate told the board the Junior elementary school was named after S. H. Connor, who was principal there for 44 years. He retired about eight years ago and still lives in the village.

Dancers Need Tape Recorder

Anybody got a tape recorder in good working order that they would like to donate to a worthy cause?

If so, Mrs. George Weymark, 176 Herchimer Ave., volunteer worker with the Quinte Branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association would like to hear from them.

A project of members of the local association is to entertain former patients of the Ontario Hospital at Kingston, now being accommodated in nursing homes throughout the Quinte area.

One of the forms of entertainment is square dancing but the problem is to get music of the proper tempo. Records are not satisfactory as their speed is too fast.

Quinte branch members entertain at five nursing homes at Picton, West Lake, Madoc, Trenton and Belleville, with more than 100 patients being involved.

Entertainment activities at the five nursing homes have now been resumed following a summer recess and branch members would welcome a tape recorder as an aid.

Mrs. Weymarks telephone number is 968-8296.

Fire Prevention Has New Symbol — Busy Beaver

Sparky, the fire prevention symbol is retiring from active service in Canada but will remain as the emblem in the United States.

In Belleville and in other parts of Canada Busy Beaver will be making himself familiar to the public as a fire prevention symbol.

The new caricature is the answer to a request by Canada's fire prevention officers for a distinctly Canadian symbol. Busy Beaver was the idea of the Ontario Safety League.

Designed mainly for children, Busy Beaver comes dressed in a firemen's hat and a superman - style suit and cape with the initials "bb" on his clothing.

October marks the first time Busy Beaver will be seen by Belleville's public in connection with fire prevention.

Fire Prevention week opens on Oct. 4 and runs through Oct. 10, commemorating as it always does, the Great Chicago fire.

Open House On Sunday

The Quinte Branch of the Ontario Humane Society will hold its first ever open house Sunday at the branch's kennel quarters at RR 2, Belleville.

The open house will enable the public to take a tour of the building and observe the new facilities installed for the care and comfort of animals.

Belleville and area citizens will also be treated to a dog obedience demonstration by the Belleville and District Kennel Club. Children will have an opportunity to enter a take of pony trot rides, weather permitting.

The idea is to let the public observe the building's new facilities, according to Mrs. Frank Martin, Humane Society spokesman.

The Society's first open house will open at 1:00 p.m. and will run until five p.m. Refreshments will be served.

Lightfoot Awarded Paving Contract

Subject to Ontario Department of Highways approval, Lightfoot Construction Ltd. of Belleville, has been awarded the paving contract for the 1.6 mile rebuilt section of Wallbridge-Loyalist Road.

The Lightfoot tender for $23,909 was approved yesterday by the Hastings and Belleville Suburban Road Commission. The bid was the lowest of two tenders received.

The work is expected to be completed by about Oct. 15. The contract calls for pavement 24 feet wide with crushed gravel shoulders.

Paving of the Wallbridge-Loyalist Road between Highway 2 and the double C N R tracks, will complete a three-year rebuilding project which included widening, construction of a new bridge over Moira Creek and installation of automatic crossing protection over the CPR tracks.

Hastings Liberals Will Delay Naming Candidate

Hastings Liberals have decided not to select a federal candidate to contest the riding so early before an election campaign.

The decision was registered last night as the annual meeting of the Hastings Liberal Association turned down a proposal to hold a nomination convention Oct. 17.

The recommendation — originally drafted by the riding executive — was turned down after a warning that it was premature to name a candidate before prospects of an election had been determined.

Frank Fairbairn, Hastings association member and a former MP, said Liberals needed more time to fully develop an organization in the riding's polls, before embarking on a nominating convention.

The meeting also returned another political veteran to head the association.

Robert Temple, former MP of the riding of Hastings South riding, and four times a Liberal campaigner, was named association president.

Mr. Temple said afterward that work would begin immediately to organize liaison between the riding's various local Liberal groups, including women and youth organizations.

Other new executive members are: Louis Maraskas, executive vice-president; Kay Dixon, women's vice-president; Robert Sills, vice-president, representing young Liberals; Joel Maser, secretary, and Roly Belanger, treasurer.

Mr. Sills, of RR2, Stirling, is the son of the late Roy Sills, a leading Hastings County Liberal who contested the 1963 provincial election in Hastings East.

The Talk Is Politics

Former MP and political veteran Robert Temple, last night elected president of Hastings Liberals, talks organization with executive newcomer Robert Sills, representing young Liberals. Mr. Sills is son of late Roy Sills, once Liberal provincial candidate in old East Hastings riding.

Bruins Bring Scientist to Make Camp Selections Easier

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Boston Bruins turned guinea pigs Tuesday, but it was all for science.

The National Hockey League's Stanley Cup champions are taking part in a pilot program that will eventually aid hockey scouts in determining the future of prospective professional players.

"Let's face it," asked Ed Enos, director of physical education at Loyola University, in Montreal which is conducting the tests with Boston University, "if Bobby Orr can't pass it, who can't?"

Orr, the NHL scoring champion and star defenceman, and other Bruins are taking part in the test which measures the fundamental skills of hockey-skating, shooting, stickhandling and passing.

The program requires shooting as many pucks as possible into a goal from 25 feet away within a 15-second period, freeskating through a series of rubber tires, then skating through the same obstacle course with a puck and comparing the time difference, as well as passing skills.

The Bruins are working out at Lonton, Ont., with their Central Hockey League farm club, Oklahoma City Blazers.

Enos said the chief aim of the program is to take the guesswork out of determining a hockey player's ability.

"Let's say it's a scientific approach to the game ... at least more scientific than we've been used to the last 50 years," said Enos.

"The tests are designed to show a coach the player's strengths as well as his weaknesses."

He said a coach can keep charts on the player's progress at those same skills over a one-month period, for two months, a season or several seasons.

The tests are being conducted in leagues from bantam-age groups, through high school, college and junior-pro leagues.

Buffalo Sabres, one of two new teams entering the league this year, suffered their second serious training camp casualty Tuesday when Al Hamilton broke a small bone in his left foot.

The defenceman, who stopped a shot by Jim Watson during a scrimmage, was inadvertently involved in the Sabres' first casualty Monday at their Peterborough, Ont., camp.

He deflected a shot by veteran Ed Hoekstra that caught the face mask of rookie goaltender Rocky Farr, fracturing Farr's cheekbone.

New York Ranger's general manager Emile Francis isn't griping about injuries. His main concern now is the player limit.

French wants to see the league raise the limit to 17 skaters and two goalies. The present rules call for 16 players and two goalies.

He said a vote on the matter already has been taken, the results of which should be known next month. Eight of the 14 teams must approve the rule change.

The Rangers are working out at Kitchener, Ont.

In Winnipeg, general manager Wren Blair watched his Minnesota North Stars working out and was particularly impressed with the veterans and some of the newcomers.

He noted particularly the efforts of winger Murray Oliver, obtained in the offseason from Toronto Maple Leafs, centre Walt McKechnie and winger-turned-centre Bobby Rousseau, another acquisition from Montreal Canadiens.

Philadelphia Flyers' Gary Dornhoefer was missing from his club's full scrimmage at Quebec City. The Flyers' leading scorer last season, with 35 points, is recovering from a knee operation to remove a torn cartilage.

Suderman Takes Long Way to Hamilton

HAMILTON (CP) — Dick Suderman finally reached Hamilton Tuesday.

The huge end arrived in a Calgary Stampeder uniform, a key cog in the stingiest defensive unit in the Canadian Football League.

The Stampeders hope to use Hamilton, Tiger-Cats tonight in pursue their drive to the top of the Western Football Conference in an interlocking game at Civic Stadium.

The game will be televised nationally by CTV starting at 8 p.m. EDT.

Suderman was traded to the Ticats before the 1969 season in exchange for defensive halfback Bill Redell. He refused to report, however, and sat out last season.

Then, before the 1970 season started, Hamilton traded his CFL rights back to Calgary in exchange for the Stampeders' first college draft choice in 1971.

Calgary has allowed the opposition only 199 points in eight season games, an average of fewer than 13 a game.

"If Ticats win," said Stampeder coach Jim Duncan Tuesday night, "they'll have to have the best defensive team in Canada."

He credits a big rush up the middle by John Helton, with Suderman and Craig Koleman constituting the outside running and safety Howard Starks with Calgary's effective defence.

Starks became the safety last year when quarterback Jerry Keeling moved to offence, replacing the departed Peter Liske. Keeling had been one of the outstanding CFL safeties for years while waiting his opportunity to run the team's offence.

"Wayne Harris is better than ever, too," said Duncan, referring to the 10-year veteran linebacker who twice has been voted Canada's outstanding lineman.

The Ticats, meanwhile, got the medical OK for linebacker Bob Krouse and defensive back Ted Page to dress for tonight's game. Both were injured Sunday in Hamilton's 39-23 loss to Montreal Alouettes in Eastern Football Conference play.

Quarterback Joe Zuger is expected to start despite jamming the thumb on his throwing hand in the Montreal game. X-rays indicated no serious damage.

Zuger's backup man, John Eckman, is on the limp with a muscle strain in his leg which restricts his running.

One milestone is on the line tonight.

Calgary placekicker Larry Robinson, another 10-year man with the Stamps, is after his 700th career point. He has 695, including 37 this season.

Lakers Do Some Fading In Lacrosse Final Opener

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — Coach Bobby Allan isn't particularly worried that his Peterborough Lakers are down one game in the best-of-seven Canadian senior lacrosse final.

The Lakers got off to a fast start but petered out in the late going to drop a 16-12 decision to New Westminster Salmonbellies before 4,000 fans in Queens Park arena Tuesday night.

But Allan said later he was satisfied with his team's performance, particularly in view of it being the Lakers' first game in 10 days.

"We'll win our share of games before the series is over," he said.

Second game in the Mann Cup series will be played Thursday and the third, Saturday. The fourth game is set for Monday, with other games, if necessary, scheduled Sept. 22, 24 and 26. All games will be played here.

Allan said goaltender Pat Baker was not up to par in the opening game and has not fully recovered from a recent virus infection.

He said the Salmonbellies surprised him with their heavy checking and that he will likely bring in 200-pound defenceman Ron Liaconis from Brooklin Redmen for the remainder of the series.

The Lakers also got off to a slow start in last year's final against New Westminster, but fought back to win the series in seven games.

Allan said the New Westminster players who hurt the Lakers most were forward Paul Perrelli, an ex-Peterborough player, who scored four goals, and 220-pound Al Lewthwaite, who stopped incoming Peterborough forwards with jarring checks.

New Westminster coach Cliff Sepka said he was pleased with his team's effort and did not plan any lineup changes for the second game.

Both clubs came out of the opener injury free.

The Salmonbellies will likely pay closer attention to Peterborough's John Davis in the second game.

Davis scored four goals in the opener and put on one of the best stick-handling displays seen in the West in several years.

Tim O'Grady and Cy Coombes each scored twice for the losers, with Carm Collins, Chuck Li, Joe Todd and Gregg Marchen rounding out the 12-goal total.

It was 5-5 at the end of the first period, 11-9 for Bellen after two.

'Curtains' For Five

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A mini cold war hovered over the world weightlifting championships today after officials Tuesday night disqualified five competitors—all from Iron Curtain countries—on charges of taking stimulants.

Delegation leaders from the Soviet Union, Poland ND Hungary, the nations whose weightlifters were disqualified, threatened to quit the championships and take their squads home.

Among those charged with taking the stimulant phenylethylamine were Sandor Holcsreiter of Hungary, who won the 1970 flyweight crown on the opening night Saturday.

Of the first three finishers in the flyweight and bantamweight divisions, only bantamweight king Mohammad Nassiri was not stripped of his medal.

Disqualified after urine specimen tests proved positive, in addition to Holcsreiter, were flyweights Walter Szotyseck of Poland and V. Smetanin of the U.S.S.R., and bantamweights Imre Foldi of Hungary and Henry Trebicki of Poland.

Nobody Less' head of the Soviet delegation, called the tests "a frame up." He said the U.S.S.R. team, the defending champions, are considering leaving the event which extends through Sunday unless the methods of testing are changed.

Stewart Has Flashbacks

MONTREAL (CP) — Jackie Stewart is 31, travels around the world, makes maybe $200,000 a year and is reigning Formula 1 world champion.

But Sunday in the Canadian Grand Prix at Le Circuit Mont Tremblant he gets a chance to move closer to his second consecutive world championship.

At a news conference earlier this week, the Scotland-born driver told reporters how his March V8 finished second in the Italian Grand Prix at Monza Sept. 6 and beat the Ferrari of winner Clay Regazzoni would be hard to beat in the remaining three Grand Prix races.

Then somebody mentioned the accident that killed Jochen Rindt.

Stewart talked quietly of watching the Austrian leader of this year's series being brought in after crashing into a guard rail at 180 miles an hour during practice.

Soon his fingers started tapping as he thought of how Rindt might have been saved.

"His jugular vein was cut and there are two things that happen-you lose all your blood and then air gets into what's left of the bloodstream.

"But they had all the equipment to handle that in the GP medical unit 20 yards away.

"And they put him in a bloody ambulance and drove 45 miles to Milan instead."

He said the Italians "don't want their insurance people to think they aren't properly equipped." The fact that the medical unit is British may also have been a factor.

The medical unit available at Monza was created five years ago after Stewart himself suffered a bad accident.

He was trapped in his car for 45 minutes while gasoline stripped the skin off his body, and when he was taken back to what was called a medical centre he was laid on the floor with the doctors away.

Finally he was put in an ambulance but the police escort lost the ambulance and the ambulance lost the way and 45 minutes were wasted.

Two years ago, Stewart lost a close friend when world champion Jim Clark was killed.

With Rindt's death he lost another.

Lotus Team Withdraws

MONTREAL (CP) — The Lotus racing team from England withdrew Tuesday from the Canadian Grand Prix for Formula 1 cars Sunday at the Le Circuit track, 90 miles north of here.

The withdrawal of the two Team Lotus cars was announced by Bob Hanna, executive director of the Canadian Automobile Sports Club, after he received a telegram from the teams manager Peter Warr.

Jochen Rindt, the 28-year-old Austrian who led the Lotus team, was killed Sept. 5 during practice for the Italian Grand Prix at Monza.

Patterson Cheers Louder Than Ever

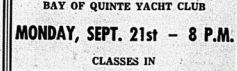
NEW YORK (AP) — The next time Ill be a better. And the next time after that Ill be even better. And whoever is i fight it has to be in New York.

Floyd Patterson, his reflexes dulled by a two-year layoff and his skills diminished by his 35 years, still spoke of the future Tuesday night after his 10th-round knockout over crude Charlie Green.

"I was heavyweight champion twice, said Patterson, the only man ever to regain the title, "and now that am I voted ... 20th, 30th or 40th? But now the applause I get is greater than I got then.

A crowd of 10,809 paying $72,965 gave him a roaring ovation.

The future for Patterson probably means another bout with Jimmy Ellis later in the fall or possibly a Tight with Oscar Bonavena from the Argentine.



It will take at least six weeks for a cut requiring nine stitches to close over Pattersons left eye to heal.

Referee Tony Peres warned Green for rabbit punching in the first, butting in the seventh and hitting on the break in the ninth. It appeared that a butt caused the cut in the fifth round.

Lower Registration For Hockey School Blessing in Disguise

By ERIC EMERSON
Staff Sportswriter

While the quantity of youngsters involved in this year's Belleville Hockey School has dropped by close to 100 players, officials of the school are certain that the quality will show a marked increase.

Registration for the 7-13 year old hockey enthusiasts ended last Saturday with a total of 280 boys filling out applications. They will be divided into groups of about 15 players for each of the two one - week camps.

"There's no question that reducing the number of boys in the camp will prove beneficial to those who do attend," says head instructor Lionel Botly. "Your ideal situation would be individual tutoring, so this 15-1 ratio is a big improvement over last year."

Botly is currently in the process of lining up his eight-man instructional staff and school officials are hoping to have many of last year's instructors returning.

The instruction periods will stress the fundamentals of the game such as shooting, passing, and positional play.

Special emphasis will be placed on the study of the 7-9 year-olds, who comprise the largest age group in the school. Members of the Quinte Figure Skating Club will again be employed to teach proper skating fundamentals to the players.

"With the longer ice time available for each group we'll be able to do more things than last year, when we were crowded for ice space", claims the head instructor.

Positional play will be particularly emphasized in the "chalk sessions" and films used to compliment the on-ice activities.

The better players, who have mastered most of the correct fundamental skills will be grouped together in order to receive more advanced instruction than the beginners.

Special instruction periods planned for girls have been cancelled due to the low number of applicants, allowing even more ice time for the school's male members.

Instructional periods are tentatively scheduled from 5-6:30 p.m. with each group getting about one hour and 15 minutes of ice time per day.

The camp opening has been moved ahead to Sept. 29 this year in order to prevent conflict with the Belleville McHawks practices and exhibition games.

Scrimmages for all participants will highlight the final day of the camp.

On Thursday, Sept. 24, a hockey film will be shown at Ben Bleecker Auditorium for the benefit of the boys and their parents. The film will be placed with the proper equipment essential for minor hockey participants.

Zamboni?

Belleville Arena employee Jack Labarge tries out new Zamboni ice cleaning machine in preparation for the upcoming hockey season. The Zamboni, manufactured by a California firm, will scrape the ice and lay a new surface faster and more efficiently than the previous equipment employed. The new ice machine will get its first use when the Belleville Hockey School opens Tuesday September 29th.

Williams Wants Job

Belleville's Lorne Williams is looking to fill a big pair of Ontario Minor Hockey Association shoes when he seeks to replace Lou Jeffries of Gananoque as the Eastern Ontario OMHA representative.

Jeffries who had served for nine years as an executive member announced his resignation last weekend at a Jointe - St. Lawrence-Hockey League meeting.

Williams, recreation director for the city of Belleville will seek the nomination at the OMHA fall meeting in Toronto, Oct. 17.

Fishing Luck Tapers Off In Tweed District Waters

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The most encouraging fishing sign in Ontario last week was the influx of rainbow trout to Lake Huron shores.

The fascinating, hard-hitting fish was being caught in Willow Creek, Saugeen River and Colpoy Bay, in an early run which surprised most anglers.

The department of lands and forests reported fishing throughout the province was generally normal, aside from the rainbows, although good catches of pickerel and pike were being taken in scattered areas.

Speckled trout, the males now with deep red mating colors, were preparing to spawn in the north but there were few good catches.

Reports from some of the province's 21 districts:

EAST

Kemptville — Rideau and St. Lawrence Rivers frosting Grenville County, all species fair. All species poor in Leeds County. Bass and pickerel fair in all waters of Rideau Lakes system near Westport, lake trout poor and panfish excellent. Lanark division, bass and pickerel fair and panfish excellent in Mississippi Lake, bass panfish good and pike and pickerel poor in White Lake, and pickerel and pike fair, pike poor, panfish excellent in Bennett Lake.

Tweed — Bancroft division, speckled trout fair in Hicks Lake and streams. Rainbow trout poor. Pickerel good in York River and Baptiste Lake. Pike good in York River. Bass good in Stringer, Twelvemile, Phanet and Papineau lakes, especially with live baits. Panfish good in all waters. Decre division lake trout fair in Diamond Lake. Bass good in Madawaska River. Pike and pickerel fair to good in Calabogie and Centennial lakes. Other species poor in all waters. All species poor in Tweed division and bass fair, trout poor and panfish excellent in Napanee divison.

Dersnah 'Deadly'

Ruth Dersnah proved "sudden-death" to her Picton Golf Club opposition over the week-end, twice defeating Dorothy May after the two women had tied over the regulation 18 holes.

Mrs. Dersnah's first win came in the women's club championship when the two women tied after 18 holes and were forced to play another 18, where this year's Ladies' Field Day winner defeated her junior-aged rival.

Their second duel came in the finals for the Redmond Cup for the low net champion-ship. After posting identical scores on the first 18, Mrs. Dersnah went on to win the sudden-death playoff on the first hole.

Hornets Swarming

GALT (CP) — Ron Hergott became the second player to sign with Galt Hornets of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior series Tuesday.

A former junior scoring champion, he played last year with Muskegon of the International League. The Hornets earlier signed goaltender Harold 'Pinal Hurley, last year with Oakville Oaks of the senior league.

McGill Ponders Leaving Intercollegiate Competition

MONTREAL (CP) — For the first time since 1898, McGill University is considering withdrawal from intercollegiate competition.

And by this time next year, McGill's extensive intercollegiate program in 17 sports—including football in which McGill Redmen are current Ontario-Quebec Intercollegiate Athletic Association champions—could be a thing of the past.

The withdrawal is the recommendation of the university's economic committee on budget cuts, which has proposed among other things that intercollegiate sports be suspended in 1971-72 to save about $200,000. Intramural sports programs will be retained.

Although the cut is only a recommendation, Harry Griffiths, director of athletics, has no doubt that the writing is on the wall.

"The recommendations were made by a committee which include all the top officials of the university, so I expect they will be approved by the senate and board of governors," said Griffiths Tuesday.

"A total of some 300 students who now participate in inter-university competition will be affected."

Griffiths added that "an awful lot of students and graduates who do not participate in these sports still derive benefit from them."

McGill played in the first football game in North America in 1874 against Harvard and the first true ice hockey was played in Montreal by McGill teams in 1875.

Griffiths said that although he isn't planning to make any kind of actual appeal, he entertains a hope that the athletics program will be saved.

"The only way we could go on operating would be if some unforseen source came up with the money. . . . All we can hope for is that some angel will come through."

Pirates Delighted Stargell True to Form

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

One, two, three.

Pittsburgh Pirates, Chicago Cubs and New York Mets are doing their number.

The names and places may change . . . but the characters usually remain the same.

Willie Stargell stayed in character with a three-run homer that powered Pittsburgh over Philadelphia Phillies 8-3; Billy Williams did his hitting thing to place Chicago over St. Louis Cardinals 5-3 and Montreal Expos tripped New York 5-4 in an uncharacteristic bad pitch by Jerry Koosman in the National League's dramatic pair race Tuesday.

The Pirates thus pulled a full game ahead of the Cubs and the Mets, who played their afternoon Tuesday's developments. Chicago has a percentage point less than a percentage point over third-place New York.

"I like it the way we bounced back after Sunday's game," said Pirate manager Danny Murtaugh, referring to the Pittsburgh's 3-2 loss at Chicago when Matty Alou dropped a two-out fly in the ninth.

"We disregarded Sunday and went out and played like nothing happened."

Williams, who capped that rally Sunday with a two-run double, took advantage of another misplayed ball to drive in the tie-breaking run Tuesday with a sixth-inning single.

"To win, you have to take advantage of the breaks," said Williams.

WILLIE STARGELL

Houston rolled over west division-racing Cincinnati Reds 9-3, San Francisco Giants hammered Atlanta Braves 8-6 and Los Angeles Dodgers edged San Diego Padres 5-4 in other National League games.

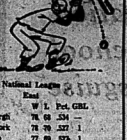
Bill Mazeroski, who had a solo homer along with Rich Hebner in Pittsburgh's long-ball offense at Philadelphia, expressed sentiments similar to Murtaugh's.

"We could have had a letdown after Sunday," the Pirates major-league second baseman said. "It could have worked either way . . . but it worked for the best."

Stargell's 30th homer off Barry Lersch got Pittsburgh off to a 3-0 lead in the first and Hebner and Mazeroski jolted successive homers in the fifth.

The Cubs and Cards were 2-3 after five innings of their game when Glenn Beckert lifted a fly ball to right. Rookie Luis Melendez came charging in, stopped and retreated only to have the ball fall behind him for a wind-blown double.

Two pitches later, Williams singled home Beckert to snap the tie and the Cubs never looked back.



John Bateman's bases-loaded single capped Montreal's two-run rally in the 10th that wiped out Tommy Agee's go-ahead homer in the top of the frame.

"Koosman had good control tonight," said New York Manager Gil Hodges. "He just started out bad in the 10th. We just couldn't close the game out —that's all."

Hartley shot the wild pitch that scored pinch-runner Boots Day. Koosman said: "The ball never got by me. I threw a 0-2 pitch that I didn't want to throw down the plate. It just bounced by the dirt. There was a chance for a play at the plate if the throw had been better. Duffy Dyer had to hurry his throw . . . and I had to reach back for it."

After Day got the tying run in, Koosman intentionally walked Rusty Staub and Ron Fairly to fill the bases. Bateman then came through with the game-winner off reliever Ron Herbel.

Storm Warnings Over Cup Course

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Intrepid is the winner of the first race for the America's Cup.

And that again maybe she lost.

Both the Americans and the Australians of Gretel II are protesting after Intrepid's five-minute, 15-second victory Tuesday in the initial contest of the best-of-7 series.

The alleged foul occurred at the start.

But that was only the beginning one of the most uproarious days in the history of the 119-year-old trophy.

Before the windy day was over there were these other developments:

1. Gretel II's forstay looked like a laundry line for six minutes after a disastrous spinnaker set.

2. Gretel II lost a man overboard.

3. Gretel II lost use of her main coffee grinder winches.

4. Gretel II sawed off and could conceivably win some races this month.

The protest is the first in cup racing since 1934 when Britain's Endeavor claimed foul against the American J-Boat, Rainbow, to no avail.

At the time the New York Yacht Club race committee refused to hear the complaint causing one wag to write: "Brickheads rules the waves but America waives the rules."

The NYYC Race Committee said it would announce its decision on Tuesday's protest at a news conference at 1 p.m. today.

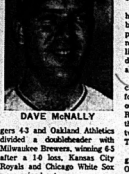
If it decides in Gretel II's favor, it will be only the seventh victory for a foreign boat in the 89 races for the Cup. The United States has won all 20 prior challenges.

The disputed foul apparently occurred in a port-starboard 3 situation about four minutes before the starting un. The boat on the starboard tack has the right of way when converging with a port tack boat.

Nobody was talking publicly about the alleged foul, but Gretel II's skipper, Jim Hardy, evidently feels he had to avoid a collision while on starboard tack with Intrepid, skippered by Bill Ficker, apparently on port.

Red protest flags flew from the lower shrouds of the two 12-metre yachts.

McNally Tosses Orioles Within Sight of Champagne



Earl Weaver laid on the victory champagne today while Bill Rigney blasted a loser.

Weaver's Baltimore Orioles whipped Washington Senators 6-3, Tuesday night behind left-hander Dave McNally and moved within a 12-lookout punch of their second successive American League East championship.

Rigney's Minnesota Twins, scoring in on the west division title and a rematch with the Orioles in the pennant playoffs, downed California Angels 7-5 in the opener of a day-night doubleheader but blew the second game 5-3, wasting a standout pitching performance by 145-pound southpaw Tom Hall.

"The little guy pitched his heart out, but I couldn't save it for him," Rigney said after a five-run California rally in the ninth left the Twins with half a loaf and a magic number of seven to nail the division crown.

Elsewhere, New York Yankees swept a twin bill from Boston Red Sox 4-0 and 3-2; Cleveland Indians edged Detroit Tigers 4-3 and Oakland Athletics divided a doubleheader with Milwaukee Brewers, winning 4-5 after a 1-0 loss. Kansas City Royals and Chicago White Sox were rained out.

McNally checked the Senators on five hits for his 22nd victory of the season, matching teammate Mike Cuellar for the major-league lead, as the Orioles reduced their magic number to two. Weaver promised to break-out the champagne tonight should his club beat the Senators again and the second-place Yankees lose to Boston.

"Outstanding," was the manager's estimate of McNally's effort on the way to his 11th victory in his last 13 starts. "He's been good in every game since the All-Star Game."

Boog Powell led the Baltimore attack with a double and his 34th homer.

Leo Cardenas' grand slam homer and a tie-breaking single by Jim Holt carried the Twins past the Angels in their afternoon game as reliever Stan Williams, celebrating his 29th birthday, picked up his 10th victory against one loss.

Hall Hall faltered in the eighth cap, after blanking the Angels for eight innings and striking out 12, and the bullpen failed as Ron Perranoski was cuffed for three hits, including a decisive two-run double by pinch hitter Tony Gonzalez.

The split kept the Twins eight games in front of second-place Oakland, who pulled out their nightcap at Milwaukee on Bert Campaneris' second homer of the game, a two-out, two-run wallop in the ninth. The Brewers took the opener on Skip Lockwood's two-hitter and a run-scoring single by Dave May.

Fergy Loses Best Fan

CHATHAM (CP) — Mrs. Ferguson Jenkins, 54, mother of pitcher Ferguson Jenkins of Chicago Cubs, died in hospital Tuesday after a two-year illness.

Delores Jenkins was blind for many years and at one time held a 215 average in a league of blind bowlers.

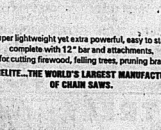
She never saw her son pitch in a major league game, but was—in 1967—she and her husband travelled to Chicago for the season opener. She sat in a front-row seat and listened to the game on a portable radio.

Jenkins, who didn't know she was there, spotted her after taking his warm-up pitches.

He walked over, shook her hand, said "Hi, mom," and left.

"I didn't want Fergie to know we were there," she said at the time. "I didn't want to upset him before the game that meant so much to him. For a while I wished we hadn't come."

Fergie explained later:



"I was up all night thinking about the game. Leo Durocher told me just that day before I was going to pitch the opener.

"I wanted to win this one in the worst way. Then when I saw mom there ..... well, that was just too much."

He won the game and they got together, the pressure off, for a tearful reunion.

Medical problems as an infant, aggravated later in her only pregnancy, cost Mrs. Jenkins her sight but she filled three scrapbooks with press clippings she could never read.

THE PICK OF Punch

"Dammit to see U Thant—I knew there'd be some reaction to that secret-pin dumping."

Rail Union to Pick Man to Lead Nationalists

QUEBEC (CP) — One of Canada's oldest national unions and Canadian labor in general may well be at a decisive turning point when convention delegates at the Chateau Frontenac Hotel vote Thursday to select a new leader.

In terms of size, the 21,000-member Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers is only No. 12 in Canada. Among the unions which are governed entirely within the country, however, it is third only to the Canadian Union of Postal Workers, with 140,000 members, and the Public Service Alliance of Canada with a membership of 125,000.

The issues before the 400 delegates this week include whether the CBRT can survive as an independent union and if it can provide leadership for an increasingly nationalistic Canadian work force.

Both questions mirror problems in the rest of Canadian society. The CBRT's base of 21,000 railway workers—most of them clerks, freight handlers and sleeping, dining and parlor car employees of the CNR—is gradually dwindling as a result of technological and operational change. The union reached a peak of 30,000 members in 1952.

Meanwhile, pressures for expansion are strictly limited with most of the biggest labor jurisdictions assigned by the Canadian Labor Congress to other unions.

Still, the CBRT has both national prestige and, perhaps more important, a thumb-and-forefinger grasp on a main artery of the Canadian economy — jurisdiction over some 1,300 employees of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority.

It also has the fierce determination of its membership to remain independent. A special convention last year voted 305 to 61 to reject the proposal of the national executive to merge with the International Brotherhood of Railway, Steamship and Airline Clerks which represents a parallel class of CP Rail employees.

The basic decision made in 1956, the convention delegates now have to choose between the author of the merger proposal, national secretary - treasurer Donald Secord, 58, and a relative outsider, Richard Greaves, business agent for the CBRT Seaway local on the Welland Canal.

Mr. Secord was granted as a sound manager Monday in the address to the delegates of outgoing president William Smith. In an interview later, Mr. Secord admitted the merger proposal had been badly handled.

Marmora

MARMORA — Mr. and Mrs. Roger Nesmith spent last week-end at Mattawa where Mr. and Mrs. Nesmith Sr., are patients in Mattawa General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Brady, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brady and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Brady attended the wedding on September 5 in Toronto of John Douglas Archer to Monika Strippmatter.

During the last week Mr. and Mrs. Harry Loveless visited Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Daniels at Seaton Falls, relatives of Ottawa and in Pembroke and their daughter, Mrs. Gordon Leboy, Mr. Leboy and family.

Mrs. Margaret Taylor of Toronto spent a recent weekend with her mother Mrs. Fred Johnston.

A trip to Ste. Anne de Beaupre, P.Q., last week was enjoyed by Mrs. Bill Meehan Sr., Mrs. Edward Keating, Mrs. John Clairmont and Mr. Crawford O'Connor.

Miss Anne Brady of Toronto visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brady and family last weekend.

FAMOUS SCHOOL

The Academy of St. Cecilia, the most famous musical school in Italy, is being used by Lucchino Visconti for scenes in Death in Venice, which he is producing and directing.

Don Knotts Show Has Weak Debut

NEW YORK (AP) — Can a talented, appealing comedian like Don Knotts carry enough weight to star in his own contemporary hour? If the first sample of his new NBC series on Tuesday night is typical, the answer, regretfully, is no.

The Don Knotts Show, with the star reacting to everything like an angry wet rooster, dragged dismally through the comedy sequences. With guest stars Anthony Newley, Eydie Gorme and a singing group, the Carpenters, it did pick up somesteam during the musical numbers.

Don—and Newley, too—were trapped in silly and aimless sketches. They played two members of a dance trio whose female partner had quit. Don was a knee-bending ventriloquist who couldn't throw his voice and got his hand stuck inside the dummy. He was an innocent talked into buying a "killer" dog who stood around wagging his tail affectionately. None of them was amusing.

The comedian has chosen to play his host role as a character rather like his Barney Fife in the old "Andy Griffith Show," vain, bumptious and full of temper. It was more attractive in the old context, however, because the warm, dominating character played by Griffith was there to soften the edges.

ABC, which will introduce 10 of its 11 new shows next week, reran Tuesday night The Immortal in its Movie of the Week spot. The 90-minute show was the pilot for its new action series of the same name and, apparently, served as an introduction and reminder of the format. It is a story about a man with a unique blood type that makes him immune to disease and age. In the pilot, the hero has a sleeper—who will be married off to someone else in an early episode. So will the wicked old tycoon who had goons trying to capture the good guy for use as a living blood bank.

White's District

WHITE'S DISTRICT — Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wilson and Scott attended the wedding of their daughter Ann in Tweed.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bilham attended the corn and wiener roast at Westminster United Church on Sunday evening at 6 p.m.

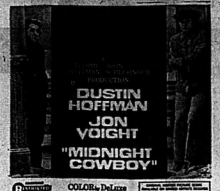
Miss Margo Reid spent a few days with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Reid and family of Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Terry O'Connor and baby Carolyn of Oakville who had been holidaying with Mrs. O'Connor's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Millar returned home on Saturday.

Westminster Church services have now resumed at 11 a.m. and Sunday school at 9.30 a.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Maoris and Gail of Smithfield and Miss Jennie Flindall of Rochester, N.Y. were the Saturday visitors of Mrs. Lorne Mallory.

THEATRE FEATURE TIMES



AT THE BELLE — Russ Meyer's "Beyond The Valley Of The Dolls" is now showing at the Belle, and is suitable for persons 21 years and over. Evening performances are at 7.00 and 9.10 and "Beyond The Doublin" will be presented Saturday and Sunday for children's matinees only at 2.00 p.m.

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Doctor Bothered By These Things

I am bothered:

When a patient's "friend" barges right through a hospital room door, completely disregarding the warning sign, "No Visitors." In the absence of the nurse, some people seem to derive the same satisfaction in "sneaking in" to see a seriously ill patient they felt when squirming under a circus tent as young sters to get a peek at the elephants. I wouldn't mind so much if such callousness didn't endanger the health and life of the helpless patient. Talk about your smoke-filled rooms. I've walked in suddenly to see visitors draped on the bed of a post-operative patient, or on the bed of a patient fighting for his life after a coronary attack — oblivious to the potential danger in exhausting a critically ill patient. You can be sure they scampered out fast when they heard what I had to say to them.

When — I know that a patient is withholding important information that I feel will help me in bringing about a cure. For example, the ulcer patient who denies that he still smokes cigarettes. Or the diabetic patient who still takes ice cream sodas. Or the one who refuses to divulge some aspect of family history which may help in making a diagnosis.

When — I see a perfect specimen of a man developing slowly, but surely, by subjecting his machine to overdrinking, overeating, overdressing, overworking, overstraining, overscalizing, undersleeping. (I bother me because it's such a needless waste.)

When — I see the mind or the body of any human being needlessly and stupidly "crippled." To be trite but true: Life is so short. Why treat it like wretched material? I suppose I've felt this way all along. Otherwise I wouldn't have written my booklet, "How to Stop Killing Yourself" almost a quarter of a century ago. (But what really bothers me is that people are still doing it, and what brings me some fulfillment is that I'm still trying to put a stop to it.)

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I've been told that the caffeine from drinking coffee remains in the blood stream for weeks. Is this information correct? And is it true that drinking coffee destroys certain vitamins in the blood? — Mrs. J.

Comment: Double-barrelled answer. No. No.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I am not pregnant. I am not talking the pill. Yet, this year I have noticed my face becoming mottled. Mainly the forehead. One friend has likened it to a pregnancy mask. I did not notice it when I was carrying my two children. I've been wondering if my I.U.D. (intrauterine device) might be the cause. It seems such a minor thing that I would be embarrassed to bother my doctor about it. — Mrs. T.

Comment: I don't see any connection between an I.U.D. and a mottling of the face. I suggest you ask your doctor about the real reason.

You say it's "minor" but I doubt it. Otherwise, would you be taking the time to ask me about it? Don't be too embarrassed to consult your doctor. You'll feel much better about it.

Sydney J. Harris Says

Patriotism and Nationalism

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

(During his vacation, we are reprinting selections from Mr. Harris' latest collection of columns in book form, Leaving the Surface.)

Most people fail to understand the difference between "patriotism" and "nationalism."

Patriotism is wanting what is best for your country. Nationalism is thinking your country is best, no matter what it does.

Patriotism means asking your country to measure up to the highest laws of man's nature, to the eternal standards of justice and equality. Nationalism means supporting your country even when it violates these eternal standards.

Patriotism means going underground if you have to — as the anti-Nazis in Germany did — and working for the overthrow of your government when it becomes evil and inhuman and incapable of reform. Nationalism means "going along" with a Hitler or a Stalin or any other tyrant who waves the flag, mouths obscene devotion to the Fatherland, and meanwhile tramples the rights of people.

Patriotism is a form of faith. Nationalism is a form of superstition, of fanaticism, of idolatry.

Patriotism would like every country to become like ours, in its best aspects. Nationalism despises other countries as incapable of becoming like ours.

Just as we fail to understand the difference between patriotism and nationalism so many people fail to understand that "Americanism", really consists of.

"Americanism" was something utterly new in the world when it was conceived by our Founding Fathers. It was not just another form of nationalism — indeed, it was a repudiation of all the then existing nationalisms.

It was conceived as a form of government unrestricted to one geographical place or one kind of people. It was open to all men everywhere — no matter where they were born or came from. In this respect, it was utterly unique. Its patriotism was potentially world wide.

The word "Americanism" flattered or coarsened to apply only to one flag, one people, one government. In its highest, original sense, it asks that all men become patriots — an idea, not to a particular country or government. And this idea is self-government by all men, who are regarded as equals in the law.

This is why American patriotism — properly understood — is the best patriotism in the world, because it is for all the world, and not just for us. To confuse it with nationalism, to use it for ugly purposes, is to betray the dream of those who made it come true.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For September 17

Your birthday today: A year of normal growth and development begins. Your situation proceeds steadily, if you push yourself to consistent effort. Education, improving skills are essential, along with more self-reliance. Your social contacts become more selective and intense while superficial acquaintances move away. Today's natives usually have the rare gift of being able to weave together ideas, convincing and pleasing story.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Be prompt and efficient in your share of any situation while general concurrence exists in all directions. Also tend to health-care concerns.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Events range from trivial to moderately important. You are at a high tide in persuasive skills, so ask for the changes you most want. Personal projects flourish.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Spend the day mending and rescuing. Find a new use for anything that has lost its purpose. Much that resisted your efforts before now succumbs with a little pressure.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): The only energy available comes from your own enthusiasm. Avoid both rush and fatigue, concentrate on those things which are usually hindered by other people's moods.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Personal interests occupy you, at the expense of career effort. Think through at least some plans, taking into account your own present limitations.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Now you have more time and space to work in than usual; make use of the opportunity. Keep moving. Line up your budgets, shopping lists, and the like.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Projects turn out neither difficult nor interesting. Do your best, using all the aid you can get. Smooth away differences among people you haven't dealt with lately.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Revision can now be achieved. Anything that has been neglected because it was too complex is facilitated; get clear of the obstacles and backlog.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Aside from a shortage of energy, you have the field clear to do pretty much as you please. Self-discipline, tactful use of co-operation are required.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Today is splendid for filling in details, completing long-term projects, troubleshooting routines. Gather friends around you tonight for sociability.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Don't just drift, think and plan for a change. You can get in quite an amount of both. Afterwards, relax and enjoy a bit of levity.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Now the facts and figures fall into place. New operations should wait while you straighten out existing matters. The evening offers quiet social fun.

Jordan Aflame

Guerillas and Army In Showdown Battle

Syria Demands Intervention

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Palestinian Arab guerrillas battled troops of the new military regime in Jordan today in what the guerrillas called a "final confrontation."

The guerrillas were apparently in control of key areas of Amman at the start of the fighting but broadcasts from both sides said the army troops were driving into the Jordanian capital. The guerrillas appealed for help from thousands of Iraqui troops stationed in Jordan since the 1967 Middle East war.

Field Marshal Habis Majali, military leader of the new Jordanian government proclaimed Wednesday by King Hussein, called in an Amman radio broadcast for the guerrillas to surrender.

"We are marching on the principal quarters of Amman to establish control," the marshal said. "All armed men must surrender to army troops, who are their brothers, in order to avoid bloodshed and spare your lives."

The guerrilla radio in the Iraq capital, Baghdad, said army tanks were "trying to break into Amman's city centre."

The broadcast said the guerrillas had beaten back the armored advance, destroying three tanks and disabling two others with bazooka fire.

A later guerrilla statement in Beirut said that the Jordanian army had put Amman "to the torch" by indiscriminate heavy shelling.

Machine-gun fire raked the American Embassy and mortar shells hit the British Embassy while foreigners sheltered in the basement of the Intercontinental Hotel which was also under fire.

Observers in Beirut believe the numerically stronger and better armed royalist army had gained the upper hand in the initial stages of what seemed to be a final showdown for control of the Hashemite kingdom.

As army tanks swept into Amman, Syria came out on the side of the guerrillas, appealed to royalist troops to mutiny against their officers, and warned that it would not stand idly by while the guerrillas were crushed.

Another Jordanian government broadcast claimed that guerrillas in Zarqa, 15 miles northeast of Amman, had surrendered. Zarqa is near the airstrip where guerrillas of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine blew up three hijacked airliners on Saturday after removing passengers and crews.

Majali declared a curfew in Amman and Zarqa, saying anyone seen on the streets would be shot.

All telephone lines to Jordan were out of commission. Its frontiers were closed and air traffic to Amman was shut down.

A pall of black and grey smoke was seen over Amman as the battle raged through the morning. The U.S. embassy was hit by small-arms fire and a mortar shell landed on the roof.

Reuters correspondent Patrick Massey reported savage fighting around the American and British embassies in Amman with tanks and armored cars blasting away at guerrilla strongholds.

At one point, Jordanian army headquarters was shelled. Fighting near the airport appeared intense.

A guerrilla communique broadcast by Radio Baghdad said the fiercest fighting flared up in the Wahdat district on Amman's northern outskirts.

Wahdat is the site of the huge Palestinian refugee camp where some, if not all, of the 54 hostages from last week's airline hijacking are believed held.

There was no mention from either side of the hostages.

The communique said the guerrillas had occupied Amman's central post office building.

The guerrillas issued an urgent radio appeal for intervention on their behalf by some 12,000 Iraqi soldiers stationed around Irbid, 50 miles north of the capital. There were no reports of fighting involving the Iraqi troops, however.

Oil Policy Is Upheld

OTTAWA (CP) — The Exchequer Court has upheld the validity of a cabinet order-in-council which gives the National Energy Board the power to restrict imports of cheap gasoline into Ontario.

In a judgment today Mr. Justice Jacques Dumoulin rejected arguments of Calsil Inc. of Montreal that the regulations were beyond the power of the federal government.

The judge said that it is within the legal power of the federal government or its agencies to regulate interprovincial trade.

Golda Meir Denies Truce Violations

NEW YORK (AP) — Israeli Premier Golda Meir, arriving for urgent consultations of the Middle East situation, has denied a U.S. state department report that her country has violated "some" provisions of the cease-fire.

She told reporters at Kennedy International Airport Wednesday night: "I know that Israel is not guilty of some violations or any violations whatsoever."

U.S. officials said in Washington Wednesday that Israel had violated the ceasefire by conducting reconnaissance flights over Egypt and by strengthening fortifications at the Suez canal.

Mrs. Meir stopped here on her way to Washington where she will meet Friday with President Nixon and State Secretary William Rogers.

Unemployment Declines

OTTAWA (CP) — The number of unemployed fell to an estimated 448,000 in August, down 70,000 from July, but still 46 per cent higher than a year ago, it was officially reported today.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics and the manpower department said there were 39,000 fewer employed persons. Although a reduction of employment also occurred last midsummer, there usually is an expansion of employment at this time of year.

There was a sharp reduction in the labor force, larger than usual for the season. It dropped to 8.72 million from 8.82 in July.

As a percentage of the total labor force, the number of unemployed fell last month to 5.1 from 5.9 per cent in July and 6.1 per cent in June. But last month's unemployment rate was sharply higher than 3.7 per cent in August last year.

The monthly employment report contained more than the usual amount of data on seasonally-adjusted employment and unemployment figures. Statisticians adjust the figures to take into account seasonal trends that otherwise make it difficult to compare one month's figures with another.

On the seasonally-adjusted basis, unemployment in August was 6.7 per cent of the labor force, unchanged from July but the highest since early 1964.

It was the second successive month of decline in actual unemployment figures, while the seasonally-adjusted rate of unemployment rose from 6.1 per cent in June to 6.7 in July, remaining there in August.

For the first time, the report gave seasonally-adjusted unemployment rates for regions. These showed a drop to 8.1 per cent from 9.5 in July for the Atlantic provinces. The rate continued high at 8.9 per cent in Quebec, unchanged for the month, but declined to Ontario to 4.4 from 4.7 per cent.

The seasonally-adjusted rate rose in the Prairies to 5.3—the highest this year—from 4.5 in July. In British Columbia it slipped to 8.5 per cent from 10.1 in July.

Provinces Get No More Money from Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau had good, if possibly only short-lived, news for Canadian taxpayers Wednesday night.

The provinces did not succeed in getting any more money out of Ottawa at their three-day summit conference here, he said.

The heads of government came down from Monday's and Tuesday's cooling of the constitutional heights to Wednesday's subject which is really dearest to their hearts: public money.

British Columbia asked for a grant of $300 million annually from Ottawa.

Mr. Trudeau told a news conference that his government did not encourage B.C. to think any money would be forthcoming soon.

Premier Robert Bourassa of Quebec wanted even more money—a multi-million-dollar stabilization fund to help economically weaker provinces in time of high unemployment, plus $236 million which he claims the federals owe Quebec from their take from the two per-cent social security tax.

Mr. Trudeau said Quebec Inc. did not hold too strongly to its stabilization-fund formula.

Ottawa again gave no ground on the $236 million request.

The provinces not only played energetically their old game of how to get more cash out of the federals, they also bickered politely among each other about how much each is getting from Ottawa now.

Premier John Roberts of Ontario told reporters that the wealthier provinces, out of taxation, would have to finance Quebec's proposed stabilization fund.

There was already a multiplicity of programs such as equalization payments designed to lessen regional economic disparities, he said.

The total tax take needed to support all these programs might be hurting the national economy, he added. It was time for a little addition to determine whether there were too many of these programs.

Mr. Bourassa said Quebec is not Ottawa's "little favorite" when it comes to distributing federal cash. Quebec did get a lot of equalization payments but other provinces also got help through other programs.

Mr. Bourassa called for a "better distribution of resources."

"Resources" is an old federal-provincial conference word for money.

Premier Ross Thatcher of Saskatchewan said Quebec was perhaps getting more than its fair share of money from Ottawa.

Mr. Thatcher also said his province was getting less than its fair share of incentive grants from the federal regional economic expansion department.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia said his province is receiving relatively little assistance from the same department.

Practically all the other subjects discussed by the political leaders were closely related to money, including Ottawa's pro-

Nursing School Enrolment 101

Forty-nine young women and three young men enrolled Sept. 16 in the third class to be admitted to the Edith Cavell Regional School of Nursing here, bringing the total number of nursing students in the school in the first two years if the course to 101. Thirty-two first year students will begin their studentship in October in hospitals in Belleville, Campbellford, Picton and Trenton.

Students and their parents and guests were welcomed at a commencement tea in Edgecton Hall at Belleville General Hospital.

The nursing course is a two-year, educational program, with a third year internship following which the students are eligible to write registration examinations and become registered in Ontario.

During the first two years, the students will be spent equally in the classroom and in the hospitals of the region. The students will receive experience in the nursing care of patients in the hospitals at Belleville, Campbellford, Picton and Trenton.

21st Battalion Gathering Here

The grand old warriors of the 21st are being concentrated again — this time in Belleville.

With their arrival, the city this weekend will be host to the survivors of some of Canada's first major war commitments.

The event is the annual reunion of the 21st Battalion Association — a happening that falls on the same month its members were first drafted into war action 53 years ago.

About 100 of them are expected to assemble in the city for the reunion — the surviving remnant of 7,300 citizen soldiers who once served with the World War I battle unit.

Registrations will start Friday at the Canadian Legion Hall. Among the highlights will be a banquet Saturday night at Bon Blecker auditorium.

However, the veterans will marshall in public twice during the weekend — Saturday afternoon at the cenotaph, where they will remember fallen comrades, and Sunday morning for a memorial and church service on the Hastings and Prince Edward armory lawn.

Recruited in 1914 in an area from Pembroke to Picton, the 21st was moved to the Western Front in September, 1915. Their major battles included the Somme, Arras, Vimy and Hill 70.

Disbanded in 1919 after occupation duties in Germany, the 21st went on to peacetime distinction.

Its officials say the battalion is unique in that it has held an annual reunion in Central Ontario each year since its demobilization a half - century ago.

The first reunion, in 1919, drew hundreds of the new veterans together at Ottawa.

Last year's then-the reunion opened at Lindsay, there were 94 participating.

Liberals to Honor Long-time Worker

PRESQUILE POINT (Special)—This weekend Presquile hotel keeper Grit Quick is being honored after 55 seasons as an entrepreneur in the variety of interests in this popular resort area.

Instead of playing host to people, for once he'll be able to mingle with his guests and let them wait on him.

Saturday, September 19, the gala affair will be a big, appropriate bouquet. It's the grand of honor's 80th birthday.

The special recognition for Mr. Quick is the way the Liberal party says thank you to him for co-operation and loyal support through the years. It's the greatest time he is the oldest active member of the Northumberland Liberal Association.

Mr. Quick took over the all-wood, two - storey Presquile Hotel in 1914. Over the remembers clearly Peter Colville as original owner before handing him the keys the day England went to war with Germany. And he remembers the struggle making ends meet during the first two years until the war boom received a big boost with the construction of a munitions plant at Trenton.

Previously Mr. Quick had gained varied experience as a farm store clerk at 16, trapped a fish and fur buyer locally and a real estate salesman in the township of Brighton in western Ontario. He built and operated the dance pavilion still in use across the road from the hotel in 1913.

A policy for hiring bands as long-remembered as he has earned him a reputation for helping university students finance their way through college.

Politics is one interest Mr. Quick enjoys with real enthusiasm. The campaign he was involved in when Hon. C. G. Senator W. A. Fraser was elected to represent Northumberland County in parliament at Ottawa stands out in particular, he says. Reference is viable to be noted by former Prince Minister Lester Pearson, former Ontario Premier Leslie Frost, John Wintermeyer, Senator Paul Martin and Ontario Premier Robarts also prompts fond memories.

"If nothing else, he reflected, "a hotel keeper has to have had a century gains a lot of knowledge by just meeting people and seeing the world.

Some guests provoke funny incidents, others are memorable because most of them cause no trouble although heavy responsibility to the public is involved."

Millionaire contractor, the late Harry McLean of Merrickville, displayed actions to confirm stories about his free - spending as mystery man Mr. X. 'Every time he checked in', Mr. Quick revealed, 'I more learned he was extremely generous with tips. He crammed a $20 bill in my hand when he left. I suspected he was a big spender when he came to Presquile. While the guests were fishing, he would flown from McLean's wildlife sanctuary to Brighton Reef. It just became in the airplane and viewed the pilot quite easily. Then I heard he was subdued after landing and returned to is keeper.

Obituaries and Funerals

G. R. McPHEE
(Kingston)

A Belleville native, G. R. (Ray) McPhee of Kingston, died at Kingston General Hospital on Sunday, Sept. 13 in his 85th year.

Mr. McPHee had been suffering ill health for several years.

Born in Belleville, he lived in Toronto and Napanee before moving to Kingston in the late 1950s. Until June he was manager of J. H. Long and Company, stock brokers and investment dealers, serving for years in this capacity. As well, he owned and operated his own company, G. R. McPhee Realty Company, also a stock brokerage.

Mr. McPhee was a founder of the Belleville Rotary Music Festival in 1950, and a member of the Kingston Rotary Club for approximately 10 years, serving as chairman of the festival during that time.

An active member of the Cathedral Church of St. George, he was a member of the Vestry Council and chairman of the Cathedral Advertising Committee. Active in the financial administration of the cathedral, he was instrumental in setting up the church accounting system.

He was associate of the Ontario Heart Foundation and the Kingston Historical Society for a number of years and founded the Kingston chapter of the English Speaking Union, serving as president until his death.

He is survived by his wife, the former Jean Scott, a daughter, Mrs. C. J. (Vicki) Bierkestock of Georgetown, a son, Dr. Malcolm McPhee of New York City and five grandchildren.

Arrangements were made through Robert J. Reid and Sons, Johnson Street, Kingston. Service will be held at 1 p.m., Wednesday, Sept. 16 with Interment in Cataraqui Cemetery.

MRS. DURWARD REID
(Picton)

Florence Wellenka Reid died suddenly Wednesday, Sept. 16 at the residence of her sister, Mrs. Earl McIntosh of RR 2 Picton, in her 80th year.

Born in the Picton area, she lived 20 years in Bloomfield before moving to her sister's residence three years ago.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Leslie Bath, Picton and two sons Gordon of Langton and William of Belleville. She is also survived by seven brothers, Arnold Earl McIntosh and Mrs. (Stella) John Murray both of Picton and Miss Mildred Wellenka of Detroit, Michigan.

Husband Durward Reid predeceased her.

She was educated in the Emery Village area and was a member of the Bloomfield United Church.

Funeral service will be held Friday, Sept. 18, at 2 p.m. in the Chapel of the Whattam Funeral Home with Reverend M. Bowering officiating. Interment will be in Cherry Valley Cemetery.

EDWARD DORRINGTON
(RR 2, Belleville)

Edward Alexander Dorrington of Marshall Road, RR 2, Belleville, died suddenly at Kingston General Hospital on Tuesday, Sept. 15 in his 45th year.

Born in England the son of Mrs. Catherine Dorrington and the late Harry Dorrington, he resided at Marshall Road for the past four years, previously lived in Honey Township.

A plater with International Harvester for the past 22 years, he served as a pilot with the fleet air arm of England during World War II. More recently he was squadron leader of Batawa Air Cadet Squadron 722. He was also a member of the Belleville Flying Club.

He is survived by his wife, the former Mary Elizabeth "Betty" Sills, and sons Allan Lee, Frank, James and Joseph, all at home.

Funeral services will be held from the chapel of the John R. Bush Funeral Home on Friday, Sept. 18 at 1.30 p.m. with Padre C. H. White officiating, assisted by Rev. W. H. Dunphy.

Interment will be in Belleville Cemetery.

EDWARD LAWRENCE HALL

Mr. Edward Lawrence Hall of 222 Bleecker Ave. Belleville died suddenly today in the Belleville General Hospital in his 72nd year.

Born in Ameliasburg Township, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William J. Hall, he lived on Hall's Island before moving to Belleville 14 years ago.

A retired farmer, he was a member of Bridge St. United Church and the Canadian Order of Foresters of Belleville branch.

He is survived by his wife, Margaret Ethel, sons Harry of Belleville, Donald of Frankford, William of Willowdale, B.C.; daughters Mrs. Charles (Mildred) Scarmont and Mrs. Doris (Pearl) McGeown both of Belleville. He is also survived by 13 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Funeral service will be held in the chapel of the John R. Bush Funeral Home Saturday, Sept. 19 at 2 p.m. with Reverend Dr. H. M. Davis officiating.

Interment will be in the Mountainview Cemetery.

CARDS OF THANKS

The family of the late Ethel Pratt wish to thank all the nurses and doctors, nurses and staff of Kingston General Hospital, Dr. Hamilton for care and kindness towards Ethel during her illness. Also thanks to Rev. Bowering, Mrs. Bowering, Rev. Shewchuk and the kind neighbors and friends for their visits and many ways with floral, card and memorial tributes. We all will remember.

The McCaw, McWilliams and Gilleard families.

Cancer Drive Goes Over Top

The Belleville and District Unit of the Canadian Cancer Society has surpassed its 1970 campaign objective by approximately $2,000, it was announced this morning.

A statement by Dr. Robert Brain, campaign chairman of this year's appeal, revealed that the district collected $32,000 last spring...surging over its objective of $30,000 and representing 110 per cent of its objective.

"Of course we are extremely pleased over the results of this year's campaign," Dr. Brain said.

A portion of the money will go to the research done by the society. A more, direct Belleville affect will be an increase in education to the public concerning the realities of cancer and man's fight to conquer it.

Trenton VIP Flow May Be Increased

TRENTON (Staff) — Due to the skyjacking threat, Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau has directed that VIP travel according to Europe and the Middle East this week to use military flights rather than commercial flights.

VIP traffic through Trenton may increase as a result of the government decision but no alteration in facilities at the base is anticipated to receive them.

Capt. Wayne Crowell, base protocol officer, explained yesterday that as many VIPs use CFB Trenton. Additional VIP travel through Trenton will only supplement an already busy service.

In the last four months, 365 VIPs have been received at he base, Capt. Crowell says.

The Trudeau decision is making a difference. Already both Finance Minister Edgar Benson and Herbert Gray, minister without portfolio for finance have cancelled commercial flights reservations.

Mr. Gray left CFB Trenton this week on a regularly-scheduled 707 flight to Lahr, West Germany en route to a Commonwealth finance ministers conference in Cyprus.

One-day Milford Fair Brings Back Memories

MILFORD (Staff) — Prince Edward County's only surviving township fair opened at Milford yesterday featuring floral exhibits, poultry and livestock, and art displays from South Marysburg.

Milford fair, officially opened by county warden Gordon Lloyd, celebrated its 94th anniversary with a fast-moving program of events headed by a parade. Fair directors called on musician Creighton Lockyer to "strike up" the Picton junior band as the parade proceeded down Main Street to the fairgrounds. Township reeve Allan Hadley, Gordon Lloyd and Milford fair president Rex Hicks led the colorful procession riding in a decorated convertible.

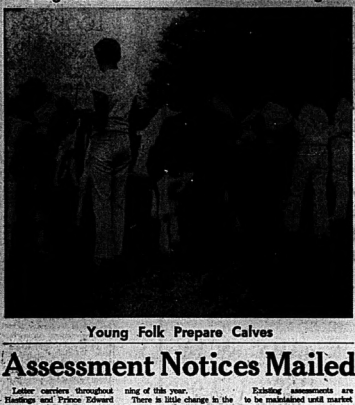
Prizes were awarded for the best decorated go-carts, bicycles, cars, floats and pets. About 25 young horsemen from South Marysburg rode in the parade, and a Model T Ford Way driving a four-pony hitch. Judges voted the pony entry of Blaine Way as first place winner. Janet Keogh rode off with a prize for best saddle horse in the parade.

An indoor floral display judged by horticulturalist Phillip Dodds drew more than 100 entries for the one-day fair. A wide variety of fruits and vegetables was also displayed along with home cooking.

Outdoors, a pet division featured a record number of entries ranging from feline and canines to miniature turtles.

Poultry cages were filled with geese, ducks, and chickens of many varieties most of them "in a flap" over fall day. In pens nearby sheep were shown in a special livestock division.

A 4-H calf club competition was held simultaneously with a junior horse show encouraging child participation in this fall fair. South Marysburg school students marched in the opening parade and later joined in contests and livestock exhibitions on the fairgrounds.



Foot races, a tug-of-war contest and a baby show rounded out the afternoon of entertainment. Results of the Prizes were awarded to lucky ticket holders during the midday meal, among them a cheese from the Black River factory to the cooks attending from the farthest distance. Obvious winners were Mr. and Mrs. George Hayes, Long Island, New York.

A large crowd of visitors from throughout Prince Edward stopped yesterday to recall "the good old days" while enjoying the district's last surviving township fair.

Among those who could remember when was Gordon Lloyd, who remarked that as a child he had looked forward to the Hillier-Ameliasburg fair. He complimented Milford fair directors on their exhibits and expressed his hope that this annual event will continue.

NFU Opposes Quotas Without Price Increase

Canadian dairy farmers are not prepared to accept controlled production of milk without a substantial increase in price.

That is the feeling of Mrs. Edwin Carruthe, RR1, Consecon, secretary of Local 343 National Farmers' Union, following recent district conventions covering most of Ontario.

"Present conditions in the market indicate that an increase in price to the dairy farmers is justified and long overdue," Mrs. Carruthe writes.

The membership of the NFU has instructed the national board and executive to hold meetings to ascertain the action necessary to achieve a satisfactory milk price.

The NFU doesn't go along entirely with the Ontario Milk Marketing Board's proposals regarding market sharing quotas which could possibly go into effect as early as Oct. 1 of this year.

The implementation of market sharing quotas would allocate the volume of milk each producer can sell on the domestic market.

This, according to the NFU release, is a major change in dairy policy and members deplore the fact that few consultations were held with dairy farmers.

"The NFU intends to inform the farmers of the shortcomings of the OMMB's proposal on this matter and to permit farmers to have a democratic voice in the future of their industry," Williams-Langdon, Lakeside, Ont., and Herbert Earl, of Addison, will be the key speakers at the cross-Ontario rallies. Walter Miller, NFU vice-president, is also expected to attend some of the meetings.

The rally for the Quinte area will be held at St. John's United Church Hall in Campbellford on Saturday evening Sept. 19 following the district convention starting in the morning.

To acquaint farmers in District 2 with the NFU's stand on the dairy issue, a mass rally is also being held in the Perth District High School, this week.

Attendant Resigns

DESERONTO (Special) — Douglas Law Jr., police officer attendant at Deseronto for the past twelve months, has resigned, effective September 15.

Mr. Law's letter of resignation was accepted with regret a recent meeting of Council.

The attendant's position was created a year ago by council so that the police department could be reached any time of the day or night, thereby providing 24-hour protection.

Since the arrangement had been working well, council decided the position would be maintained and advertised immediately.

Assessment Notices Mailed

Letter carriers throughout Hastings and Prince Edward counties have had additional loads to carry this week as approximately 70,000 assessment notices were mailed out from the regional assessment office at Trenton.

The notices, mailed on Sept. 15, are for owners and tenants in the two counties, as well as for Belleville and Trenton.

The notices were the first mailed out by the Trenton regional office since the province of Ontario took over the assessment function at the beginning of this year.

There is little change in the information on this year's notices as compared to those formerly sent out by the individual municipalities.

One change is that only total value is listed instead of the amount being broken down to figures for land and building as was previously the case.

The reason for this is that the province is working toward assessment, expected to be completed across the province in five years.

Existing assessments are to be maintained until market value assessment is completed.

Owners have until October to appeal their assessments or to correct any errors in the information listed.

Council Endorses Rezoning Denial

Belleville city council has endorsed a Belleville and Suburban Planning Board recommendation to deny a zoning change request for South Foster Ward to allow construction of oil storage tanks.

The request was from MacDonald Smith, who asked that a portion of the "AS" district residential be changed back to "F" district industrial to allow the tank construction.

At the planning board meeting considering the request, there were four persons who spoke in opposition to the change. Also five letters and a petition signed by 195 persons were received opposing the zoning change.

Arena Issue

While the desire to save taxpayers' money is an estimable one, there are a lot of raised eyebrows around as a result of Mayor Russell Scott's virtual overruling of the recreation and arena committee's efforts to get the city's proposed new second artificial ice arena under way.

The committee, under chairman Donald Soutter, had brought in a recommendation to award the building contract to Carr - Brainf Construction at a cost of $382,953, but this was tabled on the strength of a 6-5 vote after Mayor Scott suggested a different type of construction might save the city money.

Now the matter is up in the air again. Mayor Scott indicated an estimate from Dominion Steel Co. Ltd. (whom he had approached personally) for a pole structure alternative structure should be available today and the issue is to come up again before a special meeting of Council on Monday. And this, despite the fact (as pointed out in our report of Council Tuesday) that the recreation and arena committee has already gone into the relative merits of a steel arena as distinct from concrete or wood and voted in favor of concrete.

The rug, so to speak, has been pulled from under the committee. Mayor Scott told Council Monday that as chairman he was unable to reply to criticism of his "unilateral action," and to a suggestion that the tabling of this matter was "contrary to the city's tendering procedure," to quote Alderman Soutter. The alderman also charged that "the integrity of council was open to question." Perhaps Mayor Scott can reply on Monday.

The vote on the tabling motion was a close one, a majority of only one. It is satisfying to realize Council has the taxpayer so much at heart, but our admiration in this regard is clouded somewhat by the manner in which it is handling the matter. At the very least the Mayor should have informed the recreation and arena committee of the action he was taking to investigate alternatives.

Having said that we must add that public concern is also being expressed in the form of the project. Additional ice facilities are certainly necessary, but this is a big price to pay. We have come a long way from the days of making our own fun, to the point that many of the young people have nothing better to do than lounge around, devoid of initiative, unable and unwilling even to use their two feet to get from A to B. We trust then that when additional ice facilities do become available use will be made of them. If not there is still the open air, and the small rinks the city provides for the boys and girls scattered about. Many of the best things in life are still free.

Red Satellite Scene

The young man was saying that some still go to church, they like the music or the architecture (no mention that they might be Christian believers) but he and most of his generation did not acknowledge the existence of any God. He was Bulgarian and apart from this denial of christian religion must have impressed many who saw the documentary on the Soviet satellite country Monday night.

In almost faultless English, with little accent, the handsome youth seemed typical of many at a work camp. Without any show of propaganda he told the young North American woman interviewer about the camp's work schedule. The young people there were a handsome group, disciplined too, and they went about their tasks with a will.

The tanks and other military hardware, and the hard automotan look of the soldiers and sailors parading in Sofia were in the tradition of the Communist world, but there were smiling faces too among the crowds downtown. There were good - looking children and young women who were as mod as their western counterparts here.

Bulgaria incidentally is a popular mecca there for tourists from all over Europe. There they find beautiful beaches and warm Mediterranean sunshine, the heady scent of blossoms and the perfume which is one of Bulgaria's leading industries.

From this brief television glimpse, Bulgaria looks like a country with merely the superficial trappings of Communism (while preserving its own customs, pride and national heritage.

Cabinet Assistants and Secretaries Abound in Ottawa

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — To those things that taxpayers long since have become reconciled to helplessly watch expanding like ever-widening balloons—the national debt, federal taxes and the Ottawa bureaucracy—add Canada's new Hill Petal Tossers.

It is a relatively new item on the Government's cost list. But every time you set startled eyes on it, you find the figure has doubled. It increases that fast.

"Petal Tossers," as the gifted Liberal MP Grant Deachman calls them, are the Cabinet Assistants.

Jamieraties? The new Oxford Dictionary defines them as the Sultan's palace guard. The Dictionary of American Political Slang describes them as the lacquey bearers for the political power elite.

Both terms are right on.

For the "Petal Tossers," or the "Gun Bearers," as Grant Deachman also knows them, are the Cabinet Executive Special and Super Special Executive Assistants.

There are close to 100 of them. By actually official count, as tabulated by the National Library, Federal Style, which listed them the other day — there are precisely 81, plus the "several" established for Prime Minister Trudeau.

For every other member of the Cabinet, the "Gizza Beau, ers," as Grant Deachman also terms them, were named, with their Hill offices and phone numbers.

But for the PM, the count was rather casually given as an indefinite "several."

Last time they were listed by name, they called their roll at better than a dozen.

The Executive Assistants number exactly 30, and the Special Assistants, 32.

The Super Special - Executive Assistants are enchiefs to the Prime Minister's office, only about three of them qualifying for the exalted station.

They are an expensive lot, drawing salaries ranging from an average $18,000 to a top $32,000.

They are, the way Grant Deachman observes them, a graduate group, heading up and loaded with the electronic facility of a calculator.

And right, right on, when you remember that Prime Minister Mackenzie King had one, Walter Turnbull, and Mr. Diefenbaker himself had to struggle along as best it could with one secretary — nothing special — to look after about them, either — for each Minister.

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent had one, Pierre Asselin. And he permitted some — but not all — of the Cabinet Ministers one Executive Assistant each.

Prime Minister John Diefenbaker had one, John Fisher, and allowed each Minister in his Cabinet one.

Prime Minister Lester Pearson has "several" also but not in such numbers as Pierre Trudeau, and kept his Ministers usually to one, a select few being assigned two in what had to be special circumstances.

But now, in the Age of Trudeau, the Special and Executive Assistants abound, and by the hundreds, and the Ministers are loaded up

Police Lot Not Happy

A major point of discussion at yesterday's meeting of Zone Two Association of Municipal Police Governing Authorities, was the police role and image in today's society.

During a break in the closed session at the Sun Valley Motor Hotel yesterday, H. A. Leal, QC, chairman of the Ontario Law Reform Commission, agreed that, "everybody, including the public, is victimized by concerned (about the police image and morale)."

He quoted federal minister of justice, John Turner, as saying at a recent meeting of police chiefs in London, that, "we live in a confrontation society where the element of law and order are challenged on all sides, which casts the law enforcement officer in a pretty difficult role."

Commenting on the increase in the number of assaults on police officers across the continent and, more close to home, in Toronto, Mr. Leal said that "police stand between us and the law of the jungle . . . they have to be protected in the enforcement of their duties."

One of the major causes of such attacks has been recent almost over-zealous laws.

Mr. Leal asserted that police were in a very difficult position when called upon to enforce "laws which do not find favor with the public.

"That presents a two-way situation," he said.

Outspoken members of the vocal majority have long been crying for a reassessment of the laws, some to overbearing extremes.

Again quoting Mr. Turner, we have to have "credible laws."

In this changing picture must fit the modern policeman, a man to whom increased education and new methods of dealing with the public are becoming more important.

Since the advent of the rock festival, police have been faced with a challenge not previously existed. When the Winnipeg riots broke out following World War I, the presence of the RCMP was a staying factor.

Whereas riots are not ensuing at today's rock festivals, the very presence of police has been known to set off disturbances.

"Police have to be very selective; they have to use common sense to deal with the situation," explained Mr. Leal

"If they move in on a substantial scale, they could have a riot on their hands, whereas if they stand back and deal with the periphery (perimeter) matters, they can keep it under control instead of fomenting a pretty nasty situation."

This strategy is of police education, on a more psychological basis, has gradually emerged in the men in blue who used to patrol city streets armed with "billy".

Zone Two stretches from the Trent Canal east to the Quebec border and north into the upper regions of the Ottawa Valley.

Present for the conference were Judge J. R. H. Kirkpatrick, president of the municipal police governing authorities, Percy Milligen, chairman of the Ontario police commission, Belleville Police Chief Douglas Cronbie, Mayor J. Russell Scott, who was influential in bringing the conference to Belleville, Professor J. L. Edwards, director of the department of criminology at the University of Toronto, and directors in Zone Two of Colchester Township, Timmins, North Bay, Milton, Deep River, Stoney Creek, and Zone Two secretary J. W. Montgomery, of Brampton. Mayor Scott is director for Belleville.

The one-day conference ran between 10 a.m. and 4.30 p.m. yesterday.

Hastings Benefits From Toronto Dispute

Toronto teachers' dispute with their boards last spring paid off for Hastings county — to the tune of about $10,000.

That's the amount the county board of education saved in teacher hiring expenses over last year because of the short period of advertising.

The usual lengthy period of teacher hiring was reduced this year because boards throughout the province agreed to defer hiring until the Toronto teacher-board dispute was settled.

The budgeted amount for recruiting county teachers this year was $27,500, later reduced in an economy move to $15,000.

But L. F. Reid, the superintendent in charge, managed to recruit the 293 elementary and secondary teachers needed for a total of $13,052.

In 1969 he spent $22,500 on advertising, interview suites and travelling expenses to recruit 253 teachers.

Because of the short interviewing period, the cost per teacher for hiring was reduced by more than half.

Last year the board spent $84 per teacher hired. This year the cost was $41.70.

Guild to Offer Season Tickets

The Belleville Theatre Guild has begun six sale of season subscription tickets for what should be the guild's best season yet.

The sale begins Friday at the Pinnacle Playhouse, opening the box office for the sale of tickets. The box office will be open from 2 to 4 p.m. until Oct. 5.

Th eguild will present five plays under the direction of new resident artistic director, Lawrence Ewashen.

This year the plays will run for two weeks beginning the first week on a Wednesday and running through Sunday. The second week will see performances begin on Tuesday and run through Saturday.

The season will open on Sept. 30 with a comedy by Herb Gardiner, Thousand Clowns. The second production will be a musical, The Fantastiks, opening Nov. 18

This year the Belleville Theatre Guild hosts the Eastern Ontario Drama League Festival and the guild's own entry in the festival has not yet been announced. But it will be a classic.

Albert Camus is the author of Cross-Purpose, an existential mystery, on Apr. 22. May 26 will see the guild's final main production, a melodrama, The Drunkard.

Season tickets will cost adults $10 per person and a couple can obtain season subscriptions for $18. Students $.

Two Injured In Accidents

TWEED (Special) — Botsford W. Trites, 67, of RR3, Tweed, is in Belleville General Hospital with a broken l e g and multiple lacerations to his face and head, as the result of a single-car accident on Highway 37 north of Tweed last night.

Mr. Trites lost control of his car and went through the windshield when it crashed into the ditch.

Approximately 50 stitches were required to close the lacerations in his face and head.

Damage to the Trites vehicle was estimated at $2,000.

In a second single-car accident on a concession road west of Marmora Charles D. Logan, 23, of Marmora, rolled his car when he turned suddenly to avoid an approaching car.

He was treated at the office of Dr. Parkin in Marmora and will be taken to Belleville hospital for X-rays.

Reservoir To Triple Reserves

Staff Reporter
By IAN ROBERTSON

Water reserves in the city are to be increased threefold as soon as plans for a new 3½ - million - gallon ground level reservoir are approved.

Standing high above downtown Belleville, the 750,000-gallon tower located on north John Street, is at present the only such storage unit in the city.

Ernest L. Burnham, manager of the Belleville Utilities Commission, yesterday announced that verbal approval has been received for improvement of present facilities and installation of the new ground level reserve, interim measures for improvement were outlined at the GWRC public hearing held at Centennial Secondary School July 23.

Mr. Burnham explained that suggested plans were to "upgrade the present plant to look after our requirements for five years until water can be brought from Lake Ontario."

These plans include installation of a new low lift pump with the ability of handling approximately eight million gallons per day; modification of three of the present four microstrainers from six million gallons per day capacity to nine million gallons; and the replacement of the smallest and oldest unit with a new eight million gallons per day pump.

This new unit could later be moved to a new site.

The present anthracite and controller filters will be replaced, but there need be no change to sedimentation tanks. Second in importance to the new reservoir are the new channels which will have to be installed to carry water from the new storage unit to the settled water channel in the southwest corner of the filter building.

The site of the ground level water receptacle will be to the northeast of the city, above the CNR yards. This section of the community has no heavy pipelines for the present.

Mr. Burnham outlined the "approximate cost" as in the neighborhood of $600,000.

The PUC will meet with its consulting engineer firm, Totten and Norris Ltd., of Toronto as soon as "we're ready with alternatives and priorities to be discussed."

"I instructed Gore and Storrie that as soon as we had (GWRC) clearance that they were to prepare a basis for action; the will take some time. They'll have to draw up plans and specifications before we can open tenders," Mr. Burnham continued.

He explained that approval was delayed while a 28-day appeal period was in effect. No opposition was received to the newly organized water area which received provincial approval on Aug. 4.

Following the Sept. 10 deadline for receipt of appeals, Mr. Burnham received verbal approval in a conversation with Ken Sharpe, assistant general manager of the OWRC under manager D. Caverly.

The new reservoir, which alone will cost more than $300,000, will provide water to Thurlow Township, adjacent communities and the north end of the city. Further reservoirs to provide extra water to the rest of Belleville, have not come up for approval.

Decoration Day Next Sunday

The annual Belleville Decoration Day will be held this Sunday in the Belleville Cemetery. The general public is invited to place flowers on family graves and participate in the service.

Parley C. H. White, base chaplain at CFB Trenton, will give the address. Rev. Stanley Gerdis, Padre of the Duke of Edinburgh Unit 201, ANAF, and Kenny Bown Humphries, padre, Branch 86 of the Royal Canadian Legion will also take part in the service which commences at 3 p.m. in front of the cemetery mausoleum.

The Argyle IODE will provide free transportation for senior citizens and shutins if they call Mrs. F. R. Allen, 25 Woodland Acres.

Parade veterans will fall in at the cemetery gates at 2.30 with bus transportation for participants leaving the market square at one and 1.15 p.m.

Menzies Elected Liberal President

BATAWA (Staff) — A presidency of the Prince Edward-Hastings Liberal Association was won unanimously here last night by William Menzies of Trenton.

"This is the first time that a union men has become association president," Mr. Menzies said. The new president is an Ontario Hydro foreman employed at No. 1 Dam on the Trent.

He replaced Donald Joss, formerly of Sidney Twp. Mr. Joss, now retired and living in the Bahamas, returned to the riding early yesterday for the evening's proceedings.

Two residents of Batawa captured senior party association posts. Anthony Dalosz took the vice-presidency, while John Loucks became treasurer. Mel Boulton of Trenton remains as secretary.

Election of local party officers took place at Batawa Recreation Order before an annual meeting crowd of 135 association members.

Several resolutions were drafted in the Batawa session, including one that Canada's domestic footwear and textile industries be protected by a quota system.

Other policy resolutions to be forwarded to senior governments include recommendations that nursing homes be covered by Medicare, that the Trent university receive better advertisement and that the Prime Minister be invited to visit the riding.

Mr. Burnham explained that approval was delayed while a 28-day appeal period was in effect. No opposition was received to the newly organized water area which received provincial approval on Aug. 4.

Following the Sept. 10 deadline for receipt of appeals, Mr. Burnham received verbal approval in a conversation with Ken Sharpe, assistant general manager of the OWRC under manager D. Caverly.

The new reservoir, which alone will cost more than $300,000, will provide water to Thurlow Township, adjacent communities and the north end of the city. Further reservoirs to provide extra water to the rest of Belleville, have not come up for approval.

Mushrooms Grow At Wellington

WELLINGTON — Wellington's newest industry, a mushroom plant, constructed by the Campbell Soup Company, is now officially in operation.

A plant spokesman said today that 18 men hired gradually since late in June are at present employed.

Spawn for the mushrooms has been planted and it is expected that female workers will be hired to harvest the mushroom plant's first crop in early October.

Successful Living

There Is Usually Confusion of Roles in Single Parent Family

By DEBBIE CLARK

Children, and two parents. That's the ideal situation. But if observe the 12-year-old boy who dominates his parents' every whim. Or when I see how little it takes to bribe a child to the TV set, and not have it budge an inch when time's getting short, I realize that this is the ideal of the future.

Where the single-parent family is headed by a mother, all the roles get mixed up. She herself has become breadwinner, as well as housekeeper and nurse of children, the cook, and the lock in the life of a father.

Then there's the situation in which a widowed father takes his daughter in the care of her mother. He wasn't his girl to have loving care, but after being out of town a good deal he is dismayed to see how much she needs him.

Dear Doris: Recently my daughter got to be married, and, due to circumstances, the wedding was called off. Her fiance broke the engagement and she received...

WEDDING

MOORE — ROY

Joan Kathaleen Roy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Roy of R.R. 1, Tweed, and Robert Nelson Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Moore, were married recently in the Church of Sacred Heart of Mary at Madoc. The double ring ceremony was solemnized by Rev. Peter Murphy.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a long-sleeved pearl de nain gown with an embroidered bodice and a matching train. Her headpiece was a small cluster of flowers and scattered throughout her shoulder-length veil were miniature daisies. She carried a bouquet of yellow and white roses.

Lorna Roy, a sister of the bride was the maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Norma Brooks, another sister of the bride and Katharine Lacroix, her cousin. All three were dressed in maize chiffon gowns with long sleeves, embroidered cuffs and bodices. They carried cascades of assorted mauve, yellow and white flowers and wore matching flowers in their hair.

The bride's mother wore a yellow chiffon gown with lace sleeves and wide cuffs. Her hair was styled with yellow and white roses and she wore a matching corsage had white accessories.

The bridegroom's mother wore a floor-length gown of mint green taffeta with puff-ed, white-trimmed sleeves. She too had flowers in her hair and wore a yellow and white corsage.

For the wedding trip to New York State, the bride left in a silver rayon and linen dress with a long mess gown, cardigan-style vest in combed velvet.

A Variation of Hemlines

Mrs. B. Hamilton has the best of both worlds — a china mink midi coat with a detachable bottom that zips off to make it knee-length. The event was the fashion show sponsored by the Minerva Chapter of Order Eastern Star, held at the Masonic Temple on Wednesday evening.

Minerva Chapter OES Presents Showing of New Winter Styles

By SUSAN KORAH
Women's Reporter

For midi fans as well as those who still think the midi is dowdy, the fashion show presented by Woodley Furriers, Belleville, and sponsored by the Minerva Chapter of the Order Eastern Star at the Masonic Temple on Sept. 16, demonstrated the elegance of the midi when it is complemented by the right accessories.

A number of midi coats in mink, Tweed, Persian Lamb and various other fabrics reminded the large audience of a more elegant, more gracious era about to return in the near future. Hats co-ordinated by Eva Wannemaker was the crowning glory of many of the costumes and scarves in bright, warm colors by Helen Harper and pantyhose by Kayser added greatly to the total look of each. Gloves, boots and handbags also figured prominently in the show.

With background music played by Mrs. Burkitt, six models paraded before the crowd. Among the 30 outfits modelled a double-breasted tweed, Aquascutum midi coat, straight from Regent Street, London, modelled by Mrs. June Woodley caught the eye.

For those who prefer the slightly offbeat, Mrs. J. Haslet showed a natural camo pastel poncho with a fringe and pearl buttons down the front. A midi coat in natural china mink cut horizontally drew murmers of admiration from the crowd when model Mrs. B. Hamilton zipped off the hem to make it regular length. Mrs Wilma Summers showed a dark brown double-breasted Swakara coat in longuette length with a notch collar. Mrs. B. Marsh's Mackenzie River wild mink jacket made of female skins featured cocktail sleeves and cuffs. Petite Mrs. A. Shaw showed off a natural muskrat coat with leather insert and a collar and hem trimmed with Russian Blue Fox.

The draw for an aquaculture raincoat was won by Mrs. Andrew Rabb of Belleville and the second prize of pantyhose was won by Mrs. Eunice Leadlaw of Montreal.

Mr. Pauline Swain, soloist, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Lyle Rees entertained the gathering. Refreshments were served after the show.

The show was convened by Mrs. Pauline Clare. The commentator was Doug Woodley of Woodley Furriers. Worthy Matron of the Minerva Chapter is Mrs. Kathleen Poole and Worth Patron, Arthur Clare.

Anniversary Date Causes Argument

ANN LANDERS HATTIE

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I made a big mistake eight years ago. I got married on the morning day of deer-hunting season. Every anniversary season is fight. Every year I want to go home and celebrate my anniversary with me.

This year the boys have a new spot and a good lead. Dave is crazy to go. I think he's a little of him and knew what him on. His last words were, "O.K. I'll tell the guys I can't make it." That was three days ago and he hasn't called or spoken to me since.

I feel miserable. That creek has known how to get to me. What should I do? — HATTIE

DEAR HAT: Let the crumb go, and set another date for the annual celebration. I suggest the day after deer-hunting season. What kind of anniversary would it be — sitting around with a corpse? Maybe he were more wives else? Of course, your husband is selfish, but forcing him to stay home won't solve that problem. He'll be a happy man when he returns from the trip and you'll be glad you let him go.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am deeply concerned about my 16-year-old niece. Her mother died three years ago and my husband and I are her legal guardians.

Dalia is very pretty, makes excellent grades in school and is popular. She has many friends, both boys and girls, and seems well adjusted. At first I thought the problem was kid stuff, something she'd outgrow, but it's getting worse. I see solid evidence that Dalia takes a fiendish delight in making boys fall for her, then she drops them with such brutality it breaks my heart. Last week a very fine young man left our home in tears.

The girl has shown me pathetic letters from miserable admirers, pleading for an explanation or another chance. She has a "love scrapbook," of notes collected from various sweethearts. What is wrong with this child? Is she a girl trying to get even in such a heartless manner? — CONCERNED.

DEAR CONCERNED: Your niece's punishing approach to males is a symptom of a deep-seated emotional problem. A girl who is so insecure that the only way she can get satisfaction is by destroying vulnerable admirers needs outside help. I hope she receives it soon.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A big family argument is going on and we want to know who is right and who is wrong. It started over snapshots.

Our relatives are all crazy over pictures. We like them, too, but we've never owned a camera and we appreciate it when other members of the family share their pictures with us.

Our daughter got married a few weeks ago and being five months pregnant she asked all relatives to please leave their cameras at home. Well, I have a brother who does as he pleases no matter what. He brought his camera to the church and took dozens of pictures. He continued to take pictures at the reception.

Last night he brought the pictures to our home. Rosa was present. Some of the pictures were very good. Others were very bad — if you know what I mean.

Rosa became upset. She feels that since her uncle brought his camera after everyone had strict orders not to, he should hand over all the prints and negatives and let her decide which ones should be used and which should be destroyed. Is she right? — BETWEEN TWO FIRES.

DEAR B.: I believe the bride's wishes should be respected.

Marine Academy Has Female Instructor

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point, N.Y., has its first female instructor, a public professor teaching navigation and engineering.

Mrs. Mulligan Kelly began teaching at the academy in July, helping prepare young men to become officers in the merchant marine or the U.S. Naval Reserve. She says she's encountered no hostility either from her 30 students or her male colleagues.

"Generally everyone seems very pleased to have me," she said in a telephone interview. "People have gone out of their way to help me."

The 34-year-old, five - foot - brunette is used to being one of the only females around. Before going to the academy, she taught computer science at Pace College in New York City.

"At first there were mostly men in the class," she recalled. "Later on, it was not unusual to have girls in the class."

Mrs. Kelly said she has experienced "very little" discrimination because of her sex.

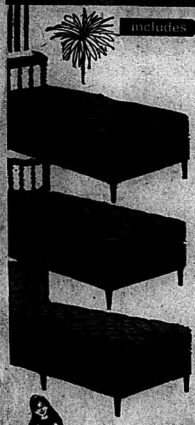
Better In England



MONTREAL (CP) — Helga Abraham, a CBC producer in London, says that when she vacationed in Montreal, "all I got were jeering stares, nasty propositions and not a single real normal conversation." She adds: "Canadian men in that land are superbly handsome, polite and charming, but as conversationalists, man, Americans and even Australians are Englishmen."

Installation Ceremony Held for Ex-servicewomen's Branch

Mrs. Robert W. Cassels, the former Jean Gilmour, receiving her graduated from the Toronto General Hospital school of nursing. Mrs. Cassels who is a graduate of Quinte Collegiate and Vocational School, Belleville has been employed as a nursing supervisor at the staff of St. Joseph's Hospital in Brantford.

At the September meeting of the Ont. Prov. Wife Branch, Royal Canadian Legion Executive committee, the newly elected executive was officially installed.

The ceremony was conducted by Mrs. Jessie Allen (nee Jessie Ballville Hall), president, Harold Vaughan, a district officer, and George Calbery Sgt.-at-Arms.

Mrs. Ron Rollins was re-elected for a second year as president with Dorothy Burney as vice-president; Dorothy Barbee, treasurer; Nell Dorothy Howes, secretary; Sgt.-at - Arms, Jessi MacDonald and executive body; Joan Clare, Jamieson.

Speaking to the Ex-servicewomen, Jack Rollins stated that he was pleased with the ambitious plans for the new building, and that the new structure will definitely serve as a centre for Veterans activities and social functions. Previous to the installation of officers for both Branch 167 and the Ladies' Auxiliary, with candidates listed briefly below.

The building chairman, Harold Vaughan, explained construction plans and said they would be consulting both women' groups regarding decor — and furnishings. Volunteer labour, he said, will be a required, to reduce the ele ilding costs.

Dorothy Howes accepted the chairmanship of the Branch 167 public relations committee, the resignation of Billie Kirby.

Registration teams for the 1st Battalion reunion, were organized by Mrs. Rollins, Friday afternoon at the Legion Hall and continues all day Saturday, September 26 and Sunday, September 27.

TORONTO (CP) — A lockshing steel pin fired by a workman's rivet gun went through the wall of a Toronto home and into the chest of a woman in the next apartment. Hamilton Area Services, 20, was taken to hospital with the rivet imbedded in her body.

45th Anniversary

A family reunion was held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hamell on Maxwelle to mark the occasion of their 45th wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Brennan (nee Margaret Plewman) were married on October 8, 1925 in St. Charles Borromeo Church at Bridd.

Present at the event was a son Hamell and his wife of Marysville, and their children Mrs. Mike (Monika) Bird of Parkhill; Mrs. Francis (Jean) Healy of Napanee; Mrs. Kenneth (Carmelita) Power of Marysville; Mrs. Robert (Patricia) McCutcheon, Haliburton; Mrs. Gerard (Marjorie) McCauley of Brampton and their respective husbands.

An informal dinner was served by the family when guests were seated at an attractively decorated table featuring arrangements of lemon asters.

Mercury in Flour and Meat Perhaps Worse Than in Fish

TORONTO (CP) — An emphasis on mercury contamination in fish has resulted in a neglect of research into contamination of other foods such as meat and flour, a Toronto specialist said Wednesday.

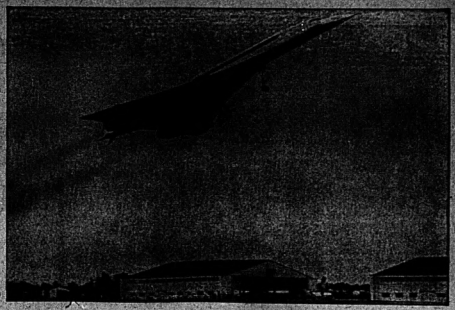
Dr. R. E. Jervis, professor at the University of Toronto's chemical engineering and applied chemistry department, told a news conference that "a panic stage has not been reached but we certainly must take the matter more seriously."

He said mercury contamination in meat and flour could be more serious because the average North American eats more of these foods than fish.

Dr. Jervis, in a report last June, said more than half the 309 foods he examined in Canada had mercury concentrations equal to or greater than the .05 parts per million safety level suggested by the World Health Organization.

Some of the levels included: 4 in uncleaned wheat, .34 in flour tested in Winnipeg, .21 in hamburger in a Toronto store, .22 in cat's liver in Winnipeg, and .199 in beef liver tested in Vancouver.

When mercury was discovered in fish in the Lake St. Clair and Detroit River areas of Ontario last year, the national food and drug directorate set a .5 safety standard.



Dr. Jervis said one of the greatest problems is that man is just beginning to learn about mercury contamination and methods of measuring the metal have not been perfected.

Prof. Thomas Hutchinson of the university's botany department said a study is being made of pesticides, mercury and other heavy metals in the Holland Marsh area, a rich vegetable-producing region about 30 miles north of Toronto.

He said no conclusive results have been obtained although certain plants and trees have been found to have high concentrations of DDT.

Dr. Jervis said that in his study he found low concentration of mercury in vegetables.

Although mercury is found in most soils, it is not found in large quantities in Ontario.

Longer Navigation Season On Great Lakes Is Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Great Lakes shipping interests asked congressional support Wednesday for projects designed to extend the navigation season on the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence seaway.

Spokesmen told a Senate public works subcommittee on rivers and harbors that the objective is vital to the growth and prosperity of the Great Lakes region.

On behalf of the Great Lakes Conference of Senators, William Fransaire (Dem. Wis.) and Philip A. Hart (Dem. Mich.) proposed incorporating in an omnibus rivers and harbors bill an authorization for the U.S. Army engineers to make detailed studies of measures to eliminate or control ice conditions.

After a preliminary study, the engineers concluded last December that extension of the navigation season—now usually early April to mid-December—is considered to be of manageable proportions and possibly within economic limits.

James Scovic of Dow Chemical Co., representing 19 Canadian and 40 United States industrial firms using Great Lakes shipping, asked that the detailed study be accompanied by demonstration projects starting this winter to use and improve known technology.

He addressed the demonstration projects on communications and ship aids to encourage more shipping to remain on the lakes in winter would cost $1 million a year for three years.

August Exports Are Lower

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian exports in August reached an estimated total value of $1,208 million, up by 15 per cent from the strike-hit month of August, 1966, but a decline from the pace of foreign sales in the first seven months of this year.

Adjusted to discount seasonal fluctuations in trade, this year's August exports are valued at $1,223 million, down by seven per cent from the average pace of $1,426 million in the first seven months of the year; a revised $1,423 million for July alone.

A slowdown in exports to Britain, partly because of summer dock strikes there, accounted for a major share of the decline in seasonally-adjusted figures.

Teen-agers Suffering Gum Ills

MONTREAL (CP) — Between 85 and 90 per cent of North American teen-agers are suffering the initial stages of gum disease, the American Academy of Peridontology was told Wednesday.

Dr. Irving Glickman, of the Dental Medicine School at Tufts University, Boston, told 1,000 delegates at the academy's annual conference that gum disease begins in the teen-age years and is the major cause of tooth decay.

Regular brushing with fluoride toothpaste is the best method of combatting the infections, he said.

Dr. D. L. Anderson of Hamilton told delegates that lip cancer appears to have its highest incidence among people with outdoor occupations in southern climates

A high incidence of lip cancer in Quebec and the northeastern U.S. is likely the result of heavy tobacco use and air and water pollution, Dr. Anderson said.

Collision In Middle Of Channel

VANCOUVER (CP) — A photo analyst testified Wednesday that the collision between the British Columbia ferry Queen of Victoria and the Soviet freighter Sergey Yesenin appeared to have happened in the middle of the shipping channel through Active Pass.

Cyril Kelly, an employee of the national defence department, based his testimony before a federal inquiry on his analysis of a photograph of the two ships after the collision.

Arabs Now Using Terrorist Tactics Which Worked for Jews

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

At the centre of the Middle East conflict lies the problem of Israel. A history riddled with terror has convinced not a few Israelis that ruthlessness is necessary, that ruthlessness pays.

Blackmail and terrorization of captive passengers are perpetrated by persons professing to believe that the ability or willingness of the world community to punish such acts is questionable. But it has been so for decades. Violence has signalled either the end or the terror to assist or because of the possible demand the world quieten.

A generation ago the Zionist Jews of Palestine had armed themselves against the threat of Arab zeal spectrum. Some exponents of violence were disciplined members of a paramilitary force, others extremists whose acts sometimes were denounced by the leadership as damaging to the cause.

The 20th century had brought Bible figures to life: Moses in the Middle East, and in today's headlines, still appear. Pharaohs are sought-to-be-dead for over-kill, such explosives tends to be more terror-wrecking than its predecessor.

Zionism echoed the dream of Jews, diaspored 1,900 years ago by the Romans and persecuted since in many countries, to return to the homeland of Abraham, David and Solomon. Theodor Herzl, Zionism's prophet, said the Jewish problem could only be solved only by making it a political world question.

It was made that soon enough by such things as the discovery of Middle East oil shortly and growing importance of the new Suez canal and by a development which came to be referred to as "the Arab awakening."

For four centuries Arabs were under the domination of the Ottoman Empire of the Turks. Now, propagandized by the British, they were filled with dreams of independence to follow the defeat of the Turks in the First World War. Arabs fought on the side of Britain, lured by British promises that Britain, needing help elsewhere, also made a fateful promise to the Zionists. The Balfour Declaration of 1917. It pledged British support for a Jewish national home, without qualification to the rights of the resident Arabs.

Given a post-war mandate by the Allied powers, ratified by the League of Nations later, Britain, as the ruling power in Palestine would be constantly reminded of the promises. Did what about the promises to the Arabs? Arabs never had had a state in Palestine, having for 400 years been a vilayet of the province of Syria. Now the dreamed of the sort of self-determination the victorious Allies had spoken about.

Instead of having their dreams fulfilled, the Arabs after the First World War found their state area carved into British and French spheres of influence. In Palestine, the British, in their open-door policy on Jewish immigration and the flow was heavy. Politically the Jews, with their superior education and skills, were able to organize. The Palestine Arabs, three-quarters of them rural and illiterate, were no match for the incoming Europeans.

Arabs nurtured a deep sense of injury against the British and French for the way they filled the Turkish colonial vacuum. The resentment became a new power, when, in the mid-1930s, a British royal commission proposed partitioning Palestine into Arab and Jewish states.

The Arabs turned to terror tactics, rioting and strikes. Eventually, Britain had 20,000 troops on hand to try to contain the situation. About 1,000 Arabs, 300 Jews and 200 British personnel were killed or wounded in that period, but terror seemed to work.

In 1939, when Britain had reason to worry about attracting the Arabs in a world threatened by war, London produced a white paper. It said Palestine would be an independent state in 10 years with a Jewish minority limited to 30 per cent. Immigration would be cut off and Jewish purchase of land restricted.

It was a blow to the Zionists but, as Britain hoped, the white paper averted an Arab revolt. The outbreak of the Second World War sealed the Palestine scrabbling temporarily.

By 1943, it was the Zionists' turn. They began to attack the British administration. One source of support was the British refusal to permit docking in Palestine of leaky old ships crammed with Jews fleeing from Europe overrun by Nazis. One such ship sank off Turkey.

Zionist underground even decided to force a change in British immigration policy. Clearly there was a whirlwind feeling among Zionists that moderation did not pay. Terror and violence could work. The Jews felt it would work for the Zionists.

By war's end, three underground organizations which had grown alongside the Western Allied had "confined" themselves with supplies of Allied arms for Haganah, a central defence militia, and for more violent elements such as Irgun Zvai Leumi and the far-out Stern Gang, all of them declared illegal by the British mandatory power.

Irgun and the Stern Gang were responsible for spectacular acts such as widespread terror attacks, raids on British military and police posts, the bombing of the British high commissioner, the murder of the British minister of state for the Middle East, and so forth.

Although some Jews denounced acts of terrorism, it openly boasted of such acts as the bombing of the King David Hotel in Jerusalem in 1946, anti-British bombings, armed robberies, plane attacks and arms explosives which blew British soldiers to bits.

But labels, terrorism seemed to be getting results. Britain's new post-war Labor government was under severe pressure from the United States and world opinion to ease the immigration policy. The wartime Hitler massacre of the Jews had built up widespread sympathy for Zionism.

Gen. Britain was asking the United Nations to consider the question. A UN committee, drawing heavily from the British proposal of just a decade before, proposed partition. In November, 1947, the General Assembly voted a majority plan for partition into Jewish and Arab states, with international enclaves for Jerusalem and Bethlehem. The Jews supported the plan, the Arabs denounced it, along with most of the underdeveloped Asian-African world. The Arabs said any attempt to set up a Jewish state would be resisted by force.

In effect, the Arab-Israeli war had begun. By the turn of the year, Arabs had invaded from surrounding states, inflicting heavy casualties on Jewish defenses. Britain, frustrated by inability to counter all the violence, announced plans to surrender mandatory power May 15, instead of Aug. 1, as scheduled under the UN plan.

Haganah now emerged from underground as the core of the Jewish army. Irgun and the Stern Gang operated on their own against their own targets. And a day before Britain was to take down her flag, Israel proclaimed herself a reborn nation. The Arabs invaded in force and it was full-scale war.

The UN Security Council assigned Sweden's Count Folke Bernadotte as its mediator. By September he was dead, the victim of a Jewish assassin. Israeli authorities blamed the Stern Gang.

Haganah had struck heavily and hard, leaving Arabs in flight as it seized territory which was to be assigned to a Jewish state. By the time an armistice was achieved in 1949, Israel had taken from the defeated Arab armies somewhat more territory than was assigned under the UN plan. About 750,000 Arab civilians had fled their homes to become displaced persons, the first contingents of a class of Arabs which to this day remains a source of danger for the entire area.

The next phase begins with 1956 at a time of growing Soviet-American global conflict in the area. The Gaza Strip on Israel's southwest flank teemed with bitter Palestine refugees, many of them organized into commando units to stage terror raids on Israeli territory. Israel answered with counter blows and a huge military raid on the Egyptian-occupied strip Feb. 28, 1955.

Gamal Abdel Nasser, the rising new Arab leader, was humbled. This humiliation helped turn him to Moscow in quest of modern arms and support for his backward army. The Communist response was swift.

Terror and counter-terror became almost commonplace, and twice thereafter the conflict erupted into full-fledged war, first with a combined Israeli-British-French invasion of Egypt in 1956, and again in the six-day war of June, 1967. As before the Arabs were routed in humiliation, but they added to the tension and the potential for explosion.

Today, the Arabs are better armed than ever before. Al Israel 15 commando-guerrilla units of one stripe or another are threatening Israel.

The present is heavy on the United States and much of the West to bring about some sort of peace. Kosygin's American and European interests, including the handling of oil that fuels European industries, are at stake. As for the Russians, their interest in some sort of settlement likely would lie in security to avoid a showdown with the Americans.

But some elements do not want peace except on all-or-nothing terms. These include Libya's coup d'etat recently, cheered on by fringes of the Communist world. They may reason if terror has been effective so often in the past, perhaps it may be yet again.

Students Fooled Forecasters, Found Jobs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadian university and college students fooled many forecasters this summer by obtaining jobs the experts said would not be available.

Aided by federal manpower programs, employment drives set up by business and campus placement offices, thousands of students were able to find employment, despite predictions that the summer of 1970 would provide little or no work for them.

A survey of The Canadian Press indicates that, although there were some trouble spots, campus placement offices generally were successful in finding work for students.

Firm statistics are expected soon when the manpower department releases a national survey compiling data on how many students registered for jobs and what happened to them.

In Ontario, the University of Toronto took part in a manfound work for 86 per cent of 3,619 students who registered there.

David Currey, Toronto's placement director, said his office found there were fewer openings than last year but basically they were available. The Toronto total was in a manpower department operation which set up eight centres in the city and 49 throughout the province. John Nelles, program director, said referrals were up 34 per cent from 1969 and that although the manufacturing sector had fewer openings the per-lost generally in other sectors.

In Ottawa, Carleton University and the University of Ottawa set up the University Student Employment Bureau which co-ordinator Charles Levy called "highly successful."

The program placed 2,773 students. These in engineering, economics, commerce and journalism had the most success. Many of 1,000 students hired for registered with manpower, up from 1969.

Many other Ontario centres did well. Manpower in Orillia placed 80.4 per cent of make ship dents who registered there and Hamilton helped out nearly all of 1,200 who registered with the manpower department found work.

Last year 866 of 2,462 students who registered obtained jobs.

Of the 86.4 per cent of male students who found work in Orillia, 346 were placed by the manpower department and found jobs on their own and 127 were not heard from after registration.

Female student employment rose to 58.6 per cent this year from 47 per cent last year.

In Sault Ste. Marie, the increase in placements came after the Chamber of Commerce and the municipal government helped out.

One spokesman said 1,600 students registered last spring and only 508 high school students from lower grades did not find work.

The program in Hamilton, successful with a 36 per cent increase in placements, was compared by the fact that the dollar volume of jobs this year was $2,000,000 as opposed to $932,000 last year.

The Hamilton Chamber of Commerce has asked local companies to maintain staffs with at least five-per-cent student workers.

Nearly three-quarters of the 288 students placed by the manpower department in Sarnia found jobs that lasted more than a month. The department registered twice as many students as it did in 1969, although it placed only 10 per cent more.

Part of the gap was filled with make-work projects in the department of national defence.

Compensation Suggested For Wrongful Arrest

TORONTO (CP) — An Ontario Supreme Court judge suggested Wednesday that the province compensate a Toronto trucker who was arrested by mistake.

Mr. Justice Lawrence Pennell said his court could not order a payment to Colin Crowe, 25, and dismissed a claim by Mr. Crowe for damages arising out of his Aug. 17, 1967, arrest.

But Mr. Justice Pennell said the Ontario attorney-general's department should consider compensation because of Mr. Crowe's "mental sufferings . . . inspired by the fear that, due to a miscarriage of justice, he might receive a severe sentence because of his long criminal record."

He said Mr. Crowe, who had been convicted three times of uttering was arrested in Toronto and held for three hours. Police believed him to be a Colin Crone of RR 1 Cayuga, Ont., near Hamilton.

Colin Crone was accused of passing a worthless cheque for $150 to buy a horse trailer from John Royle of East Flamboro Township.

Mr. Justice Pennell said the similarity of names and ages played a part in the mixup. He set damages at $1,000 in case his decision is appealed.

NO SLUDGE

DETROIT (AP) — The city is installing a device on parking meters which will reject any kind of slug, including riddle-width, beer-can rings, washers and token coins. Earl Floyd, a member of the treasurer's staff in charge of parking-meter revenue, says the city has been losing $10 to $12 a week because of the bogus coins.

Snowmobile Probe

MONTREAL (CP) — The International Snowmobile Industry Association will conduct research into the effects of the winter vehicles on the environment, ISIA president C. Rene Bourassa said Wednesday.

Mr. Bourassa told a news conference the industry will study complaints that snowmobiles caused damage to wildlife and wilderness area.

Hees Urges Productivity Tax Break

WOODSTOCK (CP) — George Hees, former trade minister, said Wednesday night the federal government should offer tax rebates to companies that increase productivity and hold prices down.

In a speech prepared for delivery to the Chamber of Commerce, the Progressive Conservative member for Prince Edward-Hastings said the government should try to increase business activity three ways by reducing costs and selling prices to make Canadian goods more competitive, by steering Canadian manufactured products to better advantage in world markets and by restoring confidence in the future of the economy.

"The first step I suggest would be to offer tax incentives to induce greater productivity, whereby a plant would be rewarded in the form of a tax rebate at the end of the year, based upon a specific increase in productivity during the preceding 12 months."

He said incentives also should be given manufacturers who keep price increases within the 2.5 per cent guideline the government has said is acceptable.

OSSTF Favors Arbitration

STRATFORD (CP) — The president of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation says teachers want provincial legislation as a means of breaking salary negotiation deadlocks.

"Teachers generally believe there should be some binding arbitration," G. P. Wilkinson said in an interview this week.

He said such legislation might have prevented the situation that arose earlier this year when no board in the province was able to hire teachers because the Toronto boards of education were unable to reach an agreement with Toronto teachers.

However, Mr. Wilkinson was strongly opposed to salary guidelines imposed by a government, and to a uniform salary schedule for the province.

Campaign By CBRT Approved

QUEBEC (CP) — The leadership of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers voted to endorsement from convention delegates Wednesday for its advertising campaign against abandonment of passenger service by Canadian railways.

Executive Vice - President M. E. Carson said the CBRT has been able to persuade only two other railway unions—the International Association of Machinists and the Brotherhood of Railway, Steamship and Airline Clerks—to join the $40,000 advertising campaign. Slop, which was announced in the summer.

Bourassa Is Claiming Success At First Constitutional Meet

OTTAWA (CP) — Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa returns to his home province today claiming success at his first constitutional conference and at Wednesday's federal-provincial conference on non-constitutional matters.

Whether Quebecers will see the results of Mr. Bourassa's work the same way is another matter.

The 37-year-old economist who came to power in the April 29 general election was received enthusiastically by Canada's other first ministers for his conciliatory approach at the talks, but they were less excited by his proposals.

For the second straight day Wednesday, Mr. Bourassa saw one of his main proposals put aside by his counterparts in favor of matters which they feel are more pressing.

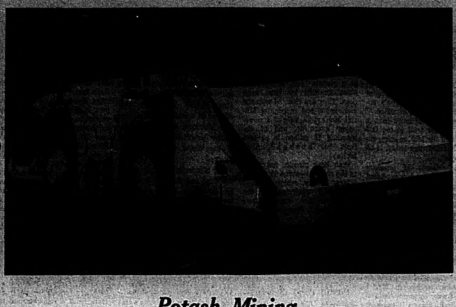
The Quebec premier proposed the creation of a federal organization fund to help provinces such as his own which have higher unemployment. The plan calls for loans and grants to be paid out of federal tax revenues to be spent in the province involved, decides.

Although he told reporters "several other premiers accepted the idea," that acceptance was more cautiously expressed by the other premiers themselves.

A statement issued by the first ministers at the end of the conference said that, while some found the proposal "of special interest," others spoke of "the totality of resources already being redistributed from the higher-income to the lower-income regions."

Premier John Roberts of Ontario described it as another form of the equalization programs already in existence. He asked: "Isn't it time we took a look at the total effect on the total country of these transfers?"

Mr. Bourassa defended the proposal as one way of fighting regional economic disparities, a campaign to which all Canadian governments were committed, and mentioned federal government spending as another means.



Mr. Bourassa also did not receive a clear answer to his request for the re-imbursement of $250,000,000 his government estimates has been paid out to Quebecers under the two-per-cent social development surtax on personal income.

The Quebec government maintains that the surtax was imposed in part to finance a medical care insurance plan. Quebec has not yet entered the plan, and the province wants the money back.

Mr. Bourassa said the federal government has agreed to consider Quebec's position when it draws up new equalization arrangements in 1972, and he expects an answer from Ottawa in six or seven months.

The previous day, Mr. Bourassa's appeal for accelerated constitutional negotiations was received with an apparent lack of enthusiasm.

Mr. Bourassa said Quebec had scored a "certain achievement" when the conference approved bilateral considerations for among the provinces and the federal government, but the idea was Mr. Thatcher's, not his.

Potash Mining

Some GMC Trucks Collapsed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A United States government study showing that some of General Motors' pickup trucks collapsed under normal use has prompted the national highway safety bureau to ask the manufacturer to testify at a hearing Sept. 30.

In the past, similar allegations that GM used inferior steel wheels on its three-quarter ton Chevrolet and GMC 1969-65 pickup trucks were answered by GM claims that the vehicles broke apart only when overloaded.

However, the bureau disclosed Tuesday that a government research study dated Sept. 3 has found 36 cases of wheel failures in the models of pickup trucks not equipped with welded adding camper or other heavy bodies attached. Some 200,000 pickup trucks in question were manufactured by GM.

Murder Research Advocated

SUDBURY (CP) — A Wiarton Indian chieftain said Wednesday he has asked a member of Parliament to look into the possibility of setting up a research program with convicted killers.

Rev. J. T. James, president of the Canadian Correctional Chaplains Association, made the announcement at the annual meeting of the association's Ontario region.

Mr. James, an Anglican minister, said the research program should be aimed at establishing whether the death penalty or its elimination would have had any effect on the killers.

The death penalty, except for the murder of policemen and prison guards, was abolished in Canada in 1967 for a five-year trial period.

Plant Planned

HALIFAX (CP) — Data Factors Ltd. of Port Credit, Ont., will get an incentive payment of $500,000 under the Regional Development Incentives Act, a spokesman for the regional economic expansion department said here Wednesday.

The grant will be provided for construction of a new printing facility at Amherst, N.S., which will employ 96 persons and involves total capital costs of about $1.6 million.

Probe Deals With Trading

VICTORIA (CP) — The British Columbia Securities Commission said Tuesday its investigation of Canada Kelp Co. Ltd., Apollo Distributors Ltd. and other related firms involves only trading in shares.

"There is no allegation of conversion or misappropriation or fraud relating to the funds or property of any of the companies," said Robert Scott, lawyer in the commission's Vancouver office.

It was disclosed Tuesday that the investigation was ordered by Attorney-General Leslie Peterson, whose brother-in-law, Harold R. Hinds, is an officer of Canada Kelp and Apollo Distributors.

London Public Still Gripped By Drama of Murder Trial

LONDON (CP) — Turmoil in the Middle East still occupies most headlines, but there's tickling that grabs the attention of the London public more than a classic murder trial at the Old Bailey, and the McKay case, entering its fourth day today, is no exception.

To inhabitants of Sherlock Holmes's city that has produced such legendary villains as Jack the Ripper and Dr. Crippen, the most gripping drama comes not in threats but in the cosy, papershod, No. 1 courtroom of that grey stone building under the gilded figure of justice.

Each day a queue of Londoners forms outside the Old Bailey — property known as the Central Criminal Courts—for tickets in the public benches in No. 1 court. There, Attorney-General Sir Peter Rawlinson is conducting the prosecution in the bizarre case labelled by some newspapers as the "murder without a body."

On trial are two Trinidad-born brothers, Arthur and Nizamodeen Hosein, respectively a tailor and a farm laborer, who live at a remote farm in Berkshire's countryside by two fierce dogs. They are charged with the kidnapping and murder of Muriel McKay, 52, wife of a newspaper executive, and of depositing 71 million in ransom from her husband, Alick McKay.

Both have pleaded not guilty to the charges—seven in all.

Mrs. McKay, whose husband is deputy chairman of the mass-circulation Sunday News of the World, disappeared from her South London home last Dec. 28. Her body has not been found.

The prosecution alleged at the opening of trial Monday that Mrs. McKay had been kidnapped in mistake for Mrs. Rupert Murdoch, wife of the Australian proprietor of the News of the World and Sun newspapers.

The Murdochs were abroad at the time and the McKays—also an Australian family—had the loan of their Rolls-Royce. Nizamodeen Hosein, 27, made seven appearances through his counsel Tuesday, including one that he had appealed to the Greater London Council for details of the Rolls-Royce's owner.

On Wednesday, a leading expert in Scotland Yard's fingerprint branch identified a single palm-print found on a cleaning rag for 11 minutes with Mrs. Arthur Hosein and said a finger-print on a note from Mrs. McKay also was his.

Eyewitness members of the McKay family testified about mysterious telephone calls after Mrs. McKay's disappearance, for which the caller described himself as "Mr. Big of World Group 3 America" and had a "Paki Indian-type accent."

Independent Canada Group Is Formed

TORONTO (CP) — Formation of a citizens' committee to safeguard Canadian independence from the United States was announced at a news conference Wednesday.

The committee for an Independent Canada is headed by J. G. McClelland, president of McClelland and Stewart Ltd., Toronto book publishers and Claude Ryan, editor and publisher of the Montreal newspaper Le Devoir.

Honorary chairman is Walter Gordon, finance minister in the Liberal government of former prime minister Lester Pearson.

Cambodia Moves Toward Republic

PHNOM PENH (Reuters) — Cambodia has been moving steadily toward becoming a republic since Prince Norodom Sihanouk was overthrown as head of state six months ago.

But Gen. Lon Nol's new government is stuck on timing.

On one hand, the government recognizes it must move slowly to prepare domestic opinion for the switch from Cambodia's traditional monarchy.

On the other hand, Nol's government is busy seeking recognition and support from abroad and is wary of putting legal problems in the way of recognition.

Because of this, it appears unlikely that Cambodia will declare itself a republic until the 1970 session of the United Nations General Assembly—scheduled to open in New York next week—is well under way.

The situation is further complicated because, since he was ousted March 15, Sihanouk has set up a government-in-exile

Viet Cong Submits New Plan

PARIS (Reuters) — The Viet Cong presented today a new series of proposals aimed at a military and political settlement in South Vietnam.

The proposals were based on the guerrillas' existing 10-point peace plan, including their demands for total American withdrawal and the replacement of the present Saigon leadership.

The Viet Cong said that it the United States agreed to withdraw all its troops and those of its foreign allies from South Vietnam by June 30, 1971, the guerrilla forces would stop attacking them ad would discuss safety guarantees and the question of releasing prisoners.

The proposals, made by chief Viet Cong negotiator Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh at the Paris peace conference, called for talks to establish a coalition government composed of members of the Viet Cong-backed provisional revolutionary government, members of the present Saigon administration who want peace, independence, neutrality and democracy, and political exiles.

As a first step Mrs. Binh said the provisional regime is ready to talk with a Saigon administration which would exclude President Nguyen Van Thieu, Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky and Prime Minister Tran Thien Khiem.

Policeman Assaulted

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A policeman was assaulted by four persons Wednesday night when he attempted to arrest a man at the clubrooms of the Apocalypse Motorcycle Club in connection with an attack Tuesday night at London's Drop In Centre for youths.

Const. Al Lewis was attacked as he led a man toward his cruiser and was knocked to the ground.

Police later arrested three men and seized two rifles, a shotgun and some bows and arrows in the clubrooms. Another person is being sought.

Charged with assaulting a police officer in connection with the incident is Alfred Frederick Belanger, 24, of London. Const. Lewis was serving Belanger with a warrant on a charge of robbery with violence in connection with the Tuesday night at the drop-in centre.

The centre was reopened Wednesday. It will remain open until Sept. 30, having been granted a two-week extension on its lease by the federal public works department.

Science Council Favors Short-takeoff Craft

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (CP) — The Science Council of Canada was putting finishing touches today on a proposal that Canada develop a trader aircraft in the design and construction of a transport system based on craft and related navigation and air traffic control.

Dr. O. M. Solandt, council chairman, said the council, meeting here as part of an arctic tour, is just about decided on making such a recommendation to the federal government.

He envisages "a major program of research and development leading to production and use of a complete short takeoff-and-landing aircraft and system."

The proposal has been under study by the council's transportation committee which has placed a recommendation before the council that it be given backing in a report to the federal government.

Dr. Solandt said a complete STOL (short takeoff and landing) system including navigational and air traffic control features would be a solution to the problem of transportation" between cities such as Montreal and Toronto in high-density ribbons of population.

"It also would produce an aircraft particularly suitable for many of the problems of the north and it seems to be a field specially suitable for Canadian expenditure."

Council members have been given first-hand evidence of the advantages of STOL aircraft during their northern tour which began last weekend. Many persons with whom they have come in contact have highly praised the Otter, a STOL plane, which one oil company officer told them earlier this week is beginning to revolutionize arctic transportation.

Dr. Solandt said Canada has a technical lead over other countries in STOL aircraft such as the Otter. Not only would development of a STOL system benefit the north and solve the central Canada transportation problem but it held promise of being a money-earner in export markets.

The Otter is a de Havilland aircraft product. Dr. Solandt is a former de Havilland vice-president of research.

At sessions Wednesday the science council decided to ask a special committee on the environment whether a new study needs to be launched in this area.

The privy council office and the energy, mines and resources department have just completed several environmental studies and there have been reports the government may ask parliament to legislate into being an environmental council.

Dr. Solandt said he personally believes "we should see if we can evolve a better mechanism to co-ordinate the attack on environmental problems."

It was possible the science council could look more objectively than other studies at this question.

Dr. Solandt said the organizations involved in examination and preservation of the environment must be better coordinated and the longer problems identified so that action can be taken.

He maintained that most, if not all, the environmental problems are manageable. What was needed was recognition that the decisions about the environment still always involve compromises.

A perfect example was the miles of seismic lines cut across the Arctic by oil exploration crews which disturb the tundra moss above the permafrost, gradually creating deep gullies that among other things affect movement of wildlife.

Dr. Solandt said that these lines have been cut indiscriminately but with proper organization, not nearly so many need be done to find promising oil deposits.

In considering its own environmental study, the council was aware of a need for considerable contribution from social scientists since environmental problems, especially in the cities, were essentially sociological.

He said he believes social scientists would be ready to participate with the science council which is predominantly composed of men trained in the natural sciences.

Dr. Gabriel Filteau is chairman of the council environmental committee and Dr. Peter Larkin, director of the institute of environmental studies. The vice-city of British Columbia, has been invited to be vice-chairman.

Harold Cardinal, 25-year-old author of The Unjust Society, is president of the Indian Association of Alberta, one of the most vocal Indian organizations in Canada. His book, which is a catalogue of Indian grievances, has sold 30,000 copies since it went on sale late in 1969.

B. C. Mediation Commission Orders Teamsters Settlement

VANCOUVER (CP) — The controversial British Columbia Mediation Commission ordered its first binding settlement in private industry Wednesday, setting terms of a new contract between the Teamsters union and three Vancouver-area cement companies.

The commission, set up by the provincial government in 1968, had previously confined itself to ordering binding decisions in the public sector, such as between policemen and their municipal employers.

In a landmark 16-page decision, the three-member commission ordered a 75-cent hourly pay boost for 900 Teamsters, spread over two years, on a base rate of $3.71 an hour. The contract is retroactive to Jan. 1.

The decision was expected to draw sharp criticism from the B.C. Federation of Labor, which has been sharply critical of the commission and has urged its affiliated unions to boycott it.

The Teamsters union is not a federation affiliate and has steered a course largely independent of the 126,000-member labor body in regard to the commission and its powers.

Provinces

posed changes in the Income Tax Act.

Finance Minister Edgar Benson promised that the provinces could make further submissions on his white paper tax proposals —and the changes in them—before the draft legislation is presented to Parliament in March or April.

The session will be a meeting of finance ministers this fall. And there will be another meeting in the spring when the legislation is introduced.

The conference-ending communique also said provinces with regulations which are restricting imports of farm products from other provinces will review the situation.

Agriculture Minister H. A. Olson told a reporter that these restrictions in interprovincial trade might widen to non-farm products unless a quick solution is found.

He maintained that the solution is in federal legislation for national farm marketing agencies which will be before Parliament when it reconvenes Oct. 8.

This legislation would establish uniform marketing regulations across the country for farm goods except cattle, which will be made exempt.

Premier Harry Strom of Alberta, said he agrees with Mr. Olson that the legislation will solve the problem in time. But a period of adjustment would be needed.

Premier Ed Schreyer of Manitoba, said the only agreement reached on this problem was an understanding not to extend the trade restrictions to byproducts beyond eggs and broilers.

Mr. Trudeau summed up the constitutional talks by saying he is less pessimistic now than two years ago about the country's chances of getting a new constitution.

But he still would not hazard a guess about how long this might take.

Too much time and energy had already gone into the constitutional review in the last three years to give it up now, he said.

Savings Bond Issue Planned

OTTAWA (CP) — The government goes to the people again to borrow money next month with the 20th annual issue of Canada Savings Bonds, offered this year at a lower interest rate than for the 1969 peak.

Average annual yield of the new issue to the buyer if held to maturity in 11 years will be 7¾ per cent, the finance department disclosed Wednesday. Last year's issue is bringing eight per cent over nine years.

But if a compound-interest bonus feature of the 1970 issue is added to yield calculations, the buyer will get a slightly higher yield than for the 1969 issue if he saves up the annual interest coupons for the longer life of the bond rather than cash them in each year.

Earlier bonds also carried a compound interest formula whereby the buyer allows his interest-earnings to stay in and earn more.

Like previous issues, the 1970 bonds may be cashed at any time for the face value plus accrued interest and can be purchased for cash or through payroll deductions.

1971. What a great year this is going to be. Just see what your Ford Dealer has for you. Big cars, small cars. In-between cars. Low-priced economy. High-style luxury. And all at your Ford Dealers. Take your pick. Pinto. Maverick. Mustang. Torino. Ford. Thunderbird. See all the better idea '71 cars now. At your Ford Dealer's.

STD MONTMAGNY

'71 FORD: Take a quiet break

Outside it's getting noisier. Inside an all-new Ford it's a quiet world born of strength and luxury. 17 models to choose from – from the very economical Custom to the super-luxurious LTD Brougham. And when it comes to wagons – nobody swings like Ford. With 3 way Magic Doorgate, and big 351 V8 as standard features. This year come to where the strength is, the luxury is, the value is, and the quiet is. The 1971 Ford.

PINTO: The little long distance car

Meet Ford's brand new Pinto. The little car with a little price and a lot to say. Goes a long distance between gas-stops (the tough 75 hp engine averages 30 miles per gallon). Easy to service. Handles delightfully around town – slips easily into mini parking space – and long distance driving is pure pleasure. For a car of Pinto's size, the interior room is remarkable. And comfortable. Just about everything you need is standard equipment at no extra cost. The options are sensible. Put a little kick in your life. See the little long distance car. Ford Pinto.

'71 MAVERICK: 3 ways to make life beautifully simple

MAVERICK GRABBER

For '71 there are three Mavericks. The original 2-door Maverick that caused the biggest stir on the car scene since Mustang. A new, longer 4-door Maverick that gives more room for back seat drivers. And Maverick Grabber, putting colourful sports pizzazz in driving economy. All three are very low-priced, economical to operate, simple to drive and maintain. A penny-pinching 170 cu. in. Six is standard. 200 and 250 cu. in. Sixes are available for extra power. Make your life beautifully simple in '71. Go get a Maverick.

TORINO 500

'71 MUSTANG: Sets the pace

This is the year of the most extensive styling changes since Mustang was first introduced. Long-nosed, lean-and low. With a wider road-gripping stance. With 3 exciting new shapes. With 6 all-new models – Sportsroof – Mach 1 – the totally new Base 351 – Luxurious Grandé – Convertible – and Mustang Hardtop that combines the sheer fun of driving with a low price tag. Here's proof that in '71, more than ever, Mustang is Number One. The best-selling sports car of all times.

MUSTANG MACH 1

'71 TORINO: The Ford that gives you better ideas...for less

Give all the benefits of big-car features, style, ride, room and comfort – yet keep the price low. That's the whole idea behind the '71 Torino. 14 sleek mid-sized models, with a new low-priced 4-door sedan that makes Torino even easier to own. The '71 Torino is durable. The right size – with comfortable room for six. The handling is nimble. The ride smooth. A full choice of Six and V8 engines. A tempting range of options you'd expect only in big cars. Torino is the car with Better Ideas for less. You'll agree.

Ford gives you better ideas...it's a fact

Intelligencer Sports

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 1970

by Maurice Switzer Sports Editor

One of the big problems about being the third-best tennis player in Canada is finding people to play with.

"I'm, it's very annoying," admitted Keith Carpenter. "That's why I don't play as much outside of tournaments as I'd like to."

Carpenter was giving his side of Canada's tennis story on a Belleville social chatterer. And he has the credentials to back up his claim. He's 19 years old, lives in Bath, finished three years behind his family-migrated from England.

Top ranked third in Canada behind Mike Belkin and John Sharpe, the quiet Canadian Carpenter has represented Canada seven times in Davis Cup competition and is currently Ontario's top seed.

"We're having a tennis boom in Canada—especially in Toronto because of the big prize coming to the Canadian Open," Carpenter was saying.

"Right now, we need that one great player to get everyone interested in the game."

Carpenter illustrated his point with the examples of Monica Seles, the 16-year-old Yugoslavian girl who defeat Evonne Goolagong in straight sets to win the Forest Hills Open, and Vincent Edwards, the 18-year-old who won the Davis Cup challenge round for Rio Rico Inns in 3K yesterday.

"And look at what happened to skiing here after Nancy Greene," he concluded.

KEITH CARPENTER

There's more than romance behind Carpenter's "love" concept.

"I never had any coaching — I only took one lesson when I was six. But my parents both played and I tried to copy the good players.

"I'd pick out the best players in a tournament and go and watch them play. That's what beginners should be doing and they develop their strokes, become more like they do. It's very difficult to change.

"At the moment in Canada, each player has to learn the game from square zero."

Carpenter saw the Australian domination of tennis as "a combination of a lot of things."

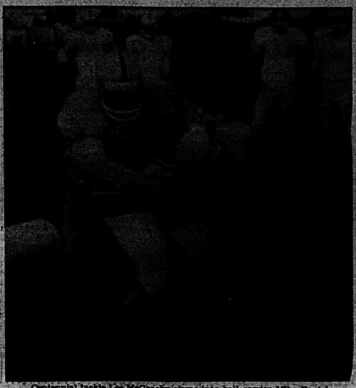
"They're brought up as winners and have coaching from an early age. But basically they are playing ten or eleven months a year.

"The most I've ever played is from January to September, and I went south that year.

"The 20 indoor courts in here were spring up in Toronto, and in Montreal are a direct fall-out. Upward, says Carpenter, but the coaching still is not available to Canadian youngsters.

"Tennis requires two kinds of coaching: one type for beginners and another to explain how to play the game properly to people past the novice stage," he says.

"And the Australians take any promising youngsters and send them to receive the best coaching."



If Carpenter finds a drawback in tennis, it's the time required to maintain peak form. That's why he decided not to go out for this year's Davis Cup competition and why he, will be playing most of his tennis from now on "for enjoyment's sake."

"Canada's players spend five weeks just playing tennis in their year's Davis Cup. I don't think my game would stand much of that," he chuckled.

Keith Carpenter offers another suggestion to upgrade Canada's sporting state of health.

"They should be teaching more sports like golf, tennis, or squash in our schools," he stresses. "You can play these games all your life."

"I don't think many boys get to play football after they're out of school."

Centennial tackle Les McGeachy slams into ball carrier Mike Yost in a Charger tackling drill last night. The senior Chargers will be looking to improve upon last year's fourth place finish when they take on the defending champion Quinte Saints in the opening game of the Bay of Quinte High School football season Tuesday.

Chargers Have Horses

By ERIC EMERSON
Staff Sportswriter
(Second of a Series)

Centennial Charger football coaches Doug Price and Ian McWatters, are in much the same position as a man on roller skates with a bucket of eggs. They could put together a COSSA-winning "omelet". They could also end up with egg on their faces.

Certainly the talent for a winning football team appears to be there. The senior Chargers are blessed with an experienced quarterback, breakaway speed in the backfield, and a number of decidedly large bodies on the line. So, why the cackle?

"We're still very inexperienced, because we don't know just exactly what some of these guys can do in game conditions," says head coach Price after his Gamut field scrimmage. "I just don't think they're aggressive enough out there."

As a result, the two Centennial mentors are leaning heavily towards conditioning and contact work in their pre-season workouts. The 45-player Charger unit, which includes 12 players from last year's fourth - place Bay of Quinte team, is spending much of their workout time on basic blocking and tackling drills in an effort to improve their 1969 record of three wins, three losses and a tie.

Positions on both the offensive and defensive squads appear to be far from set, and the coaches expect to have a number of players going both ways. "We'll start with two separate squads last year," Irvine explains, "but unless you have exceptional talent you are going to wind up with some guys out there who won't go all out."

Strength of the offensive unit would appear to be the backfield, despite the loss of speedy fleet-foot Fred Johnston a 10.3 man in the 100 yards. Mike Thompson will direct the Chargers' Power-I offense and he appears to possess the ability to be one of the seven-team league's superior pivots.

Much of the outside running will probably go to speedy halfback Ralph Vandervoort, while fullback Jim Mathews supplies the power running. Sprinter Steve Ford will man Johnston's vacated wing back position.

Increased scoring punch is one of the basic Centennial needs if they hope to move up in the standings. Last season they tallied only 91 points, 36 less than third-place BCI.

Offensive line blocking is the key to any scoring powerhouse, and Centennial is banking on the likes of centre Dave Pascoe, guard Vic Rabbel and tackle Les McGeachy to open the holes for their talented running backs.

The defensive picture is persistently unsettled as the zoning although aggressive tackle Mike Tutchen and defensive end Barry Mullin should present formidable problems to opposing backs.

"We've had three years to build and it's about time that we started showing some results," says the head coach.

Dairy Queens Take Command

Dairy Queen pitcher Barb Breadner doubled and scored to lead her teammates to a 11-10 win over Cozy Grills and a commanding 3-1 lead in the best four - of - seven Women's Softball Finals Wednesday.

It looked like the losers were going to walk away with it, scoring five big runs in the first inning and another two in the third to go ahead 7-4.

But the Dairy Queens rallied for six runs in the fourth and five in the sixth, going Brooks had a home run and 11-7 edge.

They needed it, as the Cozy girls rebounded for three runs, leaving two on base at the final out.

Doris Lockwood and Elaine Brooks had a home run ad single and Joyce Senisk a homer to complement Barb Breadner's hitting heroics.

For the losers the top hitter was Sandra Cass with a triple and double followed by Maryanne Sill's home run.

Barb Breadner pitched the-hitter for the Dairy girls' strikeouts and two four passing four on strikes.

Sandra Cass took the loss with an 11-hitter on four strikeouts and two free passes.

The next game will be today at the Chester Frost ers, Diamond starting at 6 p.m.

Lacrosse Plans Changed

Belleville's minor lacrosse association would have had their annual presentation day Saturday except for one small detail — they wouldn't have anything to present!

"The events and trophies are late coming in," explained president Roy Payne, "so we're moving the day back to Saturday the 26th."

The event, to be held at Zwick's Island, will feature the presentation of awards to top performers and teams in the 300-boy organization. Refreshments will be followed by a refreshing dip in the Top's Motor Hotel swimming pool.

Ticats Jam East by Shocking Stamps

HAMILTON (CP) — Joe Zuger stilled short passes and a running game that has been absent in recent weeks to support a superb defensive effort Tuesday night as Hamilton Tiger-Cats shocked Calgary Stampeders 30-18 in a Canadian Football League interlocking game.

The victory, before 21,198 fans, hoisted the Ticats into a three-way tie for first place in the Eastern Football Conference with Toronto Argonauts and Montreal Alouettes, each with eight points.

Calgary remained tied in second place in the Western Conference with British Columbia Lions, each with 10 points and both behind Ottawa Rough Riders and Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Zuger completed 13 of 17 passes during the game despite operating with an injured thumb on his throwing hand, jammed in the Ticats outing last Sunday, a 36-23 loss to the Als.

Head coach Joe Restic said this had been the Ticats plan throughout, although Zuger completed only two in the entire first half.

"They (Calgary) use one of the best defenses," said Restic. "You can't throw past them. . . . So our plan was to throw just back of the linebackers." It proved effective, knocking up the Calgary defensive secondary and allowing Hamilton's running backs to move more freely than they have in recent games.

Defensive end Allan Ray Aldridge, playing only his second game with Hamilton, stole the ball from Calgary fullback Hugh McKinnis on the Westerners' first series of plays after the opening kickoff.

Playing for control of the ball, Zuger moved the Ticats along the ground with the exception of one 35-yard pass to Dave Fleming. Ed Buchanan scored on a power run over the left side of the Calgary line.

Anjelo Mosca was responsible for the second Tiger-Cat score at 12:47 of the first quarter when Calgary quarterback Jerry Keeling and McKinnis muffed a pitchout inside the five-yard line. Mosca dived for the ball, batted it away from somebody Calgary, and defensive end Paul Schmidle scooped it up for the touchdown.

Fullback Steve Weslowski, Fleming and Aldridge, the latter on a 37-yard return of an interception late in the game, scored the other Hamilton touchdowns.

Tommy Joe Coffey increased his Ticat scoring total to 61 as he collected eight points, converting all five Hamilton touchdowns and adding a 37-yard field goal.

Herm Harrison and Dave Cranmer, on passes from Keeling, scored the Calgary touchdowns. Larry Robinson, whose convert of Harrison's touchdown gave him 703 career points, added another convert, field goal and single to complete the Stampeder scoring.

Hamilton, after taking a 16-0 lead in the first quarter, were ahead 17-0 before Calgary hit the scoreboard. The Stampeders closed the gap to 17-11 by half time and were ahead 18-17 at one point in the third quarter.

Horton Rumored to Sabres

Baseball and Football are still doing their thing, but for hockey buffs tonight marks another milestone—start of the 1970-71 National Hockey League exhibition season.

And it's a prolonged series of pre-season games leading up to the season opener with 67 eyepeeners on tap before the 14 teams—including newcomers Buffalo Sabres and Vancouver Canucks—get into the regular schedule starting Oct. 16.

Tonight the Sabres entertain New York Rangers at their Fergusonville, Ont., training camp while Toronto Maple Leafs and St. Louis Blues clash at Ottawa.

Tracy Pratt, 21-year-old son of Hockey Hall-of-Famer Walter Pratt, arrived in the Sabre camp Wednesday. The defenceman, picked in the draft from Pittsburgh Penguins, is still unsigned but his served indicated, he coach Punch Imlach, he "wants to play."

Pratt balked at terms offered by Imlach and negotiating continues.

At Ottawa, goalie Jacques Plante will face his former St. Louis team-mates without the benefit of Leaf centre Dave Keon who is still negotiating his contract, and Brit Selby, Norm Ullman and Tom Ellis, all sidelined with injuries.

Two players who did reach agreement with Toronto general manager Jim Gregory were defenceman Jim Dorey and winger Paul Henderson.

Rumors that defenceman Ted Green was his bellicose self were confirmed Wednesday when the Winnipeg native admitted he and Boston Bruin team-mate Fred Stanfield had clashed earlier at their London, Ont., campsite.

"It was nothing," Green offered when asked about the fray with Stanfield, "but the best thing was my helmet didn't come off."

The helmet, a new trademark for the rugged rearguard after a serious head injury suffered in last year's pre-season schedule, kept him out of action for a year, was especially made to fit skintight without the aid of a strap.

Philadelphia Flyers sent right winger Gary Dornhoefer back to Philadelphia from their Quebec City camp to have his knee examined. The four-year Flyer veteran recently underwent surgery to remove torn cartilage.

TIM HORTON

Minnesota North Stars, preparing for a three-game weekend series with Vancouver Canucks, broke their main camp at Winnipeg today and general manager Wren Blair forecast great things for his club.

"I think we've got the finest personnel ever," Blair told a news conference. He was particularly impressed, he said, with rookies Bozier Harvey and Fred Barrett.

Defenceman Ted Harris was given the day off Wednesday to nurse a sore shoulder while Bill Orban was recovering from a bruised thigh.

Most serious injury in the North Star camp Wednesday was centre Walt McKechnie, sidelined at least five days with a strained knee ligament.

Montreal Canadiens, meanwhile, are taking a long look at newcomers Fran Huck, Chuck Lefley, Rejean Houle, Phil Roberto and Boston-born Larry Pleau.

Tim Horton, the $85,000 former all-star defenceman trying to hold a job down with New York, voiced surprise when asked to comment on radio reports he was headed for Buffalo.

"All I can say," said Horton, "I have a contract and I know I'll be playing somewhere this winter. . . . I mean, I'm under the impression I'll be in New York, but it's not like I'm 100 per cent sure."

"This is the first I've heard of it," said Imlach in a telephone interview. He said there's nothing to the rumor, but later added: "I'm not saying we would never make such a deal. But there's no way we can afford Horton, anyway, not with the money he's getting."

And the tragic story of 28-year-old Michel Briere continues.

Pittsburgh's outstanding rookie of last year, still in a coma in a Montreal hospital after four months following a car accident, underwent more surgery Wednesday to relieve pressure on the brain.

Doctors reported he was resting comfortably, but it will be several weeks before his condition can be assessed.

Sport Briefs

MONTREAL (CP) — The ball has been passed to McGill University alumni across Canada — save McGill football. Tom Mooney, head coach of the university's Redmen, holders of the Ontario-Quebec Athletic Association football title, launched a personal appeal Wednesday. It came after Tuesday's announcement that budget cuts could see the disappearance of intercollegiate sport from the university next season. The university's committee on budget cuts has proposed, among other things, that intercollegiate sports be suspended next year to save $200,000. Mooney said it costs the university $90,000 to field the football team, with $16,000 of that amount being returned through ticket sales. If the suspension for 1971 becomes a reality, it will mark the first time since 1898 the university has been out of intercollegiate competition. A McGill team played in the first football game in North America against Harvard University in 1874 and introduced hockey here the next year.

OTTAWA (CP) — Ron Bobette scored the winner after stealing the puck from a Peterborough defenceman as Ottawa 67s overcame the Petes 5-4 Wednesday night in the first exhibition for both clubs in the 1970-71 Ontario Hockey Association junior A major season.

Zenon Sitting Out

TORONTO (CP) — Zenon Andrusyshyn, the 23-year-old Oakville, Ont., place kicker and punter who ended a five-day trial with Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League's Eastern Conference, said Wednesday he does not plan to play football this year.

Andrusyshyn tried out with the Argos after being released from Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League earlier this year.

In four years at the University of California at Los Angeles, Andrusyshyn broke all United States college kicking records.

Expos Provide Daylight With Tenth Win Over Mets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There is a bit of daylight in the wheezy National League east race today, thanks mainly to the pesky Montreal Expos and powerful Bob Gibson.

Pittsburgh's front-running Pirates took advantage of help from both those sources Wednesday to open a two-game gap over both Chicago Cubs and New York Mets as the season enters its final two weeks.

The Pirates needed five pitches—three of them in the ninth inning—but held on to whip Philadelphia Phillies 4-3. Meanwhile, Montreal jolted New York 4-3 and Gibson pitched St. Louis Cardinals to an 8-1 victory over Chicago.

In other National League action, Cincinnati Reds clinched a tie for the West Division title by slipping Houston Astros 3-2 while San Diego Padres were stopping Los Angeles Dodgers 4-0.

Atlanta Braves whipped San Francisco Giants 10-7.

Manny Sanguillen ripped two singles and a double, and scored twice to pace Pittsburgh over Philadelphia. Richie Hebner also had three hits for the Pirates.

Bob Moose won the first five innings, drove in a run with a single and earned the victory. Mudcat Grant, making his first appearance for Pittsburgh, worked until his ninth, then Dave Giusti, Joe Gibbon and John Lamb weaved their way out of a Phillie rally to preserve the victory.

Gibson made it easy for the Cards, cruising to his 22nd victory and 11th in his last 12 decisions on a shutout.

Ted Simmons cracked a fourth inning home run touching off a three-run Cardinal rally that put Gibson in control. Joe Torre lugged a two-run homer in the fifth inning for the Cards' other runs.

Rod Santo's 20th homer accounted for Chicago's only run off Gibson.

The Expos beat the Mets for the 10th time this season and moved into fifth place in the East Division on Steve Renko's five-hitter. Two of the hits were homers by Art Shamsky, accounting for both Met runs.

Tom Seaver absorbed the loss, seventh in his last nine decisions, with RBI singles by Mary Staehle and Jim Gosger keying a three-run third inning for the Expos. Don Clendenon's two-base throwing error put Montreal in business and Seaver wild pitched another run home.

The Mets were off today while the Cubs played the Cardinals and the Pirates met the Phillies.

The Reds got a chance to wrap the West all up tonight when Houston's Jim Wynn, the club's leading hitter with Cincinnati has the day off but if the Dodgers lose to Houston, it'll be all over.

Cincinnati moved closer to the inevitable on Gary Nolan's 15th victory with Clay Carroll's ninth-inning relief nailing it down.

Nolan contributed a run-scoring triple to a three-run Reds' rally in the fifth inning and then scored on Bobby Tolan's single. Jimmy Wynn ripped his 39th homer of the year for the Astros in the ninth.

Clarence Gaston hammered his 27th homer and Ivan Murrell singled home two runs and made a spectacular catch as Dave Roberts pitched San Diego past LA. Murrell's tumbling catch over the left field fence robbed Jim Lefebvre of a home run and preserved the shutout for Roberts, who pitched a seven-hitter.

Rico Carty ripped four hits including a single that drove in Atlanta's winning run in the eighth inning as the Braves bested the Giants. Carty increased his league-leading batting average to .363.

THE U.S. SUBMARINE INTREPID ? — The America's Cup sloop Intrepid tosses spray fore and aft as she is towed to sea in northeast storm. The defender downed Gretel II of Australia by nearly six minutes in their first encounter for historic America's Cup. (AP Wirephoto)

Yacht Protests Washed Out

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — After a day with the sea lawyers, the 1970 America's Cup series got back into the water today.

Cup rules require a race to be completed within six hours. But it took 22 to decide Intrepid was the winner of Tuesday's first race.

That was the elapsed time for the New York Yacht Club's race committee to decide to disallow protests by Intrepid, representing the United States, as well as her Australian challenger, Gretel II.

R. Deveaux Barker III, chairman of the committee, told a news conference Wednesday that neither yacht had fouled the other in a near collision seven minutes before the start of the first of the best-of-seven series.

"That's that. Let's get back to racing," said a Gretel II spokesman.

"We've set. Got the protest flag ready," said Steve Van Dyke, Intrepid's tactitian.

Van Dyke blamed the problem on the Australians' interpretation of the right-of-way rules.

"We don't think a right-of-way boat on the starboard tack is free to change course with another boat. They do."

The deliberations didn't interfere with the racing. Gretel II had already asked for the day off to recuperate from a day inglorious enough to make any Aussie take up sheep ranching.

Her crew worked over her damaged sheet winches and a cap was installed forward to prevent another man-overboard situation which happened in Tuesday's choppy seas.

Mauch Irks Met Press

MONTREAL (CP) — The executive of the Montreal chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America sent a letter Wednesday to Red Foley, chairman of the BBWAA's New York chapter, protesting the actions of the New York writers during their visit here this week.

The New York chapter took a complaint, sought to Montreal Expos president John McHale Wednesday without first consulting the local chapter.

Basis for the New York gripe was a mixed commentary on CBC baseball telecast in which Expos manager Gene Mauch commented to some extent on the way viewers could concentrate on his trips to the phoning mound.

The experiment went one step further Wednesday night with CBC colour commentator Tony Drysdale questioning Mauch on strategy between innings.

"We have always maintained that we have no objection to TV getting certain privileges, as long as we can do the same," said Jack Lang, the New York writers' spokesman and secretary of the national body.

Lang said he was assured by McHale that the New York protest will ask Mauch's permission to have a writer in the dugout even though such a practice is contrary to baseball rules.

Baseball writers covering the game from the Jarry Park press box were given an opportunity to question Mauch on an intercom telephone line to the dugout. TV monitors were placed in the press box to keep writers posted on the progress of the television experiment.

Blyleven Fans First Six Before Angels Come to Life

Bert Blyleven is on strike, Rollie Fingers is off relief . . . and Clyde Wright is carrying the usual work load.

The trio pitched in and authored some fine performances in the American League Wednesday night.

—Blyleven struck out the first six batters to tie a major league record, but his Minnesota Twins lost to California Angels 5-1 anyway.

—Fingers, usually a reliever, made a rare start and stopped Milwaukee Brewers 4-1 for Oakland Athletics.

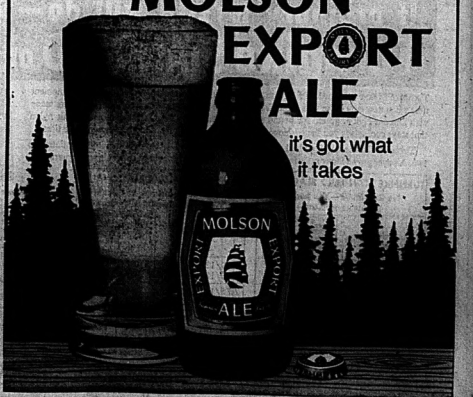
—Wright pitched a three-hitter in that California victory and became the second in Angel history to win 20 games in a season.

Baltimore Orioles clinched a tie for the American League east pennant despite losing to Washington Senators 2-0 when Boston Red Sox beat second-place New York Yankees 3-1, Detroit Tigers thumped Cleveland Indians 5-3 and Kansas City Royals defeated Chicago White Sox 2-1.

Blyleven, a rookie, got Sandy Alomar, Jim Fregosi, Alex Johnson and Ken McMullen swinging and whizzed third strikes past Tony Gonzales and Jay Johnstone to tie the mark held by two other pitchers. Detroit's John Hiller did it Aug. 6, 1968 and Boston's Ray Culp equalled it on May 11 of this season.

Wright, a one-game winner last year, equalled Dean Chance's 20-game season in 1964 with Wednesday night's sparkler. He allowed only singles to Rick Reichk and Cesar Tovar and a double to George Mitterwald.

Alex Johnson slammed a solo homer in the fourth and the Angels struck for three unearned runs in the sixth. Wright now is 20-11.



Fingers scattered eight hits and helped end with a ninth inning homer. Don Mincher knocked in two runs with a first-inning single and sixth-inning homer. Fingers brought his record to 7-8.

Rookie Bill Cogslewski and Darold Knowles combined for a four-hitter over Baltimore, ending the Orioles' seven-game winning streak. Loser Jim Palmer, who failed in his third try to join team-mates Mike Cuellar and Dave McNally as 20-game winners, was victimized in part by two misplayed hits.

Yaremko Asks Homes To Give Aged A Voice

THUNDER BAY (CP) — Creation of residents' councils in homes for the aged to give the elderly a voice in the facilities and care provided for them was advocated Wednesday by John Yaremko, Ontario minister of social and family services.

Organization of the elderly into groups capable of exercising "Senior Citizen Power" also would create a force capable of influencing the community and to changing the attitude of society towards the elderly, Mr. Yaremko said.

Mr. Yaremko told the 31st annual convention of the Ontario Association for Homes for the Aged that residents' councils could organize retired but active persons so that their skills and experience could still be used.

A retired carpenter, for example, could be hired by a young person as a consultant to supervise repairs and renovations which the younger man could not afford to have done by a contractor. Retired women could find employment in day-care centres where their patience and understanding would be useful.

But above all, Mr. Yaremko said, organized senior citizens could exercise the same influence as do the socially-active persons who control elections.

He noted that in his riding of Toronto Bellwoods persons over 65 and owning homes and property are in a minority, but because they have something at stake and always vote they decide who is elected to city council or the legislature.

When it comes to safety... we're concerned too!

If ordinary NYLON will do—SAVE on Turnpike STANDARD or DELUXE

Turnpike Nylon Standard and Deluxe tires are similar in construction to original equipment tires when new cars came with these sizes — except those tires were rayon while these are made with Dupont Nylon, pound for pound stronger than steel! Double-ply, double-strength nylon that stays cool, gives you the cushioned ride lacking in so many of today's high-mileage tires.

Turnpike Deluxe and Standard are the same construction — only the tread differentiates the two. A buyer pays a lower price for Turnpike Standard only because he carries his own guarantee.

Oshawa Fears Strike Impact

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The streets of Oshawa, Ont., are unusually crowded with men these days.

They are the strikers from General Motors of Canada, about 11,000 of them in Oshawa alone.

Behind the store fronts, businessmen speculate about the length of the strike and worry about the future.

"The entire city will suffer if this turns into a prolonged strike," says Mayor Bruce Mackey.

"It's bad for the city, bad for the nation, and it's bad for us," too," says striker Arthur Bickle. "But it's the only thing we can do."

"Business has slowed a bit," says Maurice Berg, who runs a men's wear shop. "People are a little more cautious about spending money but it's a little premature to start worrying about it."

In Oshawa, everyone feels the effects of the strike.

But with 27,000 workers in Canada and more than 300,000 in the United States on strike against GM, what will it mean to the economy of the nation as a whole?

Most economists say only time can tell because a key factor is how long the strike lasts.

The consensus seems to be that a six-or-seven-week strike won't have a drastic effect. Anything longer than that would be much more serious.

The snowballing effects are the ones that could really hurt over the long haul as smaller plants which normally produce for the auto industry have to close up shop.

A number of these already have closed, some have reduced their work week and others will have to follow suit in the weeks ahead if the strike isn't settled.

In addition, the economy loses the purchasing power of the strikers who earn a basic $180 a week and, now will have to get by on about $40 a week strike pay. GM's payroll at Oshawa alone was $2 million a week.

Arthur Kruger, a University of Toronto economist specializing in labor, says the economy could "go along with GM shut down for four weeks, six weeks, without any fantastic damage."

"A strike of five or six weeks doesn't mean that you've got five or six weeks of lost output."

But he warned that sales lost to imports are a loss to the national economy. Already, 20 per cent of Canadian auto sales are made by foreign suppliers.

The strike cut off about $3 million worth of supplies and services purchased daily by GM from about 400 Canadian suppliers. Every day it needs more than 10,000 tires, 3,000 tons of steel and thousands of other items.

The last GM strike in 1964 lasted 19 days, but the previous one against the company in 1945-46 was 119 days.

Each day GM is strikebound, the U.S. and Canadian economies lose $72 million daily in-comes for the strikers, and GM loses $80 million a day in sales through lost production of 26,000 cars and trucks.

Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Co. Ltd. of Toronto said if the strike lasts longer than two weeks the company will have to take a serious look at its refined zinc production rate.

Algoma Steel Corp. of Sault Ste. Marie said extension of the strike to four weeks would have the definite effect of a slowdown on steel and particularly on flat-rolled products.

A. R. McMurrich, vice-president of manufacturing for Stelco Co. of Canada Ltd., Toronto, said a four-week strike "will start to affect us." Between nine and 10 per cent of Stelco's business is accounted for by the Canadian auto manufacturing industry.

M. C. McMurrich estimated that the Canadian steel industry would lose sales of between $10 million and $15 million a month if the GM strike continues over a period of three months.

"It's a waiting game," said Robert Varah, director of commercial sales for Dominion Foundries and Steel Ltd. of Hamilton. He said a strike of about two months at GM's Canadian operations would cause a considerable shrinkage in the consumption of Canadian steel.

Mr. Varah estimated that 850,000 tons of Canadian steel, or more than 11 per cent of total Canadian steel output, is used annually by the domestic auto industry. General Motors of Canada Ltd., is the biggest single steel user in the domestic auto industry.

Aluminum Co. of Canada Ltd., Montreal, said the direct effect of the strike will be minimal on that company.

Meanwhile, the strike of 2,400 workers begun Tuesday at the GM plant in Ste. Therese, Que., was expected to have a major impact on side industries in Quebec.

A plant which manufacturers coil springs for GM will lay off 28 employees Friday in Lacolle, Que., on the Canada-U.S. border.

"We had been hoping for a settlement of the strike so that this would not be necessary," a company spokesman said Wednesday.

"But unfortunately, as of Friday, our production will be stopped and our people will be let go."

Lacolle plant which produces carpeting for new cars has also laid off about 30 people on the production line in the last two weeks.

Other centres likely to feel the impact of the strike include Hawkesbury, Ont., where windshields for the Ste. Therese plant are manufactured, and Joliette, Que., which has a tire manufacturing plant.

A plant in St. Jerome, Que., which provides GM with dashboards, is also vulnerable, as is a tire company in Valleyfield, Que., which supplies rubber products.

'Polydrug' Problem Handled

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Dr. William Keil, co-chairman of the London committee on drug dependence, said Wednesday a "polydrug phenomenon" has hit the city with some young people injecting a combination of 10 different drugs into their systems.

The chief of psychiatry at Victoria hospital said in a special report to the hospital trust that the city is far more capable of coping with drug abuse than it was last year.

He said the hospital's special drug treatment centre handled four cases this summer in which the youths had taken what is known as the "drug store bag," a mixture of adrenalin, pyridoxin, dexedrine, placidyl, librium, valium, demerol, darvon, acetaal and gravol.

Dr. Keil urged the expansion of therapeutic facilities in the city to include halfway houses, subsidized housing and family homes for addicts.

Police Say Mrs. Citron Asked Privacy

TORONTO (CP) — Two Bar-Rington, Ont., police officers and a lawyer testified Wednesday that Mrs. Elizabeth Citron requested that a charge she had been threatened with a gun be heard in private.

In earlier testimony at an inquiry into alleged improper relationships between provincial police and persons of known criminal activity, Mrs. Citron said she agreed to a private hearing but did not initiate the request.

Sgt. Clare Richardson and Constable Robert Jackson testified they were standing in a corridor outside the office of Crown Attorney Douglas Lockhart in Milton, Ont., and heard a voice that they presumed to be Mrs. Citron's ask for privacy in the case.

They testified she said she made the request to agree Mrs. George Duke in the case. Mrs. Duke, a friend of Mrs. Citron's, is the wife of the man Mrs. Citron accused of threatening her with a gun.

Ernest Bennessey, who represented Duke at the Milton hearing and who was in the Crown attorney's office with him and Mrs. Citron, agreed that the request came from Mrs. Citron. He said he also was anxious to avoid publicity for the sake of the Citrons as well as Mrs. Duke, whom he described as a "well-known and well-loved person in Burlington."

It was Mrs. Citron's criticism of the handling of the case that led to the allegations by Dr. Morton Shulman, New Democratic Party member of the legislature for High Park, that Duke was on friendly terms with OPP officers and with men associated with organized crime.

Earlier Wednesday, the inquiry under Mr. Justice Campbell Grant of the Ontario Supreme Court was told by counsel for the force that Mrs. Citron's criticism of the handling of the case was unfair.

Mr. Dalier argued that Mr. Justice Grant had banned the legal rights of individuals by not adjourning for a Court of Appeal ruling when he was asked to defer the identification of a woman alleged to be the sister of Duke, a Burlington millionaire.

However, in dismissing his motion with costs, Mr. Justice W. F. Schroeder of the Court of Appeal said that the court has given widest discretion to commissioners of public inquiries concerning questions that can be asked, and the determination of their relevance.

"If that were not so, the fundamental purpose of any inquiry would be frustrated," he said. "And I settle these proceedings by raising trifling objections."

After the hearing reopened, Mr. Justice Grant gave permission to Dr. Shulman to comment of the terms of the inquiry. He also said he would allow the publication in question witnesses—if the questions were relevant and affected Dr. Shulman.

Dr. Shulman told the inquiry that whoever drew up the terms of reference made an error in stating that he had made particular allegations in the legislature of improper relationships between OPP personnel and Hells Angels, Paul Donald (Red) Lefebvre and Peter Papalia. Papalia was named by Dr. Shulman in the legislature as a member of the Mafia.

J. J. Robinette, counsel for the inquiry, has said that evidence will be introduced to show that the three men are known to have criminal activity.

Dr. Shulman said he had never indicated that the three men were connected with OPP officers. However, Mr. Justice Grant replied that the general terms of the inquiry would still require him to investigate the three men's activities.

Mr. Robinette declined Wednesday any date testimony dealt mostly with statements and allegations made by Mrs. Citron concerning the treatment she received from police and court officials after she made her complaint against Duke.

Justice of the Peace W. E. Daniels said Mrs. Citron came to him for the purpose of laying a complaint against Mr. Duke.

Questioned about Mrs. Citron's statement that she had to see him three times before a charge of threatening was issued, he said there was some delay while he discussed with the Crown counsel the time that had elapsed between the threatening incident on Sept. 1 and a call to police on Oct. 9.

He said this was the only reason for the delay and that no attempt was made to discourage Mrs. Citron from laying the complaint.

Won't Rejoin NDP Caucus

Larry Desjardins, member of the Manitoba legislature for St. Boniface, gave his support to Premier Ed Schreyer's government after the New Democrats won the 1969 provincial election. However, the self-styled Liberal Democrat gave his support to the premier's auto insurance bill grudgingly, and has decided not to stay with the government caucus. (CP Photo)

H-bomb May Tap Power In Layers of Hot Rock

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Hydrogen bombs exploded in layers of hot rock two miles underground may provide a pollution-free future power source for producing electricity.

The project, called Plowshare-geothermal, was conceived by American Oil Shale Corp. of Salt Lake City. It sought to line up financial backing at a briefing for utility company executives also attended by government officials which ended Wednesday.

Natural steam and hot springs have been tapped for power in various parts of the world, but the yield has been too limited and too capricious for large-scale use.

Plowshare-geothermal, named for the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission's Plowshare program of developing peaceful uses for nuclear explosives, proposes to use a series of hydrogen bombs to fracture the dry, hot rock that exists under portions of 10 western states at depths ranging from 10,000 to 20,000 feet.

Water would be piped into the fractured rock and turned to steam by the 350-degree heat.

Captured as it flowed to the surface through the fracture, the superheated steam would be piped to the turbines of a conventional electrical generating station. The steam would then condense into water, which would be recirculated.

The Salt Lake City firm has commissioned a feasibility study in which the AEC is participating. Results of the study will be ready next February.

Agnew Says Lewd Words Encouraged

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Vice-President Spiro T. Agnew, after telling cheering Republicans "enough of the pathetic," accused some Democratic Wednesday night of encouraging "the most rude, crude and lewd heckling imaginable."

He wrote the accusation into his speech at a Republican fund-raising dinner, climaxing his encounter with the noisy disorders that political weaponry for his continuing assault on "radical-liberals."

"The obscene shouts of an unpatriotic few will never in the state of Michigan drown out the good voices, young and old, of dignity and decency," the vice-president told more than 1,300 people in Grand Rapids as he wound up a week of election campaigning in six states.

The Michigan demonstrators, perhaps 100 strong, chanted pours obscenities mixed with obscene taunts from the rear of the crowd of more than 1,100 people in an airport hangar in Saginaw.

He shook a finger toward the hecklers and told them:

"You people out there preach a lot about dissent but you're afraid of other points of view because you don't have the strength of your own convictions."

"One, two, three, four, we don't want your f—— war," the hecklers shouted.

Agnew waved his right hand back and forth like a conductor as if to keep time with the chant.

"You're pathetic," he said.

Nixon Says Heckling Keeps Him off Campus

CHICAGO (AP) — President Nixon says the threat of heckling deters him and other political figures from appearances on U.S. college campuses today.

"It's a sad day when a great university can't hear controversial speakers—and any man in political life is controversial," the president told reporters Wednesday.

Nixon indicated he would like to make more campus appearances like the one Wednesday at Kansas State University where he was vigorously applauded by a campus audience of more than 15,000.

Nixon struck a responsive chord at Kansas State when he said: "The time has come for us to recognize that violence and terror have no place in a free society."

He talked to reporters about his pleased reactions to his rare campus appearance when he came to Chicago for an overnight visit to talk with Midwestern news media executives today.

Despite some "insignificant heckling," Nixon said he felt the big campus audience got every implication of his appeal for reason, tolerance and "an uncompromising stand against those who reject the rules of civilized conduct and of respect for others."

The president didn't mention it, but the majority of the audience rose and applauded when he appealed to responsible college administrators, faculty and student leaders "to stand up and be counted" to save higher education.

Nixon said some students he talked to afterwards seemed embarrassed at the lack of respect shown by the hecklers. He said one girl apologized for the tiny group—perhaps 30 or so—who shouted slogans, comments and a few obscenities during Nixon's speech.

Nest On Prairies

RED DEER, Alta. (CP) — An estimated 1,400 pelicans nest on the prairies, says Dr. Ken Vermeer of the Canadian Wildlife Service. He did a study of pelicans, cormorants and blue herons on the prairies. He said the chief threats to the survival of the birds included human disturbance, pesticides and the birds' nesting patterns.

Court Ejects Maoists

HAMILTON (CP) — Two women were ejected from court Wednesday when they yelled Maoist slogans at Judge Edwin Fabbenach.

Georgina Oliver, 28, and Clare Olsten, 22, were found guilty, in absentia, of obstructing police during a near-riot at the Hamilton farmer's market July 11.

John McCormick, 30, was also found guilty of obstructing police in the market-place incident. He remained quiet in court and was allowed to leave to await sentence Sept. 23.

Miss Oliver and Miss Ostan were remanded in custody for sentencing. Last week they were each sentenced to 30 days in jail by Judge Ross Bennett for contempt of court.

Ontario Housing Corp. Will Build Community Near Kitchener

GALT (CP) — An innovative community near Kitchener is to be built from scratch by the Ontario Housing Corp., will be started by the middle of next year, an OHC official said Wednesday.

Paul Gowan, managing director of the corporation, told a land symposium called by area real estate boards that the projected population for the community in 25 years is 50,000 persons.

A master plan for 2,300 of the 1,400 acres OHC owns along Highway 401 north of Preston embodies a number of new developmental concepts, Mr. Gowan said.

Among them are:

...Establishment of municipal government facilities on a rental basis in a privately owned residential-commercial structure. This would avoid a large capital outlay, and the structure would remain on the tax rolls.

...Parkland may be made available to nursery growers who would in exchange, maintain the parks.

...A golf course included in the plans would be developed by a private developer who would own it long enough to recover costs. Then it would be turned over to the community.

...A 420 million, seven-mile monorail might be developed over 25 years as the community's transit system at no capital cost to the community.

Revised Unemployment Insurance Costs Are Outlined to Committee

OTTAWA (CP) — If the government's white paper on unemployment insurance is adopted by Parliament, the average Canadian employee will pay about 1.4 times the amount he now pays and his employer will pay about twice as much as he does now.

Finance Minister Fleming told the Commons committee on unemployment insurance Thursday.

Details from the private sector began today.

Employers with payrolls of more than $78,000 who don't lay off any workers during a year would contribute equally with their employees to the unemployment fund, as they do now.

But if they laid off a number of employees who subsequently were unemployed for a long time, they would have to pay 1.5 times as much towards the benefits.

Under the white paper proposals, a laid-off worker would be entitled to benefits equal to 66 per cent of that person's average earnings in their labor force, they would pay 1.5 times as much towards the benefits.

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Too Many Worry About Cholesterol

Are you "afraid" of cholesterol? Does your conscience bother you when you spread butter on your hot cakes? When you eat ice cream? Have you given up eating cheese? Steaks? And many other foods that contain saturated fats?

Well, there may be a good reason for it. On the other hand, you may be frightening yourself unnecessarily. For you should know that cholesterol is an important constituent of many body cells. It is manufactured by the liver. If you didn't eat or drink one bit of cholesterol, it would be present in your system.

In view of this, you may ask, "Then why all the talk about rigorous control of cholesterol intake? Isn't it true that it causes heart attacks and strokes?"

The answer is that because it is at the scene of the trouble doesn't automatically label it as the cause. It is true that cholesterol is often found in weakened arteries. But it's possible that otherfats, called "lipids" have a hand in atherosclerosis, too.

I admit that too much cholesterol in the blood is reason enough to cut down on saturated fats, just to play safe. But still not knowing definitely that cholesterol is the actual cause of heart attacks and trouble in the brain arteries, there is no logical reason why you should become what I term a "cholesterolophobe." Especially when tests show that your heart is all right and your cholesterol blood levels are normal.

Too many healthy persons worry unnecessarily about fat in their diets. If you are overweight, better cut down. If your doctor finds good reason for less saturated fat intake, follow his advice. But if you have had a recent checkup and are healthy, I suggest you live like a normal human being. Don't be a cholesterolophobe.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Is diabetes hereditary? I am going with a boy whose mother and father have diabetes, and he has, too. Will our children get it, too? — Miss X.

Comment: Diabetes is hereditary. It may be passed on to children by actual diabetic parents or by those who carry the diabetic trait.

According to statistics, there is the chance in four that your child may have diabetes presupposing that neither you nor your parents have had diabetes or carry the diabetic trait. If you also have diabetes, chances are that all of your children would develop diabetes — early or later in life.

Knowing these risks, as suggested by statistics, you decide to marry will not be an impulsive one. You will feel better after talking it over with your family doctor.

For Mrs. L.: I do not agree with the suggestion of your neighbor that your family will be better off drinking raw rather than pasteurized milk. It is not true that pasteurization removes important food values. But it is true that the one drinking raw milk is more liable to become infected with tuberculosis or brucellosis. (undated fewy).

For Mrs. D.: There's reason enough to become concerned by cockroaches overrunning your kitchen. If you need help, ask for the advice of a professional exterminator.

For one thing, roaches may harbor Salmonella bacteria in their bodies for weeks. When they accept such infection in foods they one in contact with, the result may cause severe abdominal cramps, diarrhea, nausea, vomiting and prostration in several members of a family.

Sydney J. Harris Says

Human Intelligence Low

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

(During his vacation, we are reprinting selections from Mr. Harris' latest collection of columns in book form, "Leaving the Surface".)

I have been browsing through the new revised edition of Walter Sullivan's book on "Unidentified Flying Objects," in which the science editor of the New York Times examines "the case for intelligent life on other worlds." At the same time, I read another man on a television interview discuss the "flying saucers" that have been reported around the country for many years. He, too, is writing a book to document these cases. Most speculation and science fiction on the subject is based on the theory that highly intelligent creatures, living in distant space, are either trying to communicate with us, or are actually investigating life on earth, with a view toward attacking or conquering us.

I cannot believe this. If there are creatures intelligent enough to spy on us through vast galactic distances, then they must also be intelligent enough to let us alone after they learn what we are like. For the human race on earth, it seems plain to me, must rank quite low in the order of conscious intelligence. We seem to have just enough brains to make trouble for ourselves, and not enough to learn how to live together amicably. Just enough brains to create a huge technology that could turn the earth into an Eden, and not enough to prevent it from using this technology to blow ourselves up.

We have made tremendous advances in living conditions — but they have been more than matched by our ominous advances in dying conditions. Prejudice and passion, hate and rivalry, are more intense today than in the pastoral environment of Biblical times. People may be no worse, but we have increased by a million fold our capacity to do worse.

Any truly intelligent beings from another galaxy would not touch us with a ten light-year pole. We are quite capable of attacking and destroying ourselves without their help. And not because we are "bad" in any grand and classic sense of the word — but because we are weak and petty and more concerned with our immediate advantages (delusive as they are) than with pledging our allegiance to the survival of the human race.

THOUGHTS HELP

BELGRADE (AP) — The Yugoslav news agency Tanjug reported Mao Tse-tung's thoughts solves medical as well as political problems in Peking. It said Peking doctors remembered the thought, "What is decisive is not dead things but men" and sewed a man's lost arm back on.

Jean Dixon's Horoscope

For September 18

Your birthday today: Forethought is the watchword for your coming year. Just about everything must be planned in detail, carefully gone through by many rounds of contacts. You have greater organizational skill and ability to get other beings you a sort of "make-or-break" challenge. Romantic interests meet change and inconvenience. Today's natives are noted for good humor and the willingness to help others.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Your money struggles are not of your wallet today. Everything seems to include more spending. Instead of fritzing away your resources, concentrate on increased earnings.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Quietly press personal projects, particularly those where the outcome is yet in doubt. Give thought to health care. Respond to helmet messages.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Your tact and general curiosity together make this a stimulating day. Conference and discussion keep you busy. Short trips prove to be quite important.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): You can expect everybody to be a bit overwrought. yourself included. If you give due allowance, the effect is gratifying. Home life is particularly comforting.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): It is difficult to concentrate on business with all today's strong emotional stirrings from loved ones. Push onward in increased earning capability.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Your path is cluttered today with the concerns of your family and neighbors. Help work out the situation at hand, and provide for a better future.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Your tact may be stretched somewhat in your efforts to bridge the gaps and ease the potential stresses. Aside from this it's a day of resolutions. Add a little to your savings.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): By going along with your associates your plans are furthered as well. Share hopes with your loved ones while keeping in mind the realities.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Today is more useefully devoted to material affairs. In the later hours, invest your energy in a solitary pastime; reflect while you work out tangible patterns.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): There is a rare chance to blend physical effort with active mental searching. Attend to the concerns of your family, particularly children.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): You see something that needs doing. You may wind up doing it yourself. Your position improves no matter how little operation you receive. 1

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): This is an active day, although much of the movement does seem to go in circles. Bring your family and friends for a sociable evening.

THE AGE OF MERCURY STARTS TODAY

Better ideas make better cars MERCURY Getting better all the time

For 1971, the name of Mercury means more than ever before. More choice because Mercury has added a sensational new little car, Comet, to a line that ranges up to the big, luxurious Marquis. More better ideas in action. And more value-because at Mercury, every car we build must live up to the Lincoln Continental tradition.

Introducing the all new

Mercury Comet

The little car with better ideas.

There's never been a car quite like Comet. It handles and parks like a little car. It's priced like a little car. Gas mileage rivals the imports and it's simple to maintain. But Mercury Comet allows you to choose between a 2-door model and a four door model. Between three frugal Sizes and a performance-proven V-8.

Mercury Comet 4-door sedan

Marquis'71

Canada's most luxurious medium-priced car was never so easy to own.

A dramatic new look for Marquis and an entirely new model priced to bring the luxury of Marquis within easier reach. The luxury of a car that is the only one in this class styled in the Lincoln Continental tradition. With a ride only the world's great luxury cars can match. 3-speed Select-Shift automatic, power steering and a quiet-running, powerful V-8 engine are among the many features that are standard on Marquis—but cost extra on lesser cars.

Marquis Brougham 4-door hardtop

Mercury Meteor'71

Your money gets you more. Costs a little over 3... but well under 4...

The 1971 Mercury Meteor is completely re-styled to give you more beauty and more riding comfort than ever before. Superbly appointed interiors—designed to give generous head, leg and shoulder room and insulated so the ride is as quiet as it is smooth. Standard features on the models priced in the popular 3 to 4 thousand dollar range include upper-level power ventilation, steel guard rails in every door and a husky V-8 engine.

Mercury Meteor 2-door hardtop

Mercury Cougar hardtop

Mercury Cougar'71

Sophistication with a spirit of adventure.

All-new for 1971 Mercury Cougar is a very personal luxury car for people with a taste for action. The ride is satin-smooth and whisper-quiet. The longer, lower, wider body helps provide the handling ease of a sports car. A 351 cu. in. V-8, bucket seats, floor-mounted stick are just a few of the standard features.

Mercury Montego MX Brougham 2-door hardtop

Mercury Montego'71

Break out of your shell... not out of your budget.

A great new way to put some sunshine in your life—at a price within reach of most budgets. You'll like Montego's sporty styling. You'll enjoy Montego's handy size; a foot or so shorter than big cars. You'll appreciate the quiet, relaxed comfort of Montego's hi-styled interiors; the smoothness of the ride, the economy of the sturdy 250 cu. in. 6-cyl. engine. Or you can personalize Montego with options that include a 429 four-barrel V-8, power steering, Whisper-Aire conditioning and many more.

Jordan Army Told To Hold Its Fire

Syrian Rebels Pour South

RAMTHA, Jordanian Border (Reuters) — Palestinian Arab reinforcements armed with S. ziet- and Chinese-made automatic weapons, rocket launchers, and light artillery pieces, poured south into Jordan today from Syria to reinforce the guerrilla battle against the Jordanian army.

As the reinforcements moved in to strengthen the guerrilla defenders of Irbid and Zarqa—scene of heavy fighting Thursday and today—I stood on the Shajara plateau where the Iraqi troops in Jordan have their main base, and saw columns of smoke and flame rising from Irbid.

Angry commandos told me that the Iraqis had allowed Jordanian tanks and artillery to move through their positions during the night to launch the counter-attack on Ramtha in an attempt to cut off the flow of guerrillas and supplies from bases in Syria and Lebanon.

Thursday the guerrilla central committee repeatedly broadcast appeals to the 12,000 Iraqis in north Jordan to come to their aid against the powerful forces of tanks and guns flung against them by Jordan's new military government.

Asked by a guerrilla why they had allowed the army to move through unopposed, an embarrassed Iraqi officer replied:

"Our orders were to allow the passage of all forces, whether Jordanian, commando or others."

Drinks Too Weak, Seeks Breath Test

HAMILTON (CP) — He had had three drinks, usually his limit, but he felt hardly any effect.

He had three more and still didn't feel anything.

So a Hamilton man snached up his six swizzle sticks and went to the police to complain that the tavern was watering his drinks.

"I know my limit," the man said. "I can't handle any more than three vodkas, but I had six swizzle sticks in front of me so I knew something was wrong."

He said he went to the police and asked for a breath analysis test to see whether his suspicions were correct and was told he couldn't have one because he hadn't done anything wrong.

He then decided to make a complaint so the Liquor Control Board of Ontario would investigate the matter.

Constable R. N. Taylor of the traffic department said there isn't time for the police to give a test to anyone who just walks in and asks for one.

PHNOM PENH (AP) — Flight after flight of warplanes today pounded the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops who have blocked the Cambodian government's first offensive of the war some 50 miles north of Phnom Penh.

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — A policeman was fatally shot early today in his patrol car. A short time later, police said, snipers began firing from the nearby Black Panther party headquarters and police surrounded the building and returned fire.

Guerrillas Receive Time to Surrender

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — The United States has begun moving ships, troops and aircraft into the Eastern Mediterranean to support a possible evacuation of refugees from Jordan, the defence department announced today.

* * *

BEIRUT (CP) — The Jordanian army was ordered today to observe a temporary ceasefire to give Palestinian Arab guerrilla forces an opportunity to surrender without further bloodshed.

The ceasefire order was issued by Field Marshal Habis Majali on the second day of sharp fighting in Jordan. The battle spread into northern Jordan near the Syrian border during the day. The army claimed it was in control in Amman and the former guerrilla stronghold of Zarqa, 15 miles northeast of Amman.

A military communique said King Hussein's forces controlled 16 Amman districts and were carrying out mopping up operations.

There remained no word about the Wahdat area in the outskirts of the capital where 84 hostages from last week's plane hijackings are believed held. Neither side has mentioned the hostages in the last two days.

Majali's order, broadcast by Jordan's official radio from Amman, the capital, said:

"In view of the growing number of brother commandos who are joining the royal armed forces, we have ordered the armed forces to cease fire temporarily to give the fedayeen a chance to join the ranks of the armed forces. We hope the fedayeen will make good use of this chance."

The fedayeen are the Palestinian guerrillas.

The wording of Majali's ceasefire order made it clear he was not prepared now to negotiate with the guerrillas on the terms he had offered them Thursday. King Hussein named Majali to head the Jordanian government on Wednesday. Fighting broke out shortly afterward.

The top guerrilla command rejected Majali's ceasefire offer on Thursday. The terms included acceptance by the guerrillas of an army safe conduct to the front line with Israel, where they could fight "the common enemy."

The official Amman radio said the ceasefire ordered by Majali today will provide the guerrillas with an opportunity to cross over to the army "with an assurance for their personal safety."

The radio recalled that the armed forces had been ordered "to shoot at every defecting guerrilla with honor and dignity."

The broadcast did not state the time limit for the ceasefire.

Guerrilla communiques broadcast by radio stations in Syria and Iraq claimed fighting continued in Amman and elsewhere. Bloody clashes were reported during the night.

Guerrilla radio broadcasts said army tank units attacked Palestinian strongholds and that heavy fighting broke out in what the guerrillas had described earlier as "liberated areas."

The guerrilla broadcasts from Baghdad, Iraq, and Damascus, Syria, said the tanks launched a three-pronged attack on Ramtha, Turra and El Kassarel, village on the Amman-Damascus highway, the Palestinians' pipeline for supplies from Syria.

Palestinian Arab reinforcements, armed with Soviet- and Chinese-made automatic weapons, rocket launches and light artillery pieces, poured south into Jordan from Syria to reinforce the guerrilla battle against the Jordanian army. They sped south through Ramtha, past buildings still burning from shellfire laid down by army artillery to cover an un-

Nixon Will Offer Meir Aid If She Negotiates

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon was reported prepared today to promise Israeli Premier Golda Meir extensive new economic aid and continuing military assistance, while urging her to end promptly her boycott of Middle East peace talks.

The 72-year-old Israeli leader went into today's round of talks with Nixon and other high U.S. officials expected to emphasize her government's dissatisfaction over American failure to demand that Egypt roll back missile bases deployed near the Suez canal in alleged violation of the military standstill agreement sponsored by the United States.

Against the background of new Middle East turmoil centred in Jordan, Mrs. Meir was scheduled to meet State Secretary William Rogers. That meeting was to be followed by a White House conference with President Nixon.

U.S. officials hoped Nixon's fresh assurance of support would be sufficient to offset Mrs. Meir's concern that Israel had been placed at a severe military disadvantage on the Suez front since the ceasefire went into effect Aug. 7. She has refused to let her representatives engage in preliminary peace exchanges with Arab envoys at the United Nations because of the missile issue.

Church in Quebec Alters Annulments

QUEBEC (CP)—Maurice Cardinal Roy unveiled a document Thursday which presents a new outlook on the theology of marriage with guidelines for couples preparing to marry and a new interpretation of grounds for dissolution of marriages by the Roman Catholic church.

The document, approved by the Roman Catholic bishops of Quebec province following a two-day meeting, was presented at a news conference. It says there will be a new approach to marriage annulments for Quebec.

Cardinal Roy, archbishop of Quebec and Primate of the Roman Catholic Church in Canada, announced approval of the document, saying that its implications will not be known until other sectors of the church have had a chance to study it.

It applies only to territory under the jurisdiction of Quebec province bishops. Bishops in other provinces or countries are free to draft their own regulations.

Family Planning Program Is Announced for Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — Health Minister John Munro today announced a program of research, training and public information in family planning for Canadians.

At the same time, External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp said Canada is prepared to provide help to developing countries in population and family planning.

Mr. Munro said his department would encourage research into birth control through grants and contracts to other agencies as well as by his department.

"It will undertake the dissemination of family planning information in collaboration with provincial governments and private agencies," the minister said in a news release.

"In adopting this program, the government recognizes and supports the right of Canadians to exercise free individual choice in the practice of family planning."

At 75

Dief Asks Declaration Of National Goals

OTTAWA (CP) — There he sat, on his 75th birthday, his blue eyes still blazing under his crinkly hair, its menacing forefinger still stabbing the air and his nostrils snorting at the suggestion that John Diefenbaker is about to take things easy.

He was out of the chair in a flash, digging through a mound of birthday cards looking for notes he would take into the Commons when it resumes.

"You know what I want to see?" he asked, as he continued the search. "I want to see a committee of the House bring about a declaration of national goals—something to uplift the spirit of our young people, something to indicate the ideals of what this nation stands for.

"That's what I am going to bring before the House. And I am going to do so because I fear more than anything else that our people are becoming crestfallen and are losing the sense of adventure to make this a great nation."

Pausing for a moment, and reflecting on his 75th birthday, the old warrior smiled and said: "I have now come to that point in my life when my whole concern is my country."

After a brisk 1¼-mile walk, Mr. Diefenbaker had arrived at his Centre Block office in fighting trim. No one would have thought he had just finished a painful five-week bout with shingles.

"When you ask me how I feel, I have to tell you that I just can't believe it myself."

"And I tell you this, too. I am glad I stayed on in politics after 1968 (when Mr. Stanfield took over the leadership)."

"I have never enjoyed the House more."

Past Presidents Report On Chamber's Position

A report involving "exhaustive study" by five past-presidents of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce was tabled at last night's regular meeting of the chamber.

This report outlined plans, objectives, and past accomplishments of the chamber. One of the prime functions of the study was to "investigate the future role of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce," recommendations for which were outlined in detail.

On these recommendations the chamber acted with the following resolutions.

Although the chamber is experiencing financial problems, grants, per se, are not desired. Instead, the chamber wishes to receive payment for services which will benefit the community at large.

But before the chamber can ask the community to recognize beneficial services, public relations must be improved.

Present services are to be continued. These are:

— Tourist promotion through the tourist bureau.

— Business and Consumer Protection Bureau.

— Administration service for the Quinte Construction Association.

— Belleville Booster Committee, which keeps coming events posted in hotels and motels throughout the city.

— Sponsoring of the Belleville Winter Carnival in Feb. 1971, with L. J. Tremblay serving as chairman.

Newly undertaken projects will be the formation of a visitor convention bureau and a special committee under Jack A. Ireland to study other chambers so that Belleville's outlet can follow the ideas made available. A welcoming committee will be formed to express appreciation to new businesses for locating in the city.

The fiscal year for the chamber will be changed to run from July 1 to June 30. This change will match other organizations with the fiscal year for city budgeting.

Chairman Frank C. Murray, instrumental in promoting the study, expressed appreciation for the report which "emphasized the problems which many of us knew existed."

The study was prepared by past-presidents J. C. "Pat" Houston, chairman George Hume, Hugh Murray, Jack Ireland and Gerry Wishart.

MAURICE J. STOTESBURY

Corn Crop Cops Cup

Gerald Redner, RR1, Amelisburg, has won first place in the Belleville Agricultural Society corn crop competition.

The competition is for grain corn and is judged in the field for size and maturity of ears, plant population, insect control, freedom from insect damage, disease and lodging and for uniformity of development.

Mr. Redner's winning field of PAG 5707 was planted early in May in 36" rows with a population of approximately 22,500 plants per acre. The yield is calculated at 126 bushels per acre.

Ten fields were entered in the competition. Other winners were Ronald Longwell, 2nd place; Ivan May, Fonthon; Wayne Read, and M. R. Rutter, both of RR3, Belleville.

M. J. Stotesbury To Head Central Volunteer Bureau

First president of the United Community Services Maurice J. Stotesbury has recently elected president of the Central Volunteer Bureau of Belleville.

The bureau has become an independent agency after operating under the UCS for the past five years.

Mr. Stotesbury brings to the bureau a substantial background of experience, including his position as past chairman of the Hastings County Advisory Board of the Canada Manpower Centre for the Blind. He is now serving as secretary of the Kinsmen Club. A past coach of minor softball, Mr. Stotesbury is a choir director at Bridge Street and a Sunday School teacher.

Other members of the board of directors of the CVB are Mrs. Miriam Bishop, vice-president; Oscar Wagar, treasurer; Mrs. Marie Bell, ladies' auxiliary; Mrs. Dorothy Eveiby, Viggo L. Lewis, Mrs. Dorothy MacKinnon, Mrs. Mary Mansfield, Mrs. Mary McLaughlin, Mrs. Corrine Musgrove, Peter Nicholas and Mrs. Carol Wilson.

Mrs. Ruth Burrows will continue as director.

Services provided by this new bureau are the recruiting and training of volunteers, referring them to community agencies and non-profit health, welfare, recreational and cultural organizations. In this capacity, the bureau will be known as "a volunteer clearing house."

Also provided will be the initiation of programs in the volunteer field, co-ordinating projects and volunteer programs under their supervision, such as English programs for immigrant mothers and their pre-school children; handicapped children; day nurseries, adults with the elderly.

Volunteer services such as the meals-on-wheels luncheon club; the furniture exchange, clothing department, Christmas sharing program and volunteer treasury will also fall into this category.

Referrals to the bureau and other services under the directorship of the UCS can be sent to 224 John Street or telephoned to 962-9551.

Chamber Plans Special Meeting

A special fall membership meeting of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce will be held at the Sea Valley Motor Inn on North Front Street, Thursday, Oct. 1 at the tentative time of 6:30 p.m.

This announcement came at last night's meeting of the chamber at which president Frank C. Murray said that the Belleville chamber was featuring guests unique in history of chambers of commerce.

Three guest speakers from Pollution Probe will present a 30-minute address at the October meeting.

The guests are Dr. Ralph Hultsbrant, director of Pollution Probe and professor of Biology and Bacteriology at the University of Toronto, Tony Barrett, B. Comm., Pollution co-ordinator and one of the founders of PP, and Monty Hammell, education co-ordinator.

Mr. Murray this morning commented that the discussion following the address "should prove very interesting."

Quinte Air Service A Possibility

A new Belleville enterprise is proposing to link the Quinte district to major Canadian and northeastern U.S. centres with a charter air service.

Quintair Limited has presented a brief on its scheme to the Quinte Air Services Committee, an inter-district municipal group which is seeking a regular air transport link for the area.

The Quintair proposal said its service would have the intention "and capabilities" of expanding its schedule as needs arise, said a committees report.

Committee chairman and Stirling reeve Donald Rodgers says the proposals would provide a service not new in existence, and that the committee would endorse Quintair.

Meantime, the committee would continue to seek a scheduled airline carrier that would service the Quinte region on a regular basis.

The Quinte Air Services Committee is appointed by the municipal councils of Belleville, Trenton, and Hastings and Prince Edward counties.

Planning Board's End Awaits Mr. McKeough

The future of the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board is virtually nonexistent.

At a planning board, six-month termination date deals with the decision reached by Department of Municipal Affairs Minister Darcy McKeough upon conclusion of a meeting with the Quinte Planning Board, local councils and the planning boards concerned.

Planning areas existing in the Quinte Planning Area and affected by these recommendations are the Belleville and Suburban Planning Area, the Brighton Planning Area, Stirling Planning Area, and Murray Planning Area.

This announcement brought to light at last nights BSPB meeting, was met with concern by the board.

Belleville is the only municipality involved in this decision with planning employees on staff. Therefore, it was decided to correspond with the ministers registering a schedule of dissolution.

Chairman Zdenek Kvarda, in making the proposed, brought to the board's attention the fact that staff members should be notified of their future, together with plans for assets and accommodations.

Bert Kenny, planning director, later commented "I don't think there's any worry in not being used . . . we all anticipated it but the big question is when."

The two planners also employed by the board are Frank Stokmans, and Richard Danziger. This decision also concerns the four other employees of the board.

Optimism was expressed that the experience of the board employees could be put to good use by the new area board.

A total of 24 representatives will serve on the new board which will encompass the city of Belleville, town of Trenton, villages of Brighton, Frankford, and Stirling and the townships of Brighton, Murray, Thurlow and Sidney, the latter serving as the designated municipality, providing a nucleus for the planning area.

Local Realtors At Conference

Belleville and District Real Estate director Hugh O'Neil, of Fraser and O'Neil, and secretary Kenneth Burkett attended the local official delegates to the annual conference of the Canadian Association of Real Estate Boards at Banff early this month.

During the conference, resolutions were passed to change the name of the Association to the Canadian Real Estate Association and that of the educational branch to the Real Estate Institute of Canada. The new names will become effective by January 1, 1972.

While at the conference Ken Burkett was presented with his fellowship of the Realtors Institute (FRI) certificate.

Man, Girl Face Drug Charges

A Belleville man and girl were remanded on their own recognizance in provincial court yesterday morning until Oct. 8 when they will appear on charges of possession of drugs for the purpose of trafficking.

Charged are David Christopher, 21, of 90 Avondale Road, and Miss Jane Moore, 19, of 45 East College Street, who were arrested Wednesday night following a search of an apartment by members of the RCMP and the Belleville City Police.

According to an RCMP spokesman this morning, the apartment search was conducted following information received by police.

A quantity of home-grown marijuana plants, a small quantity of hashish and 200 capsules of LSD were found.

City Continuing Fencing Program

The Belleville Parks Board will spend an additional $3,200 this year for fencing of city-owned parks and playground property.

Fencing will include installation of 200 feet of chain link fencing at the main entrance to the Haig Road Park; 250 feet of fence for the front entrance of the Park Dale park; 165 feet of fence for the West Park Village property, a mortar of fence to divide the ball park and playground at the Alemite grounds.

Other fencing already completed this year at parks property was the new chain link fence along Bridge Street at the Exhibition Park and extention of fencing around the property formerly leaseholder at Zwick's Island Park.

The Parks board share of the total fencing program amounts to $2,300 with the balance be-ing paid by the general contractor doing the street reconstruction.

IN MEMORIAM

ASSELSTINE — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Clarence, who passed away Sept. 17, 1970.
The years are quickly passing,
Time flies by day by day,
But in the hearts that love him,
His memory lingers yet.
Sadly missed by brother Walter and sisters Olive, Gladys and Pearl.

BROOKS, Beverly — In loving memory of our dear brother John, who passed away Sept. 17, 1970.
Little thought when leaving
He would no more return,
When we laid our brother down,
We did not know to mourn,
But deep within our aching hearts
We grieve for one we love.
We did not see him die,
We were not there to see him die,
And did not say goodbye.
Never forgotten by sister Kay, brother-in-law Ken. 37

BEGENOVA — In loving memory of our dear son Dominic Begenova, who passed away September 12, 1970.
A light is from our household gone,
A voice we loved is stilled,
A place is vacant in our home,
Which never can be filled.
God in His wisdom has recalled,
Though on earth you are no more,
Your memory we will always keep,
As long above us we have sky,
Sadly missed and always remembered by mother and family. 37

CARDS OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks to all our friends and neighbors for cards, flowers, telephone calls, cards, letters of sympathy, expressions of condolence, and to Rev. Canon Gordon Rideout during our recent bereavement. Also to the pallbearers, flower bearers and those who loaned transportation to the house and to the church, and for the food supplied on the day of the funeral. A very sincere thank you to Dr. Hall and the nursing staff of the Belleville General Hospital also to Drs. Roseth and Lerman, and the nursing staff of the 4th floor and staff for their kindness and efficiency during the illness of our father. Also for his visit at the hospital and comforting message.
Evelyn, Linda and Dale Dawson. 37

Impressions of Japan:

People, Industry and Smog, Combined with Scenic Charm

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

There's a particle of Belleville among the city of Osaka's official collection of Expo '70 memorabilia.

The souvenir was exchanged last week between two civic officials who've never yet met — Belleville's Mayor Russell Scott and Mayor Chuma of Osaka.

Intermediary in the presentation was OPP Const. Bill Ryan, a 26-year-old Bellevillian now back home after a seven - month duty stint at Expo's Ontario pavilion.

In his luggage when he left Canada was the illustrated history, Mosaic of Belleville, given him by the mayor for presentation to Osaka.

Const. Ryan finally managed to donate the gift Sept. 10— after several postponements caused by Mayor Chuma's hectic itinerary as civic host of Expo.

As far as the officer knows, Belleville was the only Ontario municipality making such a gesture.

A few days later he packed his own souvenirs and memories of the exotic interlude in his fledgling police career that took him around the globe to the busiest of international events.

It was an interlude crowded with more than events.

In fact, the most vivid impressions Const. Ryan still carries is the fantastic population contrasts between Japan and his own native landscape.

"I've never seen so many people in my life. You just don't get away from the crowds," recalls Const. Ryan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ryan, 137 George Street.

The teeming bustle was not confined to the Expo site. Osaka is a city of more than seven million — and the urban sprawl spills out across the countryside.

He often found himself nostalgic for the easily-agreeable open spaces of Ontario and his Quinte home area in particular.

Solitude, unbroken by signs of human settlement, was not that easily available on the main Japanese islands of Shikoku and Honchu — the site of Osaka and Expo.

"I don't think you could look on the horizon without seeing civilization," he recalls.

Nevertheless, the Japanese islands have some of the most striking scenery he has ever observed — particularly mountain ranges.

His assignment also permitted leave — which he spent amid the semi-tropical contrasts of the Japanese resort island of Kyushu.

It was a posting that actually started in September, 1969 when Const. Ryan, stationed at the St. Thomas OPP detachment after finishing the force the year before, was selected for a 16 - man police detail for the Ontario pavilion.

A crash course in Japanese followed before the squad was despatched by air Feb. 13 to Japan.

Expo was a glittering spectacle but one which inevitably lost its novelty as the months passed. Const. Ryan said he eventually became much more interested in the people participating in the exhibition than in the show itself.

Expo afforded unique opportunity to socialize with peoples from many nations, he said.

Regular fare set also permitted much sightseeing and travel — and Japan has one of the most exciting transportation facilities in the world, recalls Const. Ryan.

It's the Bullet Train, a swift flyer moving between Osaka and the Tokyo capital at average speeds of 110 miles an hour.

Almost noiseless, it's a "beautiful train. There's nothing to compare to it," he says.

He was so impressed with the facilities he made a point to recommend its use to tourists he met.

Const. Ryan is one manifestation of the phenomenal industriousness of the country.

But that achievement in turn also creates a familiar problem — air pollution, the officer recalls.

On work days a perpetual haze seems suspended between the countryside and the sky.

The duty tour ended last week and Const. Ryan was among the first of the OPP squad to return, arriving back in his Belleville hometown Sept. 14 — and started sightseeing all over.

As soon as he'd oriented himself to time changes, he began taking trips into the country.

"It's so nice to see uncluttered countryside," he says.

Despite the excitement of the Expo trip, seven months away from familiar people and places was sufficient and he was anxious to be home.

Sold Into Slavery!

It's initiation week at Loyalist College and among the activities this morning was slave auction, which saw students bought for various work projects. Among those up for bids sought by auctioneer David Pape were (from left) Sharon Kelley, Ellen Garvin and Bettanne Woods, all 18.

Funds will help with scholarships planned by Loyalist student council. Saturday, the students plan to shine shoes in Belleville and Trenton to raise donations for Canadian Cystic Fibrosis Association.

Books Hold Their Own in Media Competition

By BARRY GRILLS
Staff Reporter

There are two women in Belleville who love to read books, who love to own books, who love to sell books and who are qualified to talk about their medium with authority. The Intelligencer talked to Mrs. Anna Parsons, manager of the Reading and Greeting Shop, and Miss Dorothy Matthews, president and general manager of James Tests Ltd.

The topic was book trends in sales and resulting trends in reading.

And as far as Mrs. Parsons is concerned, the future looks better and better.

She explained that books were more popular now in sales and that all types of books sell — poetry, psychology, westerns, science fiction, Gothics.

"They've all become more popular now," she said. "I don't think anything will ever replace books."

She feels that part of the reason for the boom in book popularity is the fact that more titles are available. There are more and more different types of book: for sale.

And all of the types of popular, from heavy, intellectual literature to how — to books to fiction.

She said there was a trend to psychology and philosophy which could only mean there's a trend toward people wanting to improve their minds.

Metaphysical literature is on the upswing, she explained as every now and again they get a run on books about ESP and the occult.

Bestsellers are still just that, bestsellers, and they remain popular, but herein lies a distinction that has become more and more obvious in the past few years.

"Bestsellers are not so much a real good book that you can get your teeth into now," Mrs. Parsons said. "Bestsellers are more like trash than they have been."

"I hope it's shortlived. They're putting too much emphasis on trash. If they didn't put the covers on the books that they do they might sell even better."

In this case, an example would be the pocket book edition of Steppenwolf, by Herman Hesse. Steppenwolf is a philosophical, existential piece about a man who is an outcast, symbolically displayed as a wolf from the Steppes. Its author is a Nobel prize winner. However, the cover on the book would mislead a potential reader.

For Mrs. Parsons, operating the Reading and Greeting Shop is an adventure in judging human nature.

"You'd be amazed at the people that read intellectual literature and the ones that don't."

Miss Matthews is in a different situation, selling hardback books, and the trends in her store are different. There's more room for philosophical observations about literature.

"There are people who read and people who don't read. The trends in books are changing."

"It's pretty hard now to sell fiction in hardback," she said. "We sell a lot of luxury-type books, coffee table books if you like. Those books go very well. They're works of art."

James Tests is also well-established in the education field, selling to schools and other institutions of learning.

But the book business is growing, she said, and nonfiction is selling more and more.

"People today are more conscious of what goes on around them. Books that follow trends are popular and there'll be more of them. With fiction, you have television."

She said that books in the Canadian series are selling well and that Canadian authors are very well.

"There's no other business like the book business. Each book is different. We have a 30,000 different titles in stock.

Despite the prominence of other faster forms of media, there will always be books.

"You have to love books. If you didn't love books you wouldn't be in the book business," Miss Matthews said.

Dam Site Relocated, Studies Under Way

Pre-engineering studies for the proposed ice control dam on the Moira River just north of the Belleville Crematories are now being carried out at Queen's University.

A model of the proposed dam has been constructed with tests being run to determine performance.

Engineering for the dam is expected to be carried out next year with possible construction in 1972.

An ice control dam as a means of helping to eliminate periodic spring floods in downtown Belleville has been in the talk stage for approximately 20 years.

The site originally recommended was just above the College Street bridge, but more recent studies show that a location further downstream would be more satisfactory.

The site now proposed would take advantage of a flood plain area south of Reid Street to store ice during the spring breakup period.

The Moira River Conservation Authority this year provided funds for engineering costs on the dam but with only pre-engineering to be done, the funds will be made available for purchase of park property on the west side of the Moira River below Highway 401.

Trenton PUC To Plug Leaks

TRENTON (Staff) — The Public Utilities Commission decided yesterday that actions must be taken to stop leaking water lines in the town.

Of particular concern were lines running from the mains to private dwellings. Cliff Baker, commission chairman, stressed that the PUC is not getting paid for water that does not reach the meters in the basements.

"There are leaks in old homes and they are getting poor service. The lines are wearing out and they need replacing," he said.

Service has not been provided by the commission on lines running from the water shutoffs into the town's buildings. The PUC has only tended the mains and their extensions onto each private lot as far as the water shutoff point.

It has been the feeling of commissioners in the past that for the PUC to maintain and repair the lines running into individual residences and businesses would put the town in competition with private contractors and deprive them of business.

"I do not think we should be competitive but plumbers will not do it," Mr. Baker said, adding that a commission survey reveals that there are many leaking water lines in the municipality.

He emphasized that it is difficult to get people to report leaks" because it costs them money to get a line repaired.

Under the new PUC policy residents will pay for repairs to faulty waterlines on their properties, although the commission itself will do the repair work.

Such jobs will be undertaken only after agreements between property owners and the commission, as is the situation in Belleville and Kingston.

If residents cannot afford to pay immediately for having their lines fixed, the cost may be broken up into payments surcharged on their water bills.

707s Will Be Fitted For Aerial Refuelling

TRENTON (Staff) — One of the four Boeing 707s at CFB Trenton's Air Transport Command will fly out to Seattle, Wash., in November, another in January, for fitting with aerial refuelling equipment.

The two long-range military transports will spend 18 weeks each on the west coast, cutting the operational 707 strength of Air Transport Command in half for a brief period.

Ottawa sources reported this morning that passenger and freight capabilities of the four planes will not be altered.

"Dispensing of fuel will be from tanks in the wings of the aircraft. The probes, hoses and wheels will be in there too," a Defence Department spokesman said.

Retirement of the turbo-prop Yukon transport planes will be slowed to stop the gap while the 707s are in Seattle. The Yukons are expected to be withdrawn from service in April 1971.

A Department of National Defence spokesman said yesterday that the planes destined for aerial refuelling by the 707 tankers are the controversials CF-5s. About 35 of these aircraft are already in service at CFB Bagotville and CFB Cold Lake, while the rest of the 115 CF-5s on order are going into storage pending decision on their use.

Information was given by Canadian Forces Headquarters today that the planes will definitely be returning to Trenton to resume their present roles.

No new ground facilities will be required at the base to complement the aerial refuelling systems, although sources say there may be "minimal personnel alterations". A few people will be needed to service the $2.5 million worth of equipment to be fitted on the 707s but they may be drawn from present base staff.

Focus on Loyalist

Former Loyalist College President Kenneth Bradford, now a "private citizen" as he put it, had a formidable list of questions to ask concerning the college's operations when he addressed Trenton Rotary Club recently.

His queries, against the background of his contention that a college "is not a political instrument," were concerned with proposed additional construction and its purpose, staff and student morale (staff apparently have been told they do not have a valid contract despite assurances from the province to the contrary), staff salary negotiations, the impact of the Manpower Retraining Program, and the lack of student interest from Belleville itself.

"The weakest point in growth of the 5,000-square mile area, says Mr. Bradford, is Belleville."

That does call for some kind of investigation. Belleville as the closest centre to the Wallbridge Road college should surely have a large enrolment, yet here is the former president telling us this is not the case. Why? Last week Ontario Education Minister William Davis was in town and he pointed out that Loyalist was operating with something less than an economic base in regard to numbers. This would correct itself, with the per student cost being reduced to the provincial average as enrolment increased, he said. Part of the problem them, we may conclude, is to attract the students who are not coming forward from Belleville itself.

We come now to Mr. Bradford's further contention that the community must know what is going on at the college. After all, this is a community college and even though financed by the province itself (with the taxpayer's money of course) and even though its governors are appointed, not elected, it would be in the general interests of the public if the press were to be admitted to board meetings. Mr. Davis is reported to have hedged on this issue last week, but we agree with Mr. Bradford that Loyalist board meetings should be open to the press. Mr. Bradford goes further and suggests that the teachers' association and student representatives be admitted also.

Certainly this would provide a bigger base of community involvement in what is a community educational establishment. We often wonder though to what extent the public is truly involved with Loyalist. There has been no shortage of publicity, but the whole fact of the college vis-a-vis the public at large suffers from a remoteness and isolation that college authorities would find advantageous to correct.

Repairing an Image

For all their differences the Irish, north and south, see eye to eye in more ways than might be supposed.

A recent CBC documentary on the Irish scene as viewed from the Irish Republic, or the southern counties separated by the political border from the six counties of Northern Ireland, referred to the tax concessions which had been instrumental in building up new industry, in the main, as pioneered in the north and later adopted in the south.

Now we see north and south are both working hard to attract more visitors and expatriates to the country in 1971. Ironically this will be the 50th anniversary of partition and the north has designated it "Come to Ulster (Northern Ireland) Year." Not to be outdone, Irish International Airlines, in conjunction with Air Canada, has put out a brochure with a suitably Irish cover motif — a castle as background, a huntsman and hounds, a young coastal fisherman at his nets and in the foreground a couple dining — and the legend: "October through March 70-71, Ireland, The Friendly Season."

All in all, Ireland intends to regain its traditional image as a congenial place to visit. We think they will succeed.

Was This Necessary?

The spectacle of a Toronto woman being dragged to a police cruiser as her four-year-old daughter looked on helplessly at the officers is not a pleasant one.

The woman was one of three arrested and charged with causing a disturbance after participating in a demonstration in front of and blocking an intersection to protest the lack of a crossing guard for their children.

The police of course were merely doing their duty, but the subsequent and all too evident roughness of the incident or erase from the public mind the unseemly spectacle of a woman being forced into a cruiser in front of her small daughter. Two other police stood by during the incident which clearly was a frightening one for the little girl in particular.

So the woman was creating a disturbance. Something, if not a fatality, is necessary to force authorities to provide crossing guards where necessary.

Will Hussein's Monarchy Survive?

Jordan Embarks on Another Round of Hostilities

LONDON (CP) — It is too early to say whether King Hussein's tottery throne in Jordan will fall.

But at the moment Hussein is sitting atop the world's shakiest monarchy.

His appointment of a military government to run his country, wracked by open strife with the Palestinian Arabs who live there, could lead to still more trouble in the explosive Middle East.

Hussein has been called a royal juggler. The still-boyish monarch of 35 has for years walked a tightrope between traditional monarchists and terrorists.

He has missed assassination about six times. He was at the side of his grandfather, King Abdullah, when that patriarch was gunned down: He carries a weapon and has a revolver at his bedside.

Hussein, who knows that he and his monarchy live from day to day, once proclaimed:

"I am a Jordanian Arab. I do not know fear. My destiny is the destiny of my country."

But it is not that simple. Hussein has problems not only with the Arab guerrillas but with his military organization. Not all of the army is loyal to him, though its leaders backed him in establishing a military-type government Tuesday night.

He lost a lot of the loyalty of the wild tribesmen by marrying in 1961 a British woman, an extraordinary move for a king supposedly descended from Mohammed. More recently he has taken the risk of making peaceful gestures toward Israel.

Arab guerrilla chiefs have been warning since summer that any acceptance of peace talks with Israel would lead to a blood bath in Jordan. Is this calamity about to descend upon the desert kingdom of Hashemite Hussein?

No one among knowledgeable Middle East watchers in Britain has a firm answer. The comment goes:

"Hard to assess . . . Let's wait and see. . . A developing situation . . . Shall have to study. . . ."

One thing that seems clear is that Yasser Arafat, the proclaimed supreme commander of the "newly-unified commando," is going to have a tough time unifying the diverse guerrilla groups. Any idea that they are really united is taken with a large grain of salt here.

Arafat undoubtedly is the most important leader in the Jordanian guerrilla movement. But there are about 10 major guerrilla groups, and several of them are also divided into splinters.

Among the ones that Arafat does not dominate is the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, responsible for the recent wave of jetliner hijackings.

Historically, Arafat's chances of taking total command would be dubious anyway. Guerrilla movements in the desert cohere and dissolve on whim. Few have accepted unification since Lawrence of Arabia brought tribes together on behalf of the Allies against Turkey in the First World War.

This is not to deny that Hussein's control is possibly as on the threshold of civil war and anarchy.

In London, an expert at understatement described the situation Wednesday as "unstable." That was about as close as one could get to an immediate analysis.

Six-Cent Stamp May Soon Go

Montreal Gazette

Perhaps the government now will give a top priority to reforming the post office, introducing modern equipment and putting the administration on a businesslike basis. But there has been rendered more difficult by the loss of business and the increase in the postal deficit incurred during the long disruption of service.

Do not be surprised if the six-cent stamp soon goes the way of the 10-cent cup of coffee.

Fled Czechoslovakia To Escape from Wife Raising Kids Under Reds

Regina Leader - Post

The 32-year-old Czech uranium company executive told authorities in Vienna that his wife was a dangerous Red who would not raise their children the way he wanted. He forced the pilot of a small company plane to cross the border from Czechoslovakia to Austria and land in Linz, about 120 miles west from the capital.

Both Austrians obviously don't appreciate husbands who leave their wives so spectacularly, so they sentenced him to one year in jail (for hijacking the plane).

Only when he gets out of jail will he be able to tell some of those horror stories about communism and ask for political asylum.

Provinces Would Administer System

Call for One Federal System of Education in Canada

Howard Weese of Carrying Place has submitted the following statement and resolution on education. It has passed Local 343 of the National Farmers' Union and will go before an NFU district meeting in Campbellford tomorrow.

* * *

This resolution and preamble to it may be known as the Howard Weese (National Farmers' Union) formula for the transfer of the financial responsibility of education from real estate to the Federal Government.

1. The literacy of any nation should be the responsibility of the Federal Government.

2. Whereas the Fathers of Confederation in order to persuade Quebec to come into Confederation gave, in error, the responsibility of education to the provinces.

3. Until the last century education was the badge of privileges of the favored few. It became the symbol of equality, a symbol our grandfathers determined to claim as their right.

Therefore free elementary schools were established, and later free secondary schools. This system was adequate as long as education was a society provided service which insured rough equality of opportunity.

It has ceased to be sufficient as education has become a form of physical (materiel?) investment.

4. Whereas, education having become a form of physical investment, who or what sector of our government, municipal, provincial, or federal receive the greatest benefit from this investment? The answer is the Federal Government through the combined effect of Excise Taxes, Excise Duties, Corporation Tax, and the Income Tax.

5. Whereas it has been suggested by some that the financial responsibility of education be transferred entirely to our provincial governments, let us remember that under the British North America Act the provincial governments are restricted to direct taxation within the province to raise its necessary revenues. Whereas we would only be transferring our tax load or responsibility from one shoulder to the other.

6. Whereas the Federal Government under the British North America Act is not restricted in any way, in matters of taxation. It has access to fiscal resources far greater than those of our provinces. Also it has under its jurisdiction the Bank of Canada, which is charged with the responsibility for regulating "credit and currency in the best interests of the economic life of the nation", and has conferred on it specific powers for discharging this responsibility.

If common sense use were to be made of the Bank of Canada, our tax burden could be greatly reduced in this country.

7. Whereas our money today is purely fiduciary, that is, there is no legislative guarantee backing it. It depends solely on your and my confidence in it. The Bank of Canada creates and issues it as it will.

8. Whereas, if all the schools and institutions of learning in the Dominion were to belong to the Federal Government they could be used as a guarantee against which the Bank of Canada could create money. That is if the Federal Government were to buy all the schools and institutions of learning tomorrow from our municipalities and provincial governments, the Bank of Canada could create the money to pay for them by using the schools as a guarantee for the money. The provinces and municipalities could use the money received from the sale of the schools to pay off considerable of their debenture debt thus, reducing our municipal and provincial taxes. Any new school built in the future the Bank of Canada could create the money to build it. Issue the money as the school is being built and withdraw this money from circulation at the same rate as the school building is depreciated.

9. Whereas this plan would necessitate the Federal Government establishing a Department of Education, this department could be used solely to coordinate our 10 systems of education leaving the provinces the responsibility of instruction. Is it not time that we had one system of education in this Dominion instead of 10?.

Also the Federal Government should establish a subsidiary to the Bank of Canada to carry out the purchasing and building of all schools. This subsidiary might be known as the Education Bank of Canada.

10. Whereas the salaries of all school teachers being an operating expense, they should be paid from ordinary federal revenue with special emphasis on income tax.

The administration and maintenance of all schools should remain as a responsibility of the provincial governments. The provincial governments being relieved of all financial responsibility in building schools and teachers salaries should relinquish their right to income tax to the Federal Government.

"Be it resolved that the financial responsibility for the ownership of all our established schools and institutions of learning together with the maintaining and equipping of all new schools, also the responsibility of all teachers salaries become the obligation of our Federal Government."

That a copy of this preamble and resolution be sent to National Farmers Union, Ontario Office with a copy being sent to each local. Also all labor and other organizations asking for their consideration and support in not paying their municipal taxes until such time as we get action on this resolution.

That a brief be prepared and permission sought to present same at a special Federal-Provincial Conference to be called for the purpose of dealing with this issue.

Picton Merchants Seek to Settle Standard Hours

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON (Staff) — A group of Picton merchants here has invited proposals for weekly two - day store closings, rebidding a Wednesday, half holiday with seasonal exceptions.

About 20 businessmen met at Prince Edward Yacht Club, last night to discuss regular store hours and extended Christmas shopping hours.

Merchants examined three suggestions for two - day closings but did not reach general agreement on any one of them. Proposals tossed out by store managers included Saturday - Monday, Sunday - Monday and Sunday - Wednesday closings except in the months of July, August and December.

The suggested Sunday-Monday holiday prompted one clothing retailer to observe, "The local economy now living anywhere. I can't see any object in shortening store hours when the people are willing to shop elsewhere.

The roads to Belleville and Kingston are good — why give these shoppers more encouragement to buy out of town?"

He pointed out that Belleville and Kingston stores gradually are adopting the six day week. The merchant added that he felt this was a dying community and a Monday closing would represent "another nail in the coffin."

The proposal was voted down 14 to 7 in a show of hands.

A Saturday-Sunday closing received unanimous rejection while response to a Sunday - Wednesday holiday elicited almost no favorable response.

Ronald Scott, chairman of the meeting and a vice-president of the Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce called for votes on a Wednesday half holiday except during July, August and December when stores would remain open all day to accommodate shoppers. Included in this plan was the stipulation that most stores would adopt the policy of staying open Friday nights throughout the year.

Mr. Scott observed that last year most stores had closed Friday evenings while others remained open. Stores met for the purposes of the meeting was to standardize store hours to avoid local criticism. agreement on a Friday night policy was emphasized in Mr. Scott's proposal. He told shopkeepers attending the meeting that a petition will be circulated for their signatures next week. Those signing it will be cautioned if they fail to comply with its specified store hours.

Mr. Scott explained that the meeting was held because of complaints about Wednesday closings received by the Quinte Isle Tourist Association and similar dissatisfaction expressed by local residents. The Picton Police Commission also is in need of uniform store hour regulations so that by-laws can be properly enforced.

An earlier meeting among Picton merchants established store hours for this year's Christmas season. It was reported that during the first two weeks of December, shops will remain open daily until 5:30 p.m. from Monday through Saturday. In the third week of the month, stores will close at 9 p.m. each evening except Saturday when closing time will be 5:30 p.m. Throughout the final week of December stores will remain open until 9 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, closing at 5:30 p.m. Christmas Eve.

Merchants agreed last night to remain closed on the day following New Year's Day.

Town council's annual present of free parking for Christmas shoppers was mentioned during the businessmen's discussion. It was noted that this privilege was abused last year by store employees who used the parking slots and by shoppers who took unfair advantage of this bonus. Mr. Scott commented that council is now debating the best course of action for the coming holiday season's present of penniless parking.

Parks Rental Policy To Be Re-examined

The city parks board will re-examine its rental policy for the exhibition park but in the meantime the present scale of tariffs will remain in effect.

This was the decision of parks board members at a meeting Thursday evening following a request from the Belleville kinsmen Highland Weekend Committee for a rebate in connection with fairgrounds rental for their Highland entertainment in June.

The parks board charge to the Kinsmen club for grounds rental and cleanup was $202, but the club experienced a deficit on the weekend activity.

Board members noted that requests by community organization for special considertion in renting city parks and recreational facilities were becoming more numerous.

The argument put forth in such requests for lower rental rates is that profits from such functions are earmarked for local social and community purposes.

Another line of argument points out that when city-owned facilities are rented for conventions or other such functions, visiting delegates bring much business into the community.

Ceasefire Ordered

successful dawn attack by Jordanian army tanks on the guerrilla holding the village.

The Jordanian government radio in Amman gave no indication of the military situation in its first broadcasts today. It said shortly before midnight Thursday night the army was in control of Amman and military governor Habis Majali warned the guerrillas that his forces had been holding back their firepower to save lives but could increase their attacks tenfold if the commandos keep fighting.

Radio Damascus proclaimed that northern Jordan, from Amman to the Syrian border, was a "liberated area." It delivered an order from guerrilla leader Yasir Arafat naming himself the administrative authority and calling for the resumption of normal activities in the area.

Guerrilla spokesmen in Amman told correspondents that hundreds of civilians had been cut down in crossfires between guerrillas and army troops in Amman.

"Clashes are taking place at all entrances to Amman," a guerrilla broadcast said. "The army is still shelling the city."

Radio Baghdad said one of the northern towns where heavy fighting raged was Irbid, Jordan's second-largest city.

"The main target is the refugee camp and neighboring residential districts," the broadcast reported.

Irbid, in the northwest corner of Jordan near the Israeli frontier, is where 12,000 Iraqi troops are based. Although the guerrillas have appealed for intervention by the Iraqis, and Iraq's ruling Baath party had promised aid if needed, there was no indication the 12,000 men were involved in the fighting.

The guerrilla radio said the Jordanian army had invaded the northern part of the country held by the guerrillas and heavy fighting was going on in Ramtha, Tarma and Beit Fayyad as well as Irbid.

The guerrillas claimed they had knocked out six tanks and captured two heavy machine-guns near Irbid.

The guerrillas Thursday claimed they were in full control of northern Jordan, from 15 miles north of Amman to the Syrian frontier.

Amman radio broadcast a communique from the military commander warning civilians to stay off the street.

It said the army had been "tolerant yesterday," but was adopting stronger measures against those who ventured from their homes.

Amman radio said the curfew imposed after the fighting began Thursday would remain in force indefinitely.

Word of the heavy army shelling aimed at silencing defiant guerrilla strongholds in the Jordanian capital, came from the main guerrilla radio, Voice of Palestine.

"As we speak, the shells are crashing in," the broadcaster declared as he broke dramatically into the radio's program to report the attacks.

This radio called on guerrillas and the people of Amman to barricade all roads into the city with overturned cars, trucks and rocks and to lay mines.

But Majali warned residents not to let the guerrillas use their houses, saying they would be the target of counter-fire.

Probe Told Duke Host To 2 Men

TORONTO (CP) — George Clinton Duke frequently entertained two men named by Dr. Morton Shulman as members of the Mafia, newspaper man Gerald McAuliffe of the Hamilton Spectator told a provincial inquiry Thursday.

Mr. McAuliffe said Mr. Duke, millionaire Oakville, Ont., businessman, was entertaining officers of the Ontario Provincial Police at his home during the same period, although their visits did not coincide with those of the two men.

Dr. Shulman, New Democratic Party member of the legislature for High Park, in a speech to a legislature committee June 4, named the two, Donald (Red) LaBarre and Johnny Papalia, as persons with underworld connections, along with Dante Gabriel Gasbarrini.

Another witness, Leo Slattery, sales manager for a Hamilton paper goods firm, testified that Staff Sgt. A. M. Rodger of the OPP had no objection to being on the gift list of Mr. Duke's lawn equipment firm.

MR. AND MRS. DELBERT DEACON

Deacon – Nash

Mary Theresa Nash, daughter of Mrs. Nash and the late Mr. Joseph Nash of Read became the bride of Delbert D. Deacon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Deacon of Petrolia on Sept. 8, at St. Charles Borromeo Catholic Church, Read. Rev. Ferguson conducted the ceremony while Mrs. Helen Callaghan at the organ and soloist Miss Lois Freeman provided music for the occasion.

Given in marriage by her brother James Nash, the bride wore a full length A-line dress of white satin with bell sleeves and a wedding ring collar outlined with appliques adorned with seed pearls. The trimming on the train which fell from the shoulders matched that on the neck and sleeves. Her three-tiered shoulder-length veil featured buds and seed pearls. Her bouquet consisted of sweetheart roses.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Helen Mathews, sister of the bride wore a full - length gown of aqua marine pure silk chiffon with an empire waistline. Embroidered lace decorated the fitted bodice, capped sleeves and train. She wore matching flowers in her hair and carried matching mums.

Dressed identically to the matron of honor were Mrs. Doreen Nash; Miss Irene McWilliams and Miss Marion Welch, bridesmaids. Flower girl Beverley Nash, a niece of the bride also wore an identical costume to that of the other attendants and carried a basket of matching mums.

The bridegroom was attended by his twin brother George Deacon as best man. John and Gerald Nash and Jack Bourne were the ushers. Ring bearer Joseph Mathews a nephew of the bride carried a heart - shaped satin pillow.

For the reception held at Read Parish Hall, the bride's mother wore a mauve silk crimplene dress with a purple hat and gloves. Black accessories and a corsage of white and mauve mums completed the costume.

A multi - colored dress topped with a cape, brown accessories and a corsage of white and yellow mums was the choice of the bridegroom's mother.

The newlyweds left for their wedding trip to Points West. The bride's going - away outfit consisted of a rose crimplene two piece suit, black accessories and a corsage of pink and white mums. Upon return they will reside at 233 Gibb St., Apt. 14, Oshawa.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT WORLEY

Worley – Maracle

Rev. Canon R. B. Wright officiated at the wedding ceremony in Christ Church, Belleville recently when Mary Lou Maracle, daughter of Mr. Leonard Maracle of Shannonville and the late Mrs. L. Maracle became the bride of Robert Harold Worley, son of Mrs. Norma Worley, Belleville and the late Mr. Harold Worley. Wedding music was provided by organist D. Withers, who also accompanied the six choir boys in appropriate nuptial selections.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a princess styled gown of crystal peau and Chantilly lace featuring an A-line skirt and the bodice featuring high wedding ring collar trimmed with seed pearls and long lily - point sleeves. The back of the dress was highlighted with a flowing train edged with matching materials which extended from the shoulders. A tiara of crystals and pearls was caught to a shoulder length veil and she carried a cascade bouquet of regal gold roses encircling green cymbidium orchids.

Matron of honor Mrs. Patricia Lundy wore a floor length gown of pale green forzel crepe featuring a Japanese collar and three quarter length bell sleeves. She carried a nosegay of yellow and white carnations with matching flowers in her hair. Bridesmaids Miss Carol Ann Maracle, sister of the bride and Miss Valerie Maracle, cousin of the bride were dressed identically to the matron of honor but in yellow. They carried nosegays of green and white miniature carnations with flowers to match in their hair. Niece of the bridegroom Miss Suzanne Savage was dressed identically to the matron of honor. She carried a basket of white daisy 'mums and yellow sweetheart roses with flowers in her hair.

Bill Savage, brother-in-law of the bridegroom was best man, while ushers were Grant Lundy, and Richard Spencer, friends of the bride. The ringbearer was David Lunsiel, nephew of the bridegroom.

The reception was held at Club Canara where the bride's grandmother greeted the guests wearing a rose colored coat and dress ensemble of peau de soie with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations and pink Sweetheart roses. The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a gold shade three-piece knitted suit with brown accessories and a corsage of yellow sweetheart roses.

Leaving on the honeymoon trip to Quebec City and points east, the bride wore a petal pink ensemble consisting of sheath styled dress and sleeveless lace coat with black accessories and a corsage of white gardenias.

Mr. and Mrs. Worley will reside at 166 College St., Apt. 8, Belleville.

Horticultural Society Meets

The Belleville Horticultural Society got off to a good start Tuesday evening with principal Larry Johnson giving a demonstration on "The Friendly Evergreen".

All kinds of evergreens are given but it was discovered they range in color from bright blue to grey, yellow, plum, variegated to many shades of green.

The difference in color, shape and texture make the evergreen a versatile plant in home landscaping. They complement the home regardless of color of brick or paint.

Broadleaf evergreens are shade tolerant and do well in a northern exposure. Cedar, spruce and pine do best in a sunny location. All evergreens are prone to red spider and Japanese beetle. They all do best in well drained soil. Late June and July is the best time to prune and shape evergreens.

Bob Patterson followed with an illustrated talk on lilies. Many of the beautiful slides were taken at Colby Park, Belleville. Lilies have a variety of ways of propagation, by bulbs, scales and seed is the best. They should be planted twice their depth in a well drained fertile soil. Planting could start in August and continue until frost. These flowers are not only beautiful but fragrant and grow from 12" to six feet. Most common lilies are the Trumpet such as Madonna and Turks' Cap such as the Tiger.

Mr. Lloyd Syer will be the speaker at the October 5 meeting. His talk will be Belleville parks, past, present and future.

A good attendance is anticipated.

MRS. FRED BEEBY

WHA Volunteer Worker To Receive Life Membership

It was announced at the monthly meeting of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary of the Belleville General Hospital by the president Mrs. B. E. Burley that a life membership in the Hospital Auxiliaries Association of Ontario has been conferred on Mrs. F. A. Beeby, to be presented at the annual convention to be held in Toronto in October.

Application for this honor was made by the Belleville Women's Hospital Auxiliary in recognition of Mrs. Beeby's 18 years of enthusiastic work as a volunteer not only locally but at the District level. After five years as a Volunteer in the Operating Shop she served for a further five years as its Convener. This is the major money - making project of the Auxiliary with over 100 volunteers on the staff and the Convenership carries great responsibilities.

In 1969 when it was impossible to secure a convener she again volunteered to act as Executive representative on a committee to operate the Opportunity Shop and is currently acting in that capacity until her departure for India next month.

In 1963 and 1964 Mrs. Beeby was elected president of the Belleville Auxiliary and in 1965 she was elected vice-chairman of Region No. 9 R.A.A. of Ontario. In 1966 Region No. 9 became Region No. 8 and Mrs. Beeby was elected chairman of the district. She has attended numerous Ontario H. A. A. conventions and all district meetings.

Her leadership has been a most valuable asset to the Belleville Auxiliary. Always willing to help solve problems and alleviate pressures, her ingenious ideas and Auxiliary - mindedness led to her being presented with a certificate of appreciation in 1969 by the local Auxiliary. At the convention in October she will be presented with a certificate and a pin with her showing "Provincial Life Member" which gives her a personal vote at the Annual Meetings of the Provincial Association.

This is the first time the Belleville Auxiliary has made application for this honor on behalf of one of its members. The only other Life Member of the Provincial Association locally is Mrs. John Rackett a past president of the Provincial Association and also of the Belleville Hospital Auxiliary.

Clothing Specialist Addresses 4-H Club Leaders

HILLIER — The length of the hemline worn in Prince Edward County may be decided by the county's 4-H Clubs.

Whatever the trend — mini, midi or maxi — speculation stems from the return to classes this week of a cross-section of the county's senior women known as leaders in home making.

Frances Lampman clothing specialist from the Department of Agriculture's Home Economic Branch in Toronto has been busy preparing leaders who are committed to teach sewing to more than 125 girl members of the county's junior farm organization. Instruction and demonstrations emphasized the best ways of working with wool.

Assisting the visiting expert was Miss Jacquelyn Graham, the home economist for Lennox, Addington and Prince Edward counties with an office at Napanee. She referred to the short skirt (mini length) fashioned from woollen material being used as a model.

"It is not employed to suggest a style to be followed. Leaders and pupils are at liberty to decide for themselves. It's up to them to make and wear what they want ... regardless. They're not being taught to be partial."

Leaders in course include Mrs. Herb (Rose) Hitchon, Bloomfield; Mrs. James (Jean) Alexander, Hillier; Mrs. Willet (Dora) Barber, RR 7, Belleville; Mrs. Beech (Shirley) Fike, RR 2, Consecon; Mrs. Arthur (Peggy) Allison, RR 1, Demorestville; Mrs. Keith (Marion) Walker, RR 3, Picton; Miss Gena Schroeder, RR 3, Picton; Mrs. Russell (Luella) Head, RR 9, Picton; Mrs. Peter (Patricia) Satuke, RR 2, Bloomfield; Mrs. Gary (Brenda) Townsend, RR 1, Carrying Place; Mrs. Ralph (Shirley) Graham, RR 3, Demorestville; Mrs. Harley Gilleland, Holmes, RR 1, Picton; Mrs. Douglas (Betty) Alyea; Mrs. Leo (Florence) Wood, RR 2, Ameliasburg; Mrs. George (Rose) Cunningham, RR 1, Consecon; Miss Marjorie Longwell, RR 3, Demorestville; Mrs. Hilton (Norma) Wood, RR 3, Picton; Mrs. Russell (Joan) Marvin, Wellington; Mrs. Alfred (Elzda) Cairns, RR 1, Ameliasburg and Mrs. Roy (Elda) Brooke, RR 3, Demorestville.

In Preparation for Homemaking Project

Various leaders of county 4-H Clubs gather literature dealing with this year's project "Working with Wool." A large selection of pamphlets dealing with the subject was available. At the meeting held in the Township Hall at Hillier, Frances Lampman clothing specialist from the Department of Agriculture's Home Economic Branch in Toronto addressed the gathering.

Successful Living

Drinking Husband Lets Roof Leak

BY DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: I bought our property with my old age pension and my husband never helped one penny. Moreover I always pay taxes, power and phone, who no help from him whatever.

I do his washing and he does not buy soap even. Now the roof is leaking in my kitchen and he says let it leak. I cannot talk much to him because he flares up.

Do you think that if a welfare worker could come and check on what's going on at home here it would help? The call must be at noon when he comes in for his dinner. He is always in the pool room and also he is well supplied with liquor and he has his money under his mattress.

I just have to communicate my feelings! — Can't Stand It

Dear Can't: What a canny manager you must be to have purchased a house on your old age pension. Even a rural area property costs money.

How did your irresponsible husband get that way? Such an uncaring statement as "Let it leak!" suggests a lifetime of just letting things go. I suspect that if you have taken so long to consult anyone about it,

Yes, you may have a visit from a welfare worker by requesting it. The main thing with a counsellor will do is bring you two together to work out a new division of expenses. The present arrangement is ridiculous.

* * *

Dear Doris: I hope you can help me with an old Irish song my mother used to sing many years ago:

"Dearie, dearie, chuck up the baby,
Chuck up the baby ever so high
Oh, dearie, dearie, chuck up the baby
And fix dear Mugsie will come by and by".

If I remember correctly it is about a woman who likes to go out for a good time and leave the baby with her husband. — Ethel

Dear Ethel: Do you think we should be singing songs about such questionable conduct? Maybe there is a reader who knows the rest of it.

* * *

Dear Doris: I am always afraid of what everyone might think of me and what the boys think. Therefore I don't say or do much so I'm just a wallflower, and I'm honestly beside.

I have had advice about coming out of my wallflower state and I know what to do, but I just haven't got the nerve to do it. — No Nerve

Dear No Nerve: Just about any regular Canadian girl feels the way you do at one time or another. As kids we haven't a clue. If we are lucky we venture out of our shells as we grow taller. But if we have been vicious, protected too much and cut too little, the coming out is slow.

In all teenage polls, personality and enthusiasm win out over looks. Worry a little less about your face, a little more about your grooming, and extend yourself enough to make one good friend of either sex for a start.

I'm sending you my 10-cent leaflet, "Are You Really Growing Up?", to show what I mean.

* * *

Is it better to put up with misunderstandings, or to begin talking things over? Let Doris help you see the light.

Tomatoes Used in Casserole

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: S.O.S. Please come to my rescue fast. Our tomato plants are producing so many tomatoes I can't even give them away. Please print recipes for using tomatoes as a vegetable. . . Agnes M.

ANSWER: Good request.

CRUMBED TOMATO CASSEROLE (serves 4)

2 or 4 very large tomatoes (1¼-4 cups) Or use fresh can tomatoes when fresh are out of season)
1 slice onion finely chopped
2 slices crustless white bread cut in ¾" cubes
2 tbsps. butter
¼ tsp. salt
½ to ¾ cup buttered bread crumbs (see below)

Melt the butter in a frying pan and in it lightly brown the bread cubes, adding the onion at the last minute to soak it with butter. Remove from heat and stir in peeled and chopped tomatoes and salt and turn into buttered casserole. Sprinkle top all over with bread crumbs mixed with about 1 or 2 tbsps. melted butter. Bake at 250 deg. Fahr. 1 hr.

EGGPLANT, TOMATO AND GREEN PEPPER CASSEROLE (serves 6)

1 med. eggplant, pared and cut in ¾" cubes
2 cups peeled and chopped tomatoes (or one 16-oz. can when fresh are out of season)
2 med. green peppers, seeded and sliced
1 tbsp. finely chopped onion or bottled green onion flakes
3 tbsps. butter
½ tsp. salt
½ - ¾ cup bread crumbs

Parboil cubed eggplant in boiling salted water 5 min. Drain well. Arrange half in bottom of buttered, casserole. Cover with half of the chopped tomatoes still half of the peppers. Sprinkle with ¼ tsp. salt. Repeat these three vegetable layers and salt. Melt the butter and gently saute the onion in it for 1-2 minutes, then add the crumbs and mix until butter is absorbed by crumbs. Spread evenly over vegetables. Bake at 250 deg. Fahr. for 30 min. or until peppers are barely tender.

Ann Landers

Friend Swears Remedies Are True

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a friend who knows everything. Yesterday she announced at our card club that any illness can be cured by eating certain foods. She went into great detail about "earth remedies" which have baffled medical science for centuries. Her grandmother, she said, handed down many such cures. Among the examples, she cited an aunt who was bedridden with crippling arthritis. After throwing out all her medicine and eating only leche nuts for two months she returned to her career of teaching ballroom dancing. Her sister, she said, cured herself of cancer by drinking cucumber juice and sleeping in the backyard on an ant hill. Then there was a cousin who got rid of a goiter by wearing a necklace of pennies soaked in olive oil. I could go on but I think you get the idea.

ANN LANDERS

I know this sounds crazy but my friend took an oath on the family Bible that it is all true. What do you make of it? — CAN'T FIGURE IT.

* * *

DEAR CAN'T: Nearly every person you talk to can relate at least one story about a "cure" for which there is no medical explanation. I have no objection to anything that works, provided the sick person goes to a legitimate doctor first and steers clear of phonies. Over two billion dollars a year is spent on fake cures. Medical quackery is one of the most horrible racket going. My advice is this: If doctors can't help you, try the gimmicks — providing your doc says it can't hurt you. But don't put out any money.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: No lectures, please. I've lectured myself enough. What I need now is some sound advice — and I don't trust my own judgment.

I entered college at 16 — a super-brainy whiz kid, but dumb as a dodo in the ways of the world. I did the four years in three, graduated in June — with honors. Sounds beautiful so far, doesn't it? Hold the phone. I am five and a half months pregnant. The man is married — age 36, a graduate student whose wife is putting him through. She's the quiet, mousey type with a double set of adrenalins — works two 8-hour jobs.

It's too late for an "option" — so I'm left with two choices: A home for unwed mothers or a Mexican divorce and a quick marriage.

I'm sure I could get my sweetheart to marry me if I turned on the heat. What do you say? — GENIUS WHO COULDN'T COUNT.

DEAR GENIUS: Leave the heat alone. Sounds as if you've turned it up too high already.

If you break up this man's marriage you'll regret it. He needs a woman with a triple set of adrenalins — two to put him through school and one to keep him home nights.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 17-year-old son wants to give his 16-year-old girl friend a $50 dress for her birthday. He is working as a life-guard and has his own money. We feel such a gift is inappropriate. He claims we are old-fashioned. For some reason he thinks you "groove" and you know where it's at. He assured us if we wrote to Ann Landers she'd agree with him and we would have to eat our words. We have our forks ready. How about it? — CREEPY MA AND PA.

DEAR CREEPY: Hand the silverware to your son. Sorry to disappoint him but I don't agree that a dress is a proper gift from a 17-year-old boy to his 16-year-old girl friend.

Railmen for Militancy

QUEBEC (CP) — The established leadership of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers was invited by convention delegates Thursday to put a more militant and nationalistic foot forward in the next two years.

The invitation appeared to spell a warning.

The delegates voted as expected on the matter of a successor to ailing William Smith as president but they also voted out one member of the national executive and selected two new men felt to be more in keeping with the mood of the convention.

At the same time, the vote of 255 to 165 to promote national secretary-treasurer Donald Rocord, 38, to the union's presidency did not appear as a rejection of the platform of aggressive leadership mounted by his challenger, Richard Greaves, a business agent for the CBRT's Seaway local on the Welland Canal.

Mr. Greaves, considered to be at the disadvantage of a marine worker in a predominantly railway union, was widely identified by his supporters as the key figure in the 1966 strike of seaway workers which resulted in a now-famous 30-per-cent wage raise.

His challenge stressed that the CBRT should re-assert a position of leadership as the third-largest national union in Canada and he proposed to work for a coalition of rail, marine and trucking workers to increase bargaining power.

Mr. Secord's low-key campaign freely allowed he had been mistaken last year when he proposed a merger of the 23,000-member CBRT with a larger U.S.-based international. The flat rejection of the proposal at a special convention in 1969 was the one setback in his 22-year record as a full-time CBRT executive.

The mood of the convention was indicated as well when national Vice-President M. K. Carson was defeated by a close vote 196 to 174, by Donald Nicholson, the CBRT's Toronto-area representative. Mr. Nicholson won strong support from restive railwaymen concerned about the disappearance of jobs as a result of technological and operational changes introduced by the CNR.

Lakes Will Get Much More Heat

CHICAGO (AP) — Two Canadian scientists told the American Chemical Society Thursday that by the year 2000 factories, power plants and municipal sewage disposal plants will be putting 11 times as much heat into the Great Lakes as they now are.

At present, about 100 billion British Thermal Units per hour are being put into the lakes by these sources, Floyd C. Elder of the Canada Centre for Inland Waters in Burlington, Ont., said in a paper to the society.

Canada Needs U.S. Help

TORONTO (CP) — Federal Energy Minister J. J. Greene told millions of Americans Thursday that Canada must have more co-operation from the United States in the fight against water pollution.

In an interview on NBC-TV's Today show, the minister said he was pessimistic that Canada could fight pollution, such as that caused by phosphates in the Great Lakes, without more American help.

You can make your dreams reality at Shawano for as little as $400 down payment on a big private lakeshore lot, nestled in mature shade trees.

If you've dreamed about having a place of your own away from the dirt, noise, frustrations and crowding of the city, then Shawano's the place for you.

Unlike many country land offers, Shawano doesn't sweet talk you into the backwoods then leave you to play pioneer. Shawano is a professionally planned recreational community with first-class roads, hydro and many facilities for enjoyable, all-season vacationing. But there's much more.

Shawano is a 1,000-acre tract in the Highlands of Hastings containing some of the most beautiful and unspoiled country in Southern Ontario. The property has thousands of magnificent trees, four sparkling lakes, sandy coves, natural rock harbours, and abounds with wild life and fish.

What's important, Shawano has preserved the great natural beauty of the area as a vast country estate—not chopped it into a rural sub-division.

Shawano has a rich heritage of romantic history. For hundreds of years, it was an area much treasured by Ojibway and Irocuois Indians for its scenic splendour and plentiful game. Over a century ago, the first gold strike in Ontario was made in Shawano country. For many years, discriminating outdoorsmen have hunted and fished the area and enjoyed its natural grandeur and solitude. Isn't this the kind of place you want for your family?

You can buy a ¾ acre lakefront lot at Shawano for as little as $400 down and $38 monthly including interest at only 9½ %—and many larger lots are available.

You can move into Shawano right now with a cottage and lot package deal from $9,900 full price with only 10% down. There is a splendid choice of cottage designs all specially created for Shawano. Most feature spectacular-view picture windows, rustic wood finishes, expansive decks and prices can include extras such as a fireplace, wood panelling and sliding patio doors.

If you prefer, you can buy a cottage shell and finish it off at your leisure—or buy a lot now and take up to five years to build. Whatever way, you get a great deal at Shawano.

So visit Shawano soon. Make it a family outing. Bring a picnic lunch, swimsuits, fishing tackle and your camera and enjoy a free boat cruise on our new "Shawano Belle". Come and relax in this outdoor wonderland. Our resident agent is on the site every day from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

SHAWANO IS EASY TO REACH

So drive up today. Take Highway 62 through Madoc to Steenburg Lake road. Watch for Shawano signs. Visitor information centre is open daily 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. We have our resident agent on the site every day.

Musketeers Taking Crack at Turkeys

A pair of antique gun collectors hope to set turkey shooting back a century or so Saturday when they demonstrate their skills at a field day being staged by Belleville 4 I 8 Wing of the RCAF Association.

Reg. Asselstine of the city and Picton's Jack Wesley will be demonstrating their accuracy with Kentucky long rifles of pioneer fame to highlight the program of events planned for the Association clubhouse on the Fourth Concession of Sidney off the Foxboro Road.

The general public is invited to attend the day's program, which includes barbecued snacks, gun and snowmobile displays, and target competition for prize 10-14 pound turkeys.

Targets will be sold and ammunition distributed at 12.30, with the first turkey shoot scheduled for 1 p.m. There will be competition for open sight as well as peepsight, prone-position marksmen.

Sidney township nerve Jack Bush will get the afternoon under way by firing a blast into a "pie target", with the ticket-holder whose share of the pie receives the most pellets winning an early Thanksgiving dinner.

Doctor Grass on Right Track

Irwin Stable Has Seen Both Sides

By GENE MARLOW

Doctor Grass, a six-year-old brown gelding is doing his share of local harness racing this year but five-year-old chestnut mare B. J. Comet is finding it hard to get on track.

Owners of both horses — Gordon Irwin, Cane Gordon and Jack — have been in the sport for only two years but say they love every minute of it. "We hope to accelerate enough money one day to buy good stock," said the father, "but I think we have invested our money wisely."

Doctor Grass was purchased in the spring from Henry Slane of Erinsville and raced 13 times this year winning $840, $19 less than his $820 purchase price. With the Belleville harness season not over he will be aiming to match his last year's earnings of $1,075.

It didn't take Doctor Grass long to prove his worth. Entered in his fourth race at the Kingston Raceway Grass challud up a new lifetime record of 2:11.1 breaking his previous time of 2:11.3. Even better was the following Saturday at Belleville's Quinte Riding and Driving Club meet when he turned in a 2:10.4 heat, his best time to date.

Although Doctor Grass can be seen this Saturday night on the Belleville track, B. J. Comet is not yet ready.

Comet — purchased six months ago for a reasonable sum from Leonard Hunt of Tweed — is a trifle high strung her owner says. As Jack Irwin put it, "She is referred to as a hot grass mare so we bred her in hopes of settling her down. Although she lost her colt the idea worked and we were looking forward to getting her back into racing form. Then the ultimate happened when she cracked a hoof."

The chestnut mare holds a sizzling lifetime mile record of 2.07. "At one time the previous owner was offered a great sum of money for her — far more than we paid," said Jack Irwin. "Once back on the track we think she will prove her money's worth."

Comet will probably be out for the rest of the local season but the Irwin's hope to have her ready along with Doctor Grass to enter in the Greenwood and Mohawk races this winter.

Bad Break

Part owner Jack Irwin shows B. J. Comet's cracked hoof, the big reason why the mare has not made an appearance on the local harness racing scene this year. The Irwins will be entering Doctor Grass in this Saturday night's Quinte Riding and Driving Club card.

Bay of Quinte Power Squadron commander Bill Bonnell puts the finishing touches to his 26-foot cruiser, the Keibon IV. The Power Squadron will be holding registration for the winter courses at the Yacht Club, Monday. Prime objective of the squadron is to promote water safety.

Full Course Boat Menu

Belleville boaters can make a "power play" for water safety by enrolling in the Bay of Quinte Power Squadron's winter courses.

The course is open to all boating enthusiasts and teaches sailing rules and regulations, seamanship, basic navigation and equipment, among other things.

Beginners enroll in the pilotage course and upon successful completion of their examination they are eligible to join the Power Squadron.

For the veteran sailor, courses such as seamanship, advanced piloting, weather, sailing and marine electronics are offered.

"We're not sure just what courses we'll be giving this year," says Power Squadron commander Bill Bonnell. "It pretty well depends on how many people are interested in a specific course."

A staff of three or four instructors will be on hand to explain the various phases of boating.

Registration for the winter courses will be held Monday, 8 p.m. at the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club.

Billy Taylor Comes Back

OWEN SOUND (CP) — Billy Taylor of Oshawa, who had a lifetime suspension lifted by the National Hockey League three weeks ago, returned to active participation in hockey Thursday.

The former Toronto Maple Leafs player was appointed coach of Owen Sound Crescents of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series.

Taylor, banned 22 years ago following alleged gambling activities, replaces Bill McComb, who lost over the Owen Sound coaching job from former NHL goaltender Harry Lumley in mid-season last year.

Gotta Takes Giant Step

OTTAWA (CP) — With the Eastern Football Conference schedule at the half-way point, Coach Jack Gotta still is making changes in the lineup of Ottawa Rough Riders.

Tight end Freeman White, cut this week by New York Giants, and Canadian defensive back John Krupe, let go by Riders earlier, will be in Ottawa uniforms Saturday for a game against Calgary Stampeders.

Gotta also is taking a hard look at other National Football League cuts for a hard-running halfback.

"We'll have some athletes around here before we're finished," says Gotta.

There isn't that much time left either. Riders now are two games behind the other three EFC teams and can't afford too many more losses if they are to make the Eastern playoffs.

Stampeders, second-place team in the West, come to Ottawa on the heels of a 39-19 Jacking Wednesday at the hands of Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

White is a 6-5, 230-pounder who is said to be an excellent blocker as well as a pass catcher. He caught 59 passes for 315 yards in eight games for the Giants last season.

He also has had the advantage of being a team-mate of Ottawa quarterback Gary Wood with the Giants. A newly-acquired defensive half, Jim Smith, an import, was cut to make room for White.

Krupe came to Riders in the trade that sent Gene Gaines to Montreal Alouettes. He ran into injuries and was let go. Now the coaches believe he is ready to be of some help to them in the drive for a playoff position.

Riders Won't Miss Wayne

HAMILTON (CP) — Wayne Harris, Calgary Stampeders middle linebacker, may miss the Canadian Football League interlocking game Saturday with Ottawa Rough Riders because of a knee injury.

Coach Jim Duncan said Thursday Harris injured the knee Wednesday night in a game against Hamilton Tiger-Cats but an examination revealed no swelling and an operation will not be necessary.

Harris, one of the top linebackers in Canadian football, is a key to the Calgary defence. He has been an all-star every year since joining the Western Conference Stampeders in 1961.

BCI Kickers Win Pair

Centennial Secondary School soccer teams got a kick out of BCI last night, as the Collegians opened the Bay of Quinte High School Soccer season with a pair of wins.

In the senior game BCI came up with a 5-0 win, dominating play throughout the contest.

Peter Hillier was the top scorer for the seniors, netting two goals with singles going to John Thompson, Brian Kinzie and Jim Lovell.

In the junior contest, BCI broke a two-year slump by whipping the Chargers 3-1.

Nick Barrett opened the scoring on a penalty kick and Kaiser added a pair of tallies for BCI to supply the win. The game was evenly played with both teams making numerous scoring chances.

Cosy in Dark

The lights went out on Cosy Grill girls last night just when they had a chance to close the gap on Dairy Queen in their women's city softball league championship series.

The Grill girls held a 7-5 lead when the game was called in the seventh inning on account of darkness.

With Dairy Queen leading the best-of-seven final series 3-1 Cosy Grill still have their backs to the wall in the fifth game now scheduled for 2 p.m. Sunday afternoon at the Cheese Producers' Field.

Bowerman Stays Near Leaders

A sizzling 68 wasn't good enough to give Belleville's Gary Bowerman the lead in the $100,000 Robinson Golf Classic but it did leave him in the thick of the fight for top spot.

Bowerman's round placed him three strokes back of the leader, Rich Bassett, who is trying for his first PGA tournament win. Bassett birdied eight of the first 12 holes en route to a 30-stroke front nine.

In second position, one stroke back, is the 1964 PGA champion Bobby Nichols, who captured the Dow Jones Open three weeks ago. Georgia Knudson, of Toronto, is grouped with Charlie Sifford and George Archer, among others, at 67.

Nearly one-third of the field of 167 golfers broke par on the par-71 Crawford Country Club layout in Robinson, Illinois.

Bailey Cooper Says:

WRIST POSITION AT THE TOP

To keep your clubface "square", to the intended line throughout the swing, you must have normal wrist position at the top of the backswing.

Today's best golfers stake to keep the left wrist more or less straight at the top. This is the square position; one that enables you to bring the clubhead down into the ball and get straight shots without further manipulation of the hands. If your left wrist is convex, you'll probably slice. If it's concave, you'll probably hook.

The right wrist is important, too. It should be directly under the club at the top. This helps produce proper wrist-cock, allowing you to "flail" the clubhead through the ball.

Sabres Blow Four-goal Lead Over Rangers in First Outing

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Some of the stars were missing and some names were barely recognizable as the National Hockey League opened its pre-season schedule Thursday night.

Four teams—including a newcomer to the league—started the round of exhibition games with games at Peterborough, Ont. and Ottawa. The schedule starts Oct. 10.

New York Rangers, minus four of their top players, had to rally with four third-period goals to tie Buffalo Sabres 4-4 at Peterborough as the Sabres played their first NHL game.

And at Ottawa, Toronto Maple Leafs scored twice while shorthanded to tie St. Louis Blues 4-4.

The Rangers were without all-star defenceman Brad Park, centres Walt Tkaczuk and Jean Ratelle and left winger Vic Hadfield. They were suspended for refusing to play without a new contract.

In the game, Rod Gilbert scored with 38 seconds left, after Francis pulled goalie Gilles Villemure, to give Rangers the tie. Bob Nevin, Mike Robitaille and Don Luce also scored for the Rangers.

Buffalo's goals were scored by Bill Inglis and Reg Fleming with one each and J. G. Lagace, with two. Lagace, a hard-hitting defenceman, beat netminders Ed Giacomin and Villemure with hard-lying shots.

Rangers outshot Buffalo 48-31 but were stymied in the first two periods by the acrobatics of goalie Dave Dryden.

Inlach, who termed the debut of his Sabres "propitious," professed not to be distressed at his team blowing a 4-0 lead.

"If we'd won they'd have thought they were the greatest in the world," he said. "By blowing, they might learn something."

The Leafs, stressing youth in their rebuilding program, got goals from rookies Bob Liddington and Rene Robert and also from Jim Harrison and Paul Henderson.

Missing from their lineup were regulars Dave Keon, who is unsigned, and Norm Ullman, Bert Selby and Ron Ellis, out with injuries.

The Leafs also picked up another injury in the game when defenceman Rick Ley was taken to hospital with a rib injury. He later returned to Toronto with the team.

The Blues got standout performances from some of their rookies, including George Morrison, who scored two goals. Noel Picard and Larry Keenan also scored for St. Louis.

Bruce Gamble and Jacques Plante—Plante played for St. Louis last season—each played half the game for Toronto. Ernie Wakely and Ted Dolmel shared the goal duties for the Blues.

The exhibition schedule continues tonight with four games. Chicago Black Hawks meet Boston Bruins at London, Ont., St. Louis plays New York at Kitchener, Ont., Buffalo meets Oakland Seals at Oshawa, Ont. and Minnesota North Stars and Vancouver Canucks, the other newcomer to the NHL, play at Edmonton.

The Boston-Chicago game will be a test for Bruin defenceman Ted Green, who was out of the lineup all last season because of head injuries suffered in an exhibition game with St. Louis.

Injuries are continuing to plague other NHL teams. St. Louis lost Tim Ecclestone Thursday when he suffered a hairline ankle fracture during a practice session.

The North Stars will be without goalie Gump Worsley and defenceman Lou Nanne in their game tonight. Worsley stopped a shot with his leg on while Nanne is suffering from a sore groin.

Oakland, training at Oshawa, will be without defenceman Bert Marshall for about two months. He is wearing a cast on his left wrist, the result of a bone-fusion operation during the off season.

Up to Clay To Apply

NEW YORK (AP) — It's Cassius Clay's move as far as fighting in New York is concerned.

The New York State Athletic Commission said Thursday it would consider Clay's application for a license in the state whenever he applies.

Clay, also known as Muhammad Ali, was stripped of his heavyweight championship by the New York commission and other boxing governing bodies when he was convicted May 8, 1967 of refusing to accept military service, and the New York commission turned down Clay's request for a licence last Oct. 14.

But a federal judge ruled last Tuesday that the commission's ban had been "arbitrary and unreasonable" and a departure from the commission's "established practice of granting licences to applicants convicted of crimes and military offence."

The commission said Thursday in a statement:

"In light of Judge Walter R. Mansfield's decision rendered Sept. 14, 1970, in the matter of Muhammad Ali, the New York State Athletic Commission has decided to consider his application for a boxer's licence when he files. The commission also decided not to appeal its decision."

Clay still is appealing his conviction and has been granted a licence by Atlanta for a scheduled 15-round fight there against Jerry Quarry Oct. 26.

The last fight for the 28-year-old Clay was a seven-round knockout of Zora Folley in New York's Madison Square Garden, March 22, 1967.

ANDY CAPP

Enlarged NHL Schedule Throws Computer for Loop

MONTREAL (CP) — This season's enlarged National Hockey League schedule released today is so complex that it was too much for a computer to handle.

"I would be happy if a computer could be used for the schedule," Brian O'Neill, the NHL's director of administration, said shortly after the NHL board of governors approved the 546-game schedule.

"A computer would save many hours of work if it could produce the schedule within a reasonable amount of time," O'Neill said.

"However, we tried to computerize the schedules for the two previous seasons but in each instance, only 40 per cent of the games originally scheduled were unchanged when the final drafts were accepted.

"With the addition of Vancouver Canucks and Buffalo Sabres to the NHL this season, a further 90 games over the last two seasons are required. If a computer couldn't help in that much in the 456-game schedules, I couldn't see it being of much value this time."

The 25-week schedule, which actually has 26 weekends of games, opens Friday, Oct. 9, with Los Angeles Kings visiting Vancouver. The schedule closes Sunday, April 4, with six games.

There is an average of 21 games a week, with each team playing 39 games at home and 39 on the road during the season. Last year each of the 12 teams played 38 home and 38 away games.

O'Neill said there are two major reasons for the computer's problems with the schedule. One was the number of blackouts caused by other events at the rinks and the other was the difficulty of trying to get three games for teams making a trip to the West Coast.

"We had more than 50 weeks blocked out by the 14 teams in 1970-71," O'Neill said. "We found it impossible to have each club visit Vancouver, Los Angeles and Oakland in one trip. As a result, there are several instances in the schedule for this season where a team makes a one-game trip to the West Coast."

He said a computer would probably be able to draw up a schedule if time permitted but explained that too much time was lost in re-programming each draft.

The 1970-71 schedule was started last February and took six months to complete. Each of the 14 clubs played the other 13 six times—three times at home and three on the road.

The last season when the teams played four games at home against each of the other teams in their division and three against each team in the other division, it was easier to distribute the games more evenly," said O'Neill. "The completely balanced schedule for this season complicated matters."

O'Neill's statements appeared in an NHL news release.

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — It was a good day for sunning, sailing, chatting and even wondering what every one was doing back on shore. But Thursday was no day for racing. So they called off the second race of the 1970 America's Cup series off because that was blowing in the morning died in the afternoon.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gennady Ivanchenko of the Soviet Union lifted a world record 1,113 pounds Thursday night to capture the light heavyweight title in the world weightlifting championships. The 23-year-old strongman, who won the European championship in that class earlier this year, topped his own record of 1,102 pounds. Ivanchenko clinched 363¾ pounds in the press, 330 pounds in the snatch and 418¾ pounds in the clean and jerk for his total.

MONT TREMBLANT, Que. (CP) — Despite the crash of a BRM Formula 1 car Thursday, team manager Louis Stanley says "it's a certainty" that Jacques Couture will join fellow Canadian George Eaton on the BRM team for next Sunday's Canadian Grand Prix. Stanley said in an interview that the car Eaton crashed during practice is only "very slightly damaged" and easily repairable. With Couture of Montreal joining Eaton of Toronto for the race, the BRM driving staff will be half Canadian for the fourth world championship Grand Prix held in this country.

McGill Estimates Too High?

TORONTO (CP) — Athletic officials at Canadian universities say they are surprised at a report from Montreal that McGill University is considering withdrawing from intercollegiate sports competitions.

The McGill committee on budget cuts has proposed that intercollegiate sports be suspended in 1971-72 to save about $200,000. Intramural sports would be retained. It would end a 72-year-old intercollegiate football affiliation at the end of the current season.

Tom Mooney, head football coach of the defending Canadian champions, said it costs $90,000 to operate the Redmen. He is asking McGill alumni for financial help.

"This is the first case of its kind that I can recall," Dr. Maury van Vliet of the University of Alberta Edmonton campus said Thursday.

Dr. van Vliet, Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union president, said:

"We realize that in some cases the gate receipts from football games do not come close to paying the expenses. But McGill's suggestion that the school spends $90,000 on football seems to be much too high."

"I think the average university can field a football team for between $18,000 and $18,000, certainly for under $20,000. . . .

"Some of the universities we have in the west spend 60 to 70 per cent of their expenses on travel. We have universities at Winnipeg travelling to Vancouver two or three times a year in different sports. McGill would never have that big a gate. If they really spend as much as they say, it may be all they need is a tighter budget."

Lakers Two Down

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — Peterborough Lakers' chances of winning the Canadian senior lacrosse championship appear anything but encouraging today, but coach Bobby Allan still feels his club can go all the way.

"We're not out of it yet and we're a better ball club than we showed tonight," Allan said after the Lakers were humbled 16-8 by New Westminster Salmonbellies Thursday night before 3,800 fans.

The western champion Bellies lead the best-of-seven Minto Cup final, 2-0, with the third game scheduled Saturday and the fourth Monday if necessary, other games will be played here Sept. 22, 24 and 26.

After trailing 6-4 against the same club which defeated them in last year's final, Salmonbellies scored 12 goals without reply Thursday to run away from the eastern champions.

"I don't want to say too much about the game—I was embarrassed," Allan said after a closed-door meeting with his players.

Peterborough goalie Pat Baker had to stop 49 shots as the Lakers were outshot 65-32. And of the later stages of the game the Peterborough defence collapsed and New Westminster players scored almost at will.

Expos Making Mauch's Calculations Look Better Every Day

MONTREAL (CP) — It was manager Gene Mauch's estimate last winter that the 1970 edition of Montreal Expos would be vastly superior to that of 1969.

The Expos won only 52 games in their initial season in baseball's National League, but Mauch felt that his club should win "at least 70 games in 1970."

Going into tonight's four-game series against Chicago Cubs, the Expos are only four games short of that objective.

The Cubs, meanwhile, are in the fight for the East Division pennant and occupy third place, two games behind Pittsburgh Pirates.

The 1970 season didn't exactly start with a bang for the Expos. The club lost 10 of its first 11 games, straightened itself out momentarily, then plunged into an 11-game streak and by June 4 had a 19-33 won-lost record.

The Expos snapped the losing streak June 5 in Atlanta and went on to sweep a three-game series from the Braves. Going into today's action the Expos are 59-69 since June 5, the sixth-best mark during that period in the National League.

The Expos have 14 games to reach Mauch's objective and still have a mathematical shot at the pennant.

Montreal and Philadelphia Phillies are currently battling for the No. 5 spot in the six-team division, Philadelphia has won 67 and lost 83 while the Expos are 66-82 going into today's action.

Mauch's first mentioned the goal of 70 victories, he figured that a four-man pitching rotation of Joe Sparma, Jim Britton, Bill Stoneman and Steve Renko could possibly win as many games as the club won all last year.

Renko is the only one in first up to expectations. The tall right-hander has won 12 and lost 10 with an earned run average of 4.27.

Sparma, who had some control problems and sports an unimpressive 5-14 ledger with a 4.95 ERA, Saperna ran up a string of four losses from the start of the season before he was shipped to Winnipeg White Sox Expos International League farm club.

Britton came up with elbow problems, underwent surgery, and has not pitched this year.

But with some clever managing and ingenuity, Mauch turned his Expos into a respectable ball club.

"Once you gain a little respect, other clubs don't play as free and easy against you," says Mauch. "Look at the Mets for instance. Last year when they came in here, they were confident they were going to win. This year things are different."

A big factor in their success has been rookie right-hander Carl Morton, who had not won a major league game until this year.

Morton carries a 16-10 record and is a candidate for rookie-of-the-year honors in the National League. Claude Raymond, Morton's room-mate on road trips, has six wins and 23 saves this year.

Mauch stayed with other players such as Bob Bailey and catcher John Bateman and got good mileage out of them. Bailey has been on a beer near June 5 with 26 homers and 75 RBIs and has brought his batting average to .311 from .206. Bateman has been a spark plug behind the plate and has delivered many timely hits.

Mets Know How to Gain: Simply Don't Play Games

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New York Mets have discovered the knack of gaining ground in the topsy-turvy National League east then. They simply don't play.

The Mets lost the day off Thursday and consequently couldn't lose. The same Pittsburgh Pirates and the Chicago Cubs. The Pirates and the Cubs foolishly showed up for their games and lost, allowing the Mets to gain ground on both of them.

Philadelphia Phillies knocked off Pittsburgh Pirates 3-2, cutting the Pirates' lead to 1½ games over New York Mets. The Cubs bowed to St. Louis Cardinals 9-3 and remained two games behind.

Elsewhere in the National League Thursday, San Francisco Giants nipped San Diego Padres 4-3 and Houston Astros whipped Los Angeles Dodgers 10-5, eliminating the Dodgers and clinching the West Division race for idle Cincinnati Reds.

Over the last nine games, first-place Pittsburgh is 4-5—the same as second-place New York. Chicago has charged into contention with a 5-4 mark over the same period.

The Pirates fell victim to a suicide-squeeze bunt against the Phillies, spoiling the comeback of Dock Ellis, who made his first start in seven weeks.

Ellis was leading 3-1 when he was lifted after six innings of work. Don Money walked with one out against reliever John Lamb and then scooted home with the tying run on Ron Stone's triple.

Pinch hitter Terry Harmon followed with the squeeze bunt as Stone carried the winning run home.

The Pirates threatened in the eighth when Gene Clines opened with a double, his third hit of the game, and Jose Pagan followed with a single. But Clines was cut down at the plate on Scott Reid's throw to preserve the victory for the Phillies.

The Cubs absorbed a 22-hit pounding at the hands of the Cardinals with Joe Torre, Lou Brock and Luis Melendez collecting four apiece.

Torre had a triple, two doubles and a single, completing the three-game series with 10 hits in 13 at bats. In games against the Cubs this year, Torre is batting .556, Melendez had four straight singles and Brock two doubles and two singles.

The race resumes tonight with the Pirates in New York—a game one of the teams will probably win—and the Cubs in Montreal for a twi-night doubleheader.

Bobby Heise drove in three runs with a pair of singles, leading San Francisco past San Diego. Nate Colbert and Ivan Murrell homered for the Padres.

Bob Watson's grand slam home capped a six-run Houston explosion in the seventh inning that carried the Astros past the Dodgers. Denis Menke had a two-run shot for Houston.

The victory wiped out the last chance for any team to catch the Reds, who have been runaway leaders in the West Division all season.

Cubs Have Tough Row to Hoe

CHICAGO (AP) — "It's still a long way from over," said manager Leo Durocher as he led his faltering Chicago Cubs into a twilight doubleheader at Montreal today to start an unenviable gauntlet of 14 games on the road.

"I can't ever remember a major league club closing out the season with that many games on the road—and it sure is important when you're in a pennant wrap," said Durocher.

The Cubs got less than a cheering sendoff Wednesday when their regular season Wrigley Field finale wound up in a 9-2 pasting by St. Louis Cardinals under their campaign's biggest barrage of 22 hits.

That left the Cubs with a 46-34 record at home against 31-37 on the road, where they now meet the Cardinals again after four Montreal weekend games, the Phils and then play four seemingly cricket-windup games against New York Mets.

Cub general manager John Holland couldn't explain the schedule vagaries sending the Cubs away from friendly Wrigley Field the final two weeks of the season.

Orioles Toast Their Defeats With Champagne

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Champagne flowed in the losers' clubhouse at Washington, while Cleveland Indians' biggest winner treated himself to a short beer.

Baltimore Orioles celebrated their second successive American League east championship Thursday night, despite a 3-0 loss to the lowly Washington Senators, with a traditional bubbly bath. They had clinched the title when Boston Red Sox beat the second-place New York Yankees 5-4 in a 10-inning afternoon game.

At Cleveland, Sudden Sam McDowell subdued Detroit Tigers 6-3 to become a 20-game winner for the first time in seven major-league seasons, then took one quick sip of champagne to accommodate a photographer before switching to more pedestrian brew.

"I'd rather drink beer," said the six-foot-five southpaw, passing the champagne bottle. "I've been drinking beer all year long."

In other American League games, Minnesota Twins moved closer to the West Division title with a 4-3 victory over California Angels and Milwaukee Brewers nipped Kansas City Royals 4-3 in 12 innings.

The Orioles were riding a bus from Baltimore to Washington when Tom Satriale's run-scoring single in the 10th inning at New York broke a 3-3 deadlock and mathematically eliminated the second-place Yankees.

"Next year, we're going to try and win it ourselves," said Frank Robinson, intimating that Baltimore also had clinched the division title in 1969 without taking the field.

Then the Senators, who had postponed the inevitable Wednesday night with a 2-0 victory over Baltimore, repeated the shutout count behind Dick Bosman's five-hitter. But Earl Weaver's defending American League kings shrugged off the run famine and quenched their thirst in a post-game party more lively than the 1969 affair.

"The first half of the season is over," proclaimed Coach Billy Hunter. "The next half starts in October."

McDowell, whose previous victory high was 18 last season, checked the Tigers on seven hits and struck out nine, boosting his major league lead to 283 strikeouts. Rookie Roy Foster knocked in three Cleveland runs with a single and his 22nd homer.

"This is great," said McDowell, who was making his first start since he was roughed up by boggers last Sunday in Cleveland. "It's something I've always wanted, but to be honest, it was a very poor game for me.

NHL Has No Nights Off

of games in the schedule, another major change is the realignment of the divisions. Chicago Black Hawks move to the West Division while Vancouver and Buffalo will be in the East.

There are games every night of the week, Saturday being the biggest night with 7 games. Next is Sunday with 127 games, followed by Wednesday with 112, Thursday, 71, Tuesday, 42, Friday, 37, and Monday, two.

The 54th annual all-star game is scheduled for Boston, Tuesday, Jan. 19.

St. Louis Blues are the only team to have at least one game each night of the week. The defending West Division champion play at home 18 Saturdays, nine Tuesdays, five Wednesdays, four Thursdays, three Fridays, one Monday and one Sunday.

In addition to Vancouver's opening game Oct. 9 against the Kings, other home openers are: St. Louis—Oct. 10 against New York Rangers; Detroit Red Wings—Oct. 10—Oakland Seals; Pittsburgh Penguins—Oct. 10—Buffalo; Philadelphia Flyers—Oct. 10—Minnesota North Stars; Boston Bruins—Oct. 10—Detroit; Chicago—Oct. 11—Oakland; Montreal Canadiens—Oct. 11—Detroit; Toronto Maple Leafs—Oct. 14—St. Louis; New York—Oct. 14—Buffalo; Los Angeles—Oct. 14—Boston; Buffalo—Oct. 15—Montreal; Minnesota—Oct. 15—Pittsburgh; Oakland—Oct. 16—Boston.

You can save $200.00 on a brand new 20 h.p. Snow Cruiser if you hurry!
Hurry!
The Snow Cruising season is coming up fast. And that means exceptional savings if you buy now. For example, the 200 Model regularly lists for 4695.00. Buy now and it's yours for only 4495.00. And that's one of the best all 'round bargains you're ever going to see. Compare the price, and then compare the features. With the Snow Cruiser 200, you don't get 12, or 15, but a full 20 h.p. engine. You don't get a single passenger, but a two passenger snowmobile. Not one, but twin sealed-beam headlights. And the list goes on. So consider Snow Cruiser, then consider that you can save $200.00, or even more on the 25 h.p. Wide Track Models 2000 and 2006. So talk to your Snow Cruiser dealer listed below and go get a bargain Snow Cruiser while they last! All Snow Cruisers are covered by the full OMC Warranty. One of the best guarantees you can get.
